- In quite a big time right now: a sign that flesh and blood in the physical sense has to deal with what is going on.

Volcano in Chile: lots of mercury in the air – every thing is covered with volcanic ash, which is full of mercury: eruption has not stopped, and more expected.

Melissa Harris Perry: the story of a lady called Michelle who went to Chicago and got shot

- the cop recklessly shot into the crowd and she got hit on the back of the head: killed her immediately – and 4 other bullets hit her
- the judge said it was not shooting recklessly according to the law, so he was let off the charge of manslaughter – this is not living in the spirit of the law – cruel and unusual punishment for the people

Baltimore: Freddie Gray story

- when the footage began, he was already on the ground; when the police picked him up – they consider because he looked a policeman in the eye and began to run, they considered this to be suspicion of a crime!
- A person on Laurence O'Donnell said you have to have more than running down the street and being black
- “Black bodies in public space are inherently suspicious”
- hence the quote from Edgar Allan Poe: believe half of what you say, and nothing of what you hear.
- One part of his leg would not work, it dragged – they put him in steel shackles and let him roll around in the back of the van; he also said he needed an inhaler as he did not have his, he said he could not breathe.

Revolutions come in waves and cycles. We are again riding the crest of a revolutionary epic, much like 1848 or 1917, from the Arab Spring to movements against austerity in Greece to the Occupy movement. In Wages of Rebellion, Chris Hedges—who has chronicled the malaise and sickness of a society in terminal moral decline in his books Empire of Illusion and Death of the Liberal Class—investigates what social and psychological factors cause revolution, rebellion, and resistance. Drawing on an ambitious overview of prominent philosophers, historians, and literary figures he shows not only the harbingers of a coming crisis but also the nascent seeds of rebellion. Hedges' message is clear: popular uprisings in the United States and around the world are inevitable in the face of environmental destruction and wealth polarization.

Focusing on the stories of rebels from around the world and throughout history, Hedges investigates what it takes to be a rebel in modern times. Utilizing the work of Reinhold Niebuhr, Hedges describes the motivation that guides the actions of rebels as "sublime madness" — the state of passion that causes the rebel to engage in an unavailing fight against overwhelmingly powerful and oppressive forces. For Hedges, resistance is carried out not for its success, but as a moral imperative that affirms life. Those who rise up against the odds will be those endowed with this "sublime madness."

This talk was taped March 9, 2015 and will be broadcast in two parts. Hedges alluded to his meeting that morning with Seattle's Socialist City Council Member Kshama Sawant and wrote his next Truthdig column about her: "The Most Dangerous Woman in America". We caught up with Kshama at her volunteer re-election kick-off meeting. The last 18 minutes of part two features Kshama and her Volunteer Coordinator Ramy Khalil.

Chris Hedges is a columnist for Truthdig. A Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist, he spent nearly two decades as a foreign correspondent in Central America, the Middle East, Africa, and the Balkans, with fifteen years at the New York Times. He is the author of numerous bestselling books, including Empire of Illusion; Death of the Liberal Class; War is a Force that Gives Us Meaning; and Days of Destruction, Days of Revolt. He lives in Princeton, New Jersey.

The key words for this week's Mercury/Mars conjunction are "Delicate Negotiations," as in, try as hard as you can to keep them delicate haha! Merc/Mars wants to jump in there like a laser beam and with little patience and possibly some resentment or anger, go straight for the jugular! So the down side is that you can do damage with your words this week or receive some harsh words coming at you. The upside is that it gets the yuck outa' there! It is time to share some of your personal values or some subjective needs/wants and now you are more capable of pushing through your fears and actually "fessing up." It may not be comfortable but it is good to be clear about where you stand and where everyone else stands (and needs) to move into the future without doubts, questions and secret agendas that can come back to bite. So if you can remain tactful and truthful this can be a good housekeeping week! Practice, practice practice haha!

Pir Vilayat Inayat Khan

The Rapture of Being (#W052)

The Sufi path, says Pir Vilayat, is one of merging our individual existence with the divine reality. The dancing of Sufis is an expression of the dynamic shifting equilibriums of life, striving, from moment to moment, toward higher states of being. As we come to understand our true being, we realize that we partake of the divine rapture. Choirs of angels sing within us and we know ourselves as beings of radiant light whose boundaries extend to infinity.

In Part Two, Pir Vilayat focuses on the details of Sufi meditation practices which lead to inner self-awareness, unfurling the potential being and divine realization. He discusses exercises that allow our consciousness to become one with nature and to share the awareness of other human beings.

The late Pir Vilayat Inayat Khan, initiate of an Indian Sufi Order, was author of Toward The One, Call of the Dervish, The Message in Our Time: The Life and Teaching of the Sufi Master Pir-O-Murshid Inayat Khan and Introducing Spirituality into Counseling and Therapy.

First Quarter Moon Phase: step out, take action

Moon in Leo

Goddess of Wisdom: Chinnamasta (Goddess Who Expands The Mind)

God of Will: Ian (God of the East)

Skill: Saturday: take a leap of faith Sunday: tap and adapt (tap into something cosmic so that you can adapt to the changing environment)

True Alignment: transcending something, recognizing the talents of others and self, studying something in-depth, sharpening ability to discern, allowing, bringing new things to the field of consciousness

Catalysts for Change: resisting the truth, seeking answers outside of yourself when the answer is inside yourself, greed, unprepared, following without thinking, avoiding asking for help, holding on to illusions

Sabian Symbol for the Lunar Month: "the music of the spheres"

The expansion into the fifth dimensional level of conscious that accompanied the New Moon a week ago - the New Moon that signaled the beginning of a new era for humanity - is taken to a new level this weekend.

I discuss this more in the audio "Paradise Found or The Second Renaissance Descends" (located on the homepage of oraclereport.com) which is an overview of this lunar month and a commentary on a wider dynamic in operation.

On Saturday, solutions to problems or questions emerge. The energy facilitates bridging across things that divide (and potentially conquer) us. We overcome gaps that separate. We make connections in how we think, agree, and resonate. This is especially true for bridging away from fear. Things that have haunted or daunted us come to a new level of resolution.

To reach these solutions, it may be necessary to take a leap of faith - a big one. In fact, the bigger the leap of faith (the scarier something is, the greater the gulf between you and something, someone or an idea, the harder something is to face) the better. Great strides in personal understanding translate into great strides in consciousness. "Know yourself, know the universe" is strongly in effect.

Finding inner peace creates universal peace. Finding inner connection creates universal connection, and so forth.

On Sunday, the energies "go deep" and in turn we tap into something that feeds our souls and enables us to adapt and cope in better or more efficient ways. We may find ourselves plunging or diving into something with gusto. This energy wants to help us find things that help us. It wants to help us empower ourselves. It wants to help us feel better so that we can begin to understand, appreciate, and experience a better life and world. By tapping into this "re-Source" we find that we have new adaptations of consciousness. Tap and adapt. Connect and re-create. This is the way life is in 5D. How wonderful.

Friday's wisdom about resistance morphs into answers and adaptations this weekend. The expansion of this, as well as an unlimited variety of other things, is proffered by Jupiter moving to the 14th degree of Leo and the Sabian symbol "cherub-like, a human soul whispers, seeking to manifest" and Mars moves to 19th degree of Taurus and the Sabian symbol "a new continent rising out of the ocean." How divine.

As always, snap a photograph when something of beauty catches your eye so that we can all partake!

2013-09-06 The True History of Libertarianism in America~A Phony Ideology to Promote a Corporate Agenda

Before Milton Friedman was earning plaudits as an economic genius, he was a shill for the real estate industry and an early pioneer for big business propaganda known as libertarianism.

By Mark Ames / NSFWCORP

September 6, 2013

This is an adapted version of an article that first appeared on NSFWCORP. Published daily online and monthly in print, NSFWCORP is The Future of Journalism (With Jokes). For more features, or to subscribe, click here.

This important article kicks off what will be a focus of coverage of AlterNet over the next few months on the corporate-funded "pro-market" arm of libertarianism in America and the sophisticated methods of inserting business propaganda into the public debate.

Every couple of years, mainstream media hacks pretend to have just discovered libertarianism as some sort of radical, new and dynamic force in American politics. It's a rehash that goes back decades, and hacks love it because it's easy to write, and because it's such a non-threatening "radical" politics (unlike radical left politics, which threatens the rich). The latest version involves a summer-long pundit debate in the pages of the New York Times, Reason magazine and elsewhere over so-called "libertarian populism." It doesn't really matter whose arguments prevail, so long as no one questions where libertarianism came from or why we're defining libertarianism as anything but a big business public relations campaign, the winner in this debate is Libertarianism.

Pull up libertarianism's floorboards, look beneath the surface into the big business PR campaign's early years, and there you'll start to get a sense of its purpose, its funders, and the PR hucksters who brought the peculiar political strain of American libertarianism into being — beginning with the libertarian movement's founding father, Milton Friedman. Back in 1950, the House of Representatives held hearings on illegal lobbying activities and exposed both Friedman and the earliest libertarian think-tank outfit as a front for business lobbyists. Those hearings have been largely forgotten, in part because we're too busy arguing over the finer points of "libertarian populism."

Milton Friedman. In his early days, before millions were spent on burnishing his reputation, Friedman worked as a business lobby shill, a propagandist who would say whatever he was paid to say. That's the story we need to revisit to get to the bottom of the modern American libertarian "movement," to see what it's really all about. We need to take a trip back to the post-war years, and to the largely forgotten Buchanan Committee hearings on illegal lobbying activities, led by a pro-labor Democrat from Pennsylvania, Frank Buchanan.

What the Buchanan Committee discovered was that in 1946, Milton Friedman and his U Chicago cohort George Stigler arranged an under-the-table deal with a Washington lobbying executive to pump out covert propaganda for the national real estate lobby in exchange for a hefty payout, the terms of which were never meant to be released to the public. They also discovered that a lobbying outfit which is today credited by libertarians as the movement's first think-tank — the Foundation for Economic Education — was itself a big business PR project backed by the largest corporations and lobbying fronts in the country.

It starts just after the end of World War Two, when America's industrial and financial giants, fattened up from war profits, established a new lobbying front group called the Foundation for Economic Education (FEE) that focused on promoting a new pro-business ideology—which it called “libertarianism”— to supplement other business lobbying groups which focused on specific policies and legislation.

The FEE is generally regarded as “the first libertarian think-tank” as Reason's Brian Doherty calls it in his book “Radicals For Capitalism: A Freewheeling History of the Modern Libertarian Movement” (2007). As the Buchanan Committee discovered, the Foundation for Economic Education was the best-funded conservative lobbying outfit ever known up to that time, sponsored by a Who's Who of US industry in 1946.

A partial list of FEE's original donors in its first four years— a list discovered by the Buchanan Committee — includes: The Big Three auto makers GM, Chrysler and Ford; top oil majors including Gulf Oil, Standard Oil, and Sun Oil; major steel producers US Steel, National Steel, Republic Steel; major retailers including Montgomery Ward, Marshall Field and Sears; chemicals majors Monsanto and DuPont; and other Fortune 500 corporations including General Electric, Merrill Lynch, Eli Lilly, BF Goodrich, ConEd, and more.

The FEE was set up by a longtime US Chamber of Commerce executive named Leonard Read, together with Donaldson Brown, a director in the National Association of Manufacturers lobby group and board member at DuPont and General Motors.

That is how libertarianism in America started: As an arm of big business lobbying.

Before bringing back Milton Friedman into the picture, this needs to be repeated again: “Libertarianism” was a project of the corporate lobby world, launched as a big business “ideology” in 1946 by The US Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers. The FEE's board included the future founder of the John Birch Society, Robert Welch; the most powerful figure in the Mormon church at that time, J Reuben Clark, a frothing racist and anti-Semite after whom BYU named its law school; and United Fruit president Herb Cornuelle.

The purpose of the FEE — and libertarianism, as it was originally created — was to supplement big business lobbying with a pseudo-intellectual, pseudo-economics rationale to back up its policy and legislative attacks on labor and government regulations.

This background is important in the Milton Friedman story because Friedman is a founding father of libertarianism, and because the corrupt lobbying deal he was busted playing a part in was arranged through the Foundation for Economic Education.

According to Congressional hearings on illegal lobbying activities 1946 was the year that Milton Friedman and his U Chicago cohort George Stigler arranged an under-the-table deal with a Washington lobbying executive to pump out covert propaganda for the national real estate lobby in exchange for a hefty payout, the terms of which were never meant to be released to the public.

The arrangement between Friedman and Stigler with the Washington real estate lobbyist was finally revealed during a congressional review of illegal lobbying activities in 1950, called the Buchanan Committee. Yes, there was something called accountability back then. I only came across the revelations about Friedman's sordid beginnings in the footnotes of an old book on the history of lobbying by former Newsweek book editor Karl Schriftgiesser, published in 1951, shortly after the Buchanan Committee hearings ended. The actual details of Milton Friedman's PR deal are sordid and familiar, with tentacles reaching into our ideologically rotted-out era.

False, whitewashed history is as much a part of the Milton Friedman mythology as it is the libertarian movement's own airbrushed history about its origins; the 1950 Buchanan Committee hearings expose both as creations of big business lobby groups whose purpose is to deceive and defraud the public and legislators in order to advance the cause of corporate America.

The story starts like this: In 1946, Herbert Nelson was the chief lobbyist and executive vice president for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and one of the highest paid lobbyists in the nation. Mr. Nelson's real estate constituency was unhappy with rent control laws that Truman kept in effect after the war ended. Nelson and his real estate lobby led what House investigators discovered was the most formidable and best-funded opposition to President Truman in the post-war years, amassing some $5,000,000 for their lobby efforts—that's $5m in 1946 dollars, or roughly $60 million in 2012 dollars.

So Herbert Nelson contracted out the PR services of the Foundation for Economic Education to concoct "third party" propaganda designed to shore up the National Real Estate lobby's legislative drive — and the propagandists who took on the job were Milton Friedman and his U Chicago cohort, George Stigler.

To understand the sort of person Herbert Nelson was, here is a letter he wrote in 1949 that Congressional investigators discovered and recorded:

"I do not believe in democracy. I think it stinks. I don't think anybody except direct taxpayers should be allowed to vote. I don't believe women should be allowed to vote at all. Ever since they started, our public affairs have been in a worse mess than ever."

It's an old libertarian mantra, libertarianism versus democracy, libertarianism versus women's suffrage; a position most recently repeated by billionaire libertarian Peter Thiel— who was Ron Paul's main campaign funder in his 2012 presidential campaign.

So in 1946, this same Herbert Nelson turned to the Foundation for Economic Education to manufacture some propaganda to help the National Association of Real Estate Boards fight rent control laws. Nelson chose to work with the FEE because he knew that the founder of the first libertarian think-tank, Leonard Read, agreed with him on a lot of important issues. Such as their mutual contempt for democracy, and their disdain for the American public.

Leonard Read, the legendary (among libertarians) founder/head of the FEE, argued that the public should not be allowed to know which corporations donated to his libertarian front-group because, he argued, the public could not be trusted to make "sound judgments" with disclosed information:

"The public reporting would present a single fact—the amount of a contributor's donation—to casual readers, persons having only a cursory interest in the matter at issue, persons who would not and perhaps could not possess all the facts. These folks of the so-called public thus receive only oversimplifications or half-truths from which only erroneous conclusions are almost certain to be drawn. If there is a public interest in the rightness or wrongness of corporate or personal donations to charitable, religious or education institutions, and I am not at all ready to concede that there is, then that interest should be guarded by some such agency as the Bureau of Internal Revenue, an agency that is in a position to obtain all the facts, not by Mr. John Public who lacks relevant information for the forming of sound judgments...Public reporting of a half-truth is indeed a significant provocation."

So in May 1946, Herbert Nelson of the Real Estate lobby, looking for backup in his drive to abolish federal rent control laws on behalf of landlords, contacted libertarian founder Leonard Read of the FEE with an order for a PR pamphlet "with some such title as 'The Case against Federal Real Estate Control,'" according to Karl Schriftgiesser's book The Lobbyists.

What happened next, I'll quote from Schriftgiesser:

"They were now busily co-operating on the new project which the foundation had engaged Milton Friedman and George J. Stigler to write. It was to be called Roofs and Ceilings and it was to be an outright attack on rent controls. When Nelson received a copy of the manuscript he wrote Read to say, "The pamphlet...is a dandy. It is just what I wanted."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards was so pleased with Milton Friedman's made-to-order propaganda that they ordered up 500,000 pamphlets from the FEE, and distributed them throughout the real estate lobby's vast local network of real estate brokers and agents.

In libertarianism's own airbrushed history about itself, the Foundation for Economic Education was a brave, quixotic bastion of libertarian "true believers" doomed to defeat at the all-powerful hands of the liberal Keynesian Leviathan and the collectivist mob. Here is how libertarian historian Brian Doherty describes the FEE and its chief lobbyist Leonard Read:

"[Read] would never explicitly scrape for funds... He never directly asked anyone to give anything, he proudly insisted, and while FEE would sell literature to all comers, it was also free to anyone who asked. His attitude toward money was Zen, sometimes hilariously so. When asked how FEE was doing financially, his favorite reply was, "Just perfectly..." Read wanted no endowments and frowned on any donation meant to be held in reserve for some future need."

And here is what the committee's own findings reported—findings lost in history:

"It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the Foundation for Economic Education exerts, or at least expects to exert, a considerable influence on national legislative policy...It is equally difficult to imagine that the nation's largest corporations would subsidize the entire venture if they did not anticipate that it would pay solid, long-range legislative dividends."

Or in the words of Rep. Carl Albert (D-OK): "Every bit of this literature is along propaganda lines."

The manufactured history about libertarian's origins, or its purpose, parallels the manufactured myths about one of big business's key propaganda tools, Milton Friedman. As the author of The Lobbyists, not knowing who Milton Friedman was at the time, wrote of Friedman's collaborative effort with Stigler:

"Certainly [the FEE's] booklet, Roofs or Ceilings, was definitely propaganda and sought to influence legislation...This booklet was printed in bulk by the foundation and half a million copies were sold at cost to the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which had them widely distributed throughout the country by its far-flung network of local member boards."

There's no idealism here. The notion that libertarian ideas have captured the political imagination of millions in this country is a root problem: if we're going to escape the corporate oligarchy that is running this country--their ideas can't possibly be the alternative solution. This movement has to be recognized for what it is.

Atlantis: The True Legend of the Fall

You see, Atlantis existed for over 200,000 years. The vast majority of the Atlantean times were epochs of light! Only the final phase, the period from 17,500 BC to 10,500 BC was in your terms, a dark era, but one rich in lesson.

The Golden Age

We tell you in fact that the Golden Period of Atlantis was the highest level of Light Consciousness ever achieved on the Earth Plane in any advanced civilization;, higher than LeMuria, higher than Mu, higher than Rama, higher than Ignacious. It has become somewhat fashionable to consider LeMuria as being the utopian civilization, and though they did achieve a relatively short lived phase of high consciousness, most in that era were not truly in physical bodies, rather in devic-like etheric states, and did not face the difficulties required of the physical earth stage. Indeed LeMuria never achieved the highly advanced level that existed in that Golden Phase of Atlantis from 40,000 BC to 18,000 BC. A time when Gods walked with men, and all knew joyful expression It was the hallowed time when many of you walked as Star Children, and later chose biology and the lesson cycles of reincarnation on the Blue Planet called Earth.

So when you consider Atlantis, DO NOT only remember its sad demise! It was but a short phase of the magnificent antediluvian world, yet it must not be forgotten, so very much is to be gained by understanding the final phase, and Dear Ones, it is time to remember.

The Atlantean Hologram

So we speak of once mighty Atlantis, and we speak to all of you, for Atlantis is a great hologramic lesson, and ones whose time has returned, for the memory of Atlantis is not just a healing. Indeed, for some it is a requisite healing, a necessary cleansing, but for others it is also a benevolent empowerment. It recalls a time when you walked in knowledge. Regardless of your myriad roles in Atlantis, and Dear Ones, 70% of all on the planet at this time experienced physicality there, Atlantis now calls to you.

And the call is not just for those of you of the Law of One, it is equally called to the Aryans, to the Sons of Belial. Indeed many of you experienced lifetimes in both ideologies. Does that surprise you?

The Deluge of 17,500 BC - Downward Spiral of the Final Phase

The time is after the second deluge, when the utopian Golden Age subsided and Atlantis split into 5 islands. The three major islands were known as Poseida, Aryan and Og. The two smaller islands were under the rule of Aryan, and were known as Atalya and Eyre. And so in the days after the second break up of Atlantis, the benevolent government rule by kingdom passed into the phase of a confederation, state governments, in your terms, that ruled each of the islands. An aristocracy of sorts evolved that consisted of two opposing ideologies. The two major components of these were the 'Law of One', based predominantly on the Isle of Poseida and 'The Sons of Belial' based on the Isle of Aryan. The island of Aryan was the most populated and exerted influence and political control over Og, Atalya and Eyre.

Poseida was the planets most potent vortex portal complex at the time of Atlantis. The Poseida grouping and isle housed the Temple of Healing, the Temple of Sound, the Temple of One, the Temple of Regeneration and the Temple of Knowledge. Poseida housed most of the major centers for higher learning. These were placed on Poseida because of its advantageous location within the geodesic grids and its proximity to beneficial electromagnetic energies that spiraled upward from the earth's core. An incredibly potent healing spring flowed on Poseida, near the Temple of Healing, and its lore spawned the myths of the 'Fountain of Youth' passed down by the indigenous peoples of Florida. It flows yet into the oceans near Bimini.

The tall ones, the golden race of Atlantis, of Pleadean seed were centered in Poseida, these ones averaging 10 to 12 feet in stature. These were a gentle race of giants, involved in the cultural, artistic and educational pursuits in the heart of Atlantis. Poseida was also the headquarters and nucleus of the crystalline power grid and interdimensional tunnel system. The most advanced, complex and beautiful of the crystals were here. They were of Arcturian and Sirian construct, a living amalgam of many crystalline forms imbued with an alloy of platinum and gold. The crystals were housed in magnificent Temples, some built of marble, others of crystalline sheets of beryl, corundum and diamond. Poseida was also the capital city of the island, and was called the Emerald City. The Atlanteans had perfected, with Arcturian technology, the ability to grow crystals of every structure and essence in an accelerated growth within the underground crystal beds of Arkansas, Tibet and Brasil, all being Atlantean colonies, accessed through the interdimensional tunnel system.

Throughout Atlantis, power grid crystals, called posers, were triangulated and connected through a gold-copper rod under a spherical dome that could be angled to receive specific stellar, solar and gravitational energy waves. This was the system used to power homes, offices, media, and theaters, manufacturing concerns, medical centers, schools and businesses. The poser system was received in each structure by receiving crystal units of various sizes. The poser system was also able to receive specialized refracted light and feed it into the ley energy system for use in the interdimensional tunnel system and feed crystalline light into conductive earth currents to raise the frequency into a semi-aware electromagnetic plasmic field of benevolent energy capable of retaining spiritual frequencies.

A great crystalline satellite, referred to as the second moon of Atlantis, floated above in the skies and received, amplified and reflected refined energy back to the crystals for various beneficial purposes. It served both the posers and the Master Crystals used in temples. Specialized energy fields were projected into agricultural and crystal growing areas to amplify and accelerate growth, as well as into universities, hospitals, schools, offices, factories and work places to create a sense of well being and invigoration for the workers and students. We will speak more of this 'second moon' later in this essay.

Now, the Temples were astonishing works of sacred geometry and stunning architecture. Many of the great temples were covered in a dome of projected crystalline amplified light somewhat like a glowing force field. These were of various colors and glowed in day and night. These were varied according to the purpose of the temple complex. Some temples projected domes and fields of vibratory light and resonate sound frequencies that amplified the senses and chakras, others amplified the receptive learning ability of the mind, and others enabled multidimensional consciousness, communication and transport. Additionally most of the major cities during the Golden Age of Atlantis had crystalline power domes of energy fields above them.

After the second deluge, only, the capital city of Poseida had a full crystalline energy dome, and it was an incredible emerald green color.

Prior to the deluge of 17,500 BC, most major cities, including Meruvia, the Capital of Aryan had such power domes over the perimeter. The one in Aryan was a soft ruby red.

In the Golden Age of Atlantis, the Pyramids were three and four sided, depending on their utility and generally made of marble, granite and complex crystals. The three-sided pyramids were used as antennas to draw and amplify energies and fed them into the poser grid to power homes, factories and create energy fields for various utilities. The crystalline satellite was used to reflect the angled stellar energy waves into these triangulated grids. There were over 100 of these triangulated pyramidal grid complexes. They were set up in concentric triangulation patterns all over the planet. They established a hemispheric grid network of crystalline and electromagnetic energy dividing the areas of Atlantis, America, Africa, Mediterranean Europe and South America into different demographic centers-for powering population centers, and to modulate weather patterns and tides. The areas of Mongolia and Tibet were also part of this complex, connected by interdimensional ley tunnels. But the largest groupings of these were in the homelands of Atlantis.

The four- sided pyramids were essentially Temple complexes set as full octahedrons and used for healing, learning, regeneration and spiritual purposes. These were not triangulated, and generally set on hilltops or along the coastlines to receive both telluric and celestial energies. The lands below the center plane were excavated to allow for the downward pyramid of the octahedron design construct, thus connecting energetically to both above and below.

The 'Law of One' contingency of Poseida were devoutly spiritual people and sought equality among the people and a unification of Oneness. Although much technology and quality of life had been lost in the prior two breakups of Atlantis (the first in 58,000 BC, the second in 17,500 BC) technology still remained at an advanced level. Yet the harmony experienced in the Golden Age of Atlantis spiraled downward after the break up into islands in 17,500 BC as the islands grew into separately governed entities, which held to very differing ideologies in the initially chaotic and difficult period of reconstruction immediately after the break up.

Poseida and the Atla-Ra

A highly disciplined and evolved sect of scientist priest held the technical wisdom and expertise of managing the crystal power grids. The vast majority of Atla-Ra were of the tall golden race, but there were also members from the bronze, white, LeMurian brown and Cetean races. At that time there were still Cetean dolphin beings that walked on two legs, verbally communicated and breathed air in a similar fashion to humankind. The sect of scientist- priests were referred to as the Atla- Ra. The Atla-Ra still maintained the highest standards of consciousness and were able to continue vibrating at very high frequencies of consciousness, at and above the level of 12th dimensional light & energy, remaining very pure and resonant with the true 'Oneness' concept of the Creator/God. They sustained higher dimensional -telepathic contact with the advanced space brethren from the Pleiades, , Arcturius, Andromeda and Sirius.

The Atla-Ra Priests were highly revered and traditionally separate, above & exempt from governmental controls, and thus kept the knowledge & senior management of crystal technology largely in the wise & benevolent hands of the sect, although there were some technicians and crystal engineers from the Poseidan populace involved who were not in the Atla-Ra sect. The Scientist Priest of Atla-Ra were both male and female and were capable of great life spans, both through the regeneration of mind power and through the technology of same in the Temple of Rejuvenation. Many lived lifetimes in the same biology for 6,000 years, some to 12,000 years! Thus was the technology preserved through this holy sect. Many brilliant souls were among these. The entities you know as Galileo, Isaac Newton, Einstein, Tesla, Edison, Marcel Vogel, Ronna Herman and DaVinci were among the Atla-Ra. Tyberonn and Oneronn were part of this group of scientist priest, who lived very long lifetimes.

Many of you, especially your artists have great recall of the capital city of Atlantis located in the region of Poseida. It was termed the Emerald City because of the glowing green light dome projected over it. Some of your artists in fact have made renditions of the city that are quite accurate. It was an exquisite marvel of architecture, culture and engineering, by far the most beautiful metropolis that has ever existed on your planet. It was breathtaking. The city, also named Poseida, as was the state, was composed of a series of concentric walls and encircled by flowing seagreen canals. It was full of beautifully constructed Temples, Universities, Theatres and Museums. At the very center was a hill, and on top of the hill the majestic and stunning Temple of Poseidon, which was visible from everywhere in the holy emerald city. Inside the temple was a massive gold statue of the God of the Sea showing him driving six winged horses made of extra terrestrial platinum. The statue was embellished with precious gemstones of every color and type. The Temple was octagonal and along each of the 8 walls were built convex enclosures with platforms for amazing crystals that stood twelve feet high and glowed like transparent diamonds. Poseida had been the least damaged of the major Atlantean cities after the break up into islands, and was still of a very high frequency and quality of life.

Aryan and the Industrial Complex:

Aryan was the largest of the islands and the most populated. Aryan was the commercial center and yielded the most influence from the economic, agricultural and military perspective. After the 2nd deluge, Aryan was significantly damaged and the infrastructure required a chaotic stage of rebuilding. In the process, the state became controlled by an elitist, affluent 'white' race, who gained control of the economy, military powers and island-state government, even though the majority of the populace were of the bronze or red race. From Aryan grew a corrupt power-minded aristocracy who sought to block the 'Law of One' and utilize Atlantis's technology for control of the world, this through the utilization of crystalline energy for weaponry, and use of genetic science for development & retention of an inferior race to serve as workers and soldiers.

The genetic engineering was based in Meruvia, on Aryan. It had originally been used for benevolent purposes, for seeking improved physical vehicles for those that had incarnated into physical bodies that mutated into half man half beast abominations. The genetic work had been processed and developed on Aryan and was used to remove appendages, claws, feathers and reptilian skins and scales. This was done in the Temple of Purification, somewhat of a specialized medical centre. Again, we emphasize that during the Golden Age of Atlantis, its utility had been quite benevolent. Tremendous genetic advances were made and a great understanding of cloning and adjusting physical limitations for betterment came in responsible, ethical utility.

In the chaos of the reconstruction period, genetic engineering came under the control of the Belial group, and then denigrated into corrupt uses of greed and power. The genetic engineering began being used for dark ends, in creating a race of worker- slaves and hybrid man animals. Just as in Nazi Germany it was conveyed to the masses as development of a 'pure race'. In fact many of the genetic scientist were initially kept unaware of what their research and development work was being used for until it was essentially too late for them to stop it. Some of you carry great guilt to this day as a result of this work.

Law of One and Sons of Belial

This use of genetically engineered servant classes led to the great rift between the Law of One and the Sons of Belial, the latter of which became so engrossed and hardened in the materialistic ambitions of the industrial machine that they lost sight of the spiritual ethics that had prevailed over the continent of Atlantis in the Golden Era. Literally hundreds of thousands of hybrid mutations were created to work the fields and monstrosities were created with controlled minds to robotically do the biddings of their 'masters'. The agro-industrial society of Aryan became quite dependent on them. Souls became trapped in cloned bodies termed 'things' and 'others' with genetic lobotomies and nullified, sexuality and emotional abilities. Many who were trapped in monstrous or sub intelligent androgynous human bodies, still carry that horrendous pain of being imprisoned in physical embodiments that allowed for, no advanced learning, spiritual growth or emotional expression.

For several millennia the two ideologies remained head-locked over this issue and governmental agencies were in a state of delicate impasse. The Poseidans were far too cultured and gentle in nature to attempt to fight the Aryans and sought to educate them and spiritually influence them into changing their ways. The Aryans, who outnumbered the Poseidans 3 to 1, dared not attack Poseida lest they have the crystalline energy that powered the nation shut off.

Colonial Wars

In the interim outbreaks of war erupted between the Aryan controlled Atlantean military as the former colonies of Atlantis located in the Mediterranean areas broke traditional ties and developed their own independent governments. The colonies, particularly those in Greece and Turkey saw the change from the utopian Atlantis to the military-fascist state controlled by Aryan and sought to break away. Although the Aryans had the military edge, the Mediterranean states did not succumb, and regional colonial wars raged on with neither side able to dominate the other. Factions within Aryan increasingly sought to use crystal energy to quell the adversaries. This was firmly refused by the Atla-Ra and 'Law of One' populace of Poseida.

Several futile attempts to terrorize the Poseidans were attempted by the Aryans, and each was quelled. The Poseidans retaliated by shutting down the power and negating the Aryans. The Aryans responded by stopping food supply and manufactured goods. A great impasse ensued.

The Atlantean Unification Congress

In a great deceptive scheme, disguised as a plan for unification, the Aryans approached the Poseidans with the formation of a renewed National Congress to work out their growingly tense differences and bring harmony to Atlantis. Representatives from the Law of One were sent along with the representatives from the Sons of Belial. The Congress was formalized with an equal amount of representation from the two parties. Within short order a federation of sorts was sanctified with the promise of greater harmony. It appeared for several decades that the promise of change and betterment might come about from the National Congress. The Poseidans were encouraged and many of them let down their guard. The Atla-Ra remained wary of the motives and sensed deception.

Initially the National Congress did improve relations and many minor superficial laws that promised unity were set in motion. Yet the primary points of opposition, the genetic slavery and crystal energy management remained unresolved.

However, from within the Sons of Belial had risen a hypnotic charismatic leadership who seduced the masses in Atlantis into believing they were the answer to returning Atlantis to its lost Golden Age of prominence and abundance. The leaders of this group were the souls that you know as Hitler and Himmler, indeed the supremest Nazis of your World War II. Large militaristic legions were formed and gained the edge in covert political persuasion and power. The hybrid mutants were used to terrorize those who opposed them in Aryan and Og, and one occasion this was futilely attempted in Poseida.

The powerful Aryan contingent were masters of manipulation and media. They presented well thought out arguments that masked their true intentions and promised mutual compromise. The propaganda seemed quite feasible on the surface and convinced many including moderates and some from the Law of One of its hope for harmony.

In what appeared to be a great opportunity for resolution, a law was proposed by the Belial group to bring the genetic engineering, heretofore controlled by the state of Aryan under federalized control, and in return, bring the crystal poser system under the control of a governmental agency. A great discussion and debate occurred under great national scrutiny. A vote was set, but failed in the congressional vote.

Betrayal:

However, a compelling compromise was offered by the cunning leadership of the Belial, which allowed for the law to be passed on the basis that a council staffed with 5 Poseidans and 4 Aryans would head a new government agency for federalized Crystalline- Energy control. The fact that the Law of One were given apparent majority control of the council made the plan seem very promising to the populace of Poseida. The law allowed that no changes could be made without majority consensus of the council, but included the caveat that while the Atla -Ra would remain in departmental head positions, they would no longer be exempt from governmental controls. A training program was included that would allow engineers from both parties, outside the Atla-Ra, to be trained and taught the complex engineering.

Initially, despite the wariness of Atla-Ra, the system appeared to be working and bringing a better harmony.

However, within two years, the wars in the Mediterranean roared back in full escalation, and the rebelling colonies seemed to be gaining the advantage. Pressure mounted to use crystal beams for war purposes under the guise of national security. A discussion, debate and vote was scheduled for the Governing Council. National security was touted and a misaligned sense of manipulated patriotism swept the land.

Then the deception rolled into effect. To the great shock & chagrin of the Poseidans, one of the Law of One members of the Council, switched positions. He was neither of the Atla-Ra, nor the Golden race. He had risen politically as a charismatic leader, a trusted negotiator, who had pledged allegiances to the Law of One and gained their full confidence. He had been targeted and seduced by the Aryans, and fell victim to his ambitions.

In the aftermath, this one felt great remorse, and spent subsequent lifetimes attempting to make up for the mistake. For truly he did not foresee the catastrophic ending, and had allowed himself to be blindly compromised under promises of power and position.

Dear Ones, such is the illusion of power. You see when one gains power, that which may seem right can often be an illusion of ego. Each on the road of Mastery must eventually decide between power and love. Even the one you call Hitler thought the master race scenario would enable a better future for the earth, with one supreme physical embodiment being the single eventual race that all souls would reincarnate into, reducing disease, and eliminating racial division by having only one 'Master' race. Even the one you call Judas in your biblical allegory thought that by placing Jesua ben Josef in detention, he would be forced to use his divine powers to reveal his Mastery to the world! Indeed the paradox is that what you term as 'Power' is often the polar opposite of love. Do you see how ego and power can deceive? Do you?

Thus through 'legalized' governmental control, the use of the crystal power complex & grids came under governmental control under the sons of Belial, and sadly could not be reversed.

The Second Moon of Atlantis

That which was known as the 'Second Moon of Atlantis', the crystalline poser grids and fire crystals came under governmental control, and their usage became altered as the Aryan knowledge of the programming grew. The Atla-Ra were able to defer the usage initially, but in time were stymied.

Now as we have mentioned earlier, that termed the second moon of Atlantis, was in fact a massive crystalline satellite. It was of Arcturian construct and managed by the Priest Scientist of the Law of One. The crystalline satellite was an enormous unmanned sphere of brilliant engineering, approximately five miles in diameter. It has been in use since the Golden Age of Atlantis, and served myriad benevolent purpose. It amplified and controlled the various crystal beams sent from the fire, healing and energy crystals. It was somewhat of a computerized macrochip that refracted, amplified and reflected powerfully refined beams of energy for use in agriculture, weather control, tide control, healing temples, regeneration temples and the enhanced ley-energy systems generated by the crystal poser system. It loomed in the skies over Atlantis and appeared as a golden 'harvest' moon, and thus was known as the second moon of Atlantis. A rainbow kaleidoscopic energy band of antigravity plasma swirled around the sphere, and often appeared as what you now term the aurora or northern lights. The satellite crystal moon did not orbit the earth, it moved as programmed, self directed, constantly shifting locations in order to perform its myriad tasks over Atlantis, Africa and the eastern seaboard of Brasil.

After the Crystalline Grid complex legally came under federalized Aryan control, the Belial group integrated their own technologists into the engineering group, quickly replacing key department heads with their own. The Atla-Ra attempted to block their attempt to reprogram the satellite for war usage, explaining that overloading the satellite would dissipate the antigravity field that maneuvered it, and a catastrophic crash could occur. The Aryan scientist debunked the claim. Some of the Atla-Ra were threatened and removed, others began to mysteriously disappear. Many of the Poseidans felt intimidated and powerless as the governing council allowed for the satellite to become a 'strategic defense weapon', certain it would function as programmed, and bring a quick end to the rebellion wars.

The Belial scientist, with council approval reprogrammed a system bypass and began sending destructive thermal light beams used to initiate volcanic eruptions and massive earthquakes against colonies and nations who refused to give into their demands. These were aimed in the areas of what is now Greece and Turkey, and caused great devastation. Indeed it gave the zealous Aryans the battle advantage they so fervently desired, and they jubilantly increased its usage, with support of most of the populace.

The Beginning of the End

The Crystal Moon began to 'overload', weakening the anti gravity field that kept it afloat. The Atla-Ra understood the implications of what would soon occur when the programming crashed, but their pleas to the council continued to be ignored.

After several months of prolonged war use, the satellite began to erratically swerve and shift, and power blackouts began to occur. Tireless attempts to correct it were unsuccessful. The Atla-Ra were asked to lend support in correcting it, most refused. Some agreed to try and stabilize it to prevent the impending disaster. All attempts failed. The council refused the suggestion to incinerate the satellite, disbelieving that it would crash, and minimizing the effects of an impact even if it did.

Relocation of the Crystals

Tyberonn & Oberonn gathered an inner group of loyalist within the Atla-Ra and Law of One to plan a circuitry disconnection & imminent relocation of the fire and energy crystals to various 'safe' locations before the impending crash of the master satellite. This was done with the technology & assistance of those from Sirius B.

The relocation of the precious crystals was very risky, and required careful planning and great secrecy. It had to be done before the crash of the 'second moon', and without knowledge of the governing council.

Simultaneously other trusted members of the Atla-Ra worked furiously at hastily and safely gathering data recording crystals, crystalline skulls and engraved historical records for secure placements in Yucatan, Alexandria and Giza. This was only partially accomplished; so much was not able to be saved.

Atlantis had numerous power crystals located through out the 5 islands and along specific relay routes of the underground labyrinth system. The Atla-Ra knew that once the modulated 'motherboard' of the crystal moon satellite lost its antigravity field, it would crash in a huge explosion and its crashing would subsequently reek havoc on the major and poser energy crystals, creating catastrophic secondary explosions of a nuclear-class within hours or days of the crash.

The Atla-Ra and Sirians wanted to insure the master crystals would not be destroyed or used for any further negative purpose, and be saved for a time when mankind could use them as they were intended. They understood the power required to transport them would be lost after the crash, and that urgent expediency was required.

Seven of the enormous primary crystals and two slightly smaller but incredible Arcturian crystals were relocated within the bulk transport systems of the underground tunnel system with help from Sirius B. Three huge primary crystals were relocated to the Atlantean crystal fields of Arkansas, two were relocated to the underground crystal farms of Brazil in the areas of Bahia and Mineas Gerais, one was relocated to underground chasm below Mount Shasta, and the great fire crystal was placed underground in a chasm below the Bimini Bank in the Sargasso Sea. The two sacred Acturian crystals were relocated in the chasms below the area of Tiajuanaco, Bolivia near Lake Titicaca.

All nine were put in dimensional locks, essentially powered down into energetic dormancy through the technology of the Sirians. Dozens of other Master Crystals were lost.

The rest, in your vernacular is history, poignant lost history from your mainstream perspective. Truly the paradox of the forgotten history is that it contains the most purposeful of lessons!

Indeed after a few months of being utilized for the thermal 'death ray' technology the great crystal satellite overloaded, its antigravity cushion weakened and it crashed with the accelerated velocity of a massive comet in a horrific explosion that devastated most of OG and critically weaken the tectonic stability of the Atlantean plate, vaporizing massive sections of substrata. The great crystal satellite shattered into billions of fragmented crystalline shards, which now fill the deep trenches of the Atlantic. Massive clouds of dust and smoke erupted, hiding the sun. Waves of earthquakes and tsunamis devastated the island and sent great waves over two thirds of Aryan. Within minutes the remaining power stations exploded with the strength of nuclear bombs. The remains of one such crystal power station explosion can be seen to this day in the area of northeast Brasil called 'Sete Cidades'.

Atlantis, and the eastern coast of Brazil and the western coast of Africa were devastated with subsequent earthquakes. Panic and havoc ensued for 3 weeks as the remaining dry areas shook and landmasses collapsed into the sea. The land bridge that connected Poseida and Og to the Yucatan remained above water initially and was literally filled with hundreds of thousands of Atlanteans frantically attempting to escape in a horrendous panic filled exodus. Every type of sea going vessel was filled with the surviving terrorized refugees.

And then in one shattering gasp, the remaining lands collapsed downward into the sea. The displaced seas that became known as the great flood sent dozens of enormous tsunamis that spilled over South America, Africa and Europe.

It is a scene that has for many many lifetimes plagued and darkened the memories of many of you, who were indeed a part of it. Dear Ones, it is time to let it go.

Intent & Highest Good

So many of you believe that everything happens as it should happen, as it is 'meant' to be. Dear Ones, that is not always the case. Things happen as they happen, as a set of many potentials. And indeed from the higher perspective events happen as they are 'intended' to happen, and we stress the word intent. You are creators of your event horizons. But Dear Ones, events do not happen in the highest good until you create the highest good. The Fall of Atlantis was not the highest good, and will not be until you recreate it as such.

If all happened for highest good, you would not reincarnate. In the dramatic school of hologramic 'reality' you will cycle and recycle until you learn this. Do you understand Dear Ones?

Time and probability are a beautiful illusionary paradox....And this is why we tell you that the Golden Age of Atlantis is actually an event horizon from your future that you pulled into your 'seeming' past!

2015-04-25 White House Correspondents' Association Dinner.

The White House
For Immediate Release

Office of the Press Secretary
April 25, 2015

Remarks By The President At White House Correspondents' Association Dinner

The Washington Hilton Hotel Washington, D.C. 10:20 P.M. EDT

THE PRESIDENT: Good evening, everybody. Welcome to the White House Correspondents Dinner -- the night when Washington celebrates itself. (Laughter.) Somebody's got to do it. (Laughter.)

And welcome to the fourth quarter of my presidency. (Laughter and applause.) It's true -- that was Michelle cheering. (Laughter.) The fact is, I feel more loose and relaxed than ever. Those Joe Biden shoulder massages, they're like magic. (Laughter.) You should try one. Oh, you have. (Laughter.)

I am determined to make the most of every moment I have left. After the midterm elections, my advisors asked me, "Mr. President, do you have a bucket list?" And I said, "Well, I have something that rhymes with bucket list." (Laughter and applause.)

Take executive action on immigration? Bucket. (Laughter.) New climate regulations? Bucket. It's the right thing to do. (Laughter and applause.)

And my new attitude is paying off. Look at my Cuba policy. The Castro brothers are here tonight. (Laughter and applause.) Welcome to America, amigos! Que pasa? What? It's the Castros from Texas? (Laughter.) Oh. Hi Joaquin. Hi Julian. (Laughter.)

Anyway, being President is never easy. I still have to fix a broken immigration system, issue veto threats, negotiate with Iran -- all while finding time to pray five times a day. (Laughter.) Which is strenuous. (Laughter and applause.)

And it is no wonder that people keep pointing out how the presidency has aged me. I look so old, John Boehner has already invited Netanyahu to speak at my funeral. (Laughter and applause.)

Meanwhile, Michelle hasn't aged a day. (Applause.) I ask her what her secret is, she just says "fresh fruits and vegetables." It's aggravating. (Laughter.)

The fact is, though, at this point, my legacy is finally beginning to take shape. The economy is getting better. Nine in ten Americans now have health coverage. (Applause.) Today, thanks to Obamacare, you no longer have to worry about losing your insurance if you lose your job. You're welcome, Senate Democrats. (Laughter and applause.)

Now, look, it is true I have not managed to make everybody happy. Six years into my presidency, some people still say I'm arrogant and aloof, condescending. Some people are so dumb. (Laughter.) No wonder I don't meet with them. (Laughter.)

And that's not all people say about me. A few weeks ago, Dick Cheney says he thinks I'm the worst President of his lifetime. Which is interesting, because I think Dick Cheney is the worst President of my lifetime. (Laughter and applause.) It's quite a coincidence.

I mean, everybody has got something to say these days. Mike Huckabee recently said people shouldn't join our military until a true conservative is elected President. Think about that. It was so outrageous, 47 Ayatollahs wrote us a letter trying to explain to Huckabee how our system works. (Laughter.)

It gets worse. Just this week, Michele Bachmann actually predicted that I would bring about the biblical end of days. (Laughter.) Now that's a legacy! (Laughter.) That's big. I mean, Lincoln, Washington -- they didn't do that. (Laughter.)

But I just have to put this stuff aside, I've got to stay focused on my job, because for many Americans, this is still a time of deep uncertainty. For example, I have one friend -- just a few weeks ago, she was making millions of dollars a year. And she's now living out of a van in Iowa. (Laughter and applause.)

Meanwhile, back here in our nation's capital, we're always dealing with new challenges. I'm happy to report that the Secret Service, thanks to some excellent reporting by White House correspondents, they're really focusing on some of the issues that have come up. And they finally figured out a full-proof way to keep people off my lawn. (Laughter.) It works. And it's not just fence-jumpers. As some of you know, a few months ago, a drone crash-landed out back. That was pretty serious, but don't worry, we've installed a new, state-of-the-art security system. (Laughter.)

You know what, let me set the record straight. I tease Joe sometimes, but he has been at my side for seven years now. I love that man. (Applause.) He's not just a great Vice President, he is a great friend. We've gotten so close, in some places in Indiana, they won't serve us pizza anymore. (Laughter and applause.)

I want to thank our host for the evening, a Chicago girl, the incredibly talented Cecily Strong. (Applause.) On "Saturday Night Live," Cecily impersonates CNN anchor Brooke Baldwin. Which is surprising, because usually the only people impersonating journalists on CNN are journalists on CNN. (Laughter.)

ABC is here with some of the stars from their big new comedy, "Black-ish." (Applause.) It's a great show, but I have to give ABC fair warning -- being "Black-ish" only makes you popular for so long. Trust me. (Laughter.) There's a shelf life to that thing. (Laughter.)

As always, the reporters here had a lot to cover over the last year. Here on the East Coast, one big story was the brutal winter. The polar vortex caused so many record lows, they renamed it "MSNBC." (Laughter.)

But of course, let's face it, there is one issue on every reporter's mind and that is 2016. Already, we've seen some missteps. It turns out Jeb Bush identified himself as "Hispanic" back in 2009. Which you know what, look, I understand. It's an innocent mistake. Reminds me of when I identified myself as "American" back in 1961. (Laughter and applause.)

Ted Cruz said that denying the existence of climate change made him like Galileo. (Laughter.) Now that's not really an apt comparison. Galileo believed the Earth revolves around the sun. Ted Cruz believes the Earth revolves around Ted Cruz. (Laughter.) And just as an aside, I want to point out, when a guy who has his face on a "Hope" poster calls you self-centered, you know you've got a problem. (Laughter.) The narcissism index is creeping up a little too high. (Laughter.)

Meanwhile, Rick Santorum announced that he would not attend the same-sex wedding of a friend or a loved one. To which gays and lesbians across the country responded, that's not going to be a problem. (Laughter and applause.) Don't sweat that one. (Laughter.)

And Donald Trump is here. Still. (Laughter.)

Anyway. (Laughter.) It's amazing how time flies. Soon, the first presidential contest will take place. And I for one cannot wait to see who the Koch brothers pick.

It's exciting. Marco Rubio, Rand Paul, Ted Cruz, Jeb Bush, Scott Walker. Who will finally get that red rose? (Laughter.) The winner gets a billion-dollar war chest. The runner up gets to be the bachelor on the next season of "The Bachelor." (Laughter.) I mean, seriously, a billion dollars. From just two guys. Is it just me, or does that feel a little excessive? (Laughter.) I mean, it's almost insulting to the candidates. The Koch brothers think they need to spend a billion dollars to get folks to like one of these people. (Laughter.) It's got to hurt their feelings a little bit. (Laughter.)

And, look, I know I've raised a lot of money too. But in all fairness, my middle name is "Hussein."

(Laughter.) What's their excuse? (Laughter and applause.)

The trail hasn't been easy for my fellow Democrats either. As we all know, Hillary's private emails got her in trouble. Frankly, I thought it was going to be her private Instagram account that was going to cause her bigger problems. (Laughter.)

Hillary kicked things off by going completely unrecognized at a Chipotle. Not to be outdone, Martin O'Malley kicked things off by going completely unrecognized at a Martin O'Malley campaign event. (Laughter.)

And Bernie Sanders might run. I like Bernie. Bernie is an interesting guy. Apparently some folks really want to see a pot-smoking socialist in the White House. (Laughter.) We could get a third Obama term after all. (Laughter and applause.) It could happen.

Anyway, as always, I want to close on a more serious note. I often joke about tensions between me and the press, but honestly, what they say doesn't bother me. I understand we've got an adversarial system. I'm a mellow sort of guy.

And that's why I invited Luther, my anger translator, to join me here tonight. (Laughter and applause.)

[LUTHER ENTERS]

LUTHER: Hold on to your lily-white butts. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: In our fast-changing world, traditions like the White House Correspondents' Dinner are important.

LUTHER: I mean, really, what is this dinner? (Laughter.) And why am I required to come to it? (Laughter.) Jeb Bush, do you really want to do this? (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: Because despite our differences, we count on the press to shed light on the most important issues of the day.

LUTHER: And we can count on Fox News to terrify old white people with some nonsense! (Laughter.) "Sharia law is coming to Cleveland. Run for the damn hills!" (Laughter.) Y'all, it's ridiculous. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: We won't always see eye to eye.

LUTHER: Oh, and CNN, thank you so much for the wall-to-wall Ebola coverage. For two whole weeks, we were one step away from the Walking Dead. (Laughter.) And then you all got up and just moved on to the next day. That was awesome. Oh, and by the way, just if you haven't noticed, you don't have Ebola! (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: But I still deeply appreciate the work that you do.

LUTHER: Ya'll remember when I had that big, old hole in the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico and then I plugged it? Remember that? Which "Obama's Katrina" was that one? Was that 19? Or was it 20? Because I can't remember. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: Protecting our democracy is more important than ever. For example, the Supreme Court ruled that the donor who gave Ted Cruz 6 million dollars was just exercising free speech.

LUTHER: Yeah, that's the kind of speech like this, "I just wasted six million dollars." (Laughter and applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: And it's not just Republicans. Hillary will have to raise huge sums of money, too.

LUTHER: Oh, yes. She's gonna get that money. She's gonna get all the money. Khaleesi is coming to Westeros. (Laughter and applause.) So watch out! (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: The nonstop focus on billionaire donors creates real problems for our democracy.

LUTHER: And that's why we're running for a third term! (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: No, we're not.

LUTHER: We're not?

THE PRESIDENT: No.

LUTHER: Who the hell said that? (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: But we do need to stay focused on some big challenges, like climate change.

LUTHER: Hey, listen, ya'll, if you haven't noticed, California is bone dry. (Laughter.) It looks like a trailer for the new "Mad Max" movie up in there. (Laughter.) Ya'll think that Bradley Cooper came here because he wants to talk to Chuck Todd? (Laughter.) He needed a glass of water. Come on! (Laughter and applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: The science is clear. Nine of the ten hottest years ever came in the last decade.

LUTHER: Now, I'm not a scientist, but I do know how to count to 10. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: Rising seas, more violent storms.

LUTHER: We've got mosquitos. Sweaty people on the train, stinking it up. It's just nasty. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: I mean, look at what's happening right now. Every serious scientist says we need to act. The Pentagon says it's a national security risk. Miami floods on a sunny day, and instead of doing anything about it, we've got elected officials throwing snowballs in the Senate!

LUTHER: Okay, Mr. President. Okay, I think they've got it, bro.

THE PRESIDENT: It is crazy! What about our kids? What kind of stupid, shortsighted, irresponsible bull -- (Laughter and applause.)

LUTHER: Wow! Hey! (Applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: What?!

LUTHER: All due respect, sir. You don't need an anger translator. (Laughter.) You need counseling. (Laughter.) So I'm out of here, man. I ain't trying to get into all this. (Laughter.)

THE PRESIDENT: Go. (Applause.)

LUTHER: He crazy. (Laughter and applause.)

THE PRESIDENT: Luther, my anger translator, ladies and gentlemen. (Applause.)

Now that I got that off my chest. Investigative journalism; explanatory journalism; journalism that exposes corruption and injustice and gives a voice to the different, the marginalized, the voiceless -- that's power. It's a privilege. It's as important to America's trajectory -- to our values, our ideals -- than anything that we could do in elected office.

We remember journalists we lost over the past year -- journalists like Steven Sotloff and James Foley, murdered for nothing more than trying to shine a light into some of the world's darkest corners. (Applause.) We remember the journalists unjustly imprisoned around the world, including our own Jason Rezaian. (Applause.) For nine months, Jason has been imprisoned in Tehran for nothing more than writing about the hopes and the fears of the Iranian people, carrying their stories to the readers of the Washington Post in an effort to bridge our common humanity. As was already mentioned, Jason's brother, Ali, is here tonight and I have told him personally we will not rest until we bring him home to his family, safe and sound. (Applause.)

These journalists and so many others view their work as more than just a profession, but as a public good; an indispensable pillar of our society. So I want to give a toast to them. I raise a glass to them and all of you, with the words of the American foreign correspondent Dorothy Thompson: "It is not the fact of liberty, but the way in which liberty is exercised, that ultimately determines whether liberty itself survives."

Thank you for your devotion to exercising our liberty, and to telling our American story. God bless you. God bless the United States of America. (Applause.)
