HARD NEWS

Nada was furious with Ban Ki Moon a few days ago, went into his office and slammed the door – “You will listen to me, or you won't be a very happy camper - and you will call a special session of the General Assembly and the Security Council! You will call for war criminal charges against Israel and their leadership; arrest Netanyahu immediately.”

- today, the UN announced a General Assembly meeting to discuss Palestine and Israel.
- Israel has ordered its police to shoot first and ask questions later across the board!
- same thing happening in the US –Al Jazeera went over the list of kids killed recently by police - a police man shot a 17 year old white teenager 7 times because the cop lost his temper. The young one was shining his light toward the police officer because he could not see: cop lost his cool: tasered the kid, got him out of the car

Putin: Found Putin's Sept 28th talk , and part 2 of an interview with Charlie Rose: there about Ukraine and the Minsk Agreement – there were 3 major parts of the Minsk proposal that have been totally ignored, violated

- constitutional reform in Ukraine with a new constitution by the end of Dec/15 have not started it
  - decentralization taking into account the special features of 2 regions in Donesk Agreement with representatives of those regions, and the adoption of permanent laws regarding the this – the Ukraine gov't has not allowed these people to be part of any discussion - completely shut that door!
- full Ukrainian state gov't control restored over the border in the conflict – no action at all
- restoration full social and economic links with affected areas – no action at all
- Putin is one smart cookie; we need to take a look at the attitudinal skewing in US news.

Soccer: Discovery of payoffs in 2006 by the German gov't so they could get the World Cup of Soccer contract over South Africa –

- this will rock the whole situation; this is a precarious time as both Blatter and Pontini are suspended. Germany is already in trouble for so many things.

R: Tom the Cat: Top Campaign manager Huma Abedin for Hillary: testified to the e-mail / Benghazi committee, politically set up by the Republicans – she has to walk carefully as she's been Hillary's lover for years: knows way too much.

Don Siegelman has been threatened at the Oakdale federal prison He came on Sam Sax and he basically exposed Karl Rove; now they are threatening to put him in solitary confinement for 23 hours a day: no computer, no kind of communication, maybe a couple of books, paper and pencil – Mimi Kennedy, the actress and TV star, has been working for years to help him get out – he's a political prisoner, knows about NESARA

Thom Hartmann: Gov. Don Siegelman needs your help today more than ever...find out why - Actress/Activist Mimi Kennedy, Free Don Siegelman/PDAmerica

Turkey: downs a drone; tries to blame it on Moscow; would not be surprised if it was Netanyahu

Audio: Thom Hartmann Conversations with Great Minds - Naomi Klein

CONVERSATIONS WITH GREAT MINDS: Naomi Klein, *This Changes Everything: Capitalism vs. The Climate* \(the book\) / the film

Full Show 10/16/15: How Reaganomics is Still Hurting the Middle Class

https://youtu.be/s\_6OY12Bz4s

Thom talks income inequality and Reaganomics with the Progressive Change Campaign Committee's Sarah Badawi and radio host and author Ari Rabin-Havt. In tonight's Conversations with Great Minds Thom discusses capitalism and the climate with award-winning journalist Naomi Klein, author of the new book "This Changes Everything: Capitalism vs. the Climate."

[24 PEOPLE TONIGHT]

C1: saw some of Keshe's presentation tonight – 2.5 hours of video;

- Boehner has nothing to lose: have moved up the debt ceiling date which was originally scheduled for Dec 11 – pulled it back to Nov 3rd
- Speaker of the House' job is to put the bill on the table to be discussed: are we going to raise the debt ceiling or shut the gov't down?
- Sam Sax [sitting in for Thom Hartman]: we're hearing that the hard core republicans will instantly remove him immediately if he dares to speak about it. They are moving it up because they think they can blame Obama for it all
- Obvious to T that these people have their days numbered!
- May we all pass every test

C1: as individuals, what can we do?

- give as much time to meditation practice as to "daily life" - live each moment in higher consciousness.
- If you missed the guest on Thursday's Stargate Roundtable call, you missed a lot – working with the higher energies is more important than the hard news.
  - Omena hosted the show and Caroline Oceana Ryan was her guest.
  - COR channeled The Collective. One of the questions was about how they help humanity: we do not do this for you: there is no one doing it for you – we can assist, guide, give suggestions – you asked for this and to be left in your own free will choice
  - Also, it is really important not to go into fear – if you do, you are right where the dark ones want you.
- Naomi was re-verberating that attitude too

C2: Jeffrey Westof www.CosmicVisionnews.com Oct 16th report very good: maybe could be played tomorrow

- Talks of The Next System
- the Stanford Research centre – open to helping bring in massive social change

T: Tavistock is right in the middle of this operation [located at Stanford]:

it's [an organization] way high up the Illuminati ladder – Chelsea went to Stanford and became a high level hedge fund manager.

C2: also doing robotic stuff there; robotic humans plus more guns will really wake people up!

T talks about what Dr Keshe has said: he opened up the program to the public today

- the presentation in which he went public is about 2.5 hours

C2: Jeffrey West did an excellent summary of Keshe's work; Dr Greer's latest is mind-blowing

T: Putin has been in contact with the Andromedans for a long time; Keshe knows that Obama, Putin and Xi are working together at a higher level.

- The device allows us to create out of thin air! Can eat anything at all; nothing is killed.

R: on the New Jerusalem, can talk to the amino acid computers

- there are 12 motherships out there that are bigger than Saturn with 1.2 million people on them; ties in with the Blue Avians who are working with huge spheres larger than Saturn
- New Jerusalem is only 5 miles wide and there are a million on it
- Saturn is 5-6 times bigger than the earth, and we have 7 billion on earth
- She's reading about unicorns from all over the world; the young ones live with mother until they are 50 years old; they live for 1000s and 1000s of year and are only fertile once every 50 years. They telepathically communicated with Robert, the author, before they let him photograph them.

Unicorns I have Known was his first book – Robert Bobra; a lady came in touch with him because she found notes about unicorns inside the lining of a suitcase in her attic

- she copied them out and sent them to Robert – Unicorns of Mt Kilimanjaro [google shopping; also on Amazon]- unicorns are a very special group energy: represent the angelic, sepheroth energy.

C3: were unicorns born like that, or were they specially bred?

- Horns are very short and rounded at the beginning; grow longer, sharper as they grow up – they are fully conscious right from the beginning. They are physical and they have the ability to disappear.
- On Christmas time on Camp Lovewave, someone came on to talk to about magic mushrooms and about sitting with the reindeer up north and the white unicorns show up. The people sit and do throat singing – when you take the mushrooms and do the ceremony with the shamans, the unicorns show up.
- There are sasquatch 7 – 9 feet tall – super conscious beings; live in caves in higher Himalayas – have human DNA; they are more conscious than we are: live on soma which grows on inside of cave walls; soma means you're in 5th dimension all the time
- Swami Purna lived for 50 years in the Himalayas and wore no shoes or very warm clothes – was always warm. He takes on various forms and never leaves the planet.
- Babi Gi lives in the Himalayas: he's in another realm but has not left the planet either.
- As we evolve and learn about higher levels of consciousness, there are 144 levels – and the first 7 chakras are basic.

Layers of Consciousness

- Beginning level – tribal consciousness
- Mass Consciousness – media
- knowledge of good and evil – become fully aware of choices, intentions
- discipleship consciousness – starting to choose a guru, teacher; learning many more things – going on en masse in the 60s. Millions and millions of people globally – learning to be in the world, not of it
- initiate consciousness - gets into a smaller circle with the teacher & become a master teacher
- Mastery consciousness
- the Monad – all the different subtle bodies and the levels within each body
Don't worry, be happy:

R: Yoda taught Luke when Luke showed up & asked to learn about The Force

- once we arrive at the knowledge we are now one with all – there is a continuous emanation of pure joy

- just to be one with such energy like that of Swami Purna – changes us
- the energy of the collective is what we've become
  - Have been talking to Doug and Don about a new way to get their show out there to the globe – hundreds and hundreds of places where the show can be transferred!!!!
- These guys don't have a chance when such as Greer, Keshe get together and Jeff West reports it!

C4: yes, she got a good dose yesterday [from The Collective, channeled by Caroline Oceana Ryan]! She has not eaten anything sweet today either!

- she has placed herself in a tough place to get anything organic

C4: Yes, that's true; now her car is not working which does not help; gall bladder or?? – she did go to the doctor

- Tells T & R Art Bell is back on the radio at the same time –

Darkmatterdigital.network

- Gall bladder is way down, far to the right, next to the liver – have to stop the bad fats, too in order to make this go away.

C4: does not eat fried food anymore – bakes stuff. Yes, she does have a computer

- Look up wholistic remedies for gall bladder: in a serious case, take only water for a few days, then go onto pear juice and ?;

C5: to share : encourage people to empower themselves and learn the natural alternative health cures because they do work; can make the difference between life and death

- the unanticipated consequences of taking 2 specific drugs: cause tendon rupture – and then people can't walk;
  - an antibiotic popular and much prescribed: causes dementia / alzheimers – Labo??
  - Caller's mother- they thought she had dementia because of that one dose of the antibiotic

T: Remember that all meat that is not grass fed – the animals are fed anti biotics from being babies to grown up – people eating that kind of meat are getting anti biotics about which they know nothing!

C5: another time Mum was in hospital, she was given IV ? Pro - best to go natural.

T: played Marianne Williamson who put on Sister Giant program: she started the program by asking where all her vegan friends were – lots of people raised their hands!

- Diets in the South are not good for people: so much fried food
- Dr Cortwright made it clear 2 weeks ago clear that fats & sugars are where it's at
- When T & R travelled across the country, could not find good food -
- Sugar depletes the in the brain by half . . .

BBS MOTHER SEKHMET / ALCYONE [M/A]

We are in the Age of Virgo, the time of mouse medicine: paying attention to detail, and Naomi gave us some good ideas on how to do this

- Sam Sax [filling in for Thom Hartmann this week] has a news cooperative – everyone owns the business, collaboratively, getting every aspect of the job done; everyone paid the same
- the Bioneers Conference – a young woman from the NE – found a way to give the earth rights and, by so doing, got the big corporate interests off their land – being done in other countries
- kind of scary to have the TPP in our face at the moment.

Greetings in the Light of the Most Radiant One. In the Office of the Christ and only in the Office of the Christ, we invoke the loving energies of St Germain and the Violet Flame.

Greetings, Children of Ra!

- It is about this land's story from the very beginning, when we all said we'd be home in time for dinner: 450 BILLION years later, it is the return of Nibiru.
  - This moment in time, all the kingdoms are here, all the councils, as has been said. What she can say is that as we take that quantum leap like Naomi said [interview with Thom Hartmann, played earlier] - we gotta take some leaps.
  - It's about a leap of faith. At that level, we know we are creator goddesses/ gods of the most high. When we began this story, we all never lost the ability to be that plasma energy - this is where we are returning to.
  - This is so HUGE because when we really begin to grok what it is to be a particle in a consciousness of a star field, when we are travelling with the magnetic winds and the solar plasma - that "stuff" we call mass coronal ejections: it is simply plasma.
  - We must realize that cold fusion is a different form of reality: energy - sun is not hot; it is about magnetics, and the frequencies of colour, light and sound: All That Is
- As we began, here we are -full circle. The time at this moment is simply unravelling because it has to. As we tune into our siddas, the magic of who we are, our instincts will kick in; already it has begun.
  - What's happening is Gaia / Vywamus is transfiguring into Tita Lacoria / Terra Nova - right before our eyes - in the 5th dimension, moving up to what it is like to be a sun - suns and daughters of the most high: don't need a body - our consciousness, our spirit, travel on a wing and a prayer -thought [is] instantaneous like colour, light, vibration, ecstasy

T: Naomi Klein is a Canadian; their national election is happening on Monday - Harper is such an unpopular Prime Minister

M/A: looks like a dead man walking - because the body is so unhealthy

T: also a reptilian -

M/A: that energy is taking the temple out

T: They can't wait! The people are ready for this leap says Naomi - people are SO tired

- Today she's been hearing news: someone on Sam Sax / Thom Hartmann talking of what Hillary did to the people of Libya - remember that Obama did not buy that option [about Libya and Bengazi; went to Chile, and left it to Hillary.] She was the mastermind behind what happened; got NATO involved and a minimum of 75,000 innocent people were killed to get 800 tonnes of gold which was disappeared off the airplane by St Germain!!!

M/A: has to be Lex Luther to steal that much gold!

T: and she lost it from the airplane

M/A: this is the misunderstanding of misqualified energies; you cannot go up against the mitochondria, the force, with the energies of the dark side: it won't work!

- What is happening is we have already begun the shift into the Sat Yuga: 100,000 years of dancing with Krishna and Rodah.
  - This is the golden age: we are the heroes, the prophets to show up, to transform it at this time - this is why Bernie has stepped up to the plate; Bernie is one of the Prophets' generation and said I will make this shift, and the millennials come in to complete the revolution/ evolution - it is not about violence; it is about consciousness.
  - when you take it to that level as a physical sun with a single thought, you can terra form the solar system! This is how we brought this [our own solar system & the Universe of Nabadon] into being - if we want to learn to be creator gods / goddesses, it is right in our face!
- Here, now we begin with our thoughts: we are creator goddesses and gods - walk across this cliff - It's that leap of faith, and this is the leap we must take at this time - putting our trust in Bernie;

- She can also say Dr Keshe knows the principle of how to take anti matter into matter

T: no dates - yet the people from Faction 3 said Nov 5th is a good hit. Again, Sam Sax said this morning that this is the wealthiest country on the planet, yet the money is sitting in peoples' accounts – they are not spending it: they are literally starving the world to death because it is not about the money. They are addicted to power and manipulation of masses of people, and it is so addictive that they don't know how to stop it!

- talking of Penicillin that can cause unforeseen things to happen in the body: refers to what a caller said on the conference call: her mother did not really have Alzheimers; what happened was the result of synthetic anti biotics; the non-synthetic penicillin has been overused and are now they are working to move even further past non-natural solutions. And they don't care what happens to people when they take this stuff!

M/A: Time to dismantle biomedical – military – industrial congressional congress

T: Dr Cortright – no cure for Alzheimers - they have skimmed the book – he talks about soy

M/A: He does not get it about soy – best food on the planet: makes a noise like a frog!

T: no soy, period. Ancient Chinese texts of 6,000 years ago – soy not fit for humans

- this is about the Leap Manifesto: takes about 3 – 3.5 weeks to get over an addiction
- talks about what she & others ate as a child – no desire to eat any of it!

M/A: a leopard can change its spots: brings up the story about a lion who ate no raw meat

T: brings up the story of a woman on campus carrying a dildo in her back pack, as are others in protest to open carry on campuses! Creative solution!!!

- Thinks we cannot be dumbed down so far that we cannot see what is going on: Capitalism vs climate: this changes everything! A never ending waterfall of do-do is what we see.
- The energy now is so catching: the ability to make this quantum leap
- and Dr Keshe making his announcement to day – makes her feel giddy

M/A: About the higher frequencies coming in; as we are looking at the horror of Mordor, all around us, popping up, are the flowers of returning frequency of higher love, higher light.

- at the time, we are getting ready in the northern hemisphere, as we approach the return of the winter sun, winter solstice, Samhain, All Souls Night as well as All Souls Day: the Day of the Dead – the veil is very thin at this time in our dimensional reality.

- The souls choosing to leave: they can't wait in many ways – want to leave for whatever reasons – yet as we can see the perspective from her vantage point – [we'd see] the legions upon legions of kingdoms & that is the only way she can describe it

- everyone is here: earth is front and centre – we make it as the 33rd member of the Intergalactic Federation of Worlds and that is no con!

- Yet the little sliver of time in this moment: don't worry, be happy, as the song says – it is that place where if we want to walk on air, walk on water, we're going to do this leap of faith. As Dr Keshe said: you want some food? Let's do some work with the Force.

- That is that place as we return in our consciousness to what we were able to do to with a single thought in the Land of Pan – we could call up an apple or our Twin flame –

- In this moment, the particles that make up these temples of god, goddess, All that Is, is re-aligning itself in the proper manner with the spin of the local universe of Neadon

- As we are the watchers from the beginning, all is bright with the moments we are in, yet from our vantage point [people on earth], it looks like hell on earth. Yes it is a moment where that evolution [is happening] – out of the ashes comes the phoenix rising

- That is what has to happen on social, political levels - as we honour this goddess mother that we walk upon, everything is provided for us as it was when we first landed here, as landing party teams that began to survey this shining gem in this part of the galaxy: look where it's taken us – all she is saying is "give peace a chance!"

T: It is pretty awesome what the changes are.

M/A: it is this love which is transforming, transfiguring – all we have is this now: let's use it – this momentum is here to stay: we have new neighbours in the 'hood: bake them a pie!

T: New neighbours? Are you referring to any particular ones, Mother?

M/A: The ones that are orbiting our planet!

T: Come on! Ridiculous what is going on! Couldn't believe her eyes: Nada was furious a couple of days ago with Ban Ki Moon and suddenly there is an emergency UN meeting over the Gaza stuff. How long do we have to wait?

M/A: the ones who have been referred to as zombies and vampires that walk the halls of Congress that look like the walking dead, like on the TV show.

T: those are their altered spirit egos, aren't they?

M/A: It's the etheric / physical and if we could see them with her consciousness/ vision, we'd call in ghost busters and clean that place out – it is filled with what The Man said: vipers, money changers who need to be thrown out of the temple.

- It is at that place that, as we want real laws passed, we create a wise council of elders like is done in other planets; she is speaking of Superman and his father Joe-el and Ky-ell - they had a wise council of elders on Krypton who told them they'd have to leave the planet as their thought forms were beginning to screw up the environment – and look at what we've got here: fracking, changing our thought forms, and . . .

T: we have Dr Keshe – it has to keep moving forward now

M/A: As we change our thoughts, keep our thumbs and our tongues pure. It's called "no texting and driving". No more Sheeple.

- We are all blessed, beloved Sons and Daughters of the Most High. If we were to see ourselves as they see us, we would get how we are like Q: with an instant thought, we can create a new world. DO IT! DO IT NOW!

- Greetings in the Light of the Most Radiant one! Kadoish, kadoish, kadoish -

R: we are [getting to the really thinnest veil] – Souhain, Samhain

- was on Buton, sitting with llamas in an archway; they were ringing the stone bell- some kind of stone, a special metal used to make the bell: looked like hematite-real shiny.

- Ringing the bell created a vibration that was moving the earth in that area: some kind of technology used to do things that we have yet to understand; it is about quantum physics and using colour, light and sound to do terra forming – has yet to know more about it is a journalist and best-selling author. Her most recent book is This Changes Everything: Capitalism vs. the Climate. She narrates the documentary film based on the book.

Guests

Avi Lewis

is the director and producer of the documentary film, This Changes Everything. He was previously a host for the Al Jazeera show Fault Lines.

South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley is calling this weekend's torrential rainfall that has triggered flooding and led to eight deaths in the Carolinas a once-in-a-millennium downpour. According to the National Weather Service, the storm had dumped more than 20 inches of rain in parts of central South Carolina since Friday. This month also marks the third anniversary of Superstorm Sandy, one of the most destructive storms in the nation's history. Researchers say such extreme weather events are becoming more frequent with the effects of climate change, with 2015 on track to be the hottest year in recorded history. In Part Two of our conversation with Naomi Klein and Avi Lewis on their new film, "This Changes Everything," we talk about what we can learn from such extreme weather events.

TRANSCRIPT

This is a rush transcript. Copy may not be in its final form.

AMY GOODMAN: We move on to the dramatic news of what has taken place in this country over the last week, a once-in-a-millennium downpour. That's what South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley is calling the torrential rainfall that's triggered massive flooding over the weekend. At least eight people have died in the Carolinas. This is South Carolina Governor Haley.

GOV. NIKKI HALEY: When you think about what we're sitting in right now, we are at a thousand-year level of rain in parts of the Lowcountry. What does that mean? We haven't seen this level of rain in the Lowcountry in a thousand years. That's how big this is. That's how South Carolina is—what South Carolina is dealing with right now. The Congaree River is at its highest level since 1936.

AMY GOODMAN: According to the National Weather Service, the storm had dumped more than 20 inches of rain in parts of central South Carolina since Friday. Researchers say extreme weather events are becoming more frequent with the effects of climate change. The year 2015 is on track to be the hottest in recorded history. Scientists at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration recently released a report showing July was the single warmest month in history, and nine of the 10 hottest months since record keeping began in 1880 have occurred since 2005.

Well, we're going to spend the remainder of the hour bringing you Part Two of our conversation with Naomi Klein and Avi Lewis on their remarkable new film that re-imagines the vast challenge of climate change. The film is called This Changes Everything. It's based on Naomi Klein's global best-seller, This Changes Everything: Capitalism vs. the Climate. And, yes, we dare to say what the meteorologists over the weekend, all the news reports, 24 hours a day, that are certainly dealing with this once-in-a-thousand-year flood in South Carolina, don't mention: the words "climate change." I began by asking Naomi Klein and Avi Lewis about extreme weather events like Hurricane Sandy, which hit three years ago this month. This is a clip from their film, followed by Avi Lewis and Naomi Klein.

NAOMI KLEIN: But a strange thing happened as the fossil fuel economy spread over the world: The sacrifice zone got bigger and bigger. It started with the places considered the middle of nowhere. And then, one day, I watched it come to the place that sees itself as the center of everywhere.

REPORTER: This was the moment when Sandy struck, 90-mile-an-hour winds slicing through New York's streets. Three-quarters of a million people have been forced to evacuate.

NAOMI KLEIN: All those years, we imagined that we had freed ourselves from nature's bonds, that we were the boss. There was a part of the story we couldn't yet see: Our machines were filling the atmosphere with greenhouse gases. Could it be that we're not the masters, after all, that we are just guests here and that we can get evicted for bad behavior?

AMY GOODMAN: What we just came out of, this clip on Superstorm Sandy, what it teaches us now?

AVI LEWIS: Well, you know, it's—we were here in New York a week after the film—after the storm. Obviously, you guys lived right through it. I watched your broadcasts in those days, and it was staggering. And I think now that—everyone gets triggered with post-traumatic stress about these terrible, terrible climate-driven disasters. And I think there are fewer and fewer parts of the world where people don't hear the warnings and relive the last disaster, because this is a crisis of the now. And I think New Yorkers really are in a state of returning, you know, having flashbacks to that. We need to harness that fear and that trauma, and actually turn it into healing and positive change.

AMY GOODMAN: Blockadia, the grassroots movements around the world that are standing up to the fossil fuel companies, talk about this global phenomenon that the corporate media rarely covers, let alone links.

AVI LEWIS: Well, it's been an extraordinary few years for the climate justice movement. I mean, to be here in New York in the fall is very emotional for us, because we were on the streets with almost half a million people in the People's Climate March. And what made that moment so extraordinary was the diversity and the connecting-the-dots feeling of the movement these days. You have front-line communities, whether on the front lines of fossil fuel extraction or on the front lines of pollution, and, you know, marginalized communities. We know that the impacts of climate change and industrialization are racialized. The people of economic—without economic means are much more vulnerable. And you see these communities coming together and connecting causes and naming the system at the heart of it. It's happening around the world.

And what's really exciting nowadays, I think, is that we're starting to see not just the no to these damaging projects and to this logic of extraction—extraction of wealth as well as extraction of resources—but we're seeing more and more of the yes. So look at the divestment movement, which has exploded in three years, $1.2 trillion in capital now—

NAOMI KLEIN: Four-point-six.

AVI LEWIS: How much?

NAOMI KLEIN: Four-point-six trillion.

AVI LEWIS: Four-point-six trillion dollars in capital which is committed to divesting from fossil fuel investments. But it's not just the no to the fossil fuel stocks and bonds. It's the yes in terms of redirecting and reinvesting that money in community cooperatives, in renewable energy. And we're seeing this, and we see it throughout the film, the communities on the front lines of the no —

AMY GOODMAN: Explain those communities that you cover.

AVI LEWIS: Well, so, we went—so, for instance, we went to northern Greece in the middle of this horrific economic assault, you know, of the austerity being imposed on Greece, which is being used as an excuse to open up all these new dirty projects. They're talking about drilling for oil in the Aegean and Ionian seas, some of the most storied oceans in history. And there's this massive gold mine proposed and starting to be developed by a Canadian company in a very beautiful area of northern Greece. And there's this extraordinary community resistance to it, people in a fairly conservative part of the world, who are not activists, who are not lefties, who start to see what's being done in the name of this economic model and the excuse this brings—

AMY GOODMAN: It fits very much in with your previous book, The Shock Doctrine: The Rise of Disaster Capitalism, Naomi.

NAOMI KLEIN: Well, I mean, the truth is, I see this book and this project as a sequel to The Shock Doctrine, because that book begins and ends with Hurricane Katrina. And what we are seeing is what climate change looks like when you have an economic system that systematically fuels inequality, ever wider inequality, often along racial lines. And we know what it looks like. It looks like Katrina. Right? I mean, if you had money and resources, you were able to get out of the city, call your insurance company. But if you needed a functional state, you were out of luck, first of all because the levees were neglected, second of all because there was no evacuation, there was—you know, FEMA couldn't find the Superdome for five days. I mean, you know the story. But then, what happened next, right? The disaster-capitalism complex, as I called it in that book, descends on the city to privatize the school system, to get rid of public housing and replace it with condominiums, you know, to decide not to open Charity Hospital that serves the city's poor.

So, this book is an attempt to think about how do we respond to crisis collectively in a way that reduces inequality, that builds a fairer society, that is democratic instead of this incredibly antidemocratic process that I described in The Shock Doctrine. And look, you know, climate change is the biggest shock of all. It hits us with shock after shock after shock, whether it's a hurricane, whether it's the endless drought in California. And, you know, Amy, I was really—you know, it takes a lot to shock me, because I've been immersed in this stuff for a long time. But I didn't realize that a third of California's firefighters are prison inmates, being paid $2 an hour to fight California's—yeah, and for CAL FIRE, it's apparently half of the firefighters. So this is incredibly dangerous work. They're being paid $2 an hour, or—and if they're not actively fighting fires, some of them are being paid less than $2 a day. And it turns out that there are forces in California that are resisting prison reform measures that would lower California's prison population, because they're worried about the impact of their firefighter supply.

This is what it looks like to try to deal with climate change within an economic context of what around the world is called neoliberalism, relentless austerity, which—you know, one of the impacts of relentless austerity is increased incarceration, locking up and locking out the people who are losing within this economic system. So, that's why we're calling for looking at the root causes of what is driving climate change, and also using climate change as a catalyst to build a fairer economic system. And what we show in the film is that people are doing this very organically. As they're fighting the fossil fuel projects, they're fighting for energy democracy, community-controlled renewable energy, that keeps resources in the community so they can pay for services.

AMY GOODMAN: Naomi, you mentioned that part of the crisis in Syria is caused by climate change. Explain.

NAOMI KLEIN: Well, what we know is that Syria, right before the civil war broke out, had the worst drought in its history, a record-breaking drought. And obviously there are multiple drivers for any conflict, just as there are multiple drivers for any storm. It's not like you can say this is just because of climate change. But what we do know is that climate change loads the dice, right? It's an accelerant. So the storm would happen anyway, but because water is warmer, the storm is stronger. Well, climate change is an accelerant on many different levels. So you have conflicts and tensions already, fueled by military intervention, fueled by support for dictatorship. But then, when you layer on top a drought and the fact that people move, and more and more people crowd into cities, and that causes more conflict. So it's not, you know, a direct causal this—you know, X causes Y. It's another layer fueling it.

AMY GOODMAN: What about the pope coming to town? He's left the building now. The pope is no longer in the United States. But he gave the first address a pope has ever given to a joint session of Congress. Before the pope came here, he was in Cuba. Before that, you were at the Vatican. You were invited to address his unprecedented encyclical on climate change and the environment.

NAOMI KLEIN: Mm-hmm.

AMY GOODMAN: What about his message here?

NAOMI KLEIN: Well, I think, first of all, this reflects the fact that the climate movement, and specifically the climate justice movement, is growing. And it's growing in different constituencies. And the faith community is really, really a major part of this movement.

You know, as I've said before, I think, in earlier discussions we've had, one of the things that's most remarkable about the encyclical is the way that it challenges dominant—this idea that humans have a right to dominate nature, that everything in nature is just here to serve us. I think what's really most bold about the document is the way it celebrates interconnection, that we are all a part of this complex system, and that nature has inherent rights. I mean, this is something that the pope said when he addressed the U.N., which is—I don't know if people understand quite how remarkable that is, because just a few years ago, before Pope Francis, under Benedict, the Holy See, which is—you know, actually has negotiating status at the United Nations as a country, would try to get references to the rights of nature and Mother Earth taken out of negotiating texts when countries like Bolivia and Ecuador would put them in, because they didn't like this idea of natural rights, of nature having inherent value, because they were still subscribing, to some degree, to this idea of dominion. So there's a major shift.

And look, I certainly don't agree with the Vatican on everything. In fact, we could go through a very, very long list, which I won't go—won't bore you with right now. But what I find most remarkable about this pope is he is a man in a hurry. You know, you think about this trip in the U.S. and all of the speeches he made. He's addressing Congress. He's on the balcony. He's talking to the homeless. He's zipping to New York. I mean, how—and it's dizzying, and it really—this is what leadership looks like as if the world depended on it. You don't have to agree with him on everything, but the urgency of this political moment, the fact that we are on such a tight science-based deadline, the fact that it matters so much what we do in the next five years. I think from Obama we've seen what it looks like as if your legacy depends on it. But we need to see leadership as if the world depended on it.

AMY GOODMAN: And—

AVI LEWIS: And just what about the resonance that this message is having? I mean, I, as a Canadian, you know, to be in the States right now and see the unbelievable support for Bernie Sanders and the enthusiasm for someone who's talking about inequality, relentlessly talking about inequality, and connecting it to climate change, which, of course, is central to the pope's message, too. These two intertwining crises are the defining crises of our time. And these two old guys, who are talking about it in very blunt ways, are summoning massive crowds and real resonance. And yet, you know, obviously, the mainstream media has no interest in connecting these topics or even really addressing them. But the popular support and resonance is just astonishing.

AMY GOODMAN: Filmmaker Avi Lewis and author Naomi Klein on their new film, This Changes Everything. When we come back, we talk to them about The Leap Manifesto, Canada's upcoming elections, and Shell saying they won't be drilling in the Arctic. Stay with us.
