Hard News:

R: we are in the neck of the bottle, and it's about to spew everywhere!

- How many hours, days until Gov C Christie is up there, stumbling over his words? It all goes back to 9/11, Rudy Guiliani, Larry Silverstein, Bush Sr, Bush Jr, Jeb Bush & all the others
- He is grateful for all that is unravelling and that we get to see it
- Except for Sonya Sotomayer and Elena Kegan, the rest of the judges are in bed with the P2 Lodge and all the rest

Camp Loveway: guest was Cathy Christianson of Bill and Cathy Christianson, spoke of Palestine and Israel; Netanyahu is literally ignoring John Kerry and Kerry is trying to do it anyway. Net is building more settlements. Only in the last 10 years have the people been noticing the chem trails over the country, and they watch the ships come over and eat the chemtrails through the shuttle bays.

- They spoke of the ships landing, people disembarking and talking to the children. The children in both Israel and Palestine are saying to the older ones that the ship beings are saying to them "There will be peace!" This cannot be stopped even if Israel does get its weapons from the US,

plus Egypt, plus Syria

- This is about a controlled game called Disaster Capitalism: we have a dying empire on the run, leaving pools of blood along the way. These folks cannot go anywhere! Their stress levels are as high as they can go!
- All kinds of fireworks coming into play as the State of the Union Address approaches – they have to face the 5th element; this is Mother who is not happy because her children have behaved very badly
 - when we have the powers of a creator god, and we use them for evil the results are not happy ones. The small group of rebels have been so xeno-phobic they have been retro-fitting the planet for the scaly ones and other of that ilk – Mother says there is room for everyone here, and that includes fairies, tree people, gay, whatever – WE ARE ALL ONE PEOPLE.
- The revolution / evolution is changing radically in the moment about how this is getting done, as has never been seen before: light years are moving in every day and at the same time, there is a hue and cry from the lunatics on the right have nothing to day, as they are so guilty: love them on their way out.

Right, Left and Centre: Robert Scheer on the left pointed out that since Obama has been in, we have moved light years since the days of Bush Jr/ Cheney/Clinton crime family, & we are moving even faster.

- The FISA court folks are all set up by John Roberts, a member of Opus Dei – this all flows back into P2 Lodge and the Vatican: Pope Francis is guilty of genocide and other things in S. America: firing 7 or 9 cardinals is too little, too late.
- We are coming full circle back into the original story: every single talking head is laying it out: he suspects that Rachel or Laurence or whomever will start dropping a series of dimes that will grow into quarters, half dollars, etc
- The site of the Freedom Towers / 9/11 is still a crime scene: to this day, still finding pieces of bodies!

T: Early today, in New Mexico, starting with Steve Kornacki at 6 am: Chris Christie, David Sampson, Dave Weinstein got sub poenaed – not one stone was left unturned!

- Last Tuesday, Barack Obama asked that the pre-9/11 whereabouts of Chris Christie be revealed: he was a US attorney. 9/11 is right in the middle of the Port Authority – 78,000+ dead

R: Ben Stewart 9/11: 2nd Edition shows the ships going by the buildings, picking up people who were jumping.

- Robert Scheer, Matt Miller & someone for the right: they were Right, Left and Centre; we have moved light years to the left, and accomplished many things; there are other things not done;
- Robert: where is the son of Jorelle when we need him? T: The son of Jorelle is Clorelle and Klalah who has a galactic tour that is on an audio tape they have.
- These are elohim [e-lo-heem] are part of the scene where we all fell in the beginning of the story from the 12th dimension with all strands working and full-blown co-operation, and we all asked of the Source, Divine Mother, who symbolizes all that which is born into Creation.
 - Mother is still existing before and after enlightenment; the illusion of the fallen creation story does not mean we are not whole, it just means that since 450 billion years ago and falling from the 12th to the 5th dimension, we made a bigger mess & went down to 3rd: let me choose and experience from my choices.
 - Because we are All One, we are all affected: and there are whores in Congress who refuse to move and they are causing more suffering. So it is up to the whole of us: we all are here to take away the illusion, and lift the veil of illusion and show that we are still whole.
 - The idea of death and moving from physicality to non-physicality; without the duality experience, we do not know what is real or not real: the wisdom to know the difference is what the golden light of Kuthumi brings to us. It is very exciting as we can feel the excitement
- That Obama is in favour of the TTP is the position of the media & its control:
 - Barack Obama HAS SAID NOTHING about what he is going to do about it!!! Those who do not take accountability for what they have said, get dead! The people have to think about it

R: he surrounded himself with those from Bush/Clinton/Rockefeller and others when he took office – on purpose.

- The conversation about Superman: Superman is an e-lo-heem, and before we were elohim, we were e-lo-high! Ashtar has remained elohigh, remaining neutral.
 - There were quite a few of us taken out of the Ariadne Constellation; the spider people are the ones who created language, the alphabet – the dolphin people. They can discuss in 3 time/space continuums at the same time and not miss a beat with 3 different pods, and talk to their counterparts in the Ophicuean constellation. We are them!
 - We have a few extra things we have to do about this

R: Lord, make me an insturmbent of thy peace

T: They are having troubles with their transmissions because some are interfering AND IT IS TOO LATE!

- We the people must keep moving this forward
- there have been a rare small group of us who came to earth after ascension 3x somewhere else – the test we had to pass first in order to be here at this moment.

Robert Scheer The Man of Steel movie is a gritty movie: In it, Superman is from another planet!!!

- Movies, commentary on radio & tv are all supporting the move forward
- Chris Hayes brings us – and the galactic piece is becoming more and more evident
- On Thursday we had on George Filer on, a presenter & former Air Force pilot who saw it all; he is still here to share with us; there are still some things he could not imagine that we know are true. When T said to him that the administration of some drugs is done on purpose; he was not willing to accept that, and was saying that the medical people are trying to help.
- We are all responsible, even if we don't think this is so.
 - Chris Hayes was talking about people going along to get along – Thom Hartmann referred to this as treason. It is a very big task: Barack gave a big speech about what is right and wrong with NSA; some people want to see the charges lessened and then let Snowden come back and go to court.
 - Only one other person has been there and it is Daniel Ellsberg: the higher law in this country is that if you see something inside or outside the country that is not done according to law or the constitution, it is your DUTY to speak out: to not speak out puts you in collusion with the perpetrators. Ellsberg says Snowden is NOT a traitor!
- St Germain has never died, and these abilities are our abilities. Jeshu did not quite meet the grave, yet his father did [St Germain]. In this lifetime, as the 7th initiation and incarnation and embodiment of the teaching: King of Swords is Sananda Kumara's ray of wisdom in a physical form with the mission of completing what was not completed 2,000 years ago
- Brings up the story of turing in dinars [at the original purchase price] for gold or silver – yes, you can turn your dinars in and get American Eagles or Canadian silver Maple Leafs – might be wise to cash these in because we know the dinars will never be used to be cashed in for an exchange rate:
- THIS IS NOT ABOUT MONEY! And why is this? We have Sananda Kumara, in a body, on the planet, in a unique form as KOS to take the 7th incarnation to completion: we have the NEW SARA law, the first born child of Magdalene and Jeshu from the 6th incarnation and embodiment of the 6th enlightened ray of wisdom.
- There were 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 5th, incarnations: the soul came in and anchored the teachings so that the entire civilization at that time could advance; there were backwards steps and the largest one was in time of Atlantis when we took biggest step back from the 5th dimension to the 2nd – some being have only 1.5 strands of DNA and even less!!!!
- When T had her broken neck, she lived for 2 years at the 4 Corners and worked with Sherry Edwards who was an ET; all fallen angelic presences come to earth to heal.
 - Even though we remained neutral, we experienced the fall: no one is left behind in the truth of it.
 - How can some people get some money when that is impossible – some going ahead of the others? This is about all of us going forward together

- This week, Cynthia spend 4.5 hours saying WHAT DO YOU WANT? She was saying “go deeper” every time they came back to discuss: what we want is for EVERYONE! War no more does not mean one person keeps a gun – it is all or nothing, and it can be in the twinkling of an eye!
 - People who say “I don't do politics” – sorry: the polity that we are means we have the responsibility to determine what happens next, and everyone in this country which is Egypt [the book The Rocks Cry Out has that wisdom: if we do not know who we are, we do not know what we want!!!] has the responsibility to know what is going on and to participate.

Full Moon in Cancer today! The message is to FEEL it! And with this one it is also to SHOW it, SHARE it, and LET GO of it! Challenges can help us to get real with ourselves, our limits, our humanity and then to bond and unite with others emotionally and build new relationships, nests, and support systems. On the lookout for those who want to control, manipulate or shame us, it is time to stand up for ourselves (and those close to us). Don't back down.... go for it!

PS. Thanks to <http://jenstarandheraura.com/> for the music and AliSandra Bennett for the pic!

Richard: until Mars goes direct until May 19th. does not seem like much relief!

- Pluto goes retrograde just before the Lunar eclipse in April 15th – this is all a test!
- We don't get to skip anything!!!!!!!
- Last day of February is a new moon: will be at 11* Aquarius

Cancer Full Moon Nurturing Reflection Meditation

Element: Full Moon in Cancer, Water • Sun in Capricorn, Earth

Exact: January 15 – 11:52pm Eastern

Window: January 14-16

The Full Moon in Cancer shines a spotlight on areas in your life that need nurturing, tender loving care, and emotional tending. As the Capricorn sun reminds you to structure your goals, craft the year ahead, and handle administrative duties, the Cancer moon reminds you to lovingly nurture all that's growing in your life.

The element of Water frequently functions as a mirror, inviting you to notice what your life is reflecting back to you. It reveals what needs tending in your emotional world. The darker days of winter can give you time to go inside yourself and tend to your emotions. Is there buried grief that needs releasing, joy that needs room to dance and move, or soul expression that needs time to create? This full moon brings a wonderful opportunity to connect with what nurtures you on the deepest levels of your being so you can fill yourself up for the growing cycle ahead.

Are there ways you need to nurture your body, your children, your relationships, your business, your home, or your projects? Cancer asks you to explore your inner terrain in ways that support, love, and bring comfort to all areas of your life. If you are not taking the time you need to do this now, you might experience frustration or misaligned energy. If you notice this type of energy coming into your life, take the time to ask yourself, "How do I need to apply nurturing in this situation, to myself and/or those around me?"

A great way to nurture yourself or others is to slather true appreciation all around your life, especially taking the time to appreciate all the things in life that bring comfort: a fire on a cold night, a cozy bed, a soothing cup of hot tea, the embrace of a loved one, nourishing food, or a hot bath. And then appreciate all the people in your life by telling each of them 4-5 things you sincerely appreciate in them.

Choose the one or two ideas you need most to work with, then focus on those. Intentions function best when there are only one or two to concentrate on in any cycle.

Personal Action Suggestions for Cancer Full Moon:

- Create personal time to feel your emotions and connect to your soul expression.
- Appreciate the blessings in your world, no matter their size.
- Nurture yourself, and then the others around you.
- Curl up, get cozy, drink hot chocolate or tea, take a hot bath, nourish yourself.
- Connect to your inner child.
- Make a nourishing meal or yummy pot of soup.

- Sit in the light of the moon, and ask for guidance on how you need to nurture yourself.

Business/Professional Action Suggestions Cancer Full Moon:

- Connect to how your business needs to be nurtured in order to grow.
- Appreciate your customers and those you work with.
- Notice ways you can apply more soul to your work environment.
- Can you nurture yourself more in relation to your work? If so, how?
- What areas of your work life (or business life) need more love?
- Are there ways your business could care more for the environment?
- Are there ways your business could make a greater contribution to caring for others?

Conference Call:

- In answer to the question “How long, O Lord, How Long?” Rainbird remembered that in May or June 2011, Mother said that it will begin when the man with the 2 Jesus names shows up.

Caller: Speaks about Doreen Virtue and her look at 2014, on You Tube

- Also about latest nfo on www.DavidIcke.com – peoplesvoice.TV program.com

- Len reports that JPMorgan's profits went down 50% - from BBC -

- Also, a BBC reporter has died in his apartment in London: no idea of what it happened.

Caller: Tom Coburn is retiring this term, also a 2nd Repub from CA.

Caller: Findhorn – have a game out “The Transformation Game” - the ultimate Tarot game: it has 4 levels and is about the future: set up with different insights – have to graduate from the physical, emotional, mental and spiritual levels: have to order it on line.

T: the power of our pure intention, put out into the world on a daily basis, is absolutely necessary – it helps everyone!

- The members of Congress are not showing up: can see the absent seats when go to C-Span –
 - they cannot do this on the State of the Union: it's a crime! In the eyes of the world, the expectation is that they will show up –
 - and everyone knows these ones are criminals: why not arrest them that night?

Music: all of it is very uplifting!!! Peter, Paul and Mary - 25th anniversary concert

Audio: Angel Messages for 2014 with Doreen Virtue

https://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=player_detailpage&v=qMx1z1qH2Zg

Published on 31 Dec 2013 A 30-minute video of Doreen Virtue giving messages about 2014, a 12-month angel card reading, and a guided meditation to help you to have more confidence to move forward with your priorities in the new year.

Our thoughts create our reality, and we can lift things up: 2014 looks like it will be much better: 2013 was a year of balancing. We will focus on what is really important to us, ignore distractions. We'll have the peace of mind to focus on our priorities. The word for the year is SIMPLIFICATION: clearing up physical clutter so the emotional clutter will follow; looking at all our relationships in all areas of our lives: space clearing, and all other kinds of clearing. Trust our Higher Self to guide us

There is corruption still going on, a clash of light and dark; we can now see through what is happening now: part of our 2014 is seeing the truth, our INDIGO part; there will be a continuation of activation. The geo-engineering of weather is man-made, not god-made and lots of countries will get outraged about this: more people will speak out against HAARP and other things – the year to take charge and simplify: getting rid of distractions.

January – 11 – Strength: what are the blessings of what happened in 2013? Getting mind stronger through meditation and getting body stronger: no matter how busy, can carve out at least 5 minutes a day: close your eyes for 5 minutes

February – 14 – solutions: having patience with self, drawing on the strength we have; getting rid of distractions and taking charge

March – 6 of Michael – will feel that things are getting better; all the things we've been working on tie together

April – 10 - the wheel- it is a fast-moving card; in Chinese astrology, this is the year of the green wooden horse; it also has to do with being fast moving!

May – 2 The high priestess – about clairvoyance, trusting the gut and trusting the messages that come through; as you do this, you are the high priest or high priestess: those guided to be a spiritual healer or teacher, you will feel ready, finally! Will get teaching opportunities et al

June – 8 of Aerial – things will go fast; will be working, not going on vacation: you will be so happy to do this job, you won't want to go on vacation!

July – 12 Perspective – AA Chamuel; allowing self to be eccentric and authentic; being proud that you are so-called weird: just be different and let true personality come out – this is also a key to success! Trying to be someone else dampens your power, your strength, your attractiveness; stop caring what others think!

August – 19 The sun – AA Uriel – this card deck like all tarot decks recognized the shadow side of life, yet this year so far is like the Midas touch!

September – 7 of Raphael – time to make a decision; to let go: detoxification, if we find we are doing so well, that that means your teaching career, artistic career whatever is doing so well, can let go of day job 1

October – 20 New Beginnings – AA Jophiel - starting a new life, finding your purpose, compassionate review of past – just be willing to let go

November - 7 of Gabriel – standing up for what you believe in: this card says we are on the right path for our own life purpose! Beautiful painting of her soaring!

December – 4 of Gabriel – time for celebration, reward for all your hard work. we will literally be dancing with happiness.

The angels have also taught her that it is not enough to do the work; we also have to be willing to receive too – giving and receiving are equally important. The inhale is as important as the exhale.

Closing Meditation:

Audio: a Sami lady, singer – the story of Avatar is just too real: her people do not have such a happy ending. On the tundra, you have to know when to move, when to wait, and follow the weather – have to follow nature.

Audio: from Persia about a musician

Audio: Democracy Now - Sol Landau died about 4 months ago – film maker, writer

Audio: Max Keiser Episode 555 2014, Jan 19, 2014

Max Keiser and Stacy Herbert discuss Bitcoin 2.0. The currency application of Bitcoin was version 1.0, now there are dozens of new and innovative ideas riding the blockchain and, in the process, creating Capitalism 2.0. In the second half, Max interviews Reggie Middleton of BoomBustBlog.com about his own Bitcoin 2.0 application for hedging. Reggie says that if Bitcoin were a car, it would be one which also comes with its own road and which can go faster than any other car on the road and pay no tolls - it is an intelligent currency, unlike dumb fiat.

INFORMATION RELATED TO THE NOTES

2014, Jan 18 Up With Steve Kornacki, 1/18/14, 9:17 AM ET

2014, Jan 18 Christie camp held Sandy relief money hostage, mayor alleges

By Steve Kornacki

Two senior members of Gov. Chris Christie's administration warned a New Jersey mayor earlier this year that her town would be starved of hurricane relief money unless she approved a lucrative redevelopment plan favored by the governor, according to the mayor and emails and personal notes she shared with msnbc.

The mayor, Dawn Zimmer, hasn't approved the project, but she did request $127 million in hurricane relief for her city of Hoboken – 80% of which was underwater after Sandy hit in October 2012. What she got was $142,000 to defray the cost of a single back-up generator plus an additional $200,000 in recovery grants.

In an exclusive interview, Zimmer broke her silence and named Lt. Gov. Kim Guadagno and Richard Constable, Christie's community affairs commissioner, as the two officials who delivered messages on behalf of a governor she had long supported.

"The bottom line is, it's not fair for the governor to hold Sandy funds hostage for the City of Hoboken because he wants me to give back to one private developer," she said Saturday on UP w/ Steve Kornacki. "... I know it's very complicated for the public to really understand all of this, but I have a legal obligation to follow the law, to bring balanced development to Hoboken."

Constable and Christie – through spokespersons – deny Zimmer's claims.

"Mayor Zimmer has been effusive in her public praise of the Governor's Office and the assistance we've provided in terms of economic development and Sandy aid," Christie spokesman Michael Drewniak wrote in a statement. "What or who is driving her only now to say such outlandishly false things is anyone's guess."

Christie's office later issued a second statement attacking MSNBC. "MSNBC is a partisan network that has been openly hostile to Governor Christie and almost gleeful in their efforts attacking him, even taking the unprecedented step of producing and airing a nearly three-minute attack ad against him this week," spokesman Colin Reed said.

Zimmer's statements and documentation suggest that Christie's administration – hailed for what seemed like a heroic response to Hurricane Sandy – in fact refused to help some of the neediest.

"I'd be more than willing to testify under oath and – and answer any questions and provide any documents, take a lie detector test," Zimmer said, referring to the Christie administration's denials. "And, you know, my question back to them is, 'Would all of you? Would all of you be willing do that same thing, to testify under oath, to take a lie detector test?'"

Zimmer's interview comes on the heels of a scandal in which other members of Christie's inner circle conspired to create huge traffic swells, possibly in an act of political retribution, on another New Jersey town on the outskirts of Manhattan.

Christie, who sailed to re-election last year and has made no secret of his presidential ambitions, has denied any knowledge of the plot that shut down lanes at the foot of the George Washington Bridge, one of the most heavily trafficked in the country. His office and several former senior aides are currently the subject of a number of federal and state inquiries into what has become known as “Bridge-gate.”

In this account – supported by email, public records and Zimmer’s own diary entries – Christie’s inner circle was willing to cut off devastated constituents, muscle a friendly mayor and arrange public funds to finance a study for a project the governor supported. In a news conference last week, Christie rejected the notion that his administration engages in retribution or seeks political payback. Zimmer’s account paints a different portrait.

Zimmer claims they leaned on her twice to get their way. By the second encounter, Zimmer said – this time with Constable – the 45-year-old mayor and mother of two young children was despondent, according to her own notes.

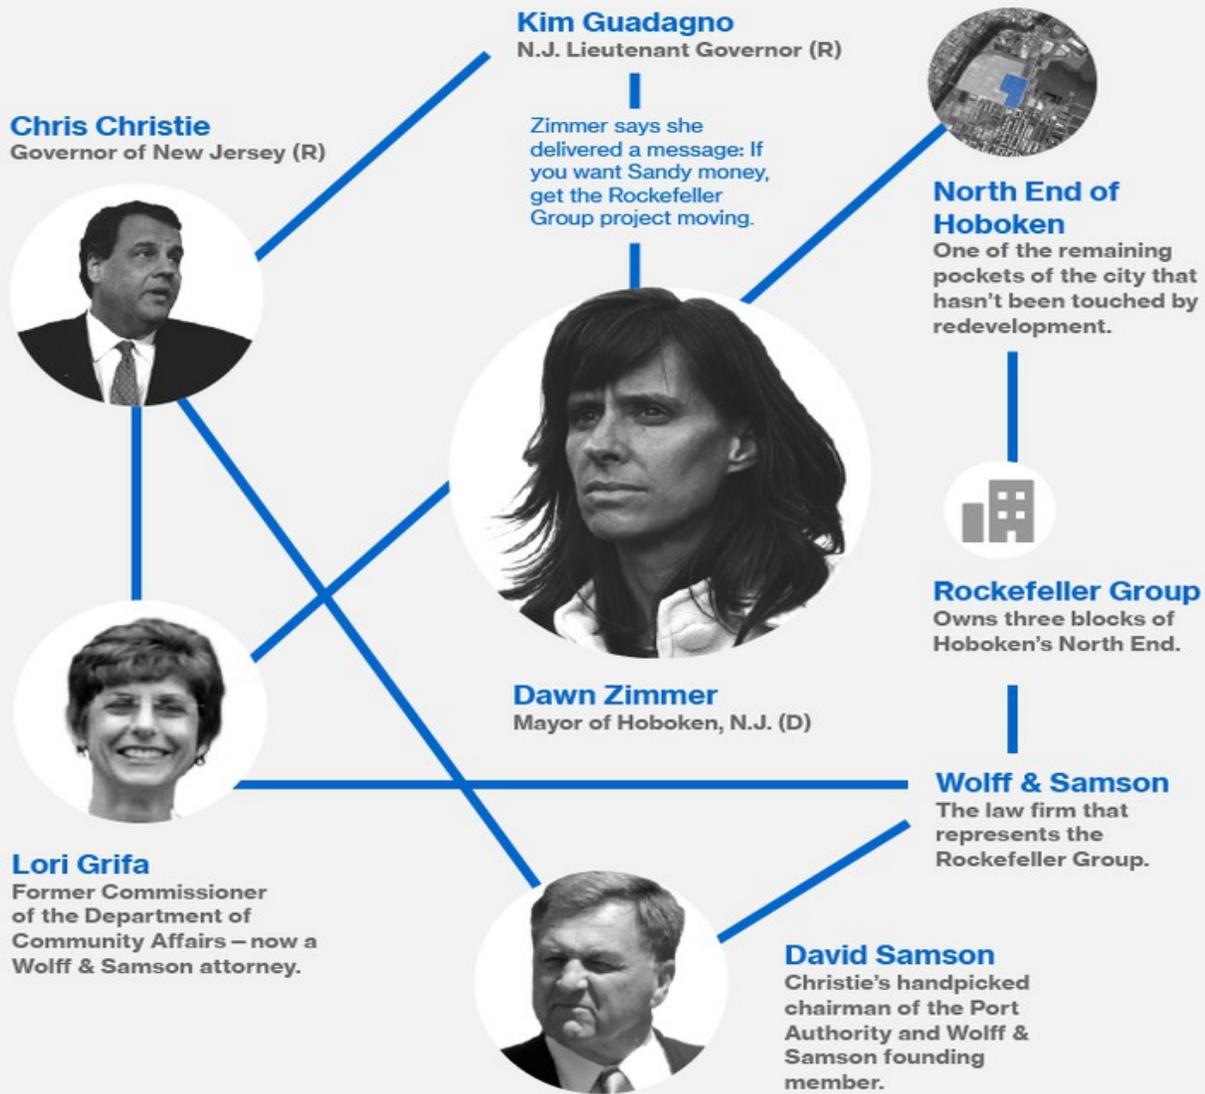

“I was emotional about governor Christie,” she wrote in a diary entry she provided that is dated May 17, 2013. “I thought he was honest. I thought he was moral. I thought he was something very different. This week I found out he’s cut from the same corrupt cloth that I have been fighting for the last four years.”

New Jersey Democratic Rep. Frank Pallone told UP Saturday that Zimmer’s accusations suggest an “abuse of power” by the Christie administration. “This is something that the U.S. attorney should be looking at, and has to be further investigated,” he said.

Zimmer and Christie

Among the great ironies in the latest claims about the New Jersey governor is that without Christie, Zimmer would not likely have become the mayor of Hoboken.

Hoboken, N.J., Mayor Dawn Zimmer reveals a startling connection between Gov. Chris Christie's administration and his inner political circle. It is a complex web that allegedly implies Zimmer's city must expedite a development project – which happens to be represented by Wolff & Samson, the law firm of David Samson, Chris Christie's Port Authority chairman – or risk not receiving Hurricane Sandy relief funds.

What pole-vaulted her to the Mayor's Office was a corruption scandal five years ago that enveloped a number of New Jersey politicians, including Zimmer's predecessor. The investigation, which netted high profile convictions, was launched by the U.S. Attorney's office then led by Christie. By the time of the arrests in 2009, Christie had already resigned from office to run for governor. But it helped boost his image as tough on corruption and crime.

For Zimmer, it was a welcome sign for New Jersey's future and while she is a Democrat, she became a Christie supporter.

Swept into office from the city council, Zimmer inherited preliminary plans for a redevelopment project supported by the previous mayor.

The deal, as envisioned in 2008, would have awarded the Rockefeller Group – a New York developer – the right to redevelop a stretch of Hoboken. The project would have been eligible for tax incentives and it would have given the Rockefeller Group a much freer hand to build whatever they wanted while asking for millions in subsidies. If done right, it would have been an immensely lucrative deal in a town that has become a hip bedroom community of Manhattan.

Zimmer wasn't against the deal but she wanted a professional study done on the projected development. The problem was that Hoboken's finances were in disarray and she wanted to wait until the community was on sounder footing before spending the money for a study.

Zimmer told the Rockefeller Group they'd have to follow the same process as everybody else. That process couldn't start until the city had enough money to pay professionals – planners and engineers – to study the issue.

The sides were at an impasse: the Rockefeller Group had big plans for hugely valuable land but Zimmer wasn't moving forward on it yet.

The dispute became public and that's when the Christie administration came in. Lori Grifa, who in 2010 served as Christie's first community affairs commissioner, went to Hoboken that June and told Zimmer the administration might be able to help track down a source to pay for the study.

Soon enough, the Christie administration connected Zimmer to the Port Authority – the same jointly run New Jersey-New York agency that operates the George Washington Bridge, and is littered, on the New Jersey side, with Christie's political appointees.

On Dec. 28, 2010, the Port Authority approved a $75,000 grant for the study but there was a catch. The Port Authority alone would choose the firm that conducted the study. In February 2011, it selected Clarke Caton Hintz – a reputable firm – to carry out the redevelopment study. It took a long time: the rest of 2011 and all through 2012, with Hurricane Sandy slowing things down.

Finally, in January 2013, the firm – which was tasked with evaluating a 19-block area – concluded that only the three blocks in which the Rockefeller Group had an ownership stake were fit for redevelopment.

Zimmer's team was concerned. The landowners for the other 16 blocks were angry. They hired a lawyer who called the study "curious, disturbing and suspect to the say the least."

The Rockefeller Group had its own representation – Wolff & Samson – the most powerful, politically connected law firm in all of New Jersey. It's heavily involved in development deals and it's known for its close, intimate ties to the Christie administration. It is the firm of David Samson, the chairman of the Port Authority, the former attorney general of New Jersey, and a Christie appointee who's coming under increasing scrutiny in the Bridge-gate scandal.

The firm is also now the professional home of Lori Grifa, the former Christie aide who now lobbies on behalf of the Rockefeller Group.

"Our client, The Rockefeller Group, has specifically asked us to speak with you regarding its property in Hoboken," Grifa emailed an attorney employed by Hoboken in early 2012.

Over many months, Grifa kept up the heat on Hoboken, with calls and email pressing for a decision on the project.

By April 5, 2013, Joe Marazati, the Hoboken lawyer, wrote to Zimmer's director of community development. "I am getting the full court press on this," Marazati wrote in an email. "I have a voice mail from last night from Lori asking that I join a call this am with Lori and Dave Samson (chair of the PA) or suggest another time."

Email obtained by msnbc shows a raft of exchanges between the town of Hoboken and the law firm until May 8 when the Hoboken Planning Board voted 4-3 against the project, finding "insufficient evidence" to designate those three blocks for redevelopment.

Instead, the board declared the entire 19 block area "in need of rehabilitation." The designation didn't make it impossible for the Rockefeller Group to get what it wanted but it was a strong signal that Zimmer's team wasn't going to roll over for them.

In a statement to msnbc, a spokesman for the Rockefeller Group said: "We have no knowledge of any information pertaining to this allegation. If it turns out to be true it would be deplorable."

Sandy Aid

At the same time that the planning board voted against the study, Zimmer was applying for funding from the Hazard Mitigation Grant Program, a huge vault of money overseen by Christie to help communities hit hard by Sandy prepare themselves for the next storm.

After Sandy hit, in Hoboken's darkest hour, Christie came to town and told residents they could count on him.

"I spoke to the mayor this morning, and I told her Hoboken is in the front of my mind, and whenever there's any assistance that's needed here, I'll be here to help.

Christie's people came back with less than 1% of what Hoboken had sought. With $250 million to disburse statewide, just $142,000 went to Hoboken – enough to help defray the cost of one backup generator to power a flood pump. Out of another pool of money for recovery grants – $1.8 billion in all – Hoboken received $200,000. Hoboken is perched above the mouth of the Hudson River, directly across from lower Manhattan. Following Christie's visit, city officials submitted seven letters of intent for around $100 million in funds from programs the state was now running. Among the requests were money for storm surge coastal protection, money to buy properties to be used as open space and money for backup generators.

"Please governor," Zimmer wrote in a letter following the decisions, "we need your help. I have tried to assure Hoboken residents that we would be treated fairly because you have always treated Hoboken fairly in the past."

There was no response to that letter, dated May 8 of last year, the same day the Hoboken Planning Board did not adopt the redevelopment recommendation for the Rockefeller property.

Two days later, Zimmer got a call from the Lieutenant Governor, Kim Guadagno, who wanted to come to town to do an event at a ShopRite to spotlight businesses that had recovered from the storm.

On May 13, Guadagno and Zimmer met at the Hoboken ShopRite. That is where, Zimmer said, Guadagno delivered the first message about the relief aide.

Zimmer shared this diary entry which she said she wrote later that day. “At the end of a big tour of ShopRite and meeting, she pulls me aside with no one else around and says that I need to move forward with the Rockefeller project. It is very important to the governor. The word is that you are against it and you need to move forward or we are not going to be able to help you. I know it’s not right – these things should not be connected – but they are, she says, and if you tell anyone, I will deny it.”

The second warning, according to Zimmer, came four days later. She and Constable, who now led Christie’s department of community affairs, were seated together on stage for a for a NJTV public television special on Sandy Recovery.

Again, Zimmer provided this diary entry from May 17, which she said captured the incident.

“We are mic’ed up with other panelists all around us and probably the sound team is listening. And he says “I hear you are against the Rockefeller project”. I reply “I am not against the Rockefeller project; in fact I want more commercial development in Hoboken.” “Oh really? Everyone in the State House believes you are against it – the buzz is that you are against it. If you move that forward, the money would start flowing to you” he tells me.

Lisa M. Ryan, spokeswoman for Constable, said in a statement: “Mayor Zimmer’s allegation that on May 16, 2013, Commissioner Constable conditioned Hoboken’s receipt of Sandy aid on her moving forward with a development project is categorically false.”

Publicly, Zimmer has not spoken out against either Constable or Christie and the governor’s office was quick to point to two supportive tweets she wrote about the governor.

In the diary entry she shared, Zimmer concluded with these lines:

“My beloved governor who wants to run for President. I cannot understand it. Why is he so concerned about Rockefeller? What has he promised them? What have they promised him? I cannot figure it out but I have no option but to stand up to him.”
