

Analogical worlds for a library?

11-14 JUNE 2017/
INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL/
DOKK1/ AARHUS/ DENMARK

Seeking inspiration in analogical worlds is an effective creative method. The key is to find other worlds that have the same kind of problems and to be inspired by how they have been creative. Who else needs to have products stored, ready for the user? McDonalds solved this by making highly standardised products such as the Big Mac Menu and the Happy Meal. So one idea could be to make standardised bags with books/multimedia for special occasions like family summer trip, single during Christmas, or children's first reads ...

www.christianbyrge.com

QUOTE OF THE DAY:

'it's not just about simply organising knowledge, it's also about organising the community'

Peter MacLeod / #nextlibrary2017

Jeff Nyoka, Public Libraries in Johannesburg, South Africa.
Pick up the prize at NL Studio!

next library daily

important info

- Dinner & Dance Party: 6 pm. Walking distance from Dokk1 to location: Værkmestergade 9, 8000 Aarhus C
- Join the group to help and find each other: facebook.com/groups/nextlibrary2017
- Check out the program: nextlibrary.net/program-2017

tuesday
june 13

impressions monday

tuesday June 13

8–9 am	Coffee Time! (Note: Dokk1 is not open until 08.00)
9–10:30 am	Welcome to day 2 Keynote: HRH Princess Laurentien of the Netherlands	Intro to parallel sessions and Ignite Talks Let's get started: Christian Byrge	Main hall
11 am–12:30 pm	8 PARALLEL SESSIONS:
	Library as retreat space	Julka Almquist, Jeppe Knudsen, Sara Bindeballe, Marianne Krogbæk	The box
	Making online learning work for your communities	Chris Coward, Purity Mutuku, Grif Peterson, Andrea Saenz, Jason Yip	Black box
	Open data mon amour	Luke Burton, Aude Charillon	U1
	Connection through Collection	Rob Bruijnzeels, Sue Lawson, Joyce Sternheim, Richard Veevers	CFIA
	Digital Publishing Toolkit for libraries and beyond	Catalina Holguín, digital editor	M2
	Eat this workshop	Liz Fitzgerald, Suzanna Urminska, Jamie Bowers	Tweens lab
	Place it	Olof Torgersson, Midas Nouwens, Eva Eriksson	2017
	Ignite Next Library Talks	www.nextlibrary.net/ignite-2017	Main hall
12:30–1:30 pm	Lunch boxes		2017 Area
1:30–3 pm	7 PARALLEL SESSIONS
	Library as retreat space	Julka Almquist, Jeppe Knudsen, Sara Bindeballe, Marianne Krogbæk	The box
	Making online learning work for your communities	Chris Coward, Purity Mutuku, Grif Peterson, Andrea Saenz, Jason Yip	Black box
	Open data mon amour	Luke Burton, Aude Charillon	U1
	Connection through Collection	Rob Bruijnzeels, Sue Lawson, Joyce Sternheim, Richard Veevers	CFIA
	Digital Publishing Toolkit for libraries and beyond	Catalina Holguín, digital editor	M2
	Place it	Olof Torgersson, Midas Nouwens, Eva Eriksson	2017
	Christian Byrge		The Ramp
	Ignite Next Library Talks	www.nextlibrary.net/ignite-2017	Main hall
3:30–4 pm	The Joy Of Reading Award Ceremony		Main hall
4–4:30 pm	Practical Information		Main hall
6 pm–1 am	Next Library Dinner & Dance Party	Dinner, wine, beer and water ad lib.

SPONSORS

Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation
EIFL: Electronic Information for Libraries
Knight Foundation
EBLIDA
Systematic
Danish Library Association
Danish School of Media and Journalism
Alexandra Institute

Aarhus University
CAVI – Aarhus University
Lammhults Biblioteksdesign / BCI
Arkitema Architects
Ramboll
Redia
Wizefloor
Berlin Central & Regional Library
Billund Library

Herring Libraries
Silkeborg Libraries
The Nordic Halmstad Conference Group
Silkeborg Libraries
The Nordic Halmstad Conference Group
Aarhus 2017 European Capital of Culture
Main Sponsor: DBC

instagram / pic of the day

meet the winners

EIFL and Next Library are delighted to present the winners of seven scholarships to attend Next Library Festival. Each of the seven winners will participate in the festival by helping to shape the programme, and share experiences and ideas. They will also inform their colleagues and communities about the festival through social media, presentations and other channels. We asked them what they would bring to the table at Next Library and what they expect to take back from the conference to use in their future work. Every day of the Festival you will meet some of them here in the Next Library Daily.

Purity Kavuri-Mutuku, Senior Librarian at Nakuru Public Library in Nakuru, capital of Nakuru County in Kenya.

The experience and impact of Kenya National Library Service – Nakuru mathematics digital learning program for primary school children supported by Electronic Information for Libraries (EIFL) Public Library Innovation Programme. The program uses ICT to bridge the digital divide for children from public primary schools to interact with technology. The online Maths-Whizz program which is pre-loaded with the approved Kenya Primary School Mathematics Curriculum, supports access to quality education and help children improve their performance. I will share program implementation, challenges conquered including lack of basic computer skills and the need to partner with the county government for successful implementation during the interactive session, inspired by a library.

I am eager to learn about the emerging trends in community libraries, how to engage the community, build strategic partnerships and promote literacy at all levels. I expect to go back to my country as an agent of change having been fully enlightened on innovative ideas and best practices that supports the Sustainable Development Goals. I believe what has worked for another country or library can also work for my beloved country. I also expect to network and make sustainable friendships/contacts for future collaborations. At the end my passion for innovation will be re-energized.

Biljana Kochishka, Senior Librarian, Dept. for International Cooperation, Skopje City Library Braka Miladinovci, Macedonia.

My Library is the largest public library in Macedonia, but not the best one. Problems regarding political matters in culture and education is problematic to our work. As an example, there has been three different directors with no experience of library work. Employees at the library have to struggle for their projects. So we decided to make a campaign for raising awareness about the importance of libraries in the community. At first, it was on local level but in cooperation with all libraries in Macedonia it is rising to a national level. We made a film about libraries with all directors, previous and present, writers, singers, students, children, parents, all of them with their story of connection with the library. We got public attention about the importance of the library as an institution without politics in their work. The campaign had a strong impact on the public and drew the attention of state and local authorities to change their policy towards de-politicization, not only for libraries but for all cultural institutions.

In my country there is a lack of professionalism in library work in terms of innovation and new library trends. Libraries are still at the level of services of lending books and rarely other types of events. Studies of Library and Information Technology were established just four years ago and only now top students graduate. Such opportunities for attending conferences and trainings like Next Library are the best opportunities to transfer newly acquired experiences to colleagues in libraries. Once a year we organize a convention of librarians where experiences from conferences and training abroad are presented. Guests from other libraries in the region are invited to transmit new ideas and trends from their libraries. When I return from this conference, my first task is to give a presentation and to convey my experiences.

#nextlibrary2017

