

Captain KAREN KAHN Speaker Pilot Author

---

Having spent the last 30+ years at 30,000 feet with other people's lives in her hands, Captain Kahn certainly has mastered the art of confidence. Today, as an inspirational speaker, author, career counselor, environmental activist and one of the few pioneering female pilots still working, she is inspiring others to harness their inner Captain and soar through their careers.

“Retirees and others who are considering re-entering the workforce, need to remember that desire, determination and persistence matter most. However, many younger job competitors will not possess the same level of maturity. This is a bonus skill that should be highlighted in the search process.”

-Captain Kahn

Using Age to Your Advantage

Delaying Retirement – or – Re-entering the workforce

- Letting your Experience give you Credibility
Communicating experience without condescension
- Applying your Experience to the Present
Your skills are still valuable
Diligence and Knowledge are never outdated
- Show your Confidence
Your knowledge is greater; show it without talking down
- Using your Network
You've had more time to develop contacts – use them!
- Keeping Realistic
Don't expect to come in at the top
An employer will respect patience

For more information or to order a copy of Flight Guide for Success, please visit
CaptainKarenKahn.com