General presentation

Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) is an international medical humanitarian organization that provides assistance to populations in distress, victims of natural or man-made disasters and armed conflict in more than 65 countries worldwide. MSF’s mandate is to save lives and alleviate suffering by working directly with those in need, regardless of race, religion, ethnicity, gender, political affiliation or any other factor. The organization was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1999.

In Myanmar, MSF has been working since 1992 and is currently providing healthcare in Shan, Rakhine, and Kachin states, as well as Yangon and Thanintharyi regions. Over 1,000 international and national staff work closely together to provide high-quality care and treatment through a network of health centres, health posts and mobile clinics. The teams are made up of highly qualified medical staff, administrators, coordinators and experts in various medical, logistics, water and sanitation fields.

Field Context

The Kachin Project, averaging 300 national and international staff, is based in Myitkyina, Kachin State. Currently there are MSF clinics in four sites in addition to Myitkyina: Moe Gaung, Bhamo, Phakant and Laiza.
