SALCC Web Forum – September 20 (Ginger)

- The SALCC will have its monthly Third Thursday Web Forum on September 20th at 10:00 am. The main presentation will be Natural Resources Indicators of the South Atlantic – An Update by Rua Mordecai and Hilary Cole from the SALCC and NCSU. For more information on the SALCC Web Forum and to attend, look here.

Conservation Planning Atlas Pilot Project to Begin (Amy)

- The SALCC is working on launching its new Conservation Planning Atlas using Databasin as a platform. We are looking for users to give it a test run and give us feedback on the project. If you would like to volunteer or know someone who might be interested, please contact Amy.

Taking WaSSI to Vienna (Pete)

- The Water Stress and Supply Index (WaSSI) Ecosystem Services Model can be used to project the effects of forest land cover change, climate change, and water withdrawals on river flows, water supply stress, and ecosystem productivity. Pete will be presenting on WaSSI and at the Hydro Predict conference in Vienna, Austria September 24 - 27.

New book on global change models (Mark)

- National Academies of Science has a new book out on global climate models and needs for the future: A National Strategy for Advancing Climate Modeling.

National Ecosystems Services Partnership (Dean)

- The National Ecosystem Services Partnership (NESP) engages both public and private individuals and organizations to enhance collaboration within the ecosystem services community and to strengthen coordination of policy and market implementation and research at the national level.
