Hello, my name is Derek. Do you want to go to the prom?

(I will explain why I just asked you to the prom later)

But for now... Who am I?
I am an expert in marriage, finance, communication, relationships, storytelling, speaking, writing, personal development, time management, life balance, physical fitness, education, and most importantly I am the expert at pulling your leg.

I like to think that we are all experts when it comes to life. I just happen to enjoy telling large crowds of people about my many mistakes, my on-going challenges, and a few of the lessons I have learned so far.

I have come to my own conclusions when it comes to these areas of life and believe it or not, people have said that they enjoy hearing me talk about them.

Enough about me, how can I help you?
Are you looking for a dynamic speaker to support your goals and help make your event successful and memorable? If your message and my unique style are a match, I’d love to hear more about your goals and discuss how I can contribute to the mission of your event.
