

Workshop Title:

Making Disciple Makers: Isn't this the why of planting new churches?

Workshop Description:

Did you know that there were 1,059 new faith communities started by United Methodists in the United States from 2008-2016? Accordingly, these new churches had almost 100,000 people in average worship attendance last year. Want to help us reach the next 100,000? In this interactive session, participants will learn from the successes and failures of church planting, and will carry these transferable principles back to their ministry setting to drive contextual ministry practices, innovation in community engagement, and empowerment of disciples making disciples that leads to the birth of new communities of faith. Each participant will receive a FREE Resource from Path 1, including a copy of the Executive Summary of the Lewis Center for Church Leadership Report on New People through New Places. These church planting resources will guide them in their efforts of making new disciples of Jesus Christ through new places and new ways.
