

Ohio Interfaith Power and Light seeks to mobilize a religious response to climate change and to promote energy conservation, energy efficiency, and renewable energy.

Ohio Interfaith Power and Light (OhIPL) helps faith communities connect with green volunteers, services, and educational resources. OhIPL also provides opportunities to network and fellowship with people from other faith communities who are responding to the climate-change crisis. OhIPL welcomes membership from churches, synagogues, temples, mosques, and other faith communities; or from committees or groups within those bodies.

Faith Community Covenant

Our faith community pledges to support the goals of Ohio Interfaith Power and Light and to do one or more of the following (checkmark each box that applies):

- Engage in an ongoing process of education with our members concerning energy production and usage in relation to climate change.
- Conduct an energy audit of our buildings to identify sources of energy waste and potential financial savings of related energy improvements.
- Make energy efficiency improvements to our buildings.
- Make better use of renewable energy, such as solar and wind power.
- Offset our remaining non-renewable energy consumption by purchasing green power; contributing to a wind turbine fund; or supporting other alternative, efficient, or renewable energy sources.
- Support public policies that contribute to our goals.
