HARD NEWS • •

T: we're living in the best and the worst of times

- got on video that the Israelis killed Palestinians, and put knives beside the bodies as those who were killed carried no knives.
- There is no reasonableness being spoken by Netanyahu
- John Kerry is part of the machine; there was a meeting about Syria in Vienna with Russia and Turkey & John Kerry; they did not invite Iran because of the problem with the Saudis who have become much more hostile lately; it's not about Iran but the Saudis are the Black Ops' biggest option to keep things alive and well
- T & R get calls or e-mails every day saying they are coo coo and don't know what they are talking about!

R: says the gold lining to the story is that gas is $1.87 in Santa Fe – the Saudi princes will be crying about "Brother can you spare a dime?" pretty soon!

- Keshe said by the 26th as the appropriate ambassadors have not called for their kits that include instructions on how to build the equipment for their people, he will be making things available to all people.
  - A small group of people will be getting hold of the equipment and making it in the US – and T & R will keep track of what is happening so we can get one, too
  - T has had calls from people saying they are master plumbers, for example, and can they get one
- Just remember: all the corporate fascists, including the media, starting with Fox News and Murdoch who will have a $0 in his accounts – they will get the death penalty for being fake and liars.

R: Moonwise, a program on radio today: Mary Lynn LaBlanc talking about the aspects of the astrology now and how it is affecting the situation on the planet – as heard from Carl Boudreau and Kaypacha, there is a lot of gold lining to the story; but also for the next 2-3 weeks, will get worse before it gets better.

- It's the culmination of all the astrological events - the ripples from the Blood Moon go across the universe and get stronger and stronger;
R brings it back to the realm where Star Fleet Academy is right in our future, right now. Things are coming out that are so awesome, and also the most horrendous stories

T: in the Czech republic, actually chaining, beating people: refugees are being beaten and starved – please send light to the situation.

- There is too little too late from all the governments around the world.

- Myanmar: have incredible jade; the US lifted the sanctions – the former military junta was replaced by a so-called democracy – change is not happening;
  - the former military junta guys are terrorizing the land and the people, and digging up the jade – a $30 billion business annually, half of the country's GDP;
  - The poor people are digging through the piles of dirt, looking for what has been missed – and they are being killed!
  - no one is taking care of things like roads and any other infrastructure; the people are poorer than ever - put them in the Circle of Support.

- Brings up Dr Greer's workshop in DC on Nov 21st -

Published on Sep 20, 2015

You are invited to join Dr. Steven Greer- founder of the world-wide Disclosure movement and CE-5 Initiation and creator of "Sirius", the historic documentary- for an evening of amazing information on never -before heard revelations on briefings and contact initiatives in Europe.

These include:

- Briefings for European royal families and Government officials in the UK, Monaco, France, the Vatican and Liechtenstein
- Senior French Ministry of Defense and Intelligence initiatives for CE-5 contact events in France and never-before seen documents from the French Government- the most important UFO documents in existence!
- He will discuss the CE-5 Contact event in France with ET craft confirmed on radar over CE-5 Contact Site at over 200,000 kilometers per hour- and one that appeared partially materialized in the contact field
- The future of Disclosure and Contact in Europe and the world- and how you can play a key role in the beginning of a new civilization on earth!

- Before Nov 14th, Bernie Sanders is going to make a speech on Democratic Socialism
- the intentional murder going on in the US is sky rocketing; if anyone is not clear about things not happening in a small-d democratic way, no stone is being left unturned to let us know what is really happening.

Audio: about Allan Dulles - a mason and a member of the Order of the Golden Dawn.

Democracy Now: Allan Dulles and the Rise of the CIA

2015-10-13 The Rise of America's Secret Government: The Deadly Legacy of Ex-CIA Director Allen Dulles

T: In all practical terms, since Clinton got into office, when the Bushes got into power; she was a partner of Bush Sr and Jr; she gives the orders to Brennan or whomever runs the CIA, and she answers to her archonic higher ups.

2015-10-13 The Rise of America's Secret Government: The Deadly Legacy of Ex-CIA Director Allen Dulles Pt. 2

CONFERENCE CALL

15 participants at the start

C1:

T tells caller that the Ashtar on the Road calls are 2nd & 4th Tuesdays of a month; if there is a longer month, there is a bit of a mutation

C1: the intensity of the energies is really picking up; people perpetrating acts against others do not know what is happening to them [the perpetrators]

C2: cities in the sky – Commander Randy posted something about this: cities in China, California and somewhere else: they appears as shadows – are like portals – can be seen from the ground: like a city sitting on a cloud! LOOK IT UP ON 2013 RAINBOW ROUND TABLE.

- Talks of the increase of people fighting in his area – something is imminent

Floating City Over California, China and UK: This New Image May Help Solve the Mystery

Video footage of what look like shadowy skyscrapers forming in clouds above Foshan in China have gone viral online after Express.co.uk reported the bizarre event. Now a picture of a similar looking mirage in the sky taken at the coastal town in southern England have been posted on Facebook. The weird formation is much further away in the Hastings scene, but a similar skycap can be made out. One was taken by resident Natasha Marie's mother-in-law, who was snapping coastal scenes during sunset.

Whats even more curious tho is the final image. It shows the Exact same Sky City over Orange, California. It was posted on October 20th by @thecolourist On Twitter. This is the EXACT Same Image from the Sky Above China. This Image is KEY! If we confirm its fake, it will say a lot. If we Confirm its Real! BOOOM! There is something Crazy Going On! And i would say its Project Blue Beam!

- T: as David Talbot said who wrote about Dulles – cannot get his book out; yet their plans have been foiled! A week ago, Tom the Cat told Rama that the house of cards had already fallen.
- This is a horror story: in east Jerusalem in the Palestinian area, Netanyahu is killing them mercilessly – they are not going to give up as they have no options. It is not on to incarcerate a whole people and not let them eat or whatever: they WILL rebel
  - the refugees leaving their country because of the leadership are in the same situation.
  - Putin has been given weapons by the Andromedens – the US Black Ops are murdering people in underground bases; they are playing out a play that tries to make Putin as the bad guy.
    - Before this started, Assad and his family have been in power since the 30s; they are part of the Allowite group/religion; they are continuing the murderous pattern [against those they do not like] that was begun when they were the ones being attacked.
  - The galactics have been intervening for generations. The covert CIA went down to Cuba and even though the Castro brothers did not seem like nice people, the US CIA made them assets
    - Abby Martin of Breaking the Set went to Cuba and saw what was going on.
    - A woman from the US went home to Cuba and became a doctor: she lost her father because of the US / CIA; she came back to the US to help others.
    - Last week, they played a video of a man who lost his legs due to the US CIA who ordered the train not to stop, and so he was run over.
  - T is watching people lose it ; people are asking where are the galactics; the galactics really said "Build it and we shall come".
    - Talks of the power of love – love, truth, peace, justice, beauty, freedom, - it's the Law of

Ma'at, of the Office of the Christ, of the Moorish Teachings – as we cut off love, we have lost our ability to remain calm

C3: has news to share and a salute of those of the Office of the Christ on the call

- Caller speaks of the Kennedys: on an independent station: Radio Free Georgia, Robert Kennedy JR was interviewed on yesterday's show
- talked of his campaign against big pharma and especially vaccines. The issue started in 1989 when Congress granted pharmaceutical companies immunity from prosecution by people who were affected negatively due to the use of vaccines. Since then, there has been an increase in mercury in vaccines, and an increase in autism; rate used to be 1 in 2500, and now it is 1 in 68.
- this is Ted Kenedy's nephew who cannot get an interview on any major news network: he led a rally this morning in front of CDC – the vaccines are particularly affecting children of African Americans, especially boys –
- he brought up the fact that his uncle provided legislation that stopped the syphillis – the CDC wanted to see what the effect of syphillis would be from the inception of the disease to the final end: there were 600 African American men infected [at the time of WW2] and they were prevented from enlisting where they would have been treated with penicillin; they infected wives, children. Clinton eventually apologised in the '90s -
- His website robertkennedyjr.com has all the info that major outlets will not let him share.

T: Al Jazeera did interview him last year, but not since then due to more controls having been put on them.

T: this is why they got rid of Kennedy, who is alive and well. The whole thing is wrapping itself up

- it infuriates people: Hillary gets a great name for what she did yesterday, but no one came close to talking about what really is going on.

C3: People cannot internalize it enough: either the galactics, or scripture from 2000 years ago: if your house is on fire, the fire dep't will come and help you put it out – yet we have to take the first steps – any activism we can undertake to help people understand is what we need to engage in

T: and the Faction 3 White Knights also help

C3: and this is hand-to-hand combat at the moment!

T: The white knights are intervening the way they do thanks to the war crimes tribunals that were held around the world – ½ million people have been tried and indicted – the democratic way is not dead at some level, though it looks like it

C1: intervenes to ask for help about putting a wall of light to keep Patricia back

T: it's already over the mountains – on Al Jazeera saw the number of places where people can stay and be safe. It has hit the mountains; what is of concern is the heavy rains in SW Texas – and more stormy weather coming from somewhere else to add to this

C4: names some action groups: indigenouenvironmentalnetwork

pppfreeszone.org – they are with green party and other groups tradeforpeople.org – working to get better trade for the people: they are with thenextsystem.org – all the groups are starting to work together.

- Dennis Kucinich is working on a report with Edward Snowden: freeandequal.org – Christina Tobin

C3: appreciates C4: always hands on and gives practical information

- asks about how Snowden gets his money

R: knows he has help from all over the world;

- Julian Assange is helping, and many are helping Julian
- Chelsea Manning also getting help – and Glenn Greenwald is helping here too
- What is important is that we are all hooked up together – when things come up, we saw

C4: VeteransforPeace – important to help them, even if not a Vet – they are on the move!

Audio: Colorado -

- the gestapo is functioning in Colorado: the CIA set up headquarters in CO because CO was where the legal case was heard about the theft of land from poor white and black farmers - the Farm Claims situation
- Amy Goodman in 2004 was manhandled by the CIA at the Democratic National Convention.
  - The Republican Convention was even worse

T: is challenged due to what Hillary did on Saturday – yet what we heard on the program earlier is also due to Hillary – people who go after her are treated roughly, or removed, or thrown in jail -

- In response to a question about Joe Biden not running: it is more orchestrated than that: Joe lost wife and daughter because of her, and also Beau – and Joe knows it. He is hooked because he did 9/11 – same as John Kerry

C4: Berniesanders.com – 7 pm – get to universities and get their political science groups to step it up – it is about no tuition fees.

T: And he will also be teaching what democratic socialism is all about – they have no idea of what it is about. We only have 75 programs that are “socialist” - vets, medicaid, social security, libraries, etc

C4: a good outreach to go to libraries – have them show the program on live stream

T: or show it for free in a library after the speech is done. This kind of info needs to go to jr / sr high schools too

C4: also Bernie2016TV – just google it, and share it and get it to the universities

T: Bill Mahers last week was very good – Bernie was saying we need 10s of millions in this movement and people to be educated and stay focussed: there is more of us than there is of them!

- We are to love them all – and to be neutral in our divine grace.
- A clear thing said by ?? - the Freedom Caucus is funded by the Kochs, and another group also funded by the Kochs; now that Ryan is going to be speaker means that he made a deal with the Koch Bros.
- They want to give women and men a full 16 weeks pay when a child is on the way; Ryan is dead set against it and says he is going to make his family his focus!

C4: North Korea and Iran have 1 year maternity leave; in some places in Europe, it is as much as 3 years. Info from a lady who's been in politics all her life – reads stats, etc - has been studying this her whole life: gender parity and what gov'ts offer women, children

T: Denmark has 6 mos; Sweden, Norway and Iceland have 6 months -

C4: before the US went into Iraq, they did a thousand Lysistratas, the play

- women in Iraq in 2003 – were paid all during PhDs, were giving up their burkas -

T: the US has completely wrecked that country –

- in 1972, there was a signal sent by US gov't out into space; in 2012 a race of beings sent a crop circle in answer, right beside the telescope that had sent out the first message – said they had 3 strands of DNA; small hands, large head, small body; they are carbon and silica based;
- they came back the next year and put another crop circle: kept the message clear so the ending was understandable – and there are still those who think this is nonsense

C4: livingonenesscommunity – connected to the shiftmovement.com – they are part of the ones putting on the global oneness day tomorrow.

- The dream university – Nov 3, 4, 5 conference with all kinds of world leaders -
- the following week: Jean Houston is having a huge gathering in Sedona

Gerry: sent them a package – lots of info

T: Still not arrived

G: Tells about movies with people's eyes changing into slits: on the TV or in the theatre – the eyes change in a split second and then return to normal. As we become more aware, we will see more of this.

C6: really raining outside! A bit scary – up on a high hill – already had 6" today.

- Asking if they had access to shelter
- Hurricane has already hit and is crossing the mountains
- what the caller is seeing is coming from the Gulf; they will get a double whammy with another storm from another direction

C7: the storm has been enhanced to distract the people

BBS RADIO            MOTHER SEKHMET / ALCYONE [M/A]

Greetings in the Light of the Most Radiant One. In the Office of the Christ and only in the Office of the Christ, we invoke the loving energies of St Germain and the Violet Flame.

T: We pray rain that it will be gentle, and for the activist Palestinian olive grower who was murdered today by Israeli police: another useless killing. We surround the naughty ones with light

Greetings, Children of Ra

T: we are watching such a killing spree going on here!

M/A: It is such an intense moment in our planet's story; we make it; everyone makes it.

- The ones that gotta get on that last bus, metaphorically speaking, are coming with her – which is a different issue. Yet it is the same issue 'cos they are the ones making life such a bitch!

T: and good things happen too, Mother – and grace happens, too

M/A: Indeed: Yes – divine compassion and grace; for what we are going through, she commends us for our courage

T: 10s of thousands of students in South Africa – they got in the face of the president who was going to raise tuition fees; they got into his compound; were met with rubber bullets, pepper spray, some kind of grenades

- they demanded that he come out and speak to the situation; the people who are poor and black are lucky to get $4000 US a year; the tuition is currently $5 – $8 000 a year, and he wanted to raise it higher. This will not happen now – the president said next year – and he said he does not know where the money is coming from.
- Nesara now, Mother!

M/A: Indeed, we are in the moments as Patti [Cota Robles] said in the message, we have already crossed the threshold; it is making that difference in this moment, now. It changes everything.

- All they have is the fear card – that's all that's left. And they are playing it to the hilt!
- That is – she says send even more divine compassion and love for what they – it is the shadow side of humanity coming to terms with 13,000 years of "stuff" that only now [is] coming to quick conclusion, courtesy of Mr Putin!

T: is that going to be ended now, really quick?

M/A: Mr Putin and the Andromedans: yes, we could say Jucabaca and his friends are coming with many more of their kind

T: 13,000 refugees landed in Slovenia – not being treated well – kids sick; women not well

M/A: What if they were to see 13,000 lifeforms . . .

M/A: yes, she knows. It is . . .

T: then the accident in SW France: 43 people killed, mostly elderly, on an outing

M/A: there are many issues at hand that have to do with the re-balancing of the plane and the people. We are all in the middle of it

T: . . . and there are all kinds of solutions at the same time

M/A: yes, out of the nothingness comes the answers. As we are moving into the return of the sun, winter solstice – get in that quiet, still place; the ripples will come and go; it is about the shifting in these moments as we cross the galactic plane, getting closer to the Pleiades as we move towards Galactic Centre.

- This whole solar system, much of the Milky Way Galaxy, is enveloped in such magnitudes of frequencies; she describes it as us being blessed beyond measure, with the frequencies that are pouring in and raising everything and everybody.
- It is a challenge to move and have our being with these energies; she overstands/ understands – yet we made a conscious choice to be here at this time. She commends us for being so brave. May sound like a joke: not a joke to be able to handle these energies which are only going to get higher.
  - It is that place where we are returning - 12th dimension - as we become physical suns, daughters of the most high. It may seem alien to everyone, yet it is as natural as water.

T: we've got more than enough water at the moment – not everyone!

M/A: Yes, as we – there is a bit of balancing going on with the issues of the five elements that were – the realms of legions upon legions of elementals all the way up to the Watchers who are making sure this planet – we ain't going anywhere! It is how we do this with the greatest of love – like the man said: I like PI! It is that story about infinity – Paul Simon -

T: hopes that everyone makes it

M/A: it is already ordained. What we are watching, though, is called the republican freak show and it is not using that in the context of belittling those lifeforms; we must understand what it is like to put on the helmet of Vader and go down the path of the Sith: not a pretty picture.

- Watching that lady that got up there yesterday: the look-alike that is getting so much praise – the 50' dragon lady: Hillary – we just said we got to see 11 hours of the dragon lady.

T: not sure which clone it was either

M/A: They are at the end of their moments; we are at the beginning of the story of Sat Yuga – it is already taking place; this is why the dichotomy of why we are watching such horrendous things as we are watching the golden age begin as well. It is the end of the one cycle that has seen its day

T: why is it necessary for this carnage to go on?

- M/A: As we get to the lowest level of the circle/cycles as we turn from the Iron Age, Stone Age, back to the Golden Age, there is a bit of a gap in the process between the astronomical movements as well as the astrological
- As we are returning these temples of living essence, of the force, into silica- based lifeforms; 10,000 years is the blink of an eye. Don't think about it: we are just doing what we gotta do!
  - This time we are returning to those moments: immortality now! The frequencies are being raised in everything.

T: The Marshall Islands, Guam – they were radiated and now they are sinking: the ocean is rising so much, there is no place to live.

- and the Phillipines got walloped again – connected with what is going on in the west coast – has to do with the acidification of the ocean – a whole bunch of coral reefs are being disintegrated between Hawaii and the west coast

M/A: and at the same time, they are here doing new terra forming – as we understand, Peli, Kali Yuga – we give birth in one hand, death in the other

T: Must you, Mother?

M/A: it is part of the cycle that works with the greater mechanisms that help maintain the balance of this local sector of the Alpha Quadrant of the Milky Way Galaxy; it is part of the nature of her office: it is making sure everything is spinning in the right way, even though it looks like divine chaos – as we grok . . .

T: has read more about Trudeau: he is really for the TPP AND the Keystone; there's a whole background story that is not good M/A: then he won't make it in that office

T: it is not REALLY the Liberal party

M/A: the people of Planet earth need to be free and the time is now. .

T: listening to all the different stories about getting on renewables – and we have something beyond that; it is not a physical thing – it is the plasma energy of the sun; energy that is beyond that [of the renewables]. Getting lots of questions about this and how it works.

M/A: It is about Sol-utions! It is a bit complicated, and it will be – laid out in lavender – Dr Keshe is doing what he can to change the course of the evil corporations and, at the same time, . . .

T: people demonstrating everywhere – native people dancing – she is excited because she can see the movement is alive and well and there is a middle group that has to get busy – need a fire under our butts?

- She asks "well?"

- going after the former CEO of VW and Porsche – they are being taken down. And someone in the face of the German higher ups & said you are lying: Germany did buy the games [FIFA] from South Africa

M/A: Time to stop burning dinosaur farts, please, and move on to more civilized ways of travelling moving across the universe - What the F?

T: TV message – a part that was made clear: that is why we sent you a CD – we are beyond that, but you are not! [talking about the message sent out to the universe quite a few years ago, and getting an answer back last year, with a PS this year using a CD, as our technology is so far behind theirs!] It's humbling to know that we know all this, and that we are sitting here, voluntarily, looking at tar sands

M/A Liveforms that are skin walkers

T: DHK of Japan were telling of what she heard and saw on TV, making it sound so good: about the TPP and guys with patents on things for 70 years!

- Any more insights?

M/A: She can share with us is that we are in the most glorious moments of this planet's story - that have everything to do with us becoming the shiny stars that we are. This is why all of heaven, legions upon legions upon legions of ascended life forms are here in divine grace to bring about a shift in the consciousness of all life forms. This is why Dr Keshe is taking the 1st step; when we are in ecstasy, we do not want to play with a gun.

Ancient Aliens S07E15 Hidden Pyramids Full Episode

Published on 16 Jul 2015

With infrared satellite technology detecting pyramids hidden underneath the sand in Egypt and airborne laser sensors discovering long lost pyramids beneath the jungles of Central America, many believe we have entered a new pyramid era--an age of discovery that will be marked by unimaginable new findings. 21st century excavations are also revealing fascinating new facts about pyramids that could potentially rewrite history. Archaeologists now believe the ancient pyramids in Peru are older than the Egyptian pyramids, and a recently surveyed megalithic site in Indonesia is now suspected to be a step pyramid built by a long lost civilization 20,000 years ago.

Ancient Aliens is an American television series on the History channel. The program presents hypotheses of ancient astronauts and proposes that historical texts, archaeology and legends contain evidence of past human-extraterrestrial contact.

Presented in the 1968 bestselling book Chariots of the Gods by Erich von Daniken, the theory of "ancient aliens" rocked people's beliefs in mankind's progress. Ancient cave drawings of strange creatures, remains of landing strips in Peru, and Indian texts that describe the "flying machines of the gods" were just a few of the odd archaeological artefacts cited by von Daniken as proof that ancient astronauts were well known to our ancestors.

Produced with the exclusive cooperation of von Daniken himself, Ancient Aliens launches all-new expeditions to seek out and evaluate this evidence, with a concentration on the latest discoveries of the last 30 years, including unusual DNA findings on man's evolution and newly decoded artefacts from Egypt to Syria to South America. It is a balanced investigation into a theory some believe cannot be true, but many agree cannot be ignored.

UFOS AND THE DEEP NATIONAL SECURITY STATE: THE MOST EXPLOSIVE EXPOSE ON SECRECY YOU WILL EVER SEE!

Washington DC - Saturday November 21, 2015 2 pm - 6pm

Join the founder of the global Disclosure movement, Dr. Steven Greer, in Washington DC for a unique opportunity to learn the most comprehensive and explosive expose of UFO secrecy ever presented!

Dr. Greer has been involved in the highest levels of governments and military for over 25 years and will share what he has learned on the who , what , where and why of UFO secrecy and the deep trans-national security state and the constellation of illegal projects that are currently operating.

This 4 hour workshop will include:

- How is secrecy maintained through the hybrid of corporate and government programs?
- Which military bases and facilities and which corporations are involved in this secrecy?
- How is black -budget and criminal activity funding these operations?

-The Connection between the global financial system , UFO technology, drug-running and covert military airspace and bases;

-Where are the key Underground Bases (UGBs) and how are they connected via subterranean tunnels ?

-Who has been involved in managing this secrecy and how is that entity (MAJIC) controlled and operated?

-How do Unacknowledged Special Access Projects (USAPs) operate and how are they kept secret from the people, the President and Congress?

-The History of UFO secrecy since WW II and how it has devolved into its own illegal trans-national cartel.

-See explosive documents on secrecy, how human military controlled "Abductions" are "stage-crafted" - and what is the agenda for this Deception.

-What is the future agenda for the cartel managing UFO secrecy-and how you need to prepare for this future!

- The Planned Cosmic 911 Deception- What you NEED to know!

and MUCH MORE.

AMY GOODMAN: It's been over half a century since Allen Dulles resigned as director of the CIA, but his legacy lives on. Between 1953 and '61, under his watch, the CIA overthrew the governments of Iran and Guatemala, invaded Cuba, was tied to the killing of Patrice Lumumba, Congo's first democratically elected leader.

A new biography of Allen Dulles looks at how his time at the CIA helped shape the current national security state. Biographer David Talbot writes, quote, "The Allen Dulles story continues to haunt the country. Many of the practices that still provoke bouts of American soul-searching originated during Dulles's formative rule at the CIA." Talbot goes on to write, "Mind control experimentation, torture, political assassination, extraordinary rendition, mass surveillance of U.S. citizens and foreign allies—these were all widely used tools of the Dulles reign."

Well, David Talbot joins us now to talk about his new book, The Devil's Chessboard: Allen Dulles, the CIA, and the Rise of America's Secret Government. He's the founder and former CEO and editor-in-chief of Salon. David Talbot is also author of the best-seller, Brothers: The Hidden History of the Kennedy Years.

It's great to have you with us, David.

DAVID TALBOT: Great to be here, Amy.

AMY GOODMAN: What an astounding book. Chelsea Manning, Edward Snowden—how do they relate to Allen Dulles, the longest-reigning CIA director?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, as I write in the book and as you just pointed out, all the practices that we are wrestling with as a country now, the intelligence and security measures—including, I might add, the legacy of the killing fields in Central America that your guest was just discussing, in Guatemala and so on—that all had its roots, not after 9/11, but during the Dulles era and the Cold War. He was a man who felt he was above the law. He felt that democracy was something that should not be left in the hands of the American people or its representatives. He was part of what the famous sociologist from the 1950s, C. Wright Mills, called the power elite. And he felt that he and his brother and those types of people should be running the country.

AMY GOODMAN: John Foster Dulles, secretary of state.

DAVID TALBOT: Exactly. They were a dynamic duo, of course: His brother, Foster, as he was known, was secretary of state, as you say, under Eisenhower; he was the head of the CIA. It was a one-two punch.

AMY GOODMAN: Let's go to Allen Dulles in his own words, speaking in 1965, defending the actions of the CIA.

ALLEN DULLES: The idea that it is necessarily nefarious, it's always engaged in overthrowing governments, that's false. That's for the birds. Now, there are times—there are times when the United States government feels that the developments in another government, such as in the Vietnam situation, is of a nature to imperil the—the safety and the security and the peace of the world, and asks the Central Intelligence Agency to be its agent in that particular situation. ... At no time has the CIA engaged in any political activity or any intelligence activity that was not approved at the highest level.

AMY GOODMAN: That's Allen Dulles in 1965. "At no time," he says. So, talk about the history, that is so intimately connected to us today. Often countries that have been—their leaders have been overthrown, know this history in a way that Americans don't know.

DAVID TALBOT: That's right.

AMY GOODMAN: '53, '54, go through it.

DAVID TALBOT: And, of course, Allen Dulles was a consummate liar and was, you know, very adept at manipulating the media, the American media. That particular interview was one of the ones that actually he got posed some of the tougher questions, by John Chancellor of NBC News. And he actually went on to say, "You know, I try to let the Congress know what I'm doing," when Chancellor asked him, "Is there any political oversight of the CIA?" "But whenever I go to Congress," he says, and he starts to tell the secrets of the CIA, members of Congress would say, "No, no, no, we don't want to know. We don't want to talk in our sleep." So that, of course, was his cover.

Yes, overthrowing governments at will—I think one of the more tragic stories I tell in the book is the story of Patrice Lumumba, who was this young, charismatic leader, the hope of African nationalism in the Congo. And he was overthrown by a CIA-backed military coup in the Congo and later captured and brutally assassinated. The CIA's story before the Church Committee in the 1970s: "Oh, we tried to kill him, we tried to poison him, but we're the gang that can't shoot straight. We're not very good at assassinations." Well, they were far too modest. In fact, we now know that the people who beat Patrice Lumumba to death, once he was captured, were on the payroll of the CIA.

Now, Allen Dulles kept that fact from John F. Kennedy for over a month. John Kennedy, when he was running for president, was known as the advocate, a supporter of African nationalism. They knew that once John Kennedy was inaugurated—the CIA—and was in office, that he would help Lumumba, who was in captivity at that point. And I believe that his execution, his murder, was rushed before Kennedy could get in the White House. They then withheld that information from the president for over a month. So the CIA was defying presidents all the time, and particularly in the case of Kennedy, who they felt was young, they could manipulate, and they didn't need to really bring into their confidence.

AMY GOODMAN: So you have the CIA running international intelligence, and they're keeping—well, you say keeping from. What makes you believe that Kennedy didn't know?

DAVID TALBOT: That he didn't know about the murder? Well, there's a famous picture that was taken of him in the White House as he's getting the phone call from—not from the CIA, but from U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who finally tells him, a month after Lumumba has been buried and dead, about this terrible murder. And his face, as you see from this famous photograph by Jacques Lowe, the White House photographer, is crumpled in agony. I think this shows all the terrible sorrow that's to come in the Kennedy presidency. And, you know, a lot of people think that the war between Kennedy and the CIA began after the Bay of Pigs invasion, the CIA's disastrous operation in Cuba. That is true, it became particularly, I think, aggravated after that. But you can see from this, from day one, even before he was inaugurated, the CIA was defying him.

AMY GOODMAN: 1953, go back a few years. What is the relevance of what the Dulles brothers did in Iran with what we are seeing today in U.S.-Iranian relations?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, again, these terrible historical ripples continue from the Dulles era. Iran was trying to throw off the yoke of British colonialism. Britain, through British Petroleum, the company now known as British Petroleum, controlled all of Iran's oil resources. And under the leadership of Mosaddegh, this popular leader who was elected by his people, he began to push back against British control and, as a result, antagonized Western oil interests, including the Dulles brothers. The Dulles brothers' power originally came from their law firm, Sullivan & Cromwell, the most powerful law firm on Wall Street, and they represented a number of oil companies. So, once the Western oil interests were antagonized by Mosaddegh's attempt to reclaim sovereignty over these oil resources, his days were numbered.

And so, the task of overthrowing him was given to the CIA, given to Allen Dulles. There was a very volatile situation, people supporting Mosaddegh in the streets versus the CIA-supported forces. The Shah, who was the puppet, of course, ruler of Iran on the Peacock Throne, flees, because he's not a particularly brave man. He flees to Rome. Dulles flies to Rome. He's busy shopping, the Shah, enjoying his exile with his glamorous wife. And Dulles is given the job of putting a little lead in his spine and getting the Shah to return to Iran after they finally succeed, the CIA, in overthrowing the popular leader, Mosaddegh.

Well, after that, that begins a reign of horror then in Iran. Democratic elements, the left, Communist Party are rounded up, tortured. And the Shah is installed in this terrible autocratic regime, that, of course, we know, had a terrible downfall during the Carter administration. And we're still paying the price for the bitterness that the Iranian people feel towards the United States for intervening in their sovereign interests.

AMY GOODMAN: And the U.S. would go on—the Dulles brothers would go on to do the very same thing the next year, 1954, in Guatemala?

DAVID TALBOT: That's right. They were on a roll. They thought they could do anything, exert their will anywhere in the world. Jacobo Árbenz, again, a popular, democratic leader, elected in Guatemala—

AMY GOODMAN: We only have 10 seconds in this portion.

DAVID TALBOT: The Kennedy of Guatemala is overthrown, again, by the Dulles brothers, partly because they were representatives of United Fruit. United Fruit was a major power player in Guatemala.

AMY GOODMAN: We're going to leave it there, but we're going to do Part 2, and we're going to post it online. AMY GOODMAN: This is Democracy Now!, democracynow.org, The War and Peace Report. I'm Amy Goodman. Our guest is David Talbot. His book is The Devil's Chessboard: Allen Dulles, the CIA, and the Rise of America's Secret Government. He's the founder and former CEO and editor-in-chief of Salon. Let's start with the title, The Devil's Chessboard. Why did you call it that, David?

DAVID TALBOT: The Devil's Chessboard refers to the fact that the Dulles brothers—John Foster Dulles, who's secretary of state under Eisenhower, and his brother, Allen Dulles, who I focus on, head of the CIA—they loved to play chess with each other. They would go at it for hours, even when Allen Dulles was about to be married. He kept his wife-to-be waiting around while the two brothers went at it. And they tended to look at the world as their chessboard. People were pawns to be manipulated. So I felt that was a—you know, an apt metaphor.

But, Amy, I wanted to go back to what you were talking about—alternative media—before this. I think—I just want to underline what you were saying about how essential it is to have countervoices. They are the lifeblood of democracy. And shows like yours and public radio are just essential. You know, my book is having a hard time getting through the media gatekeepers. They don't want to hear about this, and in part because the CIA, particularly under Allen Dulles, but even today, are masters at manipulating the media. I've been on shows and been bumped. I was scheduled to be on shows at the last minute, strangely. I was supposed to write something for Politico magazine. Someone there called the book a "masterpiece." They wanted the book to be, you know, showcased there. Instead, I was bumped from Politico. And an article based on recently leaked CIA documents—conveniently leaked—was written by a former New York Times reporter, Phil Shenon, and what he did was to basically accuse Fidel Castro of assassinating President Kennedy. This has been a CIA disinformation line for years. So the CIA is still manipulating the media, and it's essential that independent media exists, like this.

AMY GOODMAN: Can you talk about the relationship between The New York Times publisher, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, and Allen Dulles?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, the Sulzberger family had a long relationship with Dulles. When he was inaugurated as CIA director, one of the Sulzbergers wrote to him, saying, "This is the best news I've heard in years." In another letter, he calls him affectionately "Ally." They were on a first name basis. They belonged to the same clubs. They were masters at—the Dulles brothers, particularly Allen—at manipulating the media. After the Warren Report comes out, the official investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, one of the top editors at Newsweek writes to Allen Dulles. And I'm getting all this from Allen Dulles's own files; he was very proud of the fact that he could—he had the media in the palm of his hand. But this Newsweek editor writes to him, "Thank you so much for basically directing our coverage of the Warren Report. We couldn't have done it without you." So, you know, this was the kind of cozy relationship that existed between the CIA and the media in those years. CBS, Newsweek, The New York Times, The Washington Post, they were all in the palm of the CIA's hands. They all lived together in Georgetown. They had cocktail parties together. It was a very cozy set.

AMY GOODMAN: You know, in Guatemala today, there has been a popular uprising. It has been quite astounding. Otto Pérez Molina, OPM, the president, was thrown out, is in jail right now. I wanted to go to Allan Nairn, longtime investigative reporter, who was in Guatemala during this period. And this also goes back to 1954. But Allan Nairn has been covering Guatemala since the 1980s.

ALLAN NAIRN: This is an oligarchy in Guatemala which kills its own unionists, which kills peasants who try to organize the plantations, which works hand in glove with Washington and is now trying to hold onto their power, because, for the first time, it's under threat. I mean, this is a historic moment. It all began in 1954, when the CIA invaded Guatemala, overthrew a democratically elected government and put the army in power. And now, the people have risen.

AMY GOODMAN: So, that's Allan Nairn talking about this most recent uprising. But, David Talbot, can you go back to 1954, where we left off in Part 1 of our conversation, and talk about what actually happened? Who was Allen Dulles, the CIA director, and his brother, John Foster Dulles, the state—the secretary of state, working for?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, of course, their original power goes back to Sullivan & Cromwell, this very powerful Wall Street law firm that John Foster Dulles ran and where Allen Dulles worked. And among their clients was United Fruit. United Fruit, of course, was this colossus, this corporate colossus, that ruled much of Latin America, owned, you know, vast acreage in Guatemala and many other countries. They weren't just a banana company. They were a multinational real estate company. They owned often the utilities. And they owned the local political elites in those countries.

In the early '50s, Jacobo Árbenz, this young military officer, a reform officer, starts to emerge as a potential leader. He runs for president and is elected by his people on a reform campaign. And one of the first things he does, of course, in this country that's basically a medieval country ruled by land barons, is to begin to nationalize some of the land, that's not being even used by United [Fruit], and give it to the people themselves, the farmers, to work. And this provokes a major backlash from United Fruit, from the local political elites, the oligarchs, and from the CIA. Allen Dulles, working for Eisenhower as CIA director, portrays Jacobo Árbenz as a dangerous communist—he wasn't—and prepares to overthrow him in a military coup, which does occur.

What I tell the story of, mostly I focus on, is the tragic aftermath of that coup, because not only for the Árbenz family, which, in some ways, were the Kennedys of Guatemala—glamorous, young couple, Jacobo and María Árbenz, their children, very good-looking, wealthy, but very committed to uplifting the poor in that country. And after the coup, they're sent into a terrible exile. No country will touch them, because CIA pressure. The CIA and the State Department pressure every country, from Mexico throughout Latin America, not to take the Árbenz family in. They're finally forced to go behind the Iron Curtain to Czechoslovakia to seek exile. They're not happy there. They finally end up back in Mexico, but they're under tight supervision. The family is haunted. It's stalked wherever it goes. One of his daughters commits suicide. And Jacobo Árbenz himself ends up dead under mysterious circumstances—scalded to death in a bathtub in a Mexico City hotel. His family today believes that he was assassinated. And given the fact that the CIA had a death list of left-wing figures, journalists, political leaders, after the coup that were to be eliminated, that, you know, is a distinct possibility.

So, these ripples of tragedy, after these coups, go on and on. You know, the CIA and Allen Dulles told Eisenhower after the Guatemala coup, "Oh, it was a clean coup. You know, hardly anyone died." But the fact is, tens of thousands of people died in the killing fields of Guatemala as a result of that coup, and that violence continues today.

AMY GOODMAN: And wasn't it also a precursor to what happened with the Bay of Pigs? Move forward like, what, six years, and explain what happened.

DAVID TALBOT: Right. Well, emboldened by how easy it was to do a regime change in Guatemala, yes, when Fidel Castro comes to power in Cuba, he again antagonizes the same corporate interests that the Dulles brothers represent—oil companies, like the Rockefeller-owned Standard Oil, and others, agribusiness firms. So they believe that Fidel has to be eliminated, and they begin plotting, under the Eisenhower administration, with Eisenhower's approval, to kill, to assassinate Fidel Castro. And, in fact, at one point, Fidel Castro, who was beloved in this country after the revolution—he had overthrown a thug, a Mafia-backed thug, Batista, a very corrupt and violent dictatorship. He was seen as the future, and very glamorous, he and Che Guevara and so on. They would come to New York and would be mobbed by people in the streets. When they came to New York for a U.N. meeting in 1960, though, the Eisenhower administration was already pushing back, and no hotel would take them. Finally, a hotel in Midtown did take them, but there was—they asked for so much money as security, they were basically blackmailing Fidel. He was outraged, and he ended up staying in a hotel in Harlem that took him in.

AMY GOODMAN: Hotel Theresa.

DAVID TALBOT: Hotel Theresa. And they stood up to this Washington pressure, the manager of that hotel, who was African-American. He had grown up in Jim Crow South. And he said, "You know, I know what it's like to be denied a roof over your head. This Cuban delegation can stay here." So it was a very—

AMY GOODMAN: Did he meet Malcolm X there?

DAVID TALBOT: He did. It was a very dramatic moment. Malcolm X makes a visit to the Hotel Theresa. He squeezes into his suite, where there's dozens of people crammed. They have a very interesting encounter, Fidel and Malcolm. And it really changed their lives and had a big impact on both of those men for years afterwards. In fact, Malcolm said he was one of the few white men that he learned to respect and appreciate. And, by the way, there was an FBI guy taking notes the whole time in that hotel room, so we know some of what happened there and the dialogue, because of the FBI report on this.

AMY GOODMAN: Who was it?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, his name was not revealed, but there was an agent surveilling him. But meanwhile, while Fidel is there, meeting with Khrushchev from the Soviet Union and Nasser from Egypt and the world leaders and embarrassing the Eisenhower administration, because here he's gone to Harlem, and, you know, no one else would take him in, in Midtown Manhattan—meanwhile, the Mafia is meeting with CIA agents at the Plaza Hotel, just blocks away, plotting his assassination. So, a lot of intrigue in 1960 going on in New York. And then, to make it even more interesting, a young JFK, who's campaigning for president, after Fidel has left, shows up at the Hotel Theresa and basically says, "This is revolutionary ground I'm standing on. And we should welcome the winds of change and the revolution, the future. We shouldn't be afraid of it." So, very end—and begins to talk about the mortality rate of black infants in Harlem and many of the issues that are still current.

AMY GOODMAN: And yet, look at what President Kennedy, then President Kennedy, did, when it came to Cuba—

DAVID TALBOT: Exactly.

AMY GOODMAN: —what happened under his reign, from the Bay of Pigs to the endless assassination attempts of Fidel Castro.

DAVID TALBOT: Kennedy did do a flip-flop, to an extent, after that. He came in as president. He was young. He was untested, under a lot of pressure from the national security people in his administration. He inherited the Bay of Pigs operation, the plans for that. He was basically told, "Look, if you pull the plug on this thing, it's so far along now, there will be a major political backlash against you." So he was kind of sandbagged by the CIA. He did go through with it, but he had no intention of widening it into an all-out U.S. military assault on the island, on Cuba. But that's what the CIA had in mind. They knew that this motley crew of Cuban exiles they put together to invade the island wasn't sufficient to unseat Castro. But what they hoped and what they planned was that a young President Kennedy, as this invasion was bogged down on the beaches of the Bay of Pigs, would be forced then to send in the Marines and the U.S. Air Force to topple Castro.

AMY GOODMAN: And then, of course, the Cuban missile crisis, the closest we ever came to a nuclear war.

DAVID TALBOT: Well, but Kennedy stood his ground, and he didn't do that. And that was the beginning of his break, at the Bay of Pigs, between the CIA and Cuba—and President Kennedy. And then, yes, that became even more severe with the Cuban missile crisis the following year. Again, the military in this country and the CIA thought that we could take, you know, Castro out. During the Cuban missile crisis, they were prepared to go to a nuclear war to do that. President Kennedy thought people like Curtis LeMay, who was head of the Air Force, General Curtis LeMay, was half-mad. He said, "I don't even see this man in my—you know, in my sight," because he was pushing for a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union. And even years later, Curtis LeMay, after years after Kennedy is dead, in an interview that I quote from in the book, bitterly complains that Kennedy didn't take this opportunity to go nuclear over Cuba. So, President Kennedy basically, I think, saved my life—I was 12 years old at the time—saved a lot of our lives, because he did stand his ground. He took a hard line against the national security people and said, "No, we're going to peacefully resolve the Cuban missile crisis."

AMY GOODMAN: And then President Kennedy, on November 22nd, 1963, was assassinated.

DAVID TALBOT: That's right.

AMY GOODMAN: We're talking to David Talbot, who is author of The Devil's Chessboard: Allen Dulles, the CIA, and the Rise of America's Secret Government. What did you find when it came to Kennedy's assassination?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, first of all, after Kennedy did fire Allen Dulles after the Bay of Pigs, Dulles didn't get the memo. He went home to Georgetown and continued to operate from his home as if he were still running the CIA. His top deputies came on a regular basis to meet with him. He—

AMY GOODMAN: You had notes of his wife and his mistress.

DAVID TALBOT: That's right. I found his daybook, who he was meeting with. I read his—the correspondence. I read his mistress's diaries and journals.

AMY GOODMAN: Who was his mistress?

DAVID TALBOT: A woman named Mary Bancroft, a very interesting woman, related to the gentleman who started or was the top editor at The Wall Street Journal. She had aspirations of her own. She became a spy for Allen Dulles in Switzerland during World War II when they started their affair. And curiously, then, when his wife shows up in Switzerland at the end of the war, Clover Dulles, the two women become friends. Clover Dulles figures out what's been going on. She kind of gives it a pass. And the two women then form a tight bond throughout the rest of their lives. And their correspondence is fascinating. They both were patients of Carl Jung, one of the founding fathers of psychiatry in Switzerland.

And they called Allen Dulles "The Shark," these two women, because they both knew the kind of man they were dealing with—full of surface charm and, you know, a very popular party guest on the Washington circuit, but underneath a very cold man, a man who was capable of sending people to their death with the blink of an eye, a man who was capable of putting his own child, Allen Jr., in the hands of an experimental doctor who was working for the CIA in the notorious MKULTRA program, which Naomi Klein and others have written about.

AMY GOODMAN: Explain it very briefly, and what happened to Allen Jr.?

DAVID TALBOT: MKULTRA was—they called it the Manhattan Project of the mind. It was an attempt by the CIA, funding—millions of dollars—funding scientists and doctors around the country, major institutions, to see if we could program people for whatever purpose. It was a mind control program. His son, Allen Jr., came back from the war, Korean War, with a piece of shrapnel in his brain. He was brain-damaged, and the family had difficulty with him. He was trying to find his way. And at one point, Allen Dulles put him in the hands of this scientist here in New York who did unspeakable sort of experiments on him involving insulin overdose therapy, which is a very traumatic therapy—convulsions, sometimes resulting in death. His sister was appalled—Allen Dulles's daughter—when she went to visit him in the hospital. And it was from her that I got this story.

Joan Dulles is a very amazing woman—Joan Talley, as she's known today, a retired Jungian therapist in New Mexico, drives a Prius with an Obama sticker on it. I'm sure her father is spinning in his grave. But she, herself, like many of us, at the age of 90 when I interviewed her, was grappling with this dark legacy in America, that played out within her own family. You know, she's looking back on this now and is appalled, in some way, that she—it was a part of her life. But she's reading the books—and I hope she reads mine—and is coming to some kind of determination about her father.

AMY GOODMAN: And explain what MKULTRA was used for.

DAVID TALBOT: Well, MKULTRA, among other things, they were seeing if they could program a Manchurian candidate, assassins who would act in a robotic-like fashion to kill on CIA command. They were also using it as enhanced interrogation, as we call it today. Soviet prisoners who would fall into our hands, they were—

AMY GOODMAN: And the drug is actually?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, many different drugs, psychedelic—LSD was one of the drugs. They subjected—there was a particular place in Canada at the Allan Institute and McGill University in Canada, where one of these doctors, Dr. Ewen Cameron, he operated something called the sleep room, where women, many—mostly women, and patients of his would be put. These were people who were suffering from common neurotic disorders, postpartum depression and so on. And they were put in this sleep room and, through massive doses of various psychedelic drugs, were put into a sleep state, and then tape loops were played over and over again in an attempt to erase their bad patterns of thinking, and often wiping out their memory. They would come out of these experiments not knowing their family, who they were. In one case, a woman was reduced to an infantile state. She couldn't use a toilet. And this was the wife of a Canadian—a member of the Canadian Parliament. So this was all CIA-funded research during the Cold War, and it was, you know, basically the most inhumane sort of methods being used on people.

AMY GOODMAN: We're talking to David Talbot, and we digressed from the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

DAVID TALBOT: Yes.

AMY GOODMAN: Talk about what you learned in writing The Devil's Chessboard.

DAVID TALBOT: Well, as I was saying, after he was fired by Kennedy, Dulles went to his home. He continued—

AMY GOODMAN: And why was he fired?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, he was fired after the Bay of Pigs. Kennedy realized he shouldn't have kept Dulles on from the Eisenhower years. They were philosophically too different. And the Bay of Pigs was the final straw for him. So he was pushed out after that.

And—but Dulles, as I say, continued to sort of set up an anti-Kennedy government in exile in his home in Georgetown. Many of the people he was meeting with, several of the people, including Howard Hunt and others, later became figures of suspicion during the House Select Committee on Assassination hearings in Washington in the 1970s. You know, most Americans don't know that that was the last official statement, the last official report, on the Kennedy assassination, not the Warren Report back in 1964. But the Congress reopened the investigation into John Kennedy's assassination, and they did determine he was killed as the result of a conspiracy.

So a number of the people who came up during this investigation by Congress were figures of interest who were meeting with Allen Dulles. They had no, you know, obvious reason to be meeting with a "retired" CIA official. The weekend of Kennedy's assassination, Allen Dulles is not at home watching television like the rest of America. He's at a remote CIA facility, two years after being pushed out of the agency by Kennedy, called The Farm, in northern Virginia, that he used when he was director of the CIA as a kind of an alternate command post. Well, he's there while Kennedy is killed, after Kennedy is killed, when Jack Ruby then kills Lee Harvey Oswald. That whole fateful weekend, he's hunkered down in a CIA command post. So, there are many odd circumstances like this.

I also found out from interviewing the children of another former CIA official that one of the key figures of interest in the Kennedy assassination, a guy named William Harvey, who was head of the CIA-Mafia plot against Castro and hated the Kennedys, thought that they were weak and so on, he was seen leaving his Rome station and flying to Dallas, by his own deputy, on an airplane early in November 1963. This is a remarkable sighting, because to place someone like William Harvey, the head of the CIA's assassination unit, put there by Allen Dulles, in Dallas in November of '63 before the assassination is a very important fact. The CIA, by the way, refuses, even at this late date, to release the travel vouchers for people like William Harvey. Under the JFK Records Act, that was passed back in the 1990s, they are compelled by federal law to release all documents related to the Kennedy assassination, but they're still withholding over 1,100 of these documents, including—and I—

AMY GOODMAN: Fifteen seconds.

DAVID TALBOT: I used the Freedom of Information Act to try and get the travel vouchers for William Harvey. They're still holding onto them.

AMY GOODMAN: How many calls are you getting in the mainstream media to do interviews?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, thank God, I was saying earlier, for alternative media, like this, Amy, because there is resistance to this book. First of all, I call out the mainstream media. I say that New York Times, CBS, Washington Post, Newsweek, they were all under his thumb. They did his bidding.

AMY GOODMAN: Whose thumb?

DAVID TALBOT: Allen Dulles's thumb. So, when the Warren Report came out, I was saying that one of the editors, top editors, at Newsweek wrote to him and said, "Thank you so much, Mr. Dulles, for helping shape our coverage of the Warren Report." Well, of course, Allen Dulles was on the Warren Commission. In fact, some people thought it should have been called the Dulles Commission, because he dominated it so much. So, you know, it's way too cozy, the relationship between Washington power and the media. And—

AMY GOODMAN: What was the relationship between Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher of

The New York Times, and Allen Dulles, the head of the CIA?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, they were social friends, not just him, but other members of the Sulzberger family. I found, you know, cozy correspondence between them, congratulating him when he was inaugurated, Dulles, as CIA director. They called him "Ally," one of the Sulzberger families, in one letter. They would get together, you know, every year. Dulles would hold these media sort of drink fests for New Year's. And these were, you know, top reporters, top editors, would get together with the CIA guys and rub elbows and get a little drunk. And, you know, when Allen Dulles didn't want a reporter, because he felt he was being overly aggressive, covering, say, Guatemala—Sydney Gruson, the reporter—in the run-up to the coup there in 1954, he had—he made a call to The New York Times and had him removed. That was because of his relationship with Sulzberger, the publisher. So, that was the kind of pull that Allen Dulles had.

AMY GOODMAN: How did that work?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, they just took him out. They removed Gruson. They transferred him, I think to Mexico, at that point.

AMY GOODMAN: Can you compare Smedley Butler, the general, who was—called himself, what? A racketeer for capitalism, when he was asked to overthrow countries and said no—

DAVID TALBOT: Yeah.

AMY GOODMAN: —to Allen Dulles?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, one's a hero, and one's a villain, to put it pure and simple. Smedley Darlington Butler, who I've also written about—I wrote an illustrated history, for readers of all ages, called Devil Dog. Smedley was an American hero. He was a guy who joined the Marines at 16, didn't know any better, ran off all around the world fighting America's imperial wars from China to throughout Latin America, ended up in France during World War I. And by the time he was a middle-aged man, he had seen the kind of dirty work that was done by America's soldiers in the name of American business interests. And he said he was like Al Capone. He said, "We marines were like Al Capone, except that Al Capone couldn't even measure up to us, the kind of thuggery that we were capable of, that we committed in America's name throughout Latin America, particularly."

AMY GOODMAN: And wasn't it just not through Latin America, like overthrowing Árbenz, but wasn't the Pitcairn family in the United States involved with attempting a coup against FDR and wanted to recruit Smedley Butler to do it?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, that's what—as I write in my book, that it was his great moment of heroism, because he was a hero to soldiers, to the rank and file. He had spoken to the famous Bonus Army March, where World War I veterans were demanding pay for the time they had lost when they were overseas. He spoke before them. It was a very controversial thing he did as a retired officer, retired general from the Marines. And so, because he was so popular with the rank and file, when a number of corporate families like the DuPonts and others became furious at FDR for being a class traitor, as they called him, and pushing through these Wall Street reforms and other things that were infuriating them, they went to—representatives of theirs went to Smedley Butler and said, "Would you lead a march again, like the Bonus Army March on Washington? But this time we want them to be armed, the soldiers to be armed." Essentially, "Will you lead a coup against Franklin Roosevelt?" And instead of going along with this, he went before Congress and outed this plot.

AMY GOODMAN: And who were the families? Who were the—

DAVID TALBOT: Well, DuPonts were one of them. The family that owned Remington, the arms factory, was also involved. A number of these people were clients of the Dulleses. Foster Dulles, by the way, John Foster Dulles, who later became secretary of state, ran the Wall Street firm Sullivan & Cromwell. When FDR starts to push through some of these reforms, like the Security Exchange Commission and others, Glass-Steagall, he convenes all his wealthy clients in his office on Wall Street and says, "Just ignore this. We'll resist this. We won't go along with these reforms."

AMY GOODMAN: The Nazis? Very quickly.

DAVID TALBOT: The Nazis, well, they have a very tight relationship, many Nazi businessmen, with the Dulles brothers. And when Allen Dulles was in Switzerland, supposedly working for our side, the OSS, during the war, he was actually using that to meet with a lot of Nazis and to cut separate deals with them. He did indeed finally cut a separate peace deal with the Nazi forces in Italy against FDR's wishes. FDR had a policy of unconditional surrender. Don't—

AMY GOODMAN: This was Operation Paperclip?

DAVID TALBOT: This was Operation Sunrise, was this deal that he made. And then he set up these rat-lines, so-called, where Nazis, leading Nazi war criminals, escaped after the war through the Alps in Switzerland, down into Italy and then overseas to Latin America and even in the United States. One of the key Nazis he saved was Reinhard Gehlen, Hitler's former chief of intelligence, who he installed, Dulles, as head of West German intelligence after the war, a man who should have stood trial at Nuremberg.

AMY GOODMAN: Who turned you down?

DAVID TALBOT: You know, well, Politico was one. Politico, you know, one of the leading publications, online publications and a print publication, you know, had—I was supposed to write something for them there. Instead, they went with a piece by, as I say, a former New York Times guy named Phil Shenon, based on leaked CIA documents that basically pin the Kennedy assassination on Fidel Castro. This is absurd. Fidel Castro, when he heard about Kennedy's assassination, crumpled. He knew that Kennedy was trying to open back channels with him to establish peace between Cuba and the United States, years before Obama finally did. In fact, Jean Daniel, who was a French reporter, was with Fidel, at Kennedy's behest, in Havana, basically carrying this olive branch to Fidel from Kennedy, when they got the terrible news from Dallas.

AMY GOODMAN: Who do you think killed John Kennedy?

DAVID TALBOT: Well, I believe what Robert Kennedy believed. Robert Kennedy, as I showed in my book earlier, Brothers, and in this book, looked immediately at the killing team that was put together by the CIA to kill Fidel Castro. That CIA killing team, I think, was responsible for killing President Kennedy, as well. That team that was killing foreign leaders, that was targeting foreign leaders, that Dulles had assembled, including men like William Harvey, Howard Hunt, David Morales—these were all key figures of suspicion by Congress during the House Assassinations Committee investigation in the '70s. That was the team that was brought to Dallas. I now identify those men. A couple of them admitted—Howard Hunt, on his death bed, admitted that he was involved in the Kennedy assassination, and the mainstream media completely overlooked this shocking—

AMY GOODMAN: Howard Hunt, who was Watergate.

DAVID TALBOT: He was the leader of the Watergate break-in and a legendary CIA action officer, and very close to Allen Dulles, revered Allen Dulles. On his death bed, he revealed that he was part of that plot. Again, 60 Minutes looked at it and then walked away. I know a lot about this story. But the media has been, I think, shockingly remiss in not looking into this investigation. It's a taboo subject. But it's clear—I think I present overwhelming evidence that Allen Dulles was complicit in this, in the assassination of the president. And he conveniently ran the investigation into the president's murder, because he strong-armed President Johnson into appointing him to the Warren Commission, where he became the dominant figure.

David Talbot, author of "The Devil's Chessboard: Allen Dulles, the CIA, and the Rise of America's Secret Government," re-examines what happened in Dallas on November 22, 1963, and looks at John F. Kennedy's relationship with his former CIA director. "The weekend of Kennedy's assassination, Allen Dulles is not at home watching television like the rest of America," Talbot said. "He's at a remote CIA facility, two years after being pushed out of the agency by Kennedy, called The Farm, in northern Virginia, that he used when he was director of the CIA as a kind of an alternate command post." Talbot also asks why the agency has refused to publicly release travel documents of CIA officials who have been identified for having a possible role in Kennedy's death.
