HARD NEWS

T: It's 11:11 which goes back to 1991; was a stargate opening then too - a follow up to the one of Harmonic Convergence 1987, and then to Earth Link 1988

- the Lock of Limitation was lifted after that: Jan 11, 1992
- 1987 - the photon belt touched down and gradually increased its light – now we are in a “get with the program” situation because we are in the process of doing the work of preparing all of us and Mother Earth for a yyyuuuuge transformation

R: it's been a wild day, wild week

T: the pneumonia she has at the moment is from the past: now called up to be transmuted

Larry, Curly and Joan Ivy [JL - code name] – called R this afternoon

- she's an original hippy who knew Fritz Perls and Bernie Gunther of the Gestalt Institute movement of the 60s
- Joan Ivy calls herself a female James Bond: used to work for MI 5 and MI 6 – don't ever really get out of the agency – just have to do your mission in between
- the surviving members of Fritz Perl and Gunther of the Essilon Institute are putting their heads together with Bruce Pearlwin & those connected to the hemp industry out of Essilon
- Larry, Curly, JI shared: the goddess is here and is fit to be tied due to the desecration of what is going on in the energies that have seemingly been ignored: the patriarchy will have to take a back seat, as the goddess shows up first
- they started the Essilon Institute after they met Ram Dass, Timothy Leary in Mexico, did the magic mushrooms and woke Up – then they created the Institute
- there are hot springs there, right at the edge of the cliff – ocean crashing just below
- In 1968, Rama got in the hot springs with Fritz, Bernie: Ashtar came through him at the time
- they sat for 4 hours talking with Ashtar; Fritz and Bernie got the download and were firing the questions! The transcript is in the Akashic Records
- It was early spring; still cold – before Kennedy, MLK and Bobby were killed.
- JJ – started to work with another group to begin the Essilon - to integrate healing of the Essilon Institute with marijuana – now it is totally legal.
  - California is talking of ceding from the union – NOT NOW! NESARA NOW!
  - they want to create an all inclusive industry: replacing all the fossil fuel based materials in autos with hemp – all biodegradable: can be used for wood, plastic, material
    - When we go to plastic with hemp, we end making it worse: there are 5 gyres in the ocean that are preventing the regeneration of the oceans which are dying because of that. Takes 10 years to clean up a gyre.
    - The invention of a 16 year old is supposed to be functioning in the ocean now – not sure of the status of that invention, process.
- Even though things look like they do, they said the goddess and her consort – Mother and Alcyone - are on the prowl.
- Have a video about Mother, Isis, LM Ma'at, the future self of Mother in the whole of the earth and all of her being; next age is the Age of Ma'at or the Age of Capricorn.
  - The Age of Ma'at, the age of balance and harmony, is going on simultaneously with the Age of Aquarius, the age of enlightenment, as we are not in linear time any more
  - these things are overlapping with the two Ages because we are not in linear time any more – things are very different, and we can progress very fast too.
- Horus is the first incarnation of the Office of the Christ of the oversoul of Sananda Kumara
  - Horus was working with the ray of Sananda Kumara through that period and that individual soul that volunteered to manifest that
  - this also goes to the idea that there are at least 17 identical soul incarnations in individual forms across the planet: different cultures, creeds: our basic soul matrix of ourselves is functioning in 17 places across the planet with all the other wisdom from that experience at once, so we are everywhere at once, and nowhere at all

- When we talk about Twin Flames, there are 17 options in Twin Flames: one of the aspects of your Twin Flame may be at a certain level of evolution, with some things not clear; another aspect somewhere else might be where we are or a bit ahead. There is a world group service thing going on where we are going beyond the way we do things now.

- Eg, the creation of new beings is done without the first chakra: the orgasmic ecstasy that comes with bringing your heart chakras together with your third eye chakra with your throat chakra with your crown chakra and creating new beings that way, that are fully functional without going through the womb space, it's the norm in the Pleiadian realms

- We are talking about this because 11:11 is the mastery of As Above, So Below - merged; this brings our immortality into reality!
  - Our goals are at a higher level – not just looking for the next morsel that would be good to eat - will move to prana yoga – actually consuming light at higher and higher levels and moving through the higher frequencies – very inspiring, but sometimes we wonder!
- what's being fulfilled right now with these beings present is the Rainbow Prophecies and the Hammer of Thor, and there are orders from Ra: that what has transpired recently is that these ones who call themselves the Gnostic Illuminati have placed themselves on the scale of LM Ma'at who makes the decision of what happens to their soul matrix.
  - Meaning we go beyond money games here – YES!
- Got an email from an Ashtar on the Road friend, who has many other friends, and they are holding on strongly to dinar, dongs and have been since 2004

Lady Di, Dodi, KOE: no exception: this money is dark, bloody money and cannot be used in any way, shape or form without endangering your life force as that was the intention when it was first started.

R: it's a trap that got set up by Hillary, and Phil and Wendy Gram/the Tea Party

- P & W got their blessing in 1999 and used it to fund the Tea Party, start the Patriot movements, and serve the archonic dragons – the albinos;
- The albino concept connects with the idea of melanin drained out of the skin – we are kind of like albino humans: not natural, something going on. It is serving that lineage.
- They are all part of us, yet when accountability is not taken into account, life time after life time – this particular life time is World Group Service to end it, and have it completely banished from the earth.
- And it is not about a lack of excitement: Excitement is not about people suffering daily, or dying or being violated every day – this is not exciting as when one is harmed, all are harmed.
- This is about kindness, joy, prosperity and love

Audio: Josh Foxx – how to let go of the world and love all the things climate can't change

- Josh was at Standing Rock: has not seen so much bravery, courage, peacefulness that he has seen with these people
  - saw Water protectors in North Dakota, the water, on the banks to get to their sacred land
  - there was a line of 100 police facing them - they stood there, told the police they were praying for them – then were pepper sprayed, hit with rubber bullets
- the media suppression & the violence against the people made him feel like Gandhi at the salt mines
  - the moral authority of the US and the North Dakota police fell apart at the feet of these people
  - If that pipeline is allowed to go through, it will be like the shredding of the constitution

- the environmental racism is bringing up the racism against the people: where are the Main stream media? Where are no reporters on the ground?
  - They are trying to prevent a pipeline from going under their water sources and a potential leak – not if the pipeline breaks, but WHEN – 17 million Americans would be affected when a leak occurs.
  - He lists all the places where pipelines have leaked, and what the cleanup has NOT achieved.
- People want to hear about Standing Rock: human rights violations; violations against the 1st Amendment against the press; racism;

BE SURE AND WATCH THE INTERVIEW !!!!

Thom Hartmann: <http://www.thomhartmann.com/bigpicture/josh-fox-did-obama-sell-out%E2%80%9D-%E2%80%9Cstanding-rock%E2%80%9D-pipeline>

BIG PICTURE INTERVIEW: Josh Fox Captures Brutal Police Crackdown at Standing Rock - Josh Fox, Gasland/Gasland II & *How to Let Go of the World and Love All the Things Climate Can't Change

- What Climate can't change: civic values; human rights, love, innovation, courage, community, resilience
  - what he saw at SR is a new kind of quality showing up all over the world: a new value system not based on greed – based on renewable energy, caring for your fellow man; Standing Rock is a remarkable community - people are welcomed by something rather extraordinary: culture is open to those willing to participate
    - and that cultural battle is in the face of what is going on all across America.
  - His film shows that with all the values etc that climate
- How has the election of Trump affected this: we have to be non-violent; need boots on the ground – all the people have to redouble their efforts – have to show, not just click a button on the computer; need to be more loving than ever.

CONFERENCE CALL

- P: asks for an explanation of the comments made at the beginning of the Hard News about lifting the Lock of Limitation and all the other events.
- T: It's 11:11 which goes back to 1991 – it was a stargate opening then too – an opening to 1997 and then to Earth Link 1988; the Lock of Limitation was lifted after that: Jan 13, 1992
- 1987, August - the photon belt touched down and gradually released / increased its light
- a series of openings of the heart, the soul, the mind and the cosmic energy of our beings moving more and more into the evolution on our ascension path
  - they still continue
  - 1987 Harmonic convergence at midnight bet Aug 16, 17th - Michah, Tara, his dad were at Colorado at Raynard Lake at 10,000' – 40 minutes from Boulder CO
    - Were camping: Micah and the other kids hanging out together – very dark with a moon and clear sky: all of a sudden the kids said "Look there!" And there were star ships – about 7 of them, blinking, spinning lights, moving – radio was on, sound was magnified; they were playing a 4 minute piece created by Jose Arguelles to be played at 4 minutes to midnight: tears running down their faces: an indelible experience

- 1988 Feb 13 – Earth Link 88 – Shield and Sherula had gone to the Giza Pyramids and were in the Kings Chamber that same night – grounding the energy there;
- Those at the San Geronimo lodge went to the Taos mtns and went up higher at midnight – did a fire ceremony; solfeggio scales together; invoked ascension energy frequencies

- 11:11 1991 - 3 years later: the energies were increasing at a great rate

1987, April - R went to the UN with Grandfather Davis and D'yanni Yahoo, female Dalai Llama

- R introduced the movie Wizard by Ralph Bakshi, done with animation, water colour backgrounds and real life; he did another movie called Cool World about a man who was a cartoonist; Michelle Pfeifer was in it. The cartoonist got in with the wrong crowd, got into a vortex and into a parallel world

1991, Dec 22, early in the morning - the Avalon Stargate opened on that solstice

- they got a Merlin outfit for Rama: a handmade one: long gown with a hood, red Merlin shoes – with curled pointed toes – had a wand
- the next day, went to Whole Foods – he was dressed as Merlin, she as an elf and did Tarot Readings; Mother showed up thru Rama
- a woman came who had been abducted by the grays and told her story

1992, Jan 11– the Lock of Limitation was lifted – A A Michael came through Sherula

- Between 11:11 and solstice, had a thanksgiving celebration – about 36 people
- stayed up all night and watched movies: Merlin, Sword in the Stone; there was music – a harp, a flute – she told stories through song; had live dolphin footage – told the story of Avalon and the link to events now.
- Lock of Limitation: from the time of Avalon until 11:11, 1992 – the lock was on the Stargate of Avalon; after that solstice, the lock was lifted and the stargate started to open; the stargates started to open one by one around the world
- When we have folks surrounding the president elect who are like Herman Hesse - we are not going to go through another Hitler story

Rainbird: never knew there was a gnostic illuminati – the Vatican are full-blooded

- swastika came from Northern India as did the Ayrians
- the 7 rishis Indra, Krishna
- they were reversing the positive principles, and turning them into negative energies – the rite is being done in Antarctica [John Kerry went there the day before the election] so they can do things in Japan
- no one will let this happen: E Warren was outraged on Rachel's show
- the electoral college is one of the loop holes: how can it be closed?

Lyndon Larouche said: evil is evil - no such thing as a lesser or greater

- there is no easier anything!
- This is not about the White Knights doing everything – they cannot do the arresting until the free will of the humans is lined up: awakening is upon all of us right now -
- Fran and Susan – we say “we require the ceasing and desisting of that they cease and deist now – blaze the Violet Fire!
  - This is active stuff and it works
- what is going on on the west coast is beyond the pale. [referring the riotous activities]
- A lot of doctors and scientists died because they were pushed through the Stargate in Baghdad
  - in 2007, when David Wilcock was talking about this, he commented they were experimenting on Montauk, using orphan kids from the streets of New York City as guinea pigs in a transporter beam when you are in a telephone booth and in the jump chair; the kids were killed. He said he was in the room; he just said what was done and went on. So he was hooked into the dark side right then and there – which means
  - same as Hillary – an albino blue blood – the dragons are various colours – originally had feathers,

- David Wilcock is essentially on the dark side, staying alive; taking money from another dragon called Fulford, also wanting to stay alive.
- Mother is saying they are their own: what good is the money if have a nazi dragon who says let's unsign the climate agreement – he's a racist, a murderer
  - Both HRC and Trump are aberrations of evil – we are more unfamiliar with gnostic illuminati members: the black magicians of the illuminati kind are as powerful as Lucifer which is as powerful as Christ
  - christ
  - Rama was a white wizard and got angry at Lucifer and was going to punish him; Lucifer put him in an amethyst crystal; for 3000 years; he got good at watching; learned how to listen to the sound of the one hand clapping.
- we are going to be polishing up on our skills – making love visible – crow medicine – love is work made manifest -
  - we all have our siddhas; we have full access to immortality with no limitations
  - when we read the Carl Boudreau – we found we were in a 50 year lockdown due to the astronomical alignments

2016-09-23 October 2016 - The Deep Astrological Context

[SEE BELOW]

- from Avalon on to that stargate, we were in a 1,200 Year lockdown

- there is a 520 year discrepancy in the timeline
  - galactic time – 26,826 year a yuga; 8-8-8 is built into the 26, 826 cycle [2+2=8; 8; 2+6=8]
  - galactic time is not linear; neither is there mental linearity – it's really timelessness
    - R learned about that when he was in the crystal – goes into the heart and resonates with the heart
    - earth time is linear
- playing John Pilger tomorrow with Going Underground
  - Pilger said yesterday during the interview with Julian Assange: this is not about Trump, or Hillary, or their minions – it's about a system that has so many loopholes that allows for so much corruption

Ro: We have been demanding this for a long time; why have not the White Knights not done it?

T: they are not in charge – St G gives the orders; nothing goes anywhere without the proper order

- as Mother said in 2010, she would extend things a bit longer - it was actually 2012, end of Mayan calendar – to let the laggards catch up, the light workers lagging – giving more souls an opportunity to get it!
- Same thing 2 years later – Mother Earth also has a big say in all of this.

RO: can't let him get away with this!

T: the light has been increasing exponentially and has been since 1987 – we exited the period of the age of the 5th sun and went into the Age of the 6th Sun -

- she has the reoccurrence of frequencies when she got tested with the technology – a lot of them on the pneumonia; she had rheumatic fever when she was 5 and had it for 6 months
  - did all her school work at home, in bed, pretty much wiped out. And there was emotional damage, psychic holocaust in her psyche – mental confusion, due to being raped by father from the age 3; once beaten by him with the buckle end of a belt when he was drunk, then dropped her on the floor when her mother came in the room; her shoulder was put out and she was knocked out.
  - Rama's mother was Jehovah; she had Lilith going through her father. AA Gabriel was coming through her mother!
- Need a few laughs – from Ross
- need humour especially with religion

Ro: a youth instructor was busted by his father; was making a move on a 14 year old girl: some catholic communities do take care and watch out for the kids.

- Stephanie Miller has been almost in tears since Tuesday
  - what is coming up is same sex marriage, LGBT issues
- How could we have Hillary – a dysfunctional cadaver with a dozen seizures a day – and being a hologram; we have to go to a deeper level of compassion for her: empathy
  - Julian Assange expressed compassion for her as she has been eaten alive by her ambition
- There is a 2.5 hour film about her, showing that her ambition got the best of her – power, money, greed
- an interview with Trump after 911 – said there couldn't be a plane – had to be a bomb.

BBS RADIO

MOTHER SEKMET / ALCYONE [M/A]

We are in the most amazing of times: the White Knights keep telling R that no matter what it looks like, there are all kinds of beings here to help us.

Greetings in the Light of the Most Radiant One; in the Office of the Christ and only in the Office of the Christ, we invoke the loving energies of St Germain and the Violet Flame.

We ask for the interplanetary awareness of that awareness to wake us all up! We have no idea of what is in store for us, and how much we are loved.

- Now is the time to receive love: we know that in giving we receive, yet now is the time to receive love in the cells: our 'don't-worry-be-happy-cells". The energies of these crafts are here in droves, and they are amping up the energies on this 11:11 night.
- Harmonic convergence between Aug 16, Aug 17, 1987; then 1988, Feb 13 Earth Link 88
  - Shield, Sherula and others from the Agartha Network were in Egypt for 6 months Aug 8, 1987 to Feb 13, 1988. On the night of August 8, 1987, they kept vigil in the Kings Chamber in the Giza Pyramid
- The galactic time is a yuga – different to earth time; it's 26, 826 years coded at the 8-8-8 [26+8; 8=8; 2+26=8] – these are numerical resonant factors coded into the galactic time frame.

Greetings!

- Time it is to embrace that which is these energies pouring in at such magnificent rates to lift everyone up to the highest frequencies for all concerned, the highest good.
  - This moment of 11:11 is a most unique period in our story, as the answer is yes: the inhabitants of the inter-planetary craft are here, and we all are part of this as a whole, as things are rapidly unravelling for the ones that have chosen the zig zag path to nowhere. As things are playing out. Yes, she saw the twitter stories about Mr 19.5* betrayed the Dakota Pipeline Water Protectors.

T: Doesn't know about that: there is a movement at NoDAPL action and 360.org – there is a lot of action to not do it – and Barack is was able to stop the Keystone

- they diversified – they want to go under the Cannonball River and the lake there – it's the DAPL company and it's connected to the guy who owns it who lives in Texas

M/A: What she can say is that he may be doing things. . .

- the time we are in is the about rainbow people, nation that shows up
- the story about the rainbow bridge all the way to Asgard: this story is being laid out in front of us as we speak. The Asgarrians will also participate in coming through the portals to help the water protectors, as well as the others who are bringing the story that is only getting bigger by the day.
  - As Dr Emoto has talked about, the water, the snowflakes – there is a movie Secret Story of Water – we are bags of water; she has said this many times: water IS life.
  - This issue we have before us is like our friend Nassim [Harimein] has said: there is an abundance of water throughout the solar system, the galaxy.
- The issues at hand here are this funny little story about her wayward children who, let's say – need a Lex Luther to go up against the Superman
  - Donald Trump is equivalent to Lex Luther on steroids: more in the realm of Thanos

T: He was so nervous he was playing with his fingers – he looked gob-smacked!

M/A: Orange Hitler/Thanos is gob-smacked because the Guardians of the Galaxy are back and all the other players in this story; how this gets resolved is we the people: we got the power!

- It is about love, first and foremost: kindness, the way in which this one who is the planetary prince, the co-regent along with Archangel Michael [Sananda], said: first order of business: the least among us - the homeless people who are being cast into the role the scapegoat because lies were committed, atrocities she cannot begin to account for in our language: war crimes 911, Afghanistan did no such thing; Iraq did no such thing.
- Everything has to do with the funny little circle of very small creepy life forms that want to play with the idea of power and control, yet they cannot even control their bowels. We won't go there: just say she is here; everyone is here – this is the arena. We shall not go down the road of Mad Max: Thunderdome

T: We are already on our way!

M/A: yes, we are, and in the same breath

T: It's like the little button there "Dump the Rump" with a tiny little "t" in the corner: we are stuck with him until something else happens; what do you think, Mother?

M/A: you have already won; the story is over; we are sitting around an electronic campfire and sharing the wisdom of an ancient story that has come to conclusion; final curtain call – no dress rehearsal

- The mystery man, the Lavender Lad, loves passion plays and it is playing itself out here.
  - We have a twisted, very twisted version of the funny guy with the candelabra – Liberace – yet Liberace is light years beyond Trump!
  - This is very, very much a story about energy out of its time/space continuum called evil with malicious forethought and intent which has been going on for the last yuga – it comes to conclusion now.
- As we have heard, LM Ma'at has these little families in her little scale – Libra holding up the scales of justice - she [M] is anticipating her dinner! It is the story here: evil is evil. She [Mother] comes at the beginning and the end of each yuga to balance out the story as we all grok that Goddess took a back seat.
    - Yet Rosa Parks stood up, became Goddess Sekhmet, and said not again. This time there is no bus; it is about how we open up the centre of the Milky Way Galaxy, to the Void and we complete this cycle about making new universes, new planets, new suns, new possibilities of infinite bliss and joy out of old energy that does not serve one one iota of the present cycle
    - This is why the stories about her: yes, she has on her red dress, and her chin is dripping with blood; it is about the conclusion of this time. Divine rights of this local system have been violated and therefore the folks who have diplomatic immunity in this time/space continuum - along with Metatron, Maitraya, Michael and Mother – will sort out these hanging chads: no more hanging chads

- It's an ancient term from the 2000 election when people had to pull the little pieces of paper off the ballots in Florida. And this one's cousin Al Gore did not choose to take the high road, and LM Maxine Watters laid him out: she got up 3x and called on the Senate to sign the document so she could talk – there was silence. She talked anyway for 2 minutes each time she stood up until Gore banged the gavel!

M/A: An interesting inter play as it got played out

- Now is the time as we conclude this cycle: what we have been told through the consciousness of this one: we show up any time, anywhere, unannounced. It is about Jaquar Medicine Woman – what she does in the jungle as she has to feed the kittens, the pups.
- It is about life everlasting: one cycle is ending: she comes as Kali, Pele, Dirga – it is about the death cycle – Bardo State in one hand and in the other, creation – the Void - how she makes new universes out of the soup of the old; it is primordial creation, energies.
- As we go about this story, and we want to know who really calls the shots - it is the Force, the mitachlorians; anima/animas – the priordial energies with no form – it IS Creator Source. We used to have stories about this in our ancient, ancient legends.
- As she recalls, Jeb and Newt are part of the story, as well as Grandfather Sky and Grandmother Earth. How it gets played out: Grandmother Spider comes in and weaves her web of the tails from Ariadne, the 13th constellation of Ophiuchus, the man holding the snake, serpent, separating the snake: now is the time of what is transpiring here, as we go through this cycle – Scorpio, Ophiuchus – the issues at hand here, of the great stories across the backdrop of sky – Gilgamish again

- the great story of her people coming from Babylon: it was a good city in the beginning – The people prospered; the land prospered. It was built with the energy of transmuted gold. There were buildings that shone like the sun with the copper, the silver, the gold. This is taking place again – the reformation, restoration. The ziggurats where the black empire of the west, called the Great Satan, came and violated the great temples of Ur
  - The ones that rise from the sand, the Pashcats, the others who protect the ziggurats: there are scorpions around the city of Baghdad that are bigger than M1 tanks, Black Hawk helicopters. These beings were here before people were there – when they began the seeding of lifeforms across the galaxy, trying out new species, new realities of how we can interact with each other in peace, in harmony -
  - the original life forms, scorpions, did not eat flesh, but liquid light that came from the sky; the pools of water that formed on the sand from the monoatomic gold fed the scorpions. Many life forms throughout the region [were lost] as the climatic effects of what happened after the flood and the destruction of Atlantis and the xenon gas escaped into space
- Here we have this - the story of a golden age of a fallen people rising up again.
- Why she brings this story up again: we have come full circle – Nibiru is back here, in orbit around the sun Sol; all our ancient brothers and sisters are back, and this is about how they sort out this mess, as it began with some of our wayward brothers and sisters who chose to take their powers that we all have – it's a universal thing – the siddas – [and use them in a destructive way, not for the good of all]
  - Everyone throughout the galaxy and universes has the powers that we understand as being those of the X Men, the guardians of the galaxy; we all have these abilities, as the energies rise higher and higher in this realm. They have already kicked in; it is causing quite a stir.
  - because this division between the ones, the old dinasaours from the silent generation who saw what happened here when the ancient life form from Lemuria, Atlantis, took up the gauntlet and played with the reverse swastika, the energy of the spinning of the universe – it has come full circle

- She has returned – she picks up her children and goes home, back to where they came from - to the anti-matter universe, and she takes her children with her as they dissolve into antimatter – this process has already begun. This is why she must say: send more love, peace, ecstasy and joy.
  - The Pleiadians and the Sirians came out with a message in last 24 hours about 11:11 – fear not; there is nothing to fear about this story except the ancient story of going home.
  - We all want to go home; home is here in the heart – can't get there from out there - have to go inside to here
  - It is simple: what do you choose, love or fear? I choose love.

T: there is a progressive movement of journalists, broadcasters, film directors – doing quite an amazing job of helping people to get/ understand what has been happening

- the votes were flipped – Amy was saying Hillary got all these votes more than Trump – yet they were his votes: it was flipped because of the electoral votes and those voters were strategically placed to get her votes. There is a real problem with the electoral college even though Hamilton and Madison put it together - it was a different time and situation – we are going to get an education as all this is unravelled.

M/A: it is the story about the gold dust and the melanin; she brings it to a conclusion here:

- the melanin, the gold dust is about what is flowing through our veins right now – not plasma, not hemoglobin; it is the mitochondria, the gold dust. The people of colour – as things changed across the planet, as the . . .

T: there are more people of colour as they are blending their colours

M/A: this brings in the rainbow prophecy now, the rainbow warriors, the new millenials stepping forward – she explains something for us: the term “White Knights”

- has nothing to do with white supremacy, white power, nazis, or anything connected with white folks. Get that one!!!
- They are a group of freedom fighters connected with the galactic warriors that are here, representing the contingency forces of Lord Michael's Legions of Light – nothing to do with Mr Hair, David Duke, crosses, and white sheets – farthest thing from it!!!
- The walking dead need not fear anything except what is here: L M Ma'at and herself – they complete the circle/cycle of the energy that is out of its time/space continuum called EVIL.
  - She comes to complete this circle/cycle of Babylon – and where is Zion? It is here, in the heart: it is about the real story about the true teachings of the man, Pistis Sophia, [Sananda] who is the one calling the shots along with Lord Michael. As we complete the cycle, what is transpiring across the planet – the ones of the millenials, indigo crystals, rainbow crystals, even the ones who don't have bodies yet, are stepping in and saying “let's do this NOW”.

T: Last week, played the “Best Democracy that Money can buy” and Eric Holder got nailed by max Keiser and Stacy Herbert in an interview they had with him in a US airport – an unexpected event; tonight, he is the guest tonight on Bill Mahers. Chris Christie lost his job as head on the Transition Team – the little lizard Pence got the job. M/A: Send more love! T: And Guiliani & 911 coming up at the same time - as the AG! OMG!

M/A: First order of business: talk about the bone fragments still sitting on the top of the Trump Tower in NYC. The fragments went nowhere except up and then down!

T: up to 87,000 dead now.

M/A: Correct. Send more love as Yoko and John talk about: all we are saying is give peace a chance. Call in the inhabitants of the inter planetary craft as we heard in the song: we are your friends and are only here in peace and love and joy.

- Greetings in the Light of the Most Radiant One!
  - Remember we have the power, people – use it now!

T: So mote it be!

R: Has been to Taos Mtn again; getting ready for winter space – working with the energies; the protectors of the mountain calling in

- Kept seeing images of Pacha Mama dancing with a jaquar on 2 legs, and then it turned into Quetzalquat!!!!

Grappling with the devastating results of the 2016 election will entail that we also grapple with the phenomenon it will distribute amongst our lives thricefold: violence. We are about to see a significant uptick in violence against all minorities; this election is already giving way to widespread Islamophobia, racism, and brutality.

In this very special broadcast, we return to a panel convened last year, moderated by Laura, that takes on violence against women as it spans across those intersections. Convened by One Billion Rising, V-Day, and the Columbia Law School Center for Intersectionality and Social Policy Studies, this panel wonders how women can resist the violence of "state, and empire." What can we learn from these panelists, including Monique Wilson and Eve Ensler, who address the issue from vast and diverse corridors of injustice? How should we plan to work to protect the many women in our lives, Black women, Trans women, Muslim women, and their rights to abortion, expression, or refuge?

We hope you will take from this episode a few new tools and some comfort. Look out for part 2, and support media that supports you.

The Deep Astrological Context of October 2016

Jupiter recently entered Libra in the context of a major astrological transition. A powerful astrological configuration has dominated global affairs for something approaching half a century. This slow break up this configuration was the context of Jupiter's Libra ingress.

The thought patterns and social, political and economic structures that this configuration called into being are being tested. The bill for work undone, for challenges unmet and problems neglected and mishandled are coming due.

An immense, concentrated flow of powerful energies are being re-mixed, rechanneled and re-purposed. I believe the best way, perhaps the only way, to effectively convey the scale and complexity of this transition is to take what folks in the news media refer to as "A Closer Look," or a "Deep Dive."

I think it is only by going over the details that we will gain an understanding of what we are up against.

The Oligarchic Alignment

By late 1971, the three outer planets, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, had all begun lengthy transits of the six signs (Libra thru Pisces) associated with our professional and governing elites. We might refer to these signs collectively as the institutional or administrative signs.

By the end of 1980, Saturn and Jupiter had joined Uranus, Neptune and Pluto in the administrative signs. In other words, Jupiter and Saturn also became part of what, for reasons that will soon become apparent, I refer to as the oligarchic alignment.

The basic three-planet alignment remained in effect for nearly forty years. Singly or together, Jupiter and Saturn would also have been part of that alignment for much of that time.

Force Multipliers

We need to take a moment to grasp just how much power was concentrated in this alignment and for how long.

The three outer planets are especially powerful. Individually, each exercise immense influence over an entire region of collective consciousness for an extended period. Collectively, they strongly influence the totality of collective consciousness. Their influence is global.

This influence is intensified when all three bodies are concentrated in one part of the Zodiac. It's even greater when, was the case, the signs involved include the home signs of all three planets (Uranus/Aquarius, Neptune/Pisces, Pluto/Scorpio). These planets also had a home field advantage. It's greater when this tight concentration spans decades, as it did in this case.

We're talking about the lion's share energy in the Zodiac working in close coordination in their own section of the Zodiac. Combined, these three planets probably accounted for most of the creative energies at work in the Zodiac from 1971 until very recently.

Placement in the institutional signs, Libra thru Pisces (the signs of the 1%), is another major force multiplier. Combined, these six signs and their ruling planets govern the totality of global, political and economic power in the world. The institutional/administrative signs and their native planets have comprehensive, long-term effects on a global scale.

The power in this alignment would have been augmented while Jupiter and Saturn were also transiting these six institutional signs. It would have been even further augmented in those months of the year when the inner planets were transiting these same signs. All the energy in the Zodiac was concentrated in these signs for significant stretches.

Pluto Over All

One way to assess the relative strength of planets is by their place in a given planetary cycle. For example, we can gauge the overall strength of Pluto in this alignment by its place in the Uranus/Pluto and Neptune/Pluto cycles. By this measure, Pluto dominated the entire oligarchic alignment for its entire existence.

Pluto is known for the exercise of raw power. The terms "brute force", "absolute power", "total domination", "unrelenting control" and "obsessive manipulation" are typically associated with Pluto. In so many words, the power inherent in the oligarchic alignment would have been driven by the relentless power of Pluto.

The Duration

As the planets transited month by month, year by year, the astrological power concentrated in the oligarchic alignment would have fluctuated marginally. But it would have remained at high levels throughout.

At no point would the astrological power in the remaining six signs - the signs associated with the 99% (Aries thru Virgo) - come even close to the power concentrated in Libra thru Pisces at its lowest.

Given the way sign rulerships and relative planetary power works, the energies of Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Mars would tend to fall into line behind the more powerful, slower moving outer planets.

For decades, as a practical matter, by virtue of derivative house relationships, the Pluto/Neptune/Uranus/Saturn/Jupiter alignment would have determined how Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Mars energies expressed.

Theoretically, people should have been moved to resist the formation of an oppressive and exploitative global oligarchy. Perhaps some were. However, the effect of what resistance there was appears, in retrospect, to have been minimal or judging by the damage done, insufficient. There were bound to have been some striking variations, oscillations, anomalies and seeming exceptions along the way. But these would not have changed the overall picture. Neither would minor errors in astrological calculation. The oligarchic alignment was in full force, operating under Pluto's firm hand for the better part of 50 years.

We are necessarily painting in broad strokes. However, this much seems certain. We're dealing with a complex, unusually potent and long-lived astrological formation with many moving parts in place and operative for something approaching a half century.

That process and the policies, practices and institutions that came into existence during its tenure are currently in the process of breaking up. We're talking about disorder on a grand scale and the epidemic psychospiritual stress that comes with it.

Global Oligarchy

The outsized energetic advantage of the global elites translated into even greater economic, social and political advantage than they already enjoyed simply by virtue of their position in society. As is now quite clear, this intense concentration of planetary power in administrative signs - the signs of the governing elites - rather quickly translated into global oligarchy.

The power of national elites became even greater when, as a matter of course, local and national oligarchs grew, combined and grew into global oligarchy - global rule by a small, wealthy and powerful elite.

Why a Global Oligarchy?

There is nothing inherently or necessarily oligarchical in the astrological signs, houses, planets and aspects or in the archetypal principles and themes associated with them. In fact, too, I think we were meant to resist the temptation to oligarchy.

It seems clear why oligarchic trends prevailed if we take into account our economic and political legacy as a race. The concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few, or even a single individual, is a historical commonplace. There are countless examples of such.

Let us just say that as a result of this history, layer upon layer of pro-oligarchic patterning was sedimented in global collective consciousness. Given this legacy, it is not difficult to understand how a massive, exclusive, generations-long concentration of planetary power in the signs of already wealthy and powerful elites would give rise to global oligarchy.

We might say that given our history and the existence of this alignment, the emergence of a global oligarchy was overdetermined, perhaps even massively overdetermined.

Oligarchs Gone Wild

With Uranus, Neptune and Pluto in houses controlled by the 1%, the 1% decided what if anything ever warranted protest or needed reform (Uranus). They were empowered to choose which ideals would guide us (Neptune). They also decided who should hold power, how it should be wielded and why (Pluto).

For much of the time, the oligarchs also decided what was logical and legal (Saturn), who would become wealthy, how wealthy they would become, who would share in that wealth and why (Jupiter).

For going on half a century, the oligarchs made virtually all the rules. They won every hand. They decided every case. By the end, they called every shot.

But that was us, drinking our own oligarchic kool aid. We followed the yellow brick road that we ourselves had paved to global oligarchy.

The Break Out Moment(s)

The planets in the alignment had no rivals. To break the power of the oligarchic alignment, and not just vary it, one or more of the three outer planets in the alignment would have to move out of the six institutional signs into Aries.

In practice, that meant Uranus, which was coming within striking distance of its Aries ingress. When Uranus entered Aries in 2010-11, the extraordinarily powerful alignment behind global oligarchic madness began breaking up.

In Aries, Uranus's independence of the oligarchic alignment was real but not complete. It was no longer in one of the institutional signs was no longer a part of the oligarchic alignment. In Aries, the loyalties of Uranus shifted to the signs of the 99%.

However, in terms of planetary cycles, Uranus was still subordinate to both Pluto and Neptune. They still exercised significant influence over how Uranus's energies might express. Also, Aquarius, the home sign of Uranus was itself an institutional sign.

Looking back on 2010-11, it is clear that the spirit of protest and reform did reawaken in the 99%. The 1% did find themselves on the defensive.

When it moved into Aries, Uranus formed a square with Pluto which was exact 7 times over a period of 3 years (2012-15). You will also recall the conflicts like those of the Arab Spring, triggered by the Uranus/Pluto square.

Call for Backup

Liberal and progressive candidates won high office but their hands were still tied by the oligarchic establishment. Some political leaders just exploited the rebellious spirit to set up populist dictatorships. Uranus in Aries wasn't going to be enough.

So some of us awakened under the influence of Uranus in Aries, but most remained under the spell of oligarchy. It was going to take more to weaken the alignment's hold on our political and economic imaginations and, by extension, its hold on our affairs.

Neptune is next in line to leave the alignment, but it won't enter Aries until 2025-26. Realistically, to break the grip of oligarchy, we'd need an assist from one of the inner planets, namely Saturn. It is the only inner planet with the heft to put a dent in the power of the alignment.

Saturn's Big Ingress - the Mutable T-Square.

This brings us to the Saturn Sagittarius ingress of 2014-15. In late 2015, Saturn transitioned from Scorpio into Sagittarius for the full transit.

In Sagittarius, Saturn is actually within the oligarchic alignment. Also, by virtue of its position in the various planetary cycles, Sagittarius already had significant leverage over the energies in the alignment.

Unlike its earlier transit of the institutional signs (in the 80s and 90s), however, Saturn was not under Pluto's thumb. Saturn had true leverage. Common sense has, in fact, been gaining ground in public discussion.

Saturn Weighs In

Overall, though, in terms of planetary cycles, Saturn gained only marginally by moving into Sagittarius. Taken by itself, Saturn in Sagittarius account for only part of the improvement. Far more importantly, I think, in Sagittarius, Saturn formed a mutable T-Square. This T-Square was the perfect vehicle for Saturn's energies and it dramatically enhanced Saturn's sobering, salutary influence on global affairs.

The mutable T-Square put the brakes on the creation and spread of oligarchic ideology. People became increasingly aware of oligarchy's downside and critical of measures taken to support it. The mutable T-Square is an engine of truth, reason, moral rectitude and spiritual uplift, a perfect complement to, or extension of, Saturn's native powers. Locking The North Node, Jupiter and Saturn into an adversarial relationship with Neptune effectively checked the influence of the oligarchs.

The mutable T-Square is now acting as a serious restraint on the once reckless, feckless exercise of oligarchic power. The age old illusions that inspired oligarchy and the misconceptions that made it so appealing are increasingly coming in for scrutiny.

You will doubtless have noticed the sharp increases in investigative journalism, exposés, whistleblowing, information leaks, fact finding and fact checking generally. Protest movements are gaining ground. Leaders have begun calling our oligarchy what it is. They are also actively discussing alternative governing philosophies.

There has been increased pushback against the lies and illusions that support the oligarchy. Also, the oligarch's exercise of power exclusively on their own behalf is meeting with increasing resistance.

Having said all that, energy combinations that include Saturn and Pluto are typically harsh. All the better, then, to know that Jupiter's influence over the oligarchic alignment is now growing. Even with Uranus in Aries, Saturn in Sagittarius and the mutable T-Square, considerable strength remains in the oligarchic alignment. Global momentum toward oligarchy continues.

Jupiter Re-Enters the Oligarchic Alignment

As I wrote in September's post, when Jupiter entered Libra it moved from a position of marked impairment to one of relative empowerment.

The energies of the alignment were already being exercised under Saturn's stern, disciplined eye. Jupiter's Libra ingress will add the energies of spiritual uplift, human decency, compassion, generosity and optimism to the mix.

Jupiter's movement into Libra will further moderate and mitigate the effects of the oligarchic alignment. Over time, it will loosen Pluto's obsessive grip on our affairs and lessen the harshness of its influence.

Moving into Libra, an institutional sign, gave Jupiter full standing in the oligarchic alignment. In terms of planetary cycles, its current position in the Jupiter/Saturn, Jupiter/Neptune and Jupiter/Pluto cycles grant it leverage over all three of these bodies.

In the coming year, as Jupiter moves quickly toward Scorpio, Jupiter will also achieve definitive leverage over Uranus in Aries. In Scorpio, Jupiter will also enjoy a more harmonious relationship with Pluto and a more intimate, positive interaction with Saturn.

Jupiter is above all, a generous and compassionate influence. In Libra, with its leverage over Saturn, Pluto, and Neptune, it will inject common sense and decency into the fraught, vexed negotiations between the 99% and the 1%.

As I mentioned above, Neptune is next in line to leave the alignment, but it won't enter Aries until 2025-26. That being so, we must depend on incremental change for continuing improvement. We will have to work hard for the next decade with the planetary resources already in place.

The Mills of the Gods Grind Slowly

September's Jupiter Libra ingress could not immediately compensate for all the difficulties of August's and September's charts. Nor could it compensate for everything that had gone before, nor for the continuing unfoldment of events already in motion.

Neither could Jupiter's Libra ingress compensate for all the difficulties inherent in the immense and complex transition now taking place.

Under present astrological circumstances, no single planetary ingress could do that. We are just in the midst of a lengthy, complicated and difficult transition.

If the pace of change were slower, it would be agonizing. If it were faster, change would be even more dangerously disruptive than it already is.

Having said all that, October's vibes will be easier and less treacherous with Jupiter's Libra ingress than without it.

October 2016

The full implications of the above are difficult to quite grasp. However, the events of October offer an opportunity for a closer, illuminating look at what we can expect in the immediate future.

Too Many Memories

We've just endured three eclipses in two months. Eclipses tend to bring life changing events and epochal, irreversible social, economic and political changes. Corners tend to be turned. There tend to be consequences. Chickens come home to roost.

There will be no eclipses in October. That will have to be an improvement. However, the lack of eclipses will not necessarily bring calm or afford peace of mind.

The memory of recent events will keep people alert and on edge. We will be dealing with the aftershocks, the follow on effects, of these three eclipses. If only because of what we have been through, tension and anxiety will likely remain high. But October will have its own, additional sources of disquiet.

Too Many Moons for Comfort

In October, there will be an 'excess of lunar energy' to contend with. Essentially, we have a two month period (September and October) with three New Moons worth of energy to process.

This will bring higher than normal levels of mental and emotional volatility, especially after a series of three eclipses. The extra New Moon will make the psychospiritual pot boil more vigorously generally.

New Moon in Libra, Sept 30/Oct. 1, 2016 UT

Full Moon in Aries, October 16, 2016 UT

New Moon in Scorpio, October 30, 2016 UT

The Big One

We'll also need to contend with a Mars/Pluto conjunction.

Mars Conjunct Pluto at 15° 4' Capricorn, October 19 UT

The conjunction will be a powerfully disruptive event in and of itself. Both Pluto and Mars will be in forward motion. The conjunction is taking place in cardinal signs. Also, this is the first (and only) time the conjunction will be exact. These factors suggest a powerful detonation.

The Mars/Pluto conjunction will build on the aftershocks of the eclipses. The general excess of lunar energy will further multiply its psychosocial side effects.

The Mars/Pluto conjunction on October 19, then, looks like a high impact Mars/Pluto encounter. It will doubtless generate some very upsetting headlines in the runup, during, and in the aftermath of the blast.

The natural and man made disasters, the violent confrontations, the bitter public controversies it inflames will be impressive, I think. But the potentially catastrophic effects will be the least of it. They are likely to be limited in number and localized.

The conjunction's effects on our politics, however, will be intense and pervasive and, in all likelihood, will affect most of us quite personally.

New Fire in the Embers

Countless bitterly contested issues remain unresolved from the Uranus/Pluto square of 2012-15. These innumerable, often vexed issues - many sharply contested - still simmer, ready to flare anew.

The issues still simmering from the Uranus/Pluto square grew out of tensions that built up between the 1% and the 99% over several decades. These issues, in their turn, have roots very deep in our collective history. The Mars/Pluto conjunction will be strong enough to expose these roots.

The restorative energies of Jupiter/Venus and Saturn will then be applied to healing and resolving these issues.

Mixing Painful and Healing Emotions

I think the best way to understand this complex, delicate and volatile process is by looking at the dispositor chart for the conjunction. In this chart, the scary bits are clearly represented.

Uranus is in Aries, the home sign of Mars. Mars and Pluto are in Capricorn, the natural sign of Saturn. Sober Saturn has the last word in this potentially explosive quartet.

But from Saturn the baton passes to Jupiter in mutual reception with Venus. Benevolent energies of Jupiter and the sweet energies of Venus, between them, get the final word.

We see a dual process. The Mars/Pluto blast will open fault lines. Sealed passages will split open. Dormant issues will flow out amid pain and outrage.

Then, in quick succession, the sobering energies of Saturn, the soothing and healing energies of Venus and Jupiter will be applied.

The real positives of October will come from the impetus and the unusual opportunity to resolve deep and vital issues with a rare combination of healing and restorative energies.

October will not bring instant and total relief. It will bring an extraordinary opportunity to revisit and work toward a resolution of difficult issues, effectively laying the groundwork for a new world, free of much that hobbled the old world.

Trump on 9/11: "That took a big bomb in the basement"

As election fever dies down to be replaced by either disbelief or celebration, depending on who you are, Donald Trump interviews and content are beginning to resurface.

A phone interview with Donald Trump, which appears to have been overlooked at the time of the 9/11 attacks, has him speaking frankly about what he believes brought down the Twin Towers, after witnessing the saga unfold from his own office.

The question is posed to Trump at 5:14: Was it architectural defect, planes or bombs that caused the collapse of the Twin Towers?

During the interview with WWOR/UPN 9 News, Trump, without hesitation, states that the buildings didn't come down due to "architectural defect." Trump continues, "Don't forget, that took a big bomb in the basement."

The building, he said, was an "unbelievably powerful building ... it was the strongest structure you could have."

Trump was taken by a structural engineer to see the basement, only days after the attack. "There was a hole in the steel ... I happen to think that they not only had a plane but they had bombs that exploded almost simultaneously, [be]cause I just can't imagine anything being able to go through that wall."

Be it that you love or hate Trump, this interview post 9/11, does shine some light on the biggest attack that occurred on United States' soil; one that altered the world as we once knew it.

2016-11-14 Shot in the Back at Standing Rock

<http://www.thedailybeast.com/articles/2016/11/14/shot-in-the-back-at-standing-rock.html>

Elders kept in cages. Demonstrators shot with rubber bullets. What's happening at Standing Rock isn't just a protest, Oscar-nominated filmmaker Josh Fox writes. It's a character test —one America is failing.

Josh Fox

OCETI SAKOWIN CAMP, Standing Rock Reservation—The moral soul of this continent is at Standing Rock, and at the moment that soul is being beaten, maced, pepper-sprayed, tear-gassed, and locked up by a militarized police force acting on behalf of foreign oil companies.

As North Dakota police lock up and abuse peaceful “water protectors,” members of a growing resistance to the Dakota Access Pipeline slated to transport oil under the Missouri River, it becomes clear that the fight over the tribal land of Standing Rock is not only the primary battleground for indigenous sovereignty; it is the center of the fight for clean water, to fight climate change, and to ban hydraulic fracturing. At its base, this is a struggle between the people and a government corrupted by corporate power.

Wes “Mekasi” Horinek, an activist with the water rights group Bold Alliance was arrested during a camp raid by local police. He described the atrocities he’s witnessed: “peaceful protesters were hooded, put in stress positions, strip-searched. We were placed in dog kennels with numbers written on our arms for hours. Elders were kept in cages in the basement of the police station for days.”

They’re the type of images that evoke the infamous photos from Abu Ghraib. North Dakota police have been accused of destroying sacred objects—eagle feathers stripped off religious leaders, peace pipes broken, and during an Oct. 27 raid in one of the camps, tribe members were ripped out of sweat lodges and arrested. “Our teepee flaps were forced open with the muzzle end of an M-4 rifle,” remarked Floris White Bull, a prominent activist and the great-grandniece of the legendary Lakota Chief Sitting Bull.

The scene at the front line is surreal. There are 40 or 50 water protectors—young people from all over the nation who have come to protect this watershed from the Dakota Access Pipeline. In the water—40-degree water; North-Dakota-in-November cold-ass water—standing there shivering with Mylar blankets, holding hands, praying, unable to reach the shore that is guarded by a line of 60 or 70 or 100 police in riot gear.

Cold, half-naked, prayerful, and peaceful, the protectors speak directly to the police gathered from five different states. “Please leave our watershed. Leave our sacred burial grounds. All we want is clean water,” they say.

Even while periodically being shot at with rubber bullets, they keep their grace, their composure, their prayers, and entreaties for peace. This is the kind of bravery I have never seen; the willingness to be 100 percent vulnerable in the face of state licensed violence. I felt like I was watching the Salt Mine Protests lead by Gandhi himself, where hundreds of Indians allowed themselves to be clubbed and beaten in protest of the British Empire. I wondered whether I was witnessing another tottering empire about to fall—an empire set up to defend the dying petrochemical industry, one becoming less legitimate with each water protector beaten, sprayed, and arrested.

The Dakota Access Pipeline is proposed to carry crude oil—fracked out of the Bakken Formation in western North Dakota—across both Dakotas, Iowa, and eventually to Illinois. The pipeline is being challenged at every point along the route. Farmers in Iowa have been arrested by the busload, objecting to what they call “eminent domain for private gain.” Shale oil companies have dug up their backyards to transport some of this, the dirtiest, most polluting fuel on the planet, from another Indian reservation, Fort Berthold. And the Democratic (and Republican) love affair with fracking of all kinds represents a fundamental shift in American energy policy, away from conventional oil and gas and toward what should be called “extreme energy”—energy that is more dangerous, more expensive, and worse for the planet.

The form of this extreme energy that I am most intimately acquainted with, fracking, has poisoned watersheds across the U.S., increased greenhouse-gas emissions, and put communities in peril around the world. Fracked oil and natural gas represent a new frontier in exploiting fuel reserves that must not be extracted if we are to keep civilization above water. We are so close to crucial tipping points that our foremost climate scientist, James Hansen, famously called the rise of fracking, the development of Canada’s vast Tar Sands, and other new forms of extraction as “game over for the planet.” The amount of greenhouse gases, carbon dioxide, and methane that would be emitted by tapping these fields is so onerous that it would warm the planet well past a point where we can keep glaciers frozen and the Eastern Seaboard above the rapidly rising seas.

So, this Dakota Access Pipeline is not just an issue of indigenous peoples’ sovereignty, although that is first and foremost in the battle at Standing Rock. It represents the center of our climate-change and fracking fight as we know it in the United States.

The struggle against #DAPL, as it is called on Twitter, was first brought to light by the youth council of Standing Rock, who literally ran thousands of miles from their reservations to Washington, D.C., and then to New York City to plead their case to the public and President Obama.

Their primary rallying cry was for their water. The Dakota Access Pipeline is slated to run beneath the Cannonball River, a tributary to the Missouri and part of a watershed that supplies 17 million people. The pipeline was originally planned to go through Bismarck, but the residents there objected and the Army Corps of Engineers along with Dakota Access Pipeline LLC decided to reroute it—straight through the Native American reservation. Of course, that decision underlines the deep environmental racism that happens when the United States plans energy projects. Routing the pipeline through Standing Rock Reservation rather than via the predominantly white state capital city is emblematic of a century’s worth of housing the most dangerous energy projects in communities of color.

But this is not a just a symbolic or abstract moment of environmental grandstanding. The Native Americans at Standing Rock have a real point when it comes to the danger to their water supply. Pipelines the world over leak at an alarming rate—more than 2,000 in the last two decades. “Since 2009, the annual number of significant accidents on oil and petroleum pipelines has shot up by almost 60 percent,” according to the Associated Press. In fact, the industry exists in what I call a permanent state of criminal negligence, and spills are more often the result of decades of neglect than chance malfunctions.

One recent USA Today investigation shows that hundreds of spills have gone unreported in North Dakota alone, and there is no federal agency that is tasked primarily with monitoring, policing, or cleaning them up. Looking at just our recent history, one can see many examples of watersheds that were devastated by oil and gas negligence. The Yellowstone River spill. The Kalamazoo River spill, which several years after their spill, and millions of dollars later, still hasn't reached any significant state of cleanup. The recent oil leak at Santa Barbara, contaminating beaches along the California coast. The rupture at Mayflower, Arkansas, where an entire town had to be abandoned because Exxon's oil pipeline flooded out an entire town. Pictures of suburban garages bathed in oil and toxic substances and volatile organic compounds, benzene, and other carcinogens, are exactly the kind of all too commonplace messes that the Standing Rock tribe is trying to prevent.

The decision whether to move ahead rests with the Army Corps of Engineers—and that is to say, President Obama. The pipeline has snaked its way up both sides of the river. On either side of the Cannonball, there is a 400-yard corridor controlled by the Army Corps and on which the pipeline company does not have a permit to drill. (In fact, it's treaty land that was ceded to the Standing Rock Nation in 1851, and where an ancient burial ground exists.) Engineers would have to horizontally drill underneath the river and come out the other side. They'd have to do that through the Army Corps' land. For that, they need President Obama's explicit approval.

So now, we wait for Obama to act—as water protectors get maced and pepper-sprayed all along the shore of the river.

The protests are set to go global. The Indigenous Environmental Network, Honor the Earth, and 350.org are calling for peaceful demonstrations at Army Corps offices and in other locations on Nov. 15. Hundreds of actions are planned in support of the Standing Rock water protectors.

And Stop this pipeline in its tracks

Back at the riverbank, upon arrival there's a commotion. Someone screams that a young kid has been hit by a rubber bullet. We see people rushing to an ambulance and speeding someone away. I get the firsthand report. The kid who's been shot—it was one of the teenagers on the banks. He was speaking to one of the officers, and gathering wood to make a makeshift barricade in the water to stop the police boats from approaching the site when he was shot in the back at point-blank range. He's coughing up blood.

Running back to see yet another barrage of pepper-spray, I hear cheers from both sides of the river. Is it possible that these folks are cheering when they are getting maced?

Along the banks, I see the first line of defenders who have been pepper-sprayed crying and choking. They cannot breathe. Their faces are being flushed with bottles of Milk of Magnesia by medics on shore. Lying down covered in Mylar blankets, they are choking and crying. Some white. Some Native American. Some black. All of them—gasping for breath and wincing past the pain.

I speak with one. I say, "Are you alright?" He says, "Yeah. This doesn't bother me. I've been pepper-sprayed so many times. I'm not afraid."

It reminds me of a conversation I had with another young girl earlier in the week, a woman who only gave her first name, Suzi. She walks up to the police barricade at the bridge on State Route 1806. She's got lollipops and gum in her pocket. The police step out of their jeeps with their M-4 rifles, their body armor, in front of a row of LRADs—the noise cannons they use to disperse the crowd. She says, "I'm here to give you this candy." She told me that she was going to kill them with love and hugs and sweetness. A little bit bemused, two soldiers hold out their hands. She says, "Give these to the cops that have good hearts. Don't give them to the Dakota Access Pipeline workers. We're praying for you. Even though you are not on our side, you're human beings and we love you." The police take the lollipops and bubble gum and say thank you.

Fearlessly, she walks back across the barricades, beyond the burned up trucks and cars. I say, "Aren't you scared?" She says, "No." I say, "Really?" She says, "What are they gonna do? Shoot me?" and I said, "Well, frankly, yes." And she says, "Well, so what? I'll take one for the team. I'm protected. I'm surrounded by love."

You might call this the naiveté of youth, but that would be an insult to bravery like this. Standing Rock affirms over and over again that people need justice; they need to participate and they need to sacrifice and they need to be involved.

The greed, individualism, and consumerism that are the hallmarks of our American society now are not really what binds us together as a civilization. Our need to do good, to be good, to stand up for each other, to fight for the environment, to fight for our rights, to fight for what is right—that ends up being stronger than anything else.

So, as I race back to the front line from the ambulance taking the young boy off, I barely get my footing when I hear ka-pow! I see a crowd not five feet away from me scattering. I turn my face and my rolling camera to the right and I see Erin Schrode, my colleague in reporting, limping away. I think, "Oh my God. This can't possibly be happening." The cops had fired into the crowd and hit Erin in her lower back. I race to her and say, "Did they shoot you?" Wincing through tears, she nods, crying, "Yes! Yes!"

A crowd assembles around her, including Wes "Mekasi" Horinek. She's saying, "I'm OK. I'm OK. I'm OK." Even through her puffy winter jacket, the blow that she describes as devastating has left a huge welt just below her ribs on the right side of her back. Medical attention comes to her quickly. The medic looks at me and says, "They are targeting journalists, and they're targeting medics."

Later, in an interview, I ask him to elaborate. He says, "Well, last Thursday on the front lines, I was arrested while I was trying to administer medical aid to people who had been injured. I spent three days in jail. My colleague—the other medic on the scene—was literally ripped out from behind the steering wheel of our ambulance while it was in drive, causing the car to potentially lurch toward a crowd a people. We were both in jail for three days."

There's a pattern of repression against journalists in North Dakota unfolding every day.

Democracy Now! host Amy Goodman was written up on charges for her reporting in Standing Rock, where a private security firm sicced dogs on Native protesters, biting and assaulting them.

Goodman was presented with criminal-trespass charges, which were eventually thrown out. Shailene Woodley was arrested for livestreaming to 40,000 fans. Her arrest, captured on her smartphone, has had millions and millions of views. Deia Schlosberg, my producer on my most recent film, How to Let Go of the World and Love All the Things Climate Can't Change, is facing a 45-year sentence for taping an oil and gas protest in North Dakota.

And now, Erin Schrode—shot in the back, in the middle of an interview. She actually captured herself being shot. When she saw it, she immediately went into convulsions and sobbed, reliving the impact. I guess it's not that easy to watch yourself being hit in the back. A military expert later confirmed that this was not a normal bean-bag round or what you call a rubber bullet. This was a rubber round shot out of a grenade launcher. A .37 to .40 mm round that is never supposed to be used against peaceful demonstrators—a round whose application is primarily to knock down doors. I personally saw three of these rounds being fired against the crowd.

The response from the local cops? "We are not aware of her being shot," Lt. Tom Iverson, a North Dakota Highway Patrol Public Information Officer, said, after shown a video of Erin getting hit. "As we all know, you take what you see on social media, on Facebook, with a grain of salt. It is unbelievable, the false lies that are out there on social media."

I don't know which is more disturbing: the fact that police shot a reporter in the back or the fact that yes, they charged a round against peaceful protestors and have absolutely no records of incident. This is the gunboat that shot Erin Schrode.

It was the guy on the right. He doesn't have a badge or name on his uniform because Morton County allowed these officers to go anonymous in the field—another egregious human-rights violation. Erin's story exploded in the press and the irony of that was not lost on her. She spent the next week pointing out how it was not her story that should be reported because she was a white woman and a reporter. The story that should be reported is about how these Native tribes are being abused every single day.

If we are going to stop a Trump administration from ravaging our country and our climate, we are all going to have to leave our house a lot more to go to demonstrations, to stand in between the fossil-fuel industry and their jack-booted thugs. It's going to take great personal sacrifice and political will on the ground in the form of people in the streets. Don't let the water protectors' sacrifices be in vain. It is as if American history is being played out in miniature. On one side, the terrible legacy of the genocidal Indian wars of Manifest Destiny, atrocity, and slaughter. On the other side, the great American tradition of equality, egalitarianism, the Bill of Rights, democracy, the fight for human rights. The collision course of history couldn't be clearer than it is at Standing Rock. On one side, the descendants both genealogically and ideologically of General Custer and on the other side, Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, and Wounded Knee. The ghosts of history dance in front of us on the water. The vapors of tear gas and pepper spray menacing their legacy. It is the fight for the climate, for the Bill of Rights, and for all of America standing there shivering in the water. We owe it to all that is right and just to be moved by this struggle and to participate.

The very next day, just after dozens were treated for pepper spray and tear gas and several were shot with rubber bullets, the water protectors went back out to face dozens of riot police. As usual, they were unfazed, prayerful, loving, and fighting for all of us.
