

Find the others

Connect with KM allies

A conversation has begun around the creation, storage, retrieval and dissemination of knowledge in Africa. Join the conversation and help create a community of KM professionals passionate about all aspects of knowledge.

KMAfrica KnowledgeHub is a virtual meeting and storage place packed with relevant features. Here you'll find resources, forums, surveys, platforms for contribution and a way to connect with like-minded people from all over Africa and the globe. It is also completely free.

Participate, contribute, share and benefit

Member Blogs. As a registered KMAfrica.com member, your blog can highlight your work so that it has the attention of Africa's knowledge community.

Access to Know-How. Whatever you need to know now has probably been solved by someone else already. The wiki technology in KMAfrica KnowledgeHub allows storage of any combination of digital information including voice, data, slide-shows, text and movies.

Shared Calendars of KMAfrica knowledge events throughout Africa, as well as international KM events of importance.

Aggregated Newsfeeds from a wide variety of recognised KM resources and blogs on the internet.

Knowledge Exchange. All knowledge comes from the questions we ask. You'll find plenty of questions and useful, considered answers on our knowledge exchange

KMAfrica.com Conference. Notifications and papers from the biennial KMAfrica Conference and booking for the various conference streams are all available on the KnowledgeHub.

Member Library & Resources. There is a growing electronic library that we are committed to building into a considerable multidisciplinary resource by 2010.

Support for Knowledge Entrepreneurs. At KMAfrica, we are committed to supporting African knowledge entrepreneurs with our own database of know-how and experience needed to build sustainable African knowledge businesses.

Keep in touch. KMAfrica is on www.twitter.com/kmafrica so you can receive updates. We also have a KMAfrica group on www.Linkedin.com

Galleries. We have downloadable KMPosters and other media designed to stimulate knowledge sharing in your organisation.

Links to a variety of resources, including other KM sites, papers and people that help you make the connection.

FORUMS AND SIGs Special Interest Groups

KMAfrica 2009 conference paths:

KM and Economic challenges. Banking and finance, agriculture and agro-industry, economic integration, energy, ICT, tourism and transport systems.

KM and Social challenges. Education, public health, food security, water supply, employment, gender and youth.

KM and the Environment. Climate change, desertification, soil salination, urban waste, air, water and noise pollution.

KM and Governance. KM impacts on service delivery in public sector institutions, by creating opportunities for local engagement in improved social conditions, and dealing with post-conflict situations.

Emerging Technologies and innovative schemes. Includes frontier technologies such as biotechnologies, nanotechnologies, ICT, etc, together with innovative opportunities such as techno-enterprise incubators, technopoles, science and technology parks, creative cities, and more.

Practical KM. Multidisciplinary ideas, tips and case studies for the practical & successful implementation of KM in organisations.

Organisational participants

