Hard News:

T: an overview of the financial situations – need to work on the BBS radio bill, and on rent for T & R

R: Tom the Cat: told R about the shenanigans going in DC – have to do with the blatant disregard for Mr 19.5* and the issues where Mr Boehner is outright drinking in public in front of the President
- he did it on SOTU

- Tom called it blatant hatred, and has spit in Obama's face several times.
- Mr B has committed treason by violating the Logan Act: it is a big deal to invite a foreign dignitary to address the Congress and do an end run around the President
- There are more and more sightings & stories about disclosure not being reported in the fake news channels across the planet
- NASA cuts the feeds when ships show up and let themselves be seen
 - NASA is a fake agency; has to do with secret space commands where there have been so many super soldiers and other life forms going to other planets.
- Tom shared that there are 2 sides of the coin being played on the heartstrings of the people on this planet: we are in a most critical juncture with Mercury retrograde
 - there are many stories going on about a fake war and detonating dirty bombs in various cities around the planet – it will not happen! Ashtar and Sananda have said NO NUKES!
 - Everything that is going on is about the challenge being laid at we the people - they are using frequencies and technologies to separate the mind from the heart, and pit lightworkers against lightworkers with false information and creating instability, inequality and blatant lies

Ernie Banks of Chicago died yesterday at 83; first black player for the Chicago Cubs – 1953 – 1971

- as much as for his 512 home runs, he is known for his cheer, his optimism & his love of the game

Ukraine: 29 have died in rocket fire at the port of Mariopol in SE Ukraine; this happened a day after the rebels refused a peace deal - Black Ops involved.

State of the Union: Obama talked about closing loopholes that allow wealthy Americans to avoid taxes

Tom shared how these guys are at a place now where they want to create the atmosphere of a global war with Russia or with China; THIS HAS BEEN CANCELLED!

- Tom said there are millions and trillions and quintillions of ships surrounding this planet and this solar system – every single day, there are sightings being reported
 - This site - Abovetopsecret.com - talk about the ships
 - So does Dr Greer in his last video, Jan 20th – lots of positive stuff which is not reported.
 - The news is about the most dire of news: Mercury retrograde, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto and the aspects – blaxe the Violet Fire, and shatter and consume these dark energies!
 - There are stories about presenting entertainment about Lucy on the Sky with Diamonds that is a giant distraction to be played at the Super Bowl:
 - it is a GIANT DISTRACTION – DO NOT GIVE THEM THE TIME OF DAY!
- Tom: if you really want to know the truth, shut off the TV; if millions of people boycotted the Super Bowl which is funded by the bad boy billionaires.
- Over the last few years, so many instances of all kinds of players getting hit on the head and elsewhere – how many times can you get hit and not have things happen to you>
 - The Mayans did that – had games being played to the death – it was a dark time then: a leather ball with something very hard in the centre: cancel clear!

Camp Lovewave: today is the 14th anniversary of the program going on air

- Teran, Bear & Lindsay talked of 9/11, the fake story of 14 years ago, and the only place where the truth of 9/11 is told is on alternative news sources

- Teran interviewed Matt Taibi and he outright lied about 9/11 because he has been threatened within an inch of his life: Teran asked about the fact that the Bush-Clinton crime family and the Saudis did 9/11
- the other news stations cut people off if they ask about 9/11; Rama has challenged Thom Hartmann about this; he told R off air that he has 3 bullet holes in his car, he wants to stay alive with his wife
- At the same time, there is huge progress in the main media – they are pushing the edges.
 - People still do not understand how powerful we are when we come from the heart. - all we can do to take our own power back with love has a great counter effect.
- Brought up Michael Hastings and how he was investigating issues around 9/11, Gen Petraeus and McCrystal – they outright murdered Hastings and the story has not been fully told
 - Even Sybel Edmonds cannot go all the way when she is talking.
- Movie called: Captain America, Winter Soldier and the inside story of the movie of the infiltration of Black Ops into the organization, up to the level of the President
 - Bringing in the metaphorical ties that have to do with the far right groups in all the areas around the world, and about creating Super Soldiers
 - The organization that the Red Skull – and Hydra a multi-headed being where you cut one head off and another shows up
 - Bringing in the fake story of Marduk and the minions and the Annunaki
 - All ties back to the comic books and that our legends and stories are not legends and stories: they are real

T: the women in the Republican caucus pulled the anti-abortion bill

- Melissa H-P went in depth and made the point that Roe vs Wade has this inside
 - That it restricts abortion from the 3rd trimester though it can go beyond the 1st trimester
 - They suggest in the case of incest or rape it might be considered.
- another right to life idea: Steve King is on the committee for Immigration – MHP went over all his comments since last year – like the one of using electric fences which wouldn't necessarily kill them but we use them for cattle to keep them from going where we don't want them
- another one was that the people who come have thighs like cantelopes because they are hauling drugs! All derogatory stuff.

R: as we want first contact and disclosure and we act like this against our fellow human beings . . .

T: it is important for all of us to exercise positive solutions – there is hardly a moment when we don't know right from wrong

- the lack of an emotional body makes it hard to deal with as they have no emotional body and think humans are only there to serve them! Which means they have no right of life!

T: the other thing being discussed in Iowa is NO SOCIAL PROGRAMS: it's all your fault if you are in trouble!

• High quality child care is an issue:

- in France, a young French mother are saying it's unconscionable what is happening in the US: they are the future of the world and there is no consideration bonding between baby/mother & baby/dad?
- There were women working in the factories during WW II so there was universal day care across the country at the time

Obama: let's close loopholes [in the trust funds] that allow wealthy Americans to avoid taxes

• CBS interviewed McConnell and Boehner together: yesterday. Raise taxes on the wealthy? DOA?

- Boehner: What? Why WHO would want to raise taxes on people? There's no free lunch! The president wants to raise taxes because he wants to increase Washington spending. This is the link to child care and social services

- Bernie Sanders has said there is a need to increase social services not eliminate them!
 - NESARA law at least doubles what we need on a universal scale
 - The idea of closing the loopholes means taxes will go down for the people, and elite will stay at a certain place and everyone pays on all they have,
 - This includes lifting the cap on social security of up to $106,000; Sanders is suggesting paying more after $250,000 and after that have to pay on all - there would be a different tax scale
 - Aging is reversing at the same time as the funding increases for people, as all kinds of technologies will be used; we will return to a place where we can stop the damage

R: the gem spheres is one technology we have in our hands right now that can power cities

T: it's on the shelf until other things are taken care of; our great ideas are on the back burner as these guys don't want to do anything – want to do more of what has happened in Greece

Greece: Hank Paulson, a hand-picked choice of the US gov't, went in there and installed the idea of austerity in the country and Greece was the first guinea pig

- The consciousness of love and the awareness of the unity that We are All One means we are all responsible for all that goes on: an important point because the idea of wanting to have people dead is totally not part of this

R: brought up from Camp Lovewave and Tom the Cat: that these ones want to create a thermo nuclear war which ain't happening!

T: KOS said that Mother had signed the death warrant for all of these characters. [said it on Jan 21st]

- D'Yanna was the one who had the idea for naming KOS the King of Swords
 - has to do with a Biblical text which says that, in the 2nd coming, I come with a sword – which is the sword of truth and accountability & what needs to happen here
- these ones have destroyed many planets and star systems and they have intentions of doing more to other bodies, thinking they can operate with impunity because there is more
- The idea that they would bring back the ancient stories of Nibiru; Z Sitchen does talk of the return of the Annunaki: there are hints and allegations of these beings wanting to show up
- When Nelson Mandela died, all the presidents from around the world went to the funeral and there was a story about them meeting with some being in an underground chamber in Africa called MARDUK – there was a story about that & the return of the Annunaki and the gold, and how those from K Street, C Street, etc serve at the feet of these ones.

• Later in the CBS interview: idea of raising taxes is “real dead”

- the child tax credit – we may be willing to talk about it
- the idea of free community college, raising the minimum wage are DOA, not happening
- It's true that the way it's being presented on TV, they are thinking about who would embrace what Obama said when the candidate is being chosen: and Hillary will not do that !!!
- So Obama is talking about choosing the love that comes from the heart, & operating from that level.

R: Sam Seder talked of Andrew Bosiago who went to Mars with Obama; Laura Eisenhower refused the offer; there are stories of Andrew being funded to be a Democratic person to run against Hillary – Andrew said he would tell the truth of Obama going to Mars etc

T: such a nomination would mean that the reality of Mars and Obama's background is revealed

R: he was called Barry Soto, a nickname he was called when he went to school – the crazy right wingers want to use that name against him

T: also a way to disassociate himself from the idea of being Malcolm X's son – a way to avoid getting killed so he could do the mission he was supposed to do

Alex Witt's Replacement: Ayman Mohyeldin : asked if there would be enough public sentiment to push back against Boehner's and McConnell's stance on child care, etc – NO, there would not be

Alex Witt 01/24/15 [Ayman Mohyeldin is the host today]

Top GOP hopefuls humming a different tune

Jimmy Williams, Executive Editor at BlueNationReview.com, and Mercedes Schlapp, former Spokesperson for President George W. Bush, react to a surprising new tone being adopted by leading GOP 2016 contenders Mitt Romney and Jeb Bush.

- the Iowa Conference this weekend: The Freedom Summit: Ben Carson, Chris Christie, Scott Walker getting applause as a union buster; Donald Trump went after Mitt Romney and Jeb Bush and the crowds applauded; Mr King talking about border enforcement, defence, make sure americans get a job before any of those dirty immigrants; Rubio, Bobby Jindal – put these folks in the circle of support and blaze the violet fire! Pretty dirty talk going on!

Yemen: The White House spokesperon on Yemen: Alistair Baskey

Alex Witt 01/24/15 [Ayman Mohyeldin is the host today]

White House denies counter-terror ops in Yemen on hold

Sen. Benjamin Cardin, D-Md., talks with Ayman Mohyeldin about the fate of U.S. counter-terrorism operations in Yemen as the country sinks deeper into political chaos in the face of an increasingly powerful Houthi rebel insurgency

- the politcal instability in Yemen has not forced us to suspend counter terrorism operations; any story to the opposite is completely false
- we also continue to partner with Yemen and securty forces
 - the former President, pro-American, was a big supporter of the drone program which targeted the AQAP [all CIA duh] in the Arabian Peninsula; the HUSI forces are opposed to the drone operations.

T: He was an asset of the CIA and was controlled: do what we want or else.

- the base for the drone operations being done in Yemen is in Saudi Arabia
- TOM the CAT [Faction 3] said that the US will cut all the billions and billions going to Saudi Arabia annually
 - That money is going there by the 13 families little Nazi collaborating missionaries called the Republicans! Not the President or the 64 good members of Congress

T: Last night, on the conference call, a good discussion about why the Light & the Dark doing all this cloning

- the nature of the beast of all the things not enacted – a lawful term meaning being made known to the public about what is really going on: this is how it gets done
- they had to figure out how to eliminate the danger of what they could do to hurt more people by actually behind the scenes . . . and this has to do with why the people are the worst enemy to this coming about: the people, being programmed and being more terrified than anything about accommodating these programs – it is really about FEAR – false evidence appearing real - so accommodating programs that are false evidence is what fear is.
- when the Light kills and clones a person like Hillary - all through the last campaign during Bush Jr's time: it was a CLONE of Hillary running in the campaign.
 - since June 2007, the real Hillary was taken to The Hague and put in Sslitary confinement for about 18 months awaiting execution; she knew she was going there and she knew why - because she murdered her lover, Vince Foster, and she ordered, on the turf of the US, Black Ops to murder 86 people in Waco: murder and high treason all at the same time
 - Then the bombing at Oklahoma City – the records of the truth of what Hillary did in Waco were in that building; the bombing was blamed on Timothy McVeigh
 - Chandra Levy – this was a clone that was killed. Tara saw Chandra sitting on the steps of the wailing wall later, and the body parts were all chopped up and buried in the ground near a military base – a gruesome story – all of it needs to be “enacted” - by lawful means made known to the people.

- This report was from the W H reporter on Alix Witt's program
 - Had a conversation with former Ambassador Mark Ginsberg
 - all the levels being covered here: ALL LIES!
 - NOT A SINGLE MEDIA STATION EXCEPT – as much as possible - RT TV, Link TV and Free Speech TV
 - A story last night getting down on RT and its reporting on ISIL: were trying to say that RT TV is a voice piece for Russia to propagandize and tell lies – on headline news late last night - Rama
- T: that is so not the truth!
- The President of Yemen is an asset of the US CIA and he does what is told or he is dead!
 - playing both sides against the middle & having the reporting stations say what they are told to say or they are dead over here in our media
- The Bad Boy Billionaires fund the agencies that the FCC is beholden to
 - Bad Boy billionaires have money in the first place because they signed a contract with the 13 families to do their bidding and this goes to the higher realms called the Archons
 - the Koch Bros got their money from their parents: mother was a nazi who was tried at Nuremburg and charged with murder at Dachau; she got off in spite of mass genocide

Stephanie Miller: her Dad who ran with Barry Goldwater was an interrogator at the Nuremberg trials: he interrogated Goering and Himmler at those trials, with no torture as is done at Gitmo & in underground prisons

T: as long as you understand, this is why we play things: Bill Maher on Friday said that Hillary has a better chance than the others, but the story does not go far enough - Hillary is already dead with not a drop of her DNA on the planet! Those are clones of another person's DNA who is a look alike

R: This ties in with the stories of the Red Skull and Hydra and the Thule Society [SEE BELOW]

- in the sense that Hitler and his inner circle were obsessed with getting the Tesseract, the Arc of the Covenant, the Spear of Destiny, the 5 Infinity Stones with the Gauntlet of Power to take control of this planet and challenge the Intergalactic Federation of Worlds; this ties in the other ET races that are not aligned with the Office of the Christ – A HUGE STORY, NOT BEING DISCUSSED ANYWHERE ELSE!

T: goes into a discussion about economic racism - the only quote “race” being discussed is the reptilian race that they are – not about black or white; any white person who is not part of the elite reptilian family is called “useless eaters”, as they call out the blacks for being

- Every now and then, something comes out in the news thanks to the whistleblowers who are working like crazy with so many people, and thanks to the cell phones and videos taken – like the one in NJ about the man whose hands were up and who was talking to the police: he was just shot outright, 6x with no conversation from the police! This was filmed as it happened. It was not intended for this to get out, but is the result of White Knight Activity

T: there are enough racists on the police force in New Jersey – we don't know how many bodies there are in NJ!

- hundred of thousands of Mexicans dead by our Black Ops / CIA
- same story elsewhere: name me a country, and I'll tell you a story!

Reading more: President Hade of Yemen; it is his forces that work with American counter-terrorism forces; Amb says that his government is collapsing – which is the key!

- the WH correspondent: says Officials are continuing to monitor the situation in Yemen – there is a emergency meeting at the Parliament at which time they will decide whether to accept his resignation; the US officials are behind the scene are “urging” that this process be peaceful and constitutional, and they are in close contact with the palace in Sanaii
 - there is a problem here as the Hadi have taken over the palace and the President's home

- the parliament is doing what it can: the issue is that the drone base is in Saudi Arabia and it will disappear when the US cuts funds to Saudi Arabia – just don't know when this will happen.
- This is an encouragement: to know that Mother has stepped in – there are good folks in the light in every single agency; she just had an insight: How many folks can really get what she said a long time ago when Obama became president and McCain stepped down at 11:11 am, that the Black Ops always use numbers and astronomy & astrology for their own miscreations – we are responsible for dis-creating these things with love!
 - The connection of how we do this with love – it's a tricky thing which is why she brought up the story of : Sananda Kumara said when he was Jeshu that when he comes again, he would come with a sword; this is that sword, and when D'yanna got the idea of calling him King of Swords – KOS – he is the 7th initiation and incarnation of Jesus the Christ in another body in another lifetime, leading the 2nd Coming – yet he will not do it for us.

R: 144,000 avatars x 10 hundred thousand x 10 hundred thousand x 10 hundred thousand physically manifest, physically manifest, physically manifest now!

T: That's the responsibility: we all know who we are in varying degrees

- it is our responsibility more than anyone else's on this planet to take responsibility for what every single soul did, good bad or indifferent, as if it were done by us especially the old souls and there are very few on the call who are not [R: we all in this one!] We have all we need, want and desire to do the job!

C1: Welcome to all the visitors; a movie event coming soon in 2 weeks: Jupiter Ascending – the most interesting thing is that it takes place in Chicago

R: Teran and Bear said it touches on some very spiritual aspects, though it is a heavy duty movie with lots of violence; has implications related to esoteric ideas. Hollywood always has another agenda cos they play with stuff having to do with the Black Ops – that is how they get ideas out there

C1: while R may be correct about the Hollywood angle, a young lady discovers who she really is; she found out she is definitely a goddess and realizes she is and the power going with that – about people waking up and finding out who they are

T: then you would lay down your life for your friends and here is what we need to realize NESARA is teaching this that we would lay down our life for our friend: would be happy to see a movie with that message

C1: she walks through life completely unaware; in Chicago – some kind of incident took place and she found out what was going on & who we really are

T: C1 brought up the Resurrection series, and T has been kind of watching it – the woman who is the blackman's overlord lady – she's beginning to realize something is off

T: it totally is going on right now – in response to C!'s comments – the grandmother of the little boy is doing something about the mission: it looks like she is killing people but that is not what is going on – they may look dead and then escape from the place they get taken to when they are “dead”

C1: when the lady working for the gov't she said OMG!

- It means a global awakening that is happening
- A series on NBC: started out good: “The Event” started out well, but turned to the dark side

T: now we are observing these things so we can bring it back and that is what our mandate is

- and we know there are thousands and thousands listening to the show; yes we are the core group, and yes there are people here and there coming forward to fund it

C1: knows that the international listeners are listening in; and we do need donations to keep the program going – C1 asks them to help and donate to the program: this is the #1 program in the universe and it is Tara and Rama Faction 3!

- KOS is asking that absolutely everyone gives something, no matter how small – every month!
 - The idea is that giving something of yours & put your energy along with the contribution to the meaning of this. There are 1300 people on the website; $3 each would pay for BBS @ $1200; rent @ $1000 plus some bills and food - could cover it all!

C1: he is really praying and that NESARA gets in – it is the only thing to move us up

- this past Tuesday, Pres did not end his speech with the usual “God bless the United States of America” - what does this mean?

T: going to read a little bit of the presidents speech

T: we are all world bridgers and do what we could to wake people up – more important to do this now

- This is not about judgement of personalities but an attempt to get in the pieces that are missing – it can be very frightening for people to admit the truth of what they have been doing – they can have a heart attack or die when they find out what they have been denying!
- In 100 years these same kind of reptilian renegades who killed so many during the war have killed 2 billion of us – and we are still breathing because love is the only answer; the people who died also embraced love, but they came in as souls who volunteered to have this experience and we have killed and been killed: the idea of being totally neutral and doing nothing like that in any lifetime – well, there is only a handful of masters who have succeeded in achieving that kind of neutrality.

T this is not about judgment but what is possible when light and love and peace and wisdom is applied.

- “Look, I am the first one to admit that trade deals have always lived up to the hype: [SEE BELOW]
 - In response to a question: yes, it is correct: Mitt Romney is a MULTI TRILLIONAIRE
 - Nothing to lose, and all the time & the money to run for president – does not need Koch Bros
- She said it is a good possibility that a woman will run for President
Oprah Winfrey, Elizabeth Warren, Michelle Obama, Naomi Klein, Bernie Sanders spent a long weekend at Oprah's home in Costa Rica: how they would handle setting up the 2016 Democratic presidency
 - T said Oprah played her role in Selma like the queen that she is! And goes on about the old white men on the board that decides who wins the Oscars
 - Jon Stewart is a Faction 3 White Knight and interviews many involved with movies: he was
 - Economic racism is what is going on here: the inequality is divided by those reptilians controlling this planet! They could see he was willing to do what they wanted him to do!
 - The money he got for doing what he did he got from those reptilians: he was willing to fund funded the murder of 75,000 Ecuadorians

C1: brings up Netanyahu's visit and that Obama will not meet with him

- Harry Reid and Nancy Pelosi called Rama on Jan 22nd: they said together that they were taking Mr Boehner to make peace with his god
 - What they are admitting that he was killed & cloned, and they had something to do with it from the way that they expressed it – Boehner and Netanyahu are both dead and cloned.
 - Also, Article 2, Section 2, Sentence 2 – only the Pres can invite to visit Congress, and the Senate approves: Boehner is not in the Senate nor in Exec branch - Congress is not involved so both Boehner & Net committed high treason by doing this.
 - This is why they are going to play the audio about the media being one big lie: even now Democracy Now, RT, Link TV can say 9/11 is an inside job: they will lie because they have to
- To answer why Obama will not meet with Netanyahu
 - Obama will not meet with a treasonist
 - the Black Ops, the nazi republicans and the cia are funding all but 10% of Net's election campaign in Israel: Netanyahu is an asset of the CIA; all of the alpabet agency girls and boys are nazi collaborators from the day they were instituted [the agencies]
 - None of this was enacted: make public knowledge.

- Also, Netanyahu representing Israel as the 51st state of the Union: he is guilty of accepting from Boehner the invitation to come – that is also treasonous. And what he is going to do is lay down a plan for bombing Iran and using thermo nuclear which is what he means if he does not say it!
- Now do you understand now why Obama will not meet with Net?
- the reason this will not stand is because we will take all these miscreations and dissolve them into love.

- Back to the reading; she comments on various parts of what he says
 - Saudi Arabia's ultimate energy is Al Ashaud who is considered to be in bed with Russia
- the thing in Kiev is not a democracy, but a nazi collaboration with the nazi republicans supported and funded by John McCain & the Black Op groups
- Obama is the one who knows that the black ops collaborating with what ever black ops are operating in Russia are going completely bankrupt!
 - Obama, Putin and Pres Xi of China are working together and they are doing something different to what the 13 families are doing!
- The Castro brothers are assets of the CIA: the real culprits are the CIA who answer to the 13 families –
 - the troubles of the Cuban people has to do with the 13 families! The Castro brothers are doing some amazing work and have been protected for a long time; a CIA asset was supposed to kill them, but has not succeeded.
- He is saying what he can say to represent the good people in the church; Pope Francis IS NOT THE POPE; Benedict 16th still is and those 2 made a deal dirt cheap with Boehner and Netanyahu, with the help and agreement of the Rothschilds, the archons and the dark Sirians / Satonians to give $10 Million EACH to Boehner and Netanyahu to murder the President and his family. This information is part of the football fields and football fields of evidence.
- The nazi collaborators on Congress want to put sanctions on Iran and blow the foundations already laid; Pres Rouhani is not buying it; these people have a democracy; Ayotallah is a collaborator with CIA
 - Iran has had 12 nukes for 25 years now – they have proven they have not intention to use them
 - Dr Keshe said they had no intention of using them: the nukes are protection against the nazi collaborators!

T addresses the manner in which Obama ends the speech: his phrase “god bless the united states of America” is “this country we love”; her take on it is that the country we thought was our country is not been our country: it has been a reptilian usurpation – and now we are going to return to the 2nd declaration of independence

- From the very beginning, the US has never been anything but a corporation – never had the Declaration of Independence in operation.

C1: can she say that the last sentence sums it up: we are moving from the statutaory to universal common law?

T: we are already in that state: Obama was elected 2008 inside NESARA law which has been functioning without the enactment - the public announcement

- since Clinton signed the NESARA lbill into on Oct 10, 2000, we have been functioning inside the NESARA law, the 2nd Declaration of Independence. And the first one was signed in 1774 and is sitting in the Smithsonian Institute right beside the Moorish banner and the American banner -
- we have a lot to learn which is why the mandate for their show!

C1: Obama made a speech when he was running for president that included the phrase “57 states “ did he mean to say 51?

T: cannot answer that question: has no idea.

- Has not heard it – send them the link; they will send to the KOS
- There will not be 57 states or even 51, as Israel will not be a state when all is said and done!

Audio: about the CIA - a news reporter admitting that mass media is all propaganda,

- all news reporters are bought and paid for by the billionaires; PBS is paid for by the Koch Bros
- As Teran [Camp Lovewave] said this morning, public radio that is not funded by NPR is funded by ordinary people, along with T & R show and others ones as well

A reporter of German background speaking:

- has been a journalist for 25 years, trained not to tell the truth
 - going to stand up and say that what he has done is not right – to manipulate the news & make propaganda against Russia
 - writing his book because fearful of a new war in Europe; war does not come from itself, it is done by those pushing the idea of war – politicians AND journalists – has been writing that
- German media: day after day they write against Russia who are in trans atlantic organizations backed by the US
- He wrote pro-American material and became an honorary citizen of Oklahoma because he told the American story; CIA wanted him to do the same
- His book is about what goes on behind closed doors
 - Was sent to the war in 1988 to a town between Iraq and Iran to take pictures of how the Iranians have been killed by poison gas from Germany; he was there to take pictures of it; when he returned, there was only one small picture and a short article not about how brutal and evil it was that people were killed by German poison gas – not allowed to cry out to the public about what Germany is doing, how brutal to kill people after WW II that German gas is still killing people.
- He talks of journalists who might be journalists but many are “non-official cover” which means you give help if you are asked, but when someone finds out that you are a reporter AND a spy, no one knows you any more! He has helped in several situations and is ashamed. He was bribed by the millionaires and by Americans to tell stories that are not quite the truth in the newspaper in Frankfurt. They can write pro-American, pro-Europeans but never pro-Russian.
- Germany is still a kind of colony of the Americans; Germany does not want nukes, but the Americans have their nukes in Germany. Being a colony of America, means the young journalists can be approached by the Trans atlantic agencies, and they are not told that the person who is approaching them could be from the CIA or other such groups. You think they are friends and this is not just the case with German Journalists: especially the case with British, Israeli, Australians, From Taiwan, the sultanate of Oman, New Zealand and so on.
- sometimes people come to your office – the German foreign intelligence agency is a sister organization of the CIA; they wanted him to write an article about Libya and Col. Ghaddafi – they wanted him to sign an article and he did – and found out it came from the German Foreign Intelligence group. Included in his book – the information he got was all from the intelligence agency – this is not the way journalism should work.
- If you say no: they have a group that is a rescue agency; a pilot for one of the helicopters of the Yellow Angels and said NO to the foreign intelligence service – the pilot was let go from his job! 6 times his house was House-searched ! He has no children and has had 3 heart attacks so if they put him in prison, well . . .

It's the New Moon in Aquarius! On your mark, get set, revolt! It doesn't have to be a violent outer revolution, it can be in a peaceful, inner revolution having surprising external results. Most often, with these kinds of transits, it is both, so be aware. As we stay aware and master ourselves, we no longer need to be controlled and mastered by the external authorities. Time to bump ourselves up to the next level where the turmoil no longer exists.... Yes!

Oregon native Nahko Parayno is a sixth generation Apache/Mohawk. This medicinal troubadour (his Cheyenne name given to him by his grandmother) didn't grow up on his native land, with his Puerto Rican/Indian mother, or Filipino father.

Born, raised, and blessed in the suburbs by his adopted family, Nahko found roots in music and throughout his teens taught piano lessons and directed musical productions for local high schools. His talent on the keys eventually got him signed to a seasonal production in Denali, Alaska and there, he praises, in the grandeur and majesty of the wilderness is where he began to discover his truth.

Activating his audience with stories of a humbled walk upon this precious earth, Nahko's ability to criss-cross generational wisdom and inspire in the struggle of classism, racism, Indigenous rights in Native America and abroad, environmental justice -- sparking a fire of ambition to live the change and shift with the Aina for a more sacred walk with Spirit.

Currently on a medicine music tour (for the rest of his life), Nahko calls the Big Island of Hawaii home. There he works and lives on his brother's off the grid farm up the Hamakua coast. Cleverly

Remarks by the President in State of the Union Address | January 20, 2015

U.S. Capitol
Washington, D.C.

9:10 P.M. EST

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Vice President, Members of Congress, my fellow Americans:

We are 15 years into this new century. Fifteen years that dawned with terror touching our shores; that unfolded with a new generation fighting two long and costly wars; that saw a vicious recession spread across our nation and the world. It has been, and still is, a hard time for many.

But tonight, we turn the page. Tonight, after a breakthrough year for America, our economy is growing and creating jobs at the fastest pace since 1999. (Applause.) Our unemployment rate is now lower than it was before the financial crisis. More of our kids are graduating than ever before. More of our people are insured than ever before. (Applause.) And we are as free from the grip of foreign oil as we've been in almost 30 years. (Applause.)

Tonight, for the first time since 9/11, our combat mission in Afghanistan is over. (Applause.) Six years ago, nearly 180,000 American troops served in Iraq and Afghanistan. Today, fewer than 15,000 remain. And we salute the courage and sacrifice of every man and woman in this 9/11 Generation who has served to keep us safe. (Applause.) We are humbled and grateful for your service.

America, for all that we have endured; for all the grit and hard work required to come back; for all the tasks that lie ahead, know this: The shadow of crisis has passed, and the State of the Union is strong. (Applause.)

At this moment -- with a growing economy, shrinking deficits, bustling industry, booming energy production -- we have risen from recession freer to write our own future than any other nation on Earth. It's now up to us to choose who we want to be over the next 15 years and for decades to come.

Will we accept an economy where only a few of us do spectacularly well? Or will we commit ourselves to an economy that generates rising incomes and chances for everyone who makes the effort? (Applause.)

Will we approach the world fearful and reactive, dragged into costly conflicts that strain our military and set back our standing? Or will we lead wisely, using all elements of our power to defeat new threats and protect our planet?

Will we allow ourselves to be sorted into factions and turned against one another? Or will we recapture the sense of common purpose that has always propelled America forward?

In two weeks, I will send this Congress a budget filled with ideas that are practical, not partisan. And in the months ahead, I'll crisscross the country making a case for those ideas. So tonight, I want to focus less on a checklist of proposals, and focus more on the values at stake in the choices before us.

It begins with our economy. Seven years ago, Rebekah and Ben Erler of Minneapolis were newlyweds. (Laughter.) She waited tables. He worked construction. Their first child, Jack, was on the way. They were young and in love in America. And it doesn't get much better than that. "If only we had known," Rebekah wrote to me last spring, "what was about to happen to the housing and construction market."

As the crisis worsened, Ben's business dried up, so he took what jobs he could find, even if they kept him on the road for long stretches of time. Rebekah took out student loans and enrolled in community college, and retrained for a new career. They sacrificed for each other. And slowly, it paid off. They bought their first home. They had a second son, Henry. Rebekah got a better job and then a raise. Ben is back in construction -- and home for dinner every night.

“It is amazing,” Rebekah wrote, “what you can bounce back from when you have to...we are a strong, tight-knit family who has made it through some very, very hard times.” We are a strong, tight-knit family who has made it through some very, very hard times.

America, Rebekah and Ben’s story is our story. They represent the millions who have worked hard and scrimped, and sacrificed and retooled. You are the reason that I ran for this office. You are the people I was thinking of six years ago today, in the darkest months of the crisis, when I stood on the steps of this Capitol and promised we would rebuild our economy on a new foundation. And it has been your resilience, your effort that has made it possible for our country to emerge stronger.

We believed we could reverse the tide of outsourcing and draw new jobs to our shores. And over the past five years, our businesses have created more than 11 million new jobs. (Applause.)

We believed we could reduce our dependence on foreign oil and protect our planet. And today, America is number one in oil and gas. America is number one in wind power. Every three weeks, we bring online as much solar power as we did in all of 2008. (Applause.) And thanks to lower gas prices and higher fuel standards, the typical family this year should save about $750 at the pump. (Applause.)

We believed we could prepare our kids for a more competitive world. And today, our younger students have earned the highest math and reading scores on record. Our high school graduation rate has hit an all-time high. More Americans finish college than ever before. (Applause.)

We believed that sensible regulations could prevent another crisis, shield families from ruin, and encourage fair competition. Today, we have new tools to stop taxpayer-funded bailouts, and a new consumer watchdog to protect us from predatory lending and abusive credit card practices. And in the past year alone, about 10 million uninsured Americans finally gained the security of health coverage. (Applause.)

At every step, we were told our goals were misguided or too ambitious; that we would crush jobs and explode deficits. Instead, we’ve seen the fastest economic growth in over a decade, our deficits cut by two-thirds, a stock market that has doubled, and health care inflation at its lowest rate in 50 years. (Applause.) This is good news, people. (Laughter and applause.)

So the verdict is clear. Middle-class economics works. Expanding opportunity works. And these policies will continue to work as long as politics don’t get in the way. We can’t slow down businesses or put our economy at risk with government shutdowns or fiscal showdowns. We can’t put the security of families at risk by taking away their health insurance, or unraveling the new rules on Wall Street, or refighting past battles on immigration when we’ve got to fix a broken system. And if a bill comes to my desk that tries to do any of these things, I will veto it. It will have earned my veto. (Applause.)

Today, thanks to a growing economy, the recovery is touching more and more lives. Wages are finally starting to rise again. We know that more small business owners plan to raise their employees’ pay than at any time since 2007. But here’s the thing: Those of us here tonight, we need to set our sights higher than just making sure government doesn’t screw things up; that government doesn’t halt the progress we’re making. We need to do more than just do no harm. Tonight, together, let’s do more to restore the link between hard work and growing opportunity for every American. (Applause.)

Because families like Rebekah’s still need our help. She and Ben are working as hard as ever, but they’ve had to forego vacations and a new car so that they can pay off student loans and save for retirement. Friday night pizza, that’s a big splurge. Basic childcare for Jack and Henry costs more than their mortgage, and almost as much as a year at the University of Minnesota. Like millions of hardworking Americans, Rebekah isn’t asking for a handout, but she is asking that we look for more ways to help families get ahead.

And in fact, at every moment of economic change throughout our history, this country has taken bold action to adapt to new circumstances and to make sure everyone gets a fair shot. We set up worker protections, Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid to protect ourselves from the harshest adversity. We gave our citizens schools and colleges, infrastructure and the Internet -- tools they needed to go as far as their effort and their dreams will take them.

That's what middle-class economics is -- the idea that this country does best when everyone gets their fair shot, everyone does their fair share, everyone plays by the same set of rules. (Applause.) We don't just want everyone to share in America's success, we want everyone to contribute to our success. (Applause.)

So what does middle-class economics require in our time?

First, middle-class economics means helping working families feel more secure in a world of constant change. That means helping folks afford childcare, college, health care, a home, retirement. And my budget will address each of these issues, lowering the taxes of working families and putting thousands of dollars back into their pockets each year. (Applause.)

Here's one example. During World War II, when men like my grandfather went off to war, having women like my grandmother in the workforce was a national security priority -- so this country provided universal childcare. In today's economy, when having both parents in the workforce is an economic necessity for many families, we need affordable, high-quality childcare more than ever. (Applause.)

It's not a nice-to-have -- it's a must-have. So it's time we stop treating childcare as a side issue, or as a women's issue, and treat it like the national economic priority that it is for all of us. (Applause.) And that's why my plan will make quality childcare more available and more affordable for every middle-class and low-income family with young children in America -- by creating more slots and a new tax cut of up to $3,000 per child, per year. (Applause.)

Here's another example. Today, we are the only advanced country on Earth that doesn't guarantee paid sick leave or paid maternity leave to our workers. Forty-three million workers have no paid sick leave -- 43 million. Think about that. And that forces too many parents to make the gut-wrenching choice between a paycheck and a sick kid at home. So I'll be taking new action to help states adopt paid leave laws of their own. And since paid sick leave won where it was on the ballot last November, let's put it to a vote right here in Washington. (Applause.) Send me a bill that gives every worker in America the opportunity to earn seven days of paid sick leave. It's the right thing to do. It's the right thing to do. (Applause.)

Of course, nothing helps families make ends meet like higher wages. That's why this Congress still needs to pass a law that makes sure a woman is paid the same as a man for doing the same work. (Applause.) It's 2015. (Laughter.) It's time. We still need to make sure employees get the overtime they've earned. (Applause.) And to everyone in this Congress who still refuses to raise the minimum wage, I say this: If you truly believe you could work full-time and support a family on less than $15,000 a year, try it. If not, vote to give millions of the hardest-working people in America a raise. (Applause.)

Now, these ideas won't make everybody rich, won't relieve every hardship. That's not the job of government. To give working families a fair shot, we still need more employers to see beyond next quarter's earnings and recognize that investing in their workforce is in their company's long-term interest. We still need laws that strengthen rather than weaken unions, and give American workers a voice. (Applause.)

But you know, things like childcare and sick leave and equal pay; things like lower mortgage premiums and a higher minimum wage -- these ideas will make a meaningful difference in the lives of millions of families. That's a fact. And that's what all of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, were sent here to do.

Second, to make sure folks keep earning higher wages down the road, we have to do more to help Americans upgrade their skills. (Applause.) America thrived in the 20th century because we made high school free, sent a generation of GIs to college, trained the best workforce in the world. We were ahead of the curve. But other countries caught on. And in a 21st century economy that rewards knowledge like never before, we need to up our game. We need to do more.

By the end of this decade, two in three job openings will require some higher education -- two in three. And yet, we still live in a country where too many bright, striving Americans are priced out of the education they need. It's not fair to them, and it's sure not smart for our future. That's why I'm sending this Congress a bold new plan to lower the cost of community college -- to zero. (Applause.)

Keep in mind 40 percent of our college students choose community college. Some are young and starting out. Some are older and looking for a better job. Some are veterans and single parents trying to transition back into the job market. Whoever you are, this plan is your chance to graduate ready for the new economy without a load of debt. Understand, you've got to earn it. You've got to keep your grades up and graduate on time.

Tennessee, a state with Republican leadership, and Chicago, a city with Democratic leadership, are showing that free community college is possible. I want to spread that idea all across America, so that two years of college becomes as free and universal in America as high school is today. (Applause.) Let's stay ahead of the curve. (Applause.) And I want to work with this Congress to make sure those already burdened with student loans can reduce their monthly payments so that student debt doesn't derail anyone's dreams. (Applause.)

Thanks to Vice President Biden's great work to update our job training system, we're connecting community colleges with local employers to train workers to fill high-paying jobs like coding, and nursing, and robotics. Tonight, I'm also asking more businesses to follow the lead of companies like CVS and UPS, and offer more educational benefits and paid apprenticeships -- opportunities that give workers the chance to earn higher-paying jobs even if they don't have a higher education.

And as a new generation of veterans comes home, we owe them every opportunity to live the American Dream they helped defend. Already, we've made strides towards ensuring that every veteran has access to the highest quality care. We're slashing the backlog that had too many veterans waiting years to get the benefits they need. And we're making it easier for vets to translate their training and experience into civilian jobs. And Joining Forces, the national campaign launched by Michelle and Jill Biden -- (applause) -- thank you, Michelle; thank you, Jill -- has helped nearly 700,000 veterans and military spouses get a new job. (Applause.) So to every CEO in America, let me repeat: If you want somebody who's going to get the job done and done right, hire a veteran. (Applause.)

Finally, as we better train our workers, we need the new economy to keep churning out high-wage jobs for our workers to fill. Since 2010, America has put more people back to work than Europe, Japan, and all advanced economies combined. (Applause.)

Our manufacturers have added almost 800,000 new jobs. Some of our bedrock sectors, like our auto industry, are booming. But there are also millions of Americans who work in jobs that didn't even exist 10 or 20 years ago -- jobs at companies like Google, and eBay, and Tesla.

So no one knows for certain which industries will generate the jobs of the future. But we do know we want them here in America. We know that. (Applause.) And that's why the third part of middle-class economics is all about building the most competitive economy anywhere, the place where businesses want to locate and hire.

Twenty-first century businesses need 21st century infrastructure -- modern ports, and stronger bridges, faster trains and the fastest Internet. Democrats and Republicans used to agree on this. So let's set our sights higher than a single oil pipeline. Let's pass a bipartisan infrastructure plan that could create more than 30 times as many jobs per year, and make this country stronger for decades to come. (Applause.) Let's do it. Let's get it done. Let's get it done. (Applause.)

Twenty-first century businesses, including small businesses, need to sell more American products overseas. Today, our businesses export more than ever, and exporters tend to pay their workers higher wages. But as we speak, China wants to write the rules for the world's fastest-growing region. That would put our workers and our businesses at a disadvantage. Why would we let that happen? We should write those rules. We should level the playing field. That's why I'm asking both parties to give me trade promotion authority to protect American workers, with strong new trade deals from Asia to Europe that aren't just free, but are also fair. It's the right thing to do. (Applause.)

Look, I'm the first one to admit that past trade deals haven't always lived up to the hype, and that's why we've gone after countries that break the rules at our expense. But 95 percent of the world's customers live outside our borders. We can't close ourselves off from those opportunities. More than half of manufacturing executives have said they're actively looking to bring jobs back from China. So let's give them one more reason to get it done.

Twenty-first century businesses will rely on American science and technology, research and development. I want the country that eliminated polio and mapped the human genome to lead a new era of medicine -- one that delivers the right treatment at the right time. (Applause.)

In some patients with cystic fibrosis, this approach has reversed a disease once thought unstoppable. So tonight, I'm launching a new Precision Medicine Initiative to bring us closer to curing diseases like cancer and diabetes, and to give all of us access to the personalized information we need to keep ourselves and our families healthier. We can do this. (Applause.)

I intend to protect a free and open Internet, extend its reach to every classroom, and every community -- (applause) -- and help folks build the fastest networks so that the next generation of digital innovators and entrepreneurs have the platform to keep reshaping our world.

I want Americans to win the race for the kinds of discoveries that unleash new jobs -- converting sunlight into liquid fuel; creating revolutionary prosthetics, so that a veteran who gave his arms for his country can play catch with his kids again. (Applause.) Pushing out into the solar system not just to visit, but to stay. Last month, we launched a new spacecraft as part of a reenergized space program that will send American astronauts to Mars. And in two months, to prepare us for those missions, Scott Kelly will begin a year-long stay in space. So good luck, Captain. Make sure to Instagram it. We're proud of you. (Applause.)

Now, the truth is, when it comes to issues like infrastructure and basic research, I know there's bipartisan support in this chamber. Members of both parties have told me so. Where we too often run onto the rocks is how to pay for these investments. As Americans, we don't mind paying our fair share of taxes as long as everybody else does, too. But for far too long, lobbyists have rigged the tax code with loopholes that let some corporations pay nothing while others pay full freight. They've riddled it with giveaways that the super-rich don't need, while denying a break to middle-class families who do.

This year, we have an opportunity to change that. Let's close loopholes so we stop rewarding companies that keep profits abroad, and reward those that invest here in America. (Applause.) Let's use those savings to rebuild our infrastructure and to make it more attractive for companies to bring jobs home. Let's simplify the system and let a small business owner file based on her actual bank statement, instead of the number of accountants she can afford. (Applause.) And let's close the loopholes that lead to inequality by allowing the top one percent to avoid paying taxes on their accumulated wealth. We can use that money to help more families pay for childcare and send their kids to college. We need a tax code that truly helps working Americans trying to get a leg up in the new economy, and we can achieve that together. (Applause.) We can achieve it together.

Helping hardworking families make ends meet. Giving them the tools they need for good-paying jobs in this new economy. Maintaining the conditions of growth and competitiveness. This is where America needs to go. I believe it's where the American people want to go. It will make our economy stronger a year from now, 15 years from now, and deep into the century ahead.

Of course, if there's one thing this new century has taught us, it's that we cannot separate our work here at home from challenges beyond our shores.

My first duty as Commander-in-Chief is to defend the United States of America. In doing so, the question is not whether America leads in the world, but how. When we make rash decisions, reacting to the headlines instead of using our heads; when the first response to a challenge is to send in our military -- then we risk getting drawn into unnecessary conflicts, and neglect the broader strategy we need for a safer, more prosperous world. That's what our enemies want us to do.

I believe in a smarter kind of American leadership. We lead best when we combine military power with strong diplomacy; when we leverage our power with coalition building; when we don't let our fears blind us to the opportunities that this new century presents. That's exactly what we're doing right now. And around the globe, it is making a difference.

First, we stand united with people around the world who have been targeted by terrorists -- from a school in Pakistan to the streets of Paris. (Applause.) We will continue to hunt down terrorists and dismantle their networks, and we reserve the right to act unilaterally, as we have done relentlessly since I took office to take out terrorists who pose a direct threat to us and our allies. (Applause.)

At the same time, we've learned some costly lessons over the last 13 years. Instead of Americans patrolling the valleys of Afghanistan, we've trained their security forces, who have now taken the lead, and we've honored our troops' sacrifice by supporting that country's first democratic transition. Instead of sending large ground forces overseas, we're partnering with nations from South Asia to North Africa to deny safe haven to terrorists who threaten America.

In Iraq and Syria, American leadership -- including our military power -- is stopping ISIL's advance. Instead of getting dragged into another ground war in the Middle East, we are leading a broad coalition, including Arab nations, to degrade and ultimately destroy this terrorist group. (Applause.) We're also supporting a moderate opposition in Syria that can help us in this effort, and assisting people everywhere who stand up to the bankrupt ideology of violent extremism.

Now, this effort will take time. It will require focus. But we will succeed. And tonight, I call on this Congress to show the world that we are united in this mission by passing a resolution to authorize the use of force against ISIL. We need that authority. (Applause.)

Second, we're demonstrating the power of American strength and diplomacy. We're upholding the principle that bigger nations can't bully the small -- by opposing Russian aggression, and supporting Ukraine's democracy, and reassuring our NATO allies. (Applause.)

Last year, as we were doing the hard work of imposing sanctions along with our allies, as we were reinforcing our presence with frontline states, Mr. Putin's aggression it was suggested was a masterful display of strategy and strength. That's what I heard from some folks. Well, today, it is America that stands strong and united with our allies, while Russia is isolated with its economy in tatters. That's how America leads -- not with bluster, but with persistent, steady resolve. (Applause.)

In Cuba, we are ending a policy that was long past its expiration date. (Applause.) When what you're doing doesn't work for 50 years, it's time to try something new. (Applause.) And our shift in Cuba policy has the potential to end a legacy of mistrust in our hemisphere. It removes a phony excuse for restrictions in Cuba. It stands up for democratic values, and extends the hand of friendship to the Cuban people. And this year, Congress should begin the work of ending the embargo. (Applause.)

As His Holiness, Pope Francis, has said, diplomacy is the work of "small steps." These small steps have added up to new hope for the future in Cuba. And after years in prison, we are overjoyed that Alan Gross is back where he belongs. Welcome home, Alan. We're glad you're here. (Applause.)

Our diplomacy is at work with respect to Iran, where, for the first time in a decade, we've halted the progress of its nuclear program and reduced its stockpile of nuclear material. Between now and this spring, we have a chance to negotiate a comprehensive agreement that prevents a nuclear-armed Iran, secures America and our allies -- including Israel, while avoiding yet another Middle East conflict. There are no guarantees that negotiations will succeed, and I keep all options on the table to prevent a nuclear Iran.

But new sanctions passed by this Congress, at this moment in time, will all but guarantee that diplomacy fails -- alienating America from its allies; making it harder to maintain sanctions; and ensuring that Iran starts up its nuclear program again. It doesn't make sense. And that's why I will veto any new sanctions bill that threatens to undo this progress. (Applause.) The American people expect us only to go to war as a last resort, and I intend to stay true to that wisdom.

Third, we're looking beyond the issues that have consumed us in the past to shape the coming century. No foreign nation, no hacker, should be able to shut down our networks, steal our trade secrets, or invade the privacy of American families, especially our kids. (Applause.) So we're making sure our government integrates intelligence to combat cyber threats, just as we have done to combat terrorism.

And tonight, I urge this Congress to finally pass the legislation we need to better meet the evolving threat of cyber attacks, combat identity theft, and protect our children's information. That should be a bipartisan effort. (Applause.)

If we don't act, we'll leave our nation and our economy vulnerable. If we do, we can continue to protect the technologies that have unleashed untold opportunities for people around the globe.

In West Africa, our troops, our scientists, our doctors, our nurses, our health care workers are rolling back Ebola -- saving countless lives and stopping the spread of disease. (Applause.) I could not be prouder of them, and I thank this Congress for your bipartisan support of their efforts. But the job is not yet done, and the world needs to use this lesson to build a more effective global effort to prevent the spread of future pandemics, invest in smart development, and eradicate extreme poverty.

In the Asia Pacific, we are modernizing alliances while making sure that other nations play by the rules -- in how they trade, how they resolve maritime disputes, how they participate in meeting common international challenges like nonproliferation and disaster relief. And no challenge -- no challenge -- poses a greater threat to future generations than climate change. (Applause.)

2014 was the planet's warmest year on record. Now, one year doesn't make a trend, but this does: 14 of the 15 warmest years on record have all fallen in the first 15 years of this century.

I've heard some folks try to dodge the evidence by saying they're not scientists; that we don't have enough information to act. Well, I'm not a scientist, either. But you know what, I know a lot of really good scientists at NASA, and at NOAA, and at our major universities. And the best scientists in the world are all telling us that our activities are changing the climate, and if we don't act forcefully, we'll continue to see rising oceans, longer, hotter heat waves, dangerous droughts and floods, and massive disruptions that can trigger greater migration and conflict and hunger around the globe. The Pentagon says that climate change poses immediate risks to our national security. We should act like it. (Applause.)

And that's why, over the past six years, we've done more than ever to combat climate change, from the way we produce energy to the way we use it. That's why we've set aside more public lands and waters than any administration in history. And that's why I will not let this Congress endanger the health of our children by turning back the clock on our efforts. I am determined to make sure that American leadership drives international action. (Applause.)

In Beijing, we made a historic announcement: The United States will double the pace at which we cut carbon pollution. And China committed, for the first time, to limiting their emissions. And because the world's two largest economies came together, other nations are now stepping up, and offering hope that this year the world will finally reach an agreement to protect the one planet we've got.

And there's one last pillar of our leadership, and that's the example of our values.

As Americans, we respect human dignity, even when we're threatened, which is why I have prohibited torture, and worked to make sure our use of new technology like drones is properly constrained. (Applause.) It's why we speak out against the deplorable anti-Semitism that has resurfaced in certain parts of the world. (Applause.) It's why we continue to reject offensive stereotypes of Muslims, the vast majority of whom share our commitment to peace. That's why we defend free speech, and advocate for political prisoners, and condemn the persecution of women, or religious minorities, or people who are lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender. We do these things not only because they are the right thing to do, but because ultimately they will make us safer. (Applause.)

As Americans, we have a profound commitment to justice. So it makes no sense to spend $3 million per prisoner to keep open a prison that the world condemns and terrorists use to recruit. (Applause.) Since I've been President, we've worked responsibly to cut the population of Gitmo in half. Now it is time to finish the job. And I will not relent in my determination to shut it down. It is not who we are. It's time to close Gitmo. (Applause.)

As Americans, we cherish our civil liberties, and we need to uphold that commitment if we want maximum cooperation from other countries and industry in our fight against terrorist networks. So while some have moved on from the debates over our surveillance programs, I have not. As promised, our intelligence agencies have worked hard, with the recommendations of privacy advocates, to increase transparency and build more safeguards against potential abuse. And next month, we'll issue a report on how we're keeping our promise to keep our country safe while strengthening privacy.

Looking to the future instead of the past. Making sure we match our power with diplomacy, and use force wisely. Building coalitions to meet new challenges and opportunities. Leading -- always -- with the example of our values. That's what makes us exceptional. That's what keeps us strong. That's why we have to keep striving to hold ourselves to the highest of standards -- our own.

You know, just over a decade ago, I gave a speech in Boston where I said there wasn't a liberal America or a conservative America; a black America or a white America -- but a United States of America. I said this because I had seen it in my own life, in a nation that gave someone like me a chance; because I grew up in Hawaii, a melting pot of races and customs; because I made Illinois my home -- a state of small towns, rich farmland, one of the world's great cities; a microcosm of the country where Democrats and Republicans and Independents, good people of every ethnicity and every faith, share certain bedrock values.

Over the past six years, the pundits have pointed out more than once that my presidency hasn't delivered on this vision. How ironic, they say, that our politics seems more divided than ever. It's held up as proof not just of my own flaws -- of which there are many -- but also as proof that the vision itself is misguided, naïve, that there are too many people in this town who actually benefit from partisanship & gridlock for us to ever do anything about it.

I know how tempting such cynicism may be. But I still think the cynics are wrong. I still believe that we are one people. I still believe that together, we can do great things, even when the odds are long. (Applause.)

I believe this because over and over in my six years in office, I have seen America at its best. I've seen the hopeful faces of young graduates from New York to California, and our newest officers at West Point, Annapolis, Colorado Springs, New London. I've mourned with grieving families in Tucson and Newtown, in Boston, in West Texas, and West Virginia. I've watched Americans beat back adversity from the Gulf Coast to the Great Plains, from Midwest assembly lines to the Mid-Atlantic seaboard. I've seen something like gay marriage go from a wedge issue used to drive us apart to a story of freedom across our country, a civil right now legal in states that seven in 10 Americans call home. (Applause.)

So I know the good, and optimistic, and big-hearted generosity of the American people who every day live the idea that we are our brother's keeper and our sister's keeper. And I know they expect those of us who serve here to set a better example.

So the question for those of us here tonight is how we, all of us, can better reflect America's hopes. I've served in Congress with many of you. I know many of you well. There are a lot of good people here, on both sides of the aisle. And many of you have told me that this isn't what you signed up for -- arguing past each other on cable shows, the constant fundraising, always looking over your shoulder at how the base will react to every decision.

Imagine if we broke out of these tired old patterns. Imagine if we did something different. Understand, a better politics isn't one where Democrats abandon their agenda or Republicans simply embrace mine. A better politics is one where we appeal to each other's basic decency instead of our basest fears. A better politics is one where we debate without demonizing each other; where we talk issues and values, and principles and facts, rather than

“gotcha” moments, or trivial gaffes, or fake controversies that have nothing to do with people’s daily lives. (Applause.)

A politics -- a better politics is one where we spend less time drowning in dark money for ads that pull us into the gutter, and spend more time lifting young people up with a sense of purpose and possibility, asking them to join in the great mission of building America.

If we’re going to have arguments, let’s have arguments, but let’s make them debates worthy of this body and worthy of this country. We still may not agree on a woman’s right to choose, but surely we can agree it’s a good thing that teen pregnancies and abortions are nearing all-time lows, and that every woman should have access to the health care that she needs. (Applause.)

Yes, passions still fly on immigration, but surely we can all see something of ourselves in the striving young student, and agree that no one benefits when a hardworking mom is snatched from her child, and that it’s possible to shape a law that upholds our tradition as a nation of laws and a nation of immigrants. I’ve talked to Republicans and Democrats about that. That’s something that we can share.

We may go at it in campaign season, but surely we can agree that the right to vote is sacred; that it’s being denied to too many -- (applause) -- and that on this 50th anniversary of the great march from Selma to Montgomery and the passage of the Voting Rights Act, we can come together, Democrats and Republicans, to make voting easier for every single American. (Applause.)

We may have different takes on the events of Ferguson and New York. But surely we can understand a father who fears his son can’t walk home without being harassed. And surely we can understand the wife who won’t rest until the police officer she married walks through the front door at the end of his shift. (Applause.) And surely we can agree that it’s a good thing that for the first time in 40 years, the crime rate and the incarceration rate have come down together, and use that as a starting point for Democrats and Republicans, community leaders and law enforcement, to reform America’s criminal justice system so that it protects and serves all of us. (Applause.)

That’s a better politics. That’s how we start rebuilding trust. That’s how we move this country forward. That’s what the American people want. And that’s what they deserve.

I have no more campaigns to run. (Applause.) My only agenda -- (laughter) -- I know because I won both of them. (Applause.) My only agenda for the next two years is the same as the one I’ve had since the day I swore an oath on the steps of this Capitol -- to do what I believe is best for America. If you share the broad vision I outlined tonight, I ask you to join me in the work at hand. If you disagree with parts of it, I hope you’ll at least work with me where you do agree. And I commit to every Republican here tonight that I will not only seek out your ideas, I will seek to work with you to make this country stronger. (Applause.)

Because I want this chamber, I want this city to reflect the truth -- that for all our blind spots and shortcomings, we are a people with the strength and generosity of spirit to bridge divides, to unite in common effort, to help our neighbors, whether down the street or on the other side of the world.

I want our actions to tell every child in every neighborhood, your life matters, and we are committed to improving your life chances as committed as we are to working on behalf of our own kids. (Applause.) I want future generations to know that we are a people who see our differences as a great gift, that we’re a people who value the dignity and worth of every citizen -- man and woman, young and old, black and white, Latino, Asian, immigrant, Native American, gay, straight, Americans with mental illness or physical disability. Everybody matters. I want them to grow up in a country that shows the world what we still know to be true: that we are still more than a collection of red states and blue states; that we are the United States of America. (Applause.)

I want them to grow up in a country where a young mom can sit down and write a letter to her President with a story that sums up these past six years: “It’s amazing what you can bounce back from when you have to...we are a strong, tight-knit family who’s made it through some very, very hard times.”

My fellow Americans, we, too, are a strong, tight-knit family. We, too, have made it through some hard times. Fifteen years into this new century, we have picked ourselves up, dusted ourselves off, and begun again the work of remaking America. We have laid a new foundation. A brighter future is ours to write. Let's begin this new chapter together -- and let's start the work right now. (Applause.)

Thank you. God bless you. God bless this country we love. Thank you. (Applause.)

2015-01-05 Science Congress lauds 'feats' of ancient India

Union Environment Minister Prakash Javadekar at the 102nd Indian Science Congress in Mumbai on Sunday

Paper claims knowledge of making aeroplanes existed between 6 and 7000 BC

The Indian Science Congress made history on Sunday with a symposium on "Ancient Sciences through Sanskrit" that included a paper on the existence of interplanetary aircraft in India around 9,000 years ago, references to "cosmic connection" and a phenomenon explained as "fusion of science and spirituality due to inter-penetration law".

Held under the aegis of Mumbai University, this is the first time in its 102 year history that the Congress has included such a session, a move hailed by delegates as long overdue but criticised by many as mixing of science with mythology.

Seven papers were presented over the five-hour session. Papers were invited by the Department of Sanskrit, Mumbai University, and Kavi Kulaguru Kalidas University, Ramtek, and reviewed by the Mumbai University's Department of Sanskrit. Some authors were professionals from varied fields, while others were students of Sanskrit.

One paper, co-authored by Captain Anand Bodas, retired head of a pilot training centre, and Ameya Jadhav, a teacher, claimed there was evidence of ancient aviation in the Rigveda.

Captain Bodas told his audience that knowledge of making aeroplanes existed between 6 and 7000 BC. An ancient Indian sage, he said, had also talked of a radar system, which depended on the "basic principle that any animate or inanimate object radiates energy all the time. We know that when radiation stops, that object is considered dead."

Other papers spoke about how Indian texts were the first to talk about the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter, a constant known as pi, the Pythagoras theorem, classification of plants, veterinary science and metallurgy.

"In the Sulbha Sutra written in 800 BCE, Baudhayan wrote the geometric formula now famously known as Pythagoras theorem. It was written by Baudhayan 300 years before Pythagoras," said Dr Gauri Mahulikar, head of the Sanskrit department of Mumbai University. She added that Sulbha Sutra was also the first to crack the pi ratio.

Union Minister of State Prakash Javadekar said it was high time India used its ancient knowledge and wisdom. Even Germany was showing 'pragmatic interest' in Sanskrit, he said at the inauguration of the symposium.

Delegates called for serious inter-disciplinary research between various branches of science and ancient Sanskrit texts.

2015-01-28 Biography for Red Skull (Character)
from Captain America: The First Avenger (2011)
<http://www.imdb.com/character/ch0020750/bio>

The Red Skull (Johann Schmidt) is a fictional character who appears in Captain America stories. He is the archenemy of the superhero Captain America, and is portrayed as a Nazi agent. Created by Joe Simon, Jack Kirby and France Herron, the concept of the Red Skull first appeared in Captain America Comics #1 in March 1941. He has appeared as a recurring enemy of Captain America in various ongoing series, limited series and alternate reality series in the years since.

In "X-Men: The Animated Series", after learning that one of their scientists had been kidnapped, the Allies sent Wolverine and Captain America to rescue him. After realizing that they had been set up and the Scientist was there willingly, they were captured by The Red Skull. After escaping, they came face to face with The Skull and defeated his Sleeper robot before The Skull escaped on his plan.

In "Spider-Man: The Animated Series", Red Skull's son, Rhienholdt Kragov freed him from the vortex and they found the Doomsday Weapon and used it on Rhienholdt, and he became Electro. After Electro betrayed Red Skull, Red Skull tricked Spider-Man and Captain America into fixing the vortex in order to capture Electro. After a battle, both Cap and Red Skull were trapped in the vortex again.

He is later freed by the Beyonder to be apart of the Secret Wars. He recruited Alistar Smythe and Doctor Octopus to help him in his bid to conquer Battleworld. He was returned to earth by Doctor Doom with no memory of the events when Doom stole the Beyonder's powers.

In "Avengers: Earth's Mightiest Heroes", he led the German armies, with the HYDRA forces leading all attacks, into conquering much of the continental Europe. However, the Allies, led by Captain America, counterattacked and liberated much of the territory under German occupation.

In 1943, the Red Skull was a commander of HYDRA fortress in Norway. He began to develop multiple advanced creations, the primary focus of research being Norse mythology. When Captain America and the Howling Commandos attacked his fortress, the Red Skull activated a teleporter machine which tapped into the Bifrost Bridge, transporting multiple monsters from the other realms into Midgard. He intended to form an army of legendary creatures so he could send them against the Allies and win the war.

However, the Red Skull's plan was stopped by Captain America and Bucky who damaged his machine, starting a fire in the fortress. He attempted to escape with his advanced rocket plane but was followed by Captain America and Bucky. As Captain America reached him, he set his transport to self-destruct and flew away in an ejector seat. Though he failed to destroy Captain America, his greatest enemy ended up frozen in ice.

Immediately after the destruction of the plane, the Red Skull and his men found Bucky in the water and took him to one of the secret HYDRA bases. The HYDRA doctors and technicians gave Bucky a new, cybernetic arm, to replace the one which he lost during the explosion of the Skull's plane. The Red Skull brainwashed Bucky and turned him into his loyal henchman. He personally trained him, and Bucky became the Skull's best assassin. The brainwashed Bucky became known as the Winter Soldier.

Through the combination of science and the effects of the Super Soldier Serum on his body, the Red Skull remained alive until the 21st century. Disguising himself as Dell Rusk, he begun to work on infiltrating the United States government, eventually becoming the US Secretary of Defence. Somehow, the Red Skull gained possession of the Sleepers, the giant robots built by HYDRA during World War II. He used his position of the Secretary of Defence to obtain modern technology and weaponry from the US Army so he could improve the robots and use them in his next attempt of global conquest.

The Red Skull was responsible for the creation of the Red Hulk and manipulated the other vigilantes (Doc Samson and Falcon) to do the dirty job for him without anyone suspecting. Back in Washington, D.C., he seemed pleased of the success of the creation of the Red Hulk, despite his misbehavior and failure of getting Bruce Banner to him.

One day, the Red Skull launched an attack on the Avengers' Mansion and the surrounding area. He released the venomous Dust of Death, a gas which infected almost all Avengers and the innocent bystanders, turning them into the horrifying versions of the Red Skull himself. As Dell Rusk, he blamed the Avengers for the chemical attack, and ordered the US Army to attack the Mansion. He also sent the Code Red team to infiltrate the mansion and capture the Avengers. Hawkeye, Thor, and Ms. Marvel were able to defeat the Red Hulk and Falcon, and Iron Man made the cure for the toxin, but the Winter Soldier accomplished his mission, taking the infected Captain America to Red Skull's office in Pentagon.

Though ill, Captain America had enough strength to attack Dell Rusk, tearing his mask apart, and revealing his true face. Finally able to have a triumph over his greatest enemy, the Red Skull ordered the Winter Soldier to finish Captain America, but the Winter Soldier instead injected Cap with the cure for the toxin. The Red Skull attempted to kill the Winter Soldier for disobeying his orders, but he was attacked by Captain America. The American war hero easily overpowered the ex-HYDRA commander, but the Winter Soldier disappeared from the scene.

The Red Skull was taken into custody of S.H.I.E.L.D. and sent to a maximum secure floating prison on the open sea, the Hydro-Base. Captain America came to question him about his plans and schemes, but the Red Skull answered that despite his temporary imprisonment, he has already won. When asked about the Winter Soldier's identity, the Red Skull replied that the Cap is responsible for his creation.

At that moment, one of the Sleepers attacked the prison. Though the Avengers and S.H.I.E.L.D agents managed to destroy the giant robot, the Red Skull escaped, leaving a message in his cell, telling that the Sleepers are awake.

He controlled a Sleeper and tried to destroy the United States Capitol, but was defeated by Captain America and Bucky. He was captured by the Avengers.

In the Marvel Cinematic Universe, Johann Schmidt was an SS officer who reached the rank of Obergruppenführer (Lieutenant General) and got into Hitler's inner circle. He was the first man in centuries to be completely aware of Norse Gods having roamed the Earth and sought to harness the science behind their power. Then he created his own branch known as HYDRA, named after the mythological creature, which became Hitler's deep science division. Dr. Abraham Erksine had been forced to test the Super Soldier Serum on Johann Schmidt, corrupt and greedy for power. After the serum had been used on Schmidt, he not only developed a darker nature but also suffered physical side effects. After his head was severely deformed into a skull-like form, Schmidt became disillusioned from Hitler's ideals of Aryan supremacy and distanced himself from Nazism.

Schmidt then invaded a castle in Norway searching for a mystical artifact he calls "The jewel of Odin's treasure room". The Cosmic Cube is said to give its finder unbelievable power and Schmidt believed it would give him power. A member of a group sworn to protect it tries to stop him from stealing it but Johann shoots and kills him without mercy. Schmidt and Nazi scientist, Arnim Zola experiment with the artifact which is really the cosmic cube and attempt to harness its power. Then they started to create their own wunderwaffe using the Tesseract's power. Schmidt executed three Nazi officials to declare that HYDRA have become independent and will no longer aid the Third Reich. Schmidt reveals that his cause is looking beyond Hitler's plans and imagination, and that HYDRA won't grow up under Hitler's shadow. So he becomes an enemy and traitor of the Axis powers.

While on an unauthorized rescue mission, Steve Rogers briefly confronted Schmidt. Schmidt tore away the skin on his face revealing his deformed face. The Red Skull grew frustrated as Captain America destroyed all but one of his factories, killing those who failed to stop him. After the Howling Commandos captured Zola, Rogers led an attack on the Red Skull's last fortress. The Red Skull then took off in his jet to destroy the U.S. with the energy from the Cosmic Cube.

After the suicide bombers are neutralized, the Red Skull and Captain America fought within the cockpit ending in a stalemate as the battle damaged the Cube's power core. The Red Skull picked up the Cube, forgetting that it cannot be held by mortal hands. Thus the Cube incinerated Schmidt and his remains are transported across space toward Yggdrasil.

2014, Dec 16 5 Worst Republican Lies About Income Inequality

Do you believe the GOP's assertion that taxing the rich wouldn't raise that much money?

Back in 2012, former presidential candidate Mitt Romney was asked whether people who question the current distribution of wealth and power are motivated by “jealousy or fairness.” In response, Romney insisted, “I think it’s about envy. I think it’s about class warfare.” Romney's opinion is far from unique—in fact, it comprises a clear distillation of the GOP's position on income inequality.

Here are the five major statements that comprise the Republican argument on inequality.

1. Income is not all that unequal.

Actually it is. Since 1980 the top 1 percent has increased its share of the national income by an astounding $1.1 trillion. Today 300,000 very rich Americans enjoy almost as much income as 150 million.

Since 1980, the income of the bottom 90 percent of Americans has increased a meager $303 or 1 percent. The top 1 percent's income has more than doubled, increasing by about $500,000. And the really, really rich, the top 10th of 1 percent, made out, dare I say, like bandits, quadrupling their income to $22 million.

Meanwhile a full-time worker's wage was 11 percent lower in 2004 than in 1973, adjusting for inflation even though their productivity increased by 78 percent. Productivity gains swelled corporate profits, which reached an all time high in 2010. And that in turn fueled an unprecedented inequality within the workplace itself. In 2010, according to the Institute for Policy Studies, the average CEO in large companies earned 325 times more than the average worker.

2. Inequality doesn't matter because in America ambition and hard work can make a pauper a millionaire.

This is folklore. A worker's initial position in the income distribution is highly predictive of how much he or she earns later in the career. And as the Brookings Institution reports “there is growing evidence of less intergenerational economic mobility in the United States than in many other rich industrialized countries.”

The bitter fact is that it is harder for a poor person in America to become rich than in virtually any other industrialized country.

3. Income inequality is not a result of tax policy.

Nonsense. A painstaking analysis by economists Thomas Piketty, Emmanuel Saez and Stefanie Stantcheva found “a strong correlation between the reductions in top tax rates and the increases in top 1 percent pre-tax income shares from 1975–79 to 2004–08”. For example, the U.S. slashed the top income tax rate by 35 percent and witnessed a large ten percent increase in its top 1 percent pre-tax income share. “By contrast, France or Germany saw very little change in their top tax rates and their top 1 percent income shares during the same period.”

4. Taxing the rich will slow economic growth.

An examination of 18 OECD countries found “little empirical support for the claim that reducing the progressivity of the tax code has spurred economic growth, business formation or job growth.”

Indeed, Piketty, Saez and Stantcheva’s rigorous analysis came to the opposite conclusion. Our economy may be growing more slowly because we are taxing the rich too little, not too much. Economists Peter Diamond and Saez estimated the optimal top tax rate, that is the tax rate that would maximize revenue without slowing economic growth, could be as high as 83 percent.

Redistributing income stimulates economies in part because when 1 percent make more they save whereas when the 99 percent make more they spend. As a result, according to Mark Zandi, chief economist for Moody’s, a dollar in tax cuts on capital gains adds .38 cents of economic growth while a dollar in unemployment benefits gives the economy a boost of $1.63 and a dollar of food stamps adds $1.73.

5. Taxing the rich would not raise much money.

Of course it would. If only the richest 400 families, whose average income in 2008 was an astounding $270 million actually paid the statutory rate of 39 percent (revived as of next January 1st) an additional $500 billion would be raised over 10 years, putting a substantial dent in the projected deficit.

In 2010 hedge fund manager John Paulson made $5 billion. That year, according to Pulitzer Prize winner David Cay Johnston, Paulson paid no income taxes. Am I envious? You bet I am. But I’m also angry at the stark injustice of it all. And terrified of the power such wealth can wield in a country that allows billionaires to spend unlimited sums influencing legislation and elections.

A recent survey by the Pew Research Center found that two-thirds of Americans now believe the conflict between rich and poor is our greatest source of tension. I agree. It is a conflict that deserves to be aired fully and in public.
