Pundits from both sides of the aisle have lauded Mitt Romney's strong debate performance, praising his preparedness and ability to challenge President Obama's policies and accomplishments. But Romney only accomplished this goal by repeatedly misleading viewers. He spoke for 38 minutes of the 90 minute debate and told at least 27 myths:

- 1) “[G]et us energy independent, North American energy independent. That creates about 4 million jobs”. Romney's plan for “energy independence” actually relies heavily on a study that assumes the U.S. continues with fuel efficiency standards set by the Obama administration. For instance, he uses Citigroup research based off the assumption that “the United States will continue with strict fuel economy standards that will lower its oil demand.” Since he promises to undo the Obama administration's new fuel efficiency standards, he would cut oil consumption savings of 2 million barrels per day by 2025.
- 2) “I don't have a $5 trillion tax cut. I don't have a tax cut of a scale that you're talking about.” A Tax Policy Center analysis of Romney's proposal for a 20 percent across-the-board tax cut in all federal income tax rates, eliminating the Alternative Minimum Tax, eliminating the estate tax and other tax reductions, would reduce federal revenue $480 billion in 2015. This amount to $5 trillion over the decade.
- 3) “My view is that we ought to provide tax relief to people in the middle class. But I'm not going to reduce the share of taxes paid by high-income people.” If Romney hopes to provide tax relief to the middle class, then his $5 trillion tax cut would add to the deficit. There are not enough deductions in the tax code that primarily benefit rich people to make his math work.
- 4) “My — my number-one principal is, there will be no tax cut that adds to the deficit. I want to underline that: no tax cut that adds to the deficit.” As the Tax Policy Center concluded, Romney's plan can't both exempt middle class families from tax cuts and remain revenue neutral. “He's promised all these things and he can't do them all. In order for him to cover the cost of his tax cut without adding to the deficit, he'd have to find a way to raise taxes on middle income people or people making less than $200,000 a year,” the Center found.
- 5) “I will not under any circumstances raise taxes on middle-income families. I will lower taxes on middle-income families. Now, you cite a study. There are six other studies that looked at the study you describe and say it's completely wrong.” The studies Romney cites actually further prove that Romney would, in fact, have to raise taxes on the middle class if he were to keep his promise not to lose revenue with his tax rate reduction.
- 6) “I saw a study that came out today that said you're going to raise taxes by $3,000 to $4,000 on middle-income families.” Romney is pointing to this study from the American Enterprise Institute. It actually found that rather than raise taxes to pay down the debt, the Obama administration's policies — those contained directly in his budget — would reduce the share of taxes that go toward servicing the debt by $1,289.89 per taxpayer in the $100,000 to $200,000 range.
- 7) “And the reason is because small business pays that individual rate; 54 percent of America's workers work in businesses that are taxed not at the corporate tax rate, but at the individual tax rate....97 percent of the businesses are not — not taxed at the 35 percent tax rate, they're taxed at a lower rate. But those businesses that are in the last 3 percent of businesses happen to employ half — half of all the people who work in small business.” Far less than half of the people affected by the expiration of the upper income tax cuts get any of their income at all from a small businesses. And those people could very well be receiving speaking fees or book royalties, which qualify as “small business income” but don't have a direct impact on job creation. It's actually hard to find a small business who think that they will be hurt if the marginal tax rate on income earned above $250,000 per year is increased.

8) “Mr. President, all of the increase in natural gas and oil has happened on private land, not on government land. On government land, your administration has cut the number of permits and licenses in half.” Oil production from federal lands is higher, not lower: Production from federal lands is up slightly in 2011 when compared to 2007. And the oil and gas industry is sitting on 7,000 approved permits to drill, that it hasn't begun exploring or developing.

9) “The president's put it in place as much public debt — almost as much debt held by the public as all prior presidents combined.” This is not even close to being true. When Obama took office, the national debt stood at \$10.626 trillion. Now the national debt is over $16 trillion. That $5.374 trillion increase is nowhere near as much debt as all the other presidents combined.

10) “That's why the National Federation of Independent Businesses said your plan will kill 700,000 jobs. I don't want to kill jobs in this environment.” That study, produced by a right-wing advocacy organization, doesn't analyze what Obama has actually proposed.

11) “What we do have right now is a setting where I'd like to bring money from overseas back to this country.” Romney's plan to shift the country to a territorial tax system would allow corporations to do business and make profits overseas without ever being taxed on it in the United States. This encourages American companies to invest abroad and could cost the country up to 800,000 jobs.

12) “I would like to take the Medicaid dollars that go to states and say to a state, you're going to get what you got last year, plus inflation, plus 1 percent, and then you're going to manage your care for your poor in the way you think best.” Sending federal Medicaid funding to the states in the form of a block grant would significantly reduce federal spending for Medicaid because the grant would not keep up with projected health care costs. A CBO estimate of a very similar proposal from Paul Ryan found that federal spending would be “35 percent lower in 2022 and 49 percent lower in 2030 than current projected federal spending” and as a result “states would face significant challenges in achieving sufficient cost savings through efficiencies to mitigate the loss of federal funding.” “To maintain current service levels in the Medicaid program, states would probably need to consider additional changes, such as reducing their spending on other programs or raising additional revenues,” the CBO found.

13) “I want to take that $716 billion you've cut and put it back into Medicare.... But the idea of cutting $716 billion from Medicare to be able to balance the additional cost of Obamacare is, in my opinion, a mistake. There's that number again. Romney is claiming that Obamacare siphons off $716 billion from Medicare, to the detriment of beneficiaries. In actuality, that money is saved primarily through reducing over-payments to insurance companies under Medicare Advantage, not payments to beneficiaries. Paul Ryan's budget plan keeps those same cuts, but directs them toward tax cuts for the rich and deficit reduction.

14) “What I support is no change for current retirees and near-retirees to Medicare.” Here is how Romney's Medicare plan will affect current seniors: 1) by repealing Obamacare, the 16 million seniors receiving preventive benefits without deductibles or co-pays and are saving $3.9 billion on prescription drugs will see a cost increase, 2) “premium support” will increase premiums for existing beneficiaries as private insurers lure healthier seniors out of the traditional Medicare program, 3) Romney/Ryan would also lower Medicaid spending significantly beginning next year, shifting federal spending to states and beneficiaries, and increasing costs for the 9 million Medicare recipients who are dependent on Medicaid.

15) “Number two is for people coming along that are young, what I do to make sure that we can keep Medicare in place for them is to allow them either to choose the current Medicare program or a private plan. Their choice. They get to choose — and they’ll have at least two plans that will be entirely at no cost to them.” The Medicare program changes for everyone, even people who choose to remain in the traditional fee-for-service. Rather than relying on a guaranteed benefit, all beneficiaries will receive a premium support credit of $7,500 on average in 2023 to purchase coverage in traditional Medicare or private insurance. But that amount will only grow at a rate of GDP plus 1.5 percentage points and will not keep up with health care costs. So while the federal government will spend less on the program, seniors will pay more in premiums.

16) “And, by the way the idea came not even from Paul Ryan or — or Senator Wyden, who’s the co-author of the bill with — with Paul Ryan in the Senate, but also it came from Bill — Bill Clinton’s chief of staff.” Romney has rejected the Ryan/Wyden approach — which does not cap the growth of the “premium support” subsidy. Bill Clinton and his commission also voted down these changes to the Medicare program.

17) “Well, I would repeal and replace it. We’re not going to get rid of all regulation. You have to have regulation. And there are some parts of Dodd-Frank that make all the sense in the world.” Romney has previously called for full repeal of Dodd-Frank, a law whose specific purpose is to regulate banks. MF Global’s use of customer funds to pay for its own trading losses is just one bit of proof that the financial industry isn’t responsible enough to protect consumers without regulation.

18) “But I wouldn’t designate five banks as too big to fail and give them a blank check. That’s one of the unintended consequences of Dodd-Frank... We need to get rid of that provision because it’s killing regional and small banks. They’re getting hurt.” The law merely says that the biggest, systemically risky banks need to abide by more stringent regulations. If those banks fail, they will be unwound by a new process in the Dodd-Frank law that protects taxpayers from having to pony up for a bailout.

19) “And, unfortunately, when — when — when you look at Obamacare, the Congressional Budget Office has said it will cost $2,500 a year more than traditional insurance. So it’s adding to cost.” Obamacare will actually provide millions of families with tax credits to make health care more affordable.

20) “[I]t puts in place an unelected board that’s going to tell people ultimately what kind of treatments they can have. I don’t like that idea.” The Board, or IPAB is tasked with making binding recommendations to Congress for lowering health care spending, should Medicare costs exceed a target growth rate. Congress can accept the savings proposal or implement its own ideas through a super majority. The panel’s plan will modify payments to providers but it cannot “include any recommendation to ration health care, raise revenues or Medicare beneficiary premiums... increase Medicare beneficiary cost-sharing (including deductibles, coinsurance, and co-payments), or otherwise restrict benefits or modify eligibility criteria” (Section 3403 of the ACA). Relying on health care experts rather than politicians to control health care costs has previously attracted bipartisan support and even Ryan himself proposed two IPAB-like structures in a 2009 health plan.

21) “Right now, the CBO says up to 20 million people will lose their insurance as Obamacare goes into effect next year. And likewise, a study by McKinsey and Company of American businesses said 30 percent of them are anticipating dropping people from coverage.” The Affordable Care Act would actually expand health care coverage to 30 million Americans, despite Romney fear mongering. According to CBO director Douglas Elmendorf, 3 million or less people would leave employer-sponsored health insurance coverage as a result of the law.

22) “I like the way we did it [health care] in Massachusetts...What were some differences? We didn’t raise taxes.” Romney raised fees, but he can claim that he didn’t increase taxes because the federal government funded almost half of his reforms.

23) “It’s why Republicans said, do not do this, and the Republicans had — had the plan. They put a plan out. They put out a plan, a bipartisan plan. It was swept aside.” The Affordable Care Act incorporates many Republican ideas including the individual mandate, state-based health care exchanges, high-risk insurance pools, and modified provisions that allow insurers to sell policies in multiple states. Republicans never offered a united bipartisan alternative.

24) “Preexisting conditions are covered under my plan.” Only people who are continuously insured would not be discriminated against because they suffer from pre-existing conditions. This protection would not be extended to people who are currently uninsured.

25) “In one year, you provided $90 billion in breaks to the green energy world. Now, I like green energy as well, but that’s about 50 years’ worth of what oil and gas receives.” The $90 billion was given out over several years and included loans, loan guarantees and grants through the American Recovery Act. \$23 billion of the $90 billion “went toward “clean coal,” energy-efficiency upgrades, updating the electricity grid and environmental clean-up, largely for old nuclear weapons sites.”

26) “I think about half of [the green firms Obama invested in], of the ones have been invested in have gone out of business. A number of them happened to be owned by people who were contributors to your campaigns.” As of late last year, only “three out of the 26 recipients of 1705 loan guarantees have filed for bankruptcy, with losses estimated at just over $600 million.”

27) “If the president’s reelected you’ll see dramatic cuts to our military.” Romney is referring to the sequester, which his running mate Paul Ryan supported. Obama opposes the military cuts and has asked Congress to formulate a balanced approach that would avoid the trigger.

SHAMAN ARISING

Part 1 - FIRE AND ICE, A POSSIBLE SOURCE CULTURE AND TIME OF ORIGINS MOST ANCIENT

SNORRI STURLUSON OF EXTREME MYTHOLOGICAL GEOGRAPHY

If it hadn't been for Snorri Sturluson (1179-1241) we would not have known anything about the ancient Myths of the Norse to thereby have an insight into the interconnected similarity of beliefs that the Northern peoples shared; for much has been lost, let alone virtually forgotten such as the Mythic paradigm of the Saxons for example. Snorri lived in Iceland and the Norse Creation Myths, which he had saved do reflect the geography of extremes that Iceland possesses betwixt that of Fire and Ice, but due to the most obvious 'North Central Asian Shamanic' attributes that the principle deity of 'Odin' has one can perhaps find another geography of extremes to discover within the Norse myths to reveal!

THE TIME OF FIRE AND ICE

“Burning Ice, Biting Flame; that is how life began. In the South is a realm called MUSPELL. That region flickers with dancing flames. It seethes and it shines. No one can endure it except those born into it. Black SURT is there; he sits on the furthest reach of that land, brandishing a flaming sword; he is already waiting for the end when he will rise and savage the gods and whelm the whole world with fire. In the North is the realm called NIFLHEIM. It is packed with Ice and covered with vast sweeps of snow.”(The Norse Myths: Kevin Crossley-Holland)

VOLCANIC NUCLEAR WINTER OF A RAGNAROCK

Siberia and Mongolia are environments of contradictory extremes, where one has hot arid deserts, vast steppe, rugged tundra of penetrating permafrost to that of snow fields of merciless unceasing ice as well as to also find ancient volcanoes, which although now non-active are still bubbling and simmering under the surface. Most of the volcanic activity is focused in the "Southern" edges of Siberia in present day South-Eastern Russia around the Baikal region, which spill into Mongolia, whose volcanoes are clustered about in the North near Lake Baikal, whereby one could conjecture that Black SURT brandishing a flaming sword is actually a reference to a once very active volcano or volcanic field. To the North of Baikal one has no volcanism as such when going into Siberia. One could thereby theorise that the Norse myth of RAGNAROK, when applied to the area in question is a possible reference to a volcanic eruption hearkened in by earthquakes and by other geophysical phenomena, which very likely happened in the far distant past that gave birth to the story of RAGNAROK or to be foreseen as a future event due to the observable cyclic nature of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions in the area.

ELEVEN OF RIVERS AND ELEVEN OF ICE-AGE RUNE HYPERBOREAN

“In the Northern heart of NIFLHEIM lies the Spring HVERGELMIR and that is the source of eleven rivers named the ELIVAGAR; between the realms of MUSPELLHEIM and NIFLHEIM there once stretched a huge and seeming emptiness; this was the GINNUNGAGAP. The Rivers that sprang from HVERGELMIR streamed into its deep void.”(The Norse Myths: K.C. Holland)

GINNUNGAGAP LAKE BAIKAL FED BY ELEVEN RIVERS ANCIENT OF CHANGING GEOGRAPHY

Now here is where it gets tricky... The ELIVAGAR may refer to the River SELENGA and that of its tributaries, which flow from off the KHANGAI NURUU mountain range situated in DHZAVAN to surge into the deepest and oldest freshwater lake in the world called Lake BAIKAL, whose depths are almost unfathomable like that of the GINNUNGAGAP. However, if one was to take the Norse Creation myth literally then the SELENGA just does not fit the mythic description since the river SELENGA flows from the Southern source of the KHANGAI NURUU mountain range where one may possibly find a HVERGELMIR spring that feeds into BAIKAL'S yawning abyss of freshwater via the Northern flow of the SELENGA.

ODQAN FIRE KING KAM OF AN ODIN ECSTASY MASTER SHAMAN

To be covered more in depth in a following article, most of the Name variants of ODQAN, which is known in the Norse as ODIN and Saxon as WODEN (Wotan/Votan) can be found in the area of DHYZAVAN. There is however a spring to be found in the area of the GOVI-ALTAI province called ODHON BULAG (long: 96.46 Lat: 44.38333) which is of interest concerning the importance of the Altai in regards to this material. As for the reference of the number 'Eleven' there is the possibility that it is alluding to a 'Runic' riddle.

The Norse Runes have corresponding numbers associated with them, which is not that of a modern practice of a numerological application but quite ancient of use. The Eleventh Rune of the Elder FUTHARK of Twenty-Four Runes is 'ISA,' which means 'Ice', but more so to do with the Northern realm of NIFLHEIM wherefore ELIVAGAR could possibly be seen as that of a River of Ice, if one should take such a perspective that one is dealing with a poetic allusion to use a Runic code. There is another way of looking at the ELIVAGAR; for there are 'Thermal Springs' to be found in the 'Northern' end of Lake Baikal, which would be applicable to the spring of HVERGELMIR due to their underground issue; NIFLHEIM in Norse myth is usually seen as being that of the underworld realm of the ancestral dead whereby its waters would be possibly seen as being infused by the spirits of those who had passed over into the land of the ancestors and via such a spring one could communicate with them. ELIVAGAR in regards to an Eleventh Rune of ISA could then be seen as the river of the Dead or even that of an underground river of the ancestral spirits, which flows into the GINNUNGAGAP.

THE BIRTH OF THE CANNIBAL KING YIMIR

“The yeasty venom of the ELIVAGAR thickened and congealed like slag, and the rivers turned to 'Ice'. That venom also spat out drizzle-an unending dismal hagger that, as soon as it settled, turned into rime. So it went on until all the Northern part of GINNUNGAGAP was heavy with layers of Ice and hoar frost, a desolate place haunted by gusts and skuthers of wind. Just as the Northern part was frozen, the southern was molten and glowing, but the middle of GINNUNGAGAP was mild as hanging air on a summer evening. There, the warm breath drifting north from MUSPELL met the rime from NIFLHEIM; it touched it played over it, and the Ice began to thaw and drip. Life quickened in those drops, and they took the form of a giant. He was called YMIR.”(The Norse Myths: K.C. Holland)

OLKHON ISLAND OF A MIDDLE-EARTH MIDGHARD

At the geographic centre of Lake BAIKAL one has OLKHON Island (Midghard), which one could construe as being mythologized as YMIR or that of being ruled over by some ancient King that the Hindus remember as YAMA, the first man to die whom the Tibetan Buddhists also know of to make as their Judge of the Dead while the ancient Iranians called him YIMA.

TOYON SHAMAN LEADERS AND AN ODIN OF THE AESIR PEOPLES OF THE BLUE WOLF

The originators of the Yakut and the Buryats were known as the Kurykans who once lived upon Olkhon Island, which was also later frequented by the Hunnic and Scythian tribes (The Celts had strong ties with the Scythians) whom also considered the island to be sacred. The KURYKANS herded cattle as well as rearing horses just as the later Yakut did who were also adept metal workers, which made them stand out amidst the other Siberian tribes. They were a warlike people and their militaristic aristocracy was made up of ‘Toyons’, which one could also see as being possibly associated with the word WODEN/ODIN whereby one has WODENS/ODINS, to thereby be not so much a name but that of a title. Their principle deity was AI TOYON, which means Creator of Light. (AI to mean Creator and similar to that of the Teleut/Altaian BAI ULGAN, while 'Toyon' means 'Light' of similar etymology to that of Odqan.) Fire was sacred to them, which they perceived as being the protector of the family, which was placed at the centre of their Yurts. Their Shamans were called OYUNA who once practiced divination by using the skulls of their ancestors, which is reminiscent of ODIN divining by using the Skull of MIMIR.

THE ULFHEDNAR CHILDREN OF BERSERKER BOR WARRING WITH YIMIR

“YMIR was a frost Giant; he was evil from the first. While he slept, he began to sweat. A Man and a Woman grew out of the ooze under his left armpit, and one of his legs fathered a son on the other leg. YMIR was the forefather of all the ‘Frost Giants’, and they called him AURGELMIR. As more of the Ice in GINNUNGAGAP melted, the fluid took the form of a Cow. She was called AUDHUMLA. YMIR fed off the four rivers of milk that coursed from her teats and AUDHUMLA fed off the Ice itself. She licked the salty blocks and by evening of the first day a man’s hair had come out of the Ice. AUDHUMLA licked more and by evening of the second day man’s head had come. AUDHUMLA licked again and by evening of the third day the whole man had come. His name was BURI. BURI was tall and strong and good-looking. In time he had a son called BOR and BOR married a daughter of BOLTHOR, one of the Frost Giants. Her name was BESTLA and she mothered three children, all of them Sons. The first was ODIN, the second was VILI, and the third was VE.”(The Norse Myths: K.C. Holland)

YIMIR THE CANNIBAL KING OF THE VAMPIRE PEOPLES OF FROST

There is the distinct possibility that the practice of Cannibalism started 73,000yrs ago when the Indonesian Super-Volcano of Mt Toba, situated in present day Sumatra, erupted, which brought about a mass extinction event. Geneticists have discovered when investigating the Mitochondrial DNA that prior to 73, 000yrs ago there was a wide diversity of human genetic material; just after the Mt Toba Super-Volcano eruption there was a bottleneck in human genetic evolution, which indicates that the human race nearly went extinct; for only a few thousand individuals survived in a world totally devastated by the catastrophe. Many of the animal species as well as plant life were also severely affected, both on land and the sea; whereupon one can hazard a guess as to how ones ancestors survived such harsh conditions amidst a Northerly geographic locale of developing heirarchical class structures to have at the bottom rung of the ladder those of the weak who were to breed as mere fodder for an aristocratic (Frost Giants) Cannibal (Vampire) class; such would have thence birthed the later Nosferatu legends. The Northerly locale as well as Africa would have been furthest away from the epicentre of the Sumatra Super-Volcano eruption where those who had survived may have possibly indulged in Cannibalism; it is from those few survivors that we all derive our shared DNA. Curiously enough, it is also around the same time of the catastrophe that human Art started to appear out of virtually nowhere to hence flourish, which explored the Spiritual impulse that made us all truly human.

YMIR OF GEOGRAPHIC LOCALE OLKHON

One could also conjecture that YMIR'S bodily references offer poetic clues as to possible geographic locations in regards to OLKHON Island, which is made up of differing environments from that of a desert, steppe, tundra and forests in relation to the compass points of AUDHUMLA'S teats whereby BURI'S birth place is perhaps to be found at OLKHON'S central point. The name of BURI and BOR are also known of to the peoples of the ALTAI as that of a totemic ancestor who going by Norse myth also sired (ODQAN) ODIN/WODEN. (Note: Odin, Vili and Ve could be a reference to the Three Stars of Orion's Belt whereby Orion is Ymir. The Highest peak of the Altai mountain range is Mt Beluha, which is known as a Cosmic Centre of a Three Horned Mountain and 'Orion Dwelling of the Gods!' The Ziggurat and Pyramid can be seen as a Representative Model of the Shaman's Cosmic Central Mountain whereby one to find Russian Archaeologists discovering such in the Altai region that are of stepped form similar to those found in the Americas back in 1990 while other Pyramids have been discovered in Mongolia and are also well known of in (Shaanxi) China let alone Egypt that point to Orion's belt!)

BERSERKER BORI OF ANCIENT TOTEMIC ANCESTOR

"The term BORI, BURI, PUR is an ancient term referring to a totemic ancestor of many Ural-Altai nations. Seen on petroglyphs of the Altai and Sayan; Now due to its animal-totemic nature, the animal may be different even though its totemic name is the same, for it represents the 'Ancestor Spirit'. Among some, the 'Horned' deer is the ancestor like that of the Hungarians and some Scythians. In time some of the characteristics of the stag totem were transferred over to the horse, which was on ceremonial occasions decorated with antlers". (Fred Hamori – Scythian Religious Terms.)

"BUR-Kan=God in Teleut, Sor, Sagaj, Kachinco, Koibal, Kara-gas, Soyot. Pur=the Son of the Chief god ULGEN, among the Teleut." (Fred Hamori – Scythian Religious Terms.)

The three Sons born of BESTLA fathered by BOR (BORI), has an interesting parallel with that of the Scythian:

"Herodotus mentioned more than one myth of the origin of the Scythians. One of these claimed the mating of Papaois (Zeus) and the daughter of 'BOR-ISTEN', as the father of Targi-taur-us the father of the Scythian nations. His sons were supposedly Leip-ox-ais, Arp-ox-ais, and Col-ax-ais." (Fred Hamori – Scythian Religious Terms.)

SURT OF VOLCANIC FIELDS MUSPELL FIRE WHERE LAVA FLOWS

As for the fiery MUSPELL realm of SURT an area of volcanic activity, which lies 250KM west of Ulaanbaatar is known as the Kangayn or Tariat volcanic field and is located in a broad region of the Miocene-to-Holocene lava flows of the BAIKAL rift system SSW of Lake Baikal. The lava flow from the volcanic cone KHOROG was radiocarbon dated to be around 4930 yrs ago, which dammed the Chtutu River to form Lake Terkhin-Tsagan-Nur. Other volcano's in the region were blowing their tops well into the late Pleistocene and that of the Holocene period at the far edges of human memory amidst the Northern 'Ice' bound glaciers of the Ice-Age to no doubt melt becoming as terrifying floods under the Southern heat of their unflinching 'Fire,' which then rapidly become as ice again when the lava cooled. One such flood was one of the biggest ever geologically recorded that happened 14000yrs BP in the region of the Altai, which may explain the demise of many a 'Giant Mammoth'.

THE SIBERIAN GREAT FLOOD CATASTROPHIC WHEN MAMMOTH TROD THE EARTH

"14000 BP. Deep in the Altai Mountains of Southern Siberia, about this date, a wall of water 1,500 feet high surged down the ChujaRiverValley at 90 miles per hour. How does one deduce such a hydrological cataclysm? A. Rudoy, a Geologist at Tomsky State Pedagogical Institute, points to giant gravel bars along the ChujaRiverValley. These are not the inch-sized ripples we see on the floors of today's rivers; these are giants measuring tens of yards from crest to crest. Only a catastrophic flood could have piled up these ridges of debris. Rudoy postulates that, during the Ice Ages, a huge Ice Dam upstream held back a lake 3,000 feet deep, containing 200 cubic metres of water. When the Ice Dam suddenly ruptured, all life and land downstream was devastated. (folger, tim, "The Biggest Flood", Discover, 15:36, January 1994.) But other thoughts intrude: were the heaps of Mammoth Carcasses, the Siberian "IvoryIslands;" and those anomalous Stone tools mentioned earlier under Archaeology the consequences of similar Siberian Floods?" (Science Frontiers #92, March-April 1994. William R Corliss.)

A TIME OF ANCIENT WAR WHEN ULFHEDNAR ODIN KILLED YIMIR AND OF GREAT FLOOD

It has been noted by many that Flood myths are known of by many peoples (especially that of the Sumerian) and the Norse Creation myth is no exception to the rule, which tells of a 'Great Flood', whereby indicating some kind of primordial connection of memory, whose tale has been orally transmitted, and that of a primary source from whence the myth of a Great Flood originally derived from:

"All this was at the beginning, before there were waves of sand, the sea's cool waves, waving grass. There was no Earth and no Heaven above; only MUSPELL and NIFLHEIM and between them, GINNUNGAGAP. The three sons of BOR had no liking for YMIR and the growing gang of unruly, brutal frost giants; as time went on, they grew to hate them. At last they attacked YMIR and killed him. His wounds were like springs; so much blood streamed from them, and so fast, that the flood drowned all the frost giants except BERGELMIR and his wife. They embarked in their boat – it was made out of a hollowed tree trunk – and rode on a tide of gore." (The Norse Myths: K.C. Holland)

If Ymir was the King of a society, which had practiced Cannibalism since the time of a prior world-wide catastrophe when the Super-Volcano of Mt Toba erupted, then the three sons of Bor and their forces of the Wolf rebelled against him and that of his aristocratic class of Vampire Frost Giants at a time when there were dramatic climate changes manifesting, which initiated a fragmentation of their civilisation; whereupon the three sons of Bor took their opportunity to rebel against Ymir. The climate changes invariably led to a Great Flood in the Altai region of Siberia.

In other words one has the possibility of a prior civilisation, perhaps, somewhat akin to that of the militaristic Aztecs whom practiced Cannibalism being inundated by a Great Flood like that of Plato's Atlantis where one has an island amidst waters like that of Olkhon at the "centre" of Lake Baikal.

ALTAI TO BAIKAL OF GENETIC CRADLE WHERE RUNIC BLOODLINES GATHER

For there to be a connection of disparate myths from one culture to another to communicate through the ages about a probable shared incident of a terrifying catastrophe, there has to be a place of origin from whence peoples had originally come from to then disperse after a cataclysmic event. Such a place would be somewhat of a well spring of various peoples whose genetic lineages can now be traced back to its original geographic source to thereby put the jigsaw puzzle pieces of fragmented myth back together again in order to remember.
