

TO LISTEN TO THIS CALL:

- GO TO BBS RADIO 2 & SCROLL DOWN THE SCHEDULE UNTIL YOU REACH FRIDAY NIGHT.
- CLICK ON "HARD NEWS ON FRIDAY" & THE INFORMATION PAGE WILL COME UP.
- UNDERNEATH THE PICTURE OF THE GALAXY AND THE LOTUS, YOU WILL SEE A BLUE BOX WITH THE WORDS PROGRAM ARCHIVES.
- CLICK ON THAT BOX TO GET TO THE LISTING OF PROGRAM ARCHIVES.
- YOU CAN DOWNLOAD THE PROGRAM TO YOUR OWN COMPUTER OR LISTEN DIRECTLY.

Opening:

Angelsu

Phone Numbers: 530-413-9537 [line 1]
530-513-6472 [line 2, 3]
BBS Toll Free 888-429-5471 Toll Free in North America
Skype: BBSradio2
Website: www.2013RainbowRoundTable.ning.com

Meditation:

Angelsu

Housekeeping:

Rainbird

- BBS:
- A listener-supported radio station
 - We need $40 for last week; $300 for this week - thank you!
 - Go to BBS Radio 2; find the listing for Friday Night Hard News; find the Paypal button
 - NO COST TO ACCESS THE ARCHIVES for any of the T & R PROGRAMS

- T & R:
- Need $550 for their rent by Oct 8th
 - Need $100 for GAS this week +$60 for printer cartridges
 - On the website: www.2013RainbowRoundTable.com There is a Paypal button on this site
 - Please notify them if you're sending something: koran999@comcast.net
 - Rama's mailing address for cheques, Money orders: Ram D Berkowitz
2442 Cerrillos Road, # 385
Santa Fe, NM 87505
 - phone contact is via MariettaRobert: 317-773-0061
or by e-mail: stargatemarietta@gmail.com
 - To help with food: go back to Whole Foods 505- 992-1700 [Santa Fe #]
To get a gift card for Ram D. Berkowitz - see a link on the website below
<https://premium.vcdelivery.com/wholefoods/gissgiftcard.aspx>

Hard News:

R: such extreme change going on with our reality; at the same time being turned on a dime to love More and more of story coming out.

Ed Schultz: Mike P, John Nichols, Naomi Klein: all about obstruction, voter suppression

- Barbara Boxer came on & told of a lady living in her car in a vacant lot because her home was foreclosed - is not going to be allowed to vote!
- have to have an IQ of 60 to get what is going on!
- The Sirian Commander is a shoo-in, but voter fraud has to be dealt with

- Heard about having someone at every polling station to counter "Fraud"
- what is coming up is almost ridiculous: eg Scott Brown and slur about E. Warren
 - Whoopi Goldberg lost it on the view with Ann Coulter: she told Ann that you have no idea of what it's like to be black, so don't you be telling me about being black

T: Mahmoud abbas, acting Palestinian chief, told UN it's a "campaign of ethnic cleansing against the Palestinians, not an occupation" : closure of institutions, impoverishment, closing of schools, destruction of homes

- Tel Aviv has continued its extension of building homes, thus changing demographics of area
- Abbas pointed out that Israeli restrictions on Palestinians has made lives for the P even worse

Yemen: women most affected by worsening crisis: can't work so children not fed

- Important for aid to arrive ASAP
- Yemen's malnutrition rate is worst in the world: children beg in streets, don't go to school
- Power transfer to the son has not helped because US still has control of the levers
- Countries called upon to give the rest of what they pledged; to date, Yemenis have only received 10% of what was pledged in 2006
- 700,000 is more than double the previous numbers of refugees

Syria: King Abdullah said violence must end NOW

- The settlers attacking the Palestinian children and also sending their dogs to attack the children and Israelis arresting children and beating them and putting them in adult court - has to stop

USA: The Cayman Alternative Investment Summit - Bush Jr and Richard Branson going to Cayman to be keynote speakers!

Audio: President Obama's speech to the United Nations

[SEE BELOW]

Announcement:

Notes for all calls from August, 2012 are on 2013 [except Aug 18th which will be soon]

Notes for calls from September 1st to Sept 15th are on 2013 - rest to follow soon

Tara: Goes over salient points of Obama's speech to UN

- "a secure Israel is not at the cost of Palestine"
 - Helen Thomas said that those in Israel who are not happy living side-by-side by Palestinians are invited to go back to where they came from -
 - all the wrongs are to be righted and the disenfranchised are to be helped
- The original idea of Israel stated to give people a place to live, but really so they could get control over Middle East
- when King Faisal was killed - he was last of Ottoman Empire kings; Turkey was part of Persia, and first major king of Ottoman empire was King Suliman and the daughter of King Feisal was King Suliman - a reincarnational pattern
- NESARA will see economic borders dropped, and the US bully in the room will be gone - there will be a basket of currencies - the rainbow bills, the renminbi will be there -
- Gerhard Schroeder is running on the idea of breaking up big banks and making them bail themselves out. Merkel having problems with this as she is forcing austerity on other countries! Wants to lay a package of austerity on France on the rich - who are going to Belgium

R: Sam Seder saying Uruguay is the new Switzerland; the people with Hugo Chavez and the non-aligned nations; they have no issues with home-land security like in US.

T: Bush Jr seems to think he's going to summer camp in the Cayman Islands 5 days before the election!
Giving seminars

- Angela Merkel ordered tunnels to be built to nuclear dumpsites without no proper processes
 - Hundreds of thousands of Germans get in gov'ts face as they want nothing to do with nuclear
 - there is an investigation into her actions re: nuclear stuff

T&R talk of what they heard on Ed's show with Jeremy Scahill who seems to be always after Obama - yet he seconded the motion about the one word Mike P used: "Hillary" and how they are gagged

Somalia: hospital waste, mercury waste dumped in the oceans outside Somalia; the people fish as there is no food on the land, so they are starving to death and fighting to stay alive due to things happening in their bodies

- There has been an intention by NWO people to totally annihilate Africa - rare earth minerals are in this country - Africa is the last place for finding

Nigeria: massive flooding and thousands of people displaced - done on purpose! [west coast]

India: millions of people displaced by flooding - all this is being done on purpose! Not a true natural disaster.

Georgia: torture going on there, backed by US

Canada: doing things with nuclear industry & production of medical stuff

- Iran picks up the slack, then Canada gets angry and recalls the ambassador to Iran, and sends Iranian ambassador home! All because of being friends with Israel

Africa, South America: will step to the fore

Reading: Obama's speech to Clinton Global Initiative
September 25th, 2012

[SEE BELOW]

T: tells the story of the story on Amy Goodman and the Muslim man who had part of his face shot off by a young man with a sawed-off shotgun; he forgave that man who was put in prison and given the death penalty. The Muslim man visited the man in prison and they arrived at a rapprochement before he died.

Audio: Thom Hartmann with James Taylor, singer-songwriter

Friday, Sep. 28, 2012 Catch The Thom Hartmann Program LIVE 3-6pm Eastern!
"Anything Goes on Townhall Friday"

Hour One: "Brunch With Bernie" - Senator Bernie Sanders \(I-VT\) takes your calls

Hour Three: Election day is 5 weeks away - Thom talks with legendary singer/songwriter James Taylor & MA resident about Obama vs. Romney and how he's getting out the vote

- Discussion of why he is voting for Obama, and what he thinks of Romney
 - Taylor lives in Mass; talks of a business that was taken over by Bain Capital & loaded with debt
 - K-D Toys - said it didn't need to happen
 - Calls these irresponsible business practices
 - Crazy to elect someone into the main job in US who does not believe in government

<http://www.thomhartmann.com/>

Audio: Richard Belzer on Joy Behar Show September 27, 2012

Richard Belzer: 'The Republican Party is not a political party - it's a mental condition www.youtube.com/watch?v=rborn47W8wg

1 day ago – Actor and comedian Richard Belzer tells "Say Anything!" host Joy Behar why he thinks President Barack Obama is headed for a "landslide" victory in ...
TheMchap123 in reply to sahunt1973 (Show the comment) 4 hours ago ...

Audio: Max Keiser Reports Episode 346

<http://rt.com/programs/keiser-report/episode-346-max-keiser/>

Every week, Max Keiser looks at the scandal behind the financial news headlines.

In this episode, Max Keiser and Stacy Herbert discuss punk rocker Tall Paul's two-finger salute to Ben Bernanke's QE3, and gold adjusting for zero growth, yield, velocity and confidence. In the second half of the show, Max Keiser talks to Detlev Schlichter of PaperMoneyCollapse.com about quantitative easing to infinity, central banking 'devils' and the future of the gold standard.

Audio: Jennifer Granholm The War Room Sept 27, 2012

<http://current.com/shows/the-war-room/episodes/2012-09-27>

<http://current.com/shows/the-war-room/videos/romney-not-gop-favorite-just-vehicle-for-greed>

Katrina vanden Heuvel, editor-in-chief of The Nation, joins Jennifer Granholm in "The War Room" to talk about the election, money in politics and what Romney is doing for the conservative right-wing movement.

"Mitt Romney is not the favourite of the conservative right-wing movement," vanden Heuvel says. "But he's the vehicle for the money that the Koch brothers, Sheldon Adelson and the big super PAC people are putting [into the election]." She continues, saying that for them "it's chump change because in exchange ... they'll make billions more. ... So of course it's purely transactional."

R: Next video is about going into the quantum field & the hyperdimensional physics about which we will learn more as we move higher into 5

T: Rama said that these Republicans are going to get arrested very shortly for election fraud: they have already been messing with the electronic boxes;

- ACLU is going to man every single voting station and police the criminal Republicans who will do their best

Audio: The Real Matrix Holographic Parallel Universes

The Real Matrix Holographic Parallel Universes - YouTube

www.youtube.com/watch?v=q6DWf7sTQOU

15 Dec 2010 - 37 min - Uploaded by commonsense909

Hol

▶ 36:58 ▶ 36:58

Reading: 2012 The Mayan Calendar - AA Metatron via James Tyberonn

[SEE BELOW]

Reading: Swami Purna: The Truth shall Set you Free
last part of the last chapter

Closing: Rainbird
#48 The Wild Boar Confrontation
Teaches us to confront without fear

Music: Jacquie Evanko

Remarks by the President to the UN General Assembly

United Nations Headquarters
New York, New York

September 25, 2012 10:22 A.M. EDT

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. President, Mr. Secretary General, fellow delegates, ladies and gentleman: I would like to begin today by telling you about an American named Chris Stevens.

Chris was born in a town called Grass Valley, California, the son of a lawyer and a musician. As a young man, Chris joined the Peace Corps, and taught English in Morocco. And he came to love and respect the people of North Africa and the Middle East. He would carry that commitment throughout his life. As a diplomat, he worked from Egypt to Syria, from Saudi Arabia to Libya. He was known for walking the streets of the cities where he worked -- tasting the local food, meeting as many people as he could, speaking Arabic, listening with a broad smile.

Chris went to Benghazi in the early days of the Libyan revolution, arriving on a cargo ship. As America's representative, he helped the Libyan people as they coped with violent conflict, cared for the wounded, and crafted a vision for the future in which the rights of all Libyans would be respected. And after the revolution, he supported the birth of a new democracy, as Libyans held elections, and built new institutions, and began to move forward after decades of dictatorship.

Chris Stevens loved his work. He took pride in the country he served, and he saw dignity in the people that he met. And two weeks ago, he traveled to Benghazi to review plans to establish a new cultural center and modernize a hospital. That's when America's compound came under attack. Along with three of his colleagues, Chris was killed in the city that he helped to save. He was 52 years old.

I tell you this story because Chris Stevens embodied the best of America. Like his fellow Foreign Service officers, he built bridges across oceans and cultures, and was deeply invested in the international cooperation that the United Nations represents. He acted with humility, but he also stood up for a set of principles -- a belief that individuals should be free to determine their own destiny, and live with liberty, dignity, justice, and opportunity.

The attacks on the civilians in Benghazi were attacks on America. We are grateful for the assistance we received from the Libyan government and from the Libyan people. There should be no doubt that we will be relentless in tracking down the killers and bringing them to justice. And I also appreciate that in recent days, the leaders of other countries in the region -- including Egypt, Tunisia and Yemen -- have taken steps to secure our diplomatic facilities, and called for calm. And so have religious authorities around the globe.

But understand, the attacks of the last two weeks are not simply an assault on America. They are also an assault on the very ideals upon which the United Nations was founded -- the notion that people can resolve their differences peacefully; that diplomacy can take the place of war; that in an interdependent world, all of us have a stake in working towards greater opportunity and security for our citizens.

If we are serious about upholding these ideals, it will not be enough to put more guards in front of an embassy, or to put out statements of regret and wait for the outrage to pass. If we are serious about these ideals, we must speak honestly about the deeper causes of the crisis -- because we face a choice between the forces that would drive us apart and the hopes that we hold in common.

Today, we must reaffirm that our future will be determined by people like Chris Stevens -- and not by his killers. Today, we must declare that this violence and intolerance has no place among our United Nations.

It has been less than two years since a vendor in Tunisia set himself on fire to protest the oppressive corruption in his country, and sparked what became known as the Arab Spring. And since then, the world has been captivated by the transformation that's taken place, and the United States has supported the forces of change.

We were inspired by the Tunisian protests that toppled a dictator, because we recognized our own beliefs in the aspiration of men and women who took to the streets.

We insisted on change in Egypt, because our support for democracy ultimately put us on the side of the people.

We supported a transition of leadership in Yemen, because the interests of the people were no longer being served by a corrupt status quo.

We intervened in Libya alongside a broad coalition, and with the mandate of the United Nations Security Council, because we had the ability to stop the slaughter of innocents, and because we believed that the aspirations of the people were more powerful than a tyrant.

And as we meet here, we again declare that the regime of Bashar al-Assad must come to an end so that the suffering of the Syrian people can stop and a new dawn can begin.

We have taken these positions because we believe that freedom and self-determination are not unique to one culture. These are not simply American values or Western values -- they are universal values. And even as there will be huge challenges to come with a transition to democracy, I am convinced that ultimately government of the people, by the people, and for the people is more likely to bring about the stability, prosperity, and individual opportunity that serve as a basis for peace in our world.

So let us remember that this is a season of progress. For the first time in decades, Tunisians, Egyptians and Libyans voted for new leaders in elections that were credible, competitive, and fair. This democratic spirit has not been restricted to the Arab world. Over the past year, we've seen peaceful transitions of power in Malawi and Senegal, and a new President in Somalia. In Burma, a President has freed political prisoners and opened a closed society, a courageous dissident has been elected to parliament, and people look forward to further reform. Around the globe, people are making their voices heard, insisting on their innate dignity, and the right to determine their future.

And yet the turmoil of recent weeks reminds us that the path to democracy does not end with the casting of a ballot. Nelson Mandela once said: "To be free is not merely to cast off one's chains, but to live in a way that respects and enhances the freedom of others." (Applause.)

True democracy demands that citizens cannot be thrown in jail because of what they believe, and that businesses can be opened without paying a bribe. It depends on the freedom of citizens to speak their minds and assemble without fear, and on the rule of law and due process that guarantees the rights of all people.

In other words, true democracy -- real freedom -- is hard work. Those in power have to resist the temptation to crack down on dissidents. In hard economic times, countries must be tempted -- may be tempted to rally the people around perceived enemies, at home and abroad, rather than focusing on the painstaking work of reform.

Moreover, there will always be those that reject human progress -- dictators who cling to power, corrupt interests that depend on the status quo, and extremists who fan the flames of hate and division.

From Northern Ireland to South Asia, from Africa to the Americas, from the Balkans to the Pacific Rim, we've witnessed convulsions that can accompany transitions to a new political order.

At times, the conflicts arise along the fault lines of race or tribe. And often they arise from the difficulties of reconciling tradition and faith with the diversity and interdependence of the modern world. In every country, there are those who find different religious beliefs threatening; in every culture, those who love freedom for themselves must ask themselves how much they're willing to tolerate freedom for others.

That is what we saw play out in the last two weeks, as a crude and disgusting video sparked outrage throughout the Muslim world. Now, I have made it clear that the United States government had nothing to do with this video, and I believe its message must be rejected by all who respect our common humanity.

It is an insult not only to Muslims, but to America as well -- for as the city outside these walls makes clear, we are a country that has welcomed people of every race and every faith. We are home to Muslims who worship across our country. We not only respect the freedom of religion, we have laws that protect individuals from being harmed because of how they look or what they believe. We understand why people take offense to this video because millions of our citizens are among them.

I know there are some who ask why we don't just ban such a video. And the answer is enshrined in our laws: Our Constitution protects the right to practice free speech.

Here in the United States, countless publications provoke offense. Like me, the majority of Americans are Christian, and yet we do not ban blasphemy against our most sacred beliefs. As President of our country and Commander-in-Chief of our military, I accept that people are going to call me awful things every day -- (laughter) -- and I will always defend their right to do so. (Applause.)

Americans have fought and died around the globe to protect the right of all people to express their views, even views that we profoundly disagree with. We do not do so because we support hateful speech, but because our founders understood that without such protections, the capacity of each individual to express their own views and practice their own faith may be threatened. We do so because in a diverse society, efforts to restrict speech can quickly become a tool to silence critics and oppress minorities.

We do so because given the power of faith in our lives, and the passion that religious differences can inflame, the strongest weapon against hateful speech is not repression; it is more speech -- the voices of tolerance that rally against bigotry and blasphemy, and lift up the values of understanding and mutual respect.

Now, I know that not all countries in this body share this particular understanding of the protection of free speech. We recognize that. But in 2012, at a time when anyone with a cell phone can spread offensive views around the world with the click of a button, the notion that we can control the flow of information is obsolete. The question, then, is how do we respond?

And on this we must agree: There is no speech that justifies mindless violence. (Applause.) There are no words that excuse the killing of innocents. There's no video that justifies an attack on an embassy. There's no slander that provides an excuse for people to burn a restaurant in Lebanon, or destroy a school in Tunis, or cause death and destruction in Pakistan.

In this modern world with modern technologies, for us to respond in that way to hateful speech empowers any individual who engages in such speech to create chaos around the world. We empower the worst of us if that's how we respond.

More broadly, the events of the last two weeks also speak to the need for all of us to honestly address the tensions between the West and the Arab world that is moving towards democracy.

Now, let me be clear: Just as we cannot solve every problem in the world, the United States has not and will not seek to dictate the outcome of democratic transitions abroad. We do not expect other nations to agree with us on every issue, nor do we assume that the violence of the past weeks or the hateful speech by some individuals represent the views of the overwhelming majority of Muslims, any more than the views of the people who produced this video represents those of Americans. However, I do believe that it is the obligation of all leaders in all countries to speak out forcefully against violence and extremism. (Applause.)

It is time to marginalize those who -- even when not directly resorting to violence -- use hatred of America, or the West, or Israel, as the central organizing principle of politics. For that only gives cover, and sometimes makes an excuse, for those who do resort to violence.

That brand of politics -- one that pits East against West, and South against North, Muslims against Christians and Hindu and Jews -- can't deliver on the promise of freedom. To the youth, it offers only false hope. Burning an American flag does nothing to provide a child an education. Smashing apart a restaurant does not fill an empty stomach. Attacking an embassy won't create a single job. That brand of politics only makes it harder to achieve what we must do together: educating our children, and creating the opportunities that they deserve; protecting human rights, and extending democracy's promise.

Understand America will never retreat from the world. We will bring justice to those who harm our citizens and our friends, and we will stand with our allies. We are willing to partner with countries around the world to deepen ties of trade and investment, and science and technology, energy and development -- all efforts that can spark economic growth for all our people and stabilize democratic change.

But such efforts depend on a spirit of mutual interest and mutual respect. No government or company, no school or NGO will be confident working in a country where its people are endangered. For partnerships to be effective our citizens must be secure and our efforts must be welcomed.

A politics based only on anger -- one based on dividing the world between "us" and "them" -- not only sets back international cooperation, it ultimately undermines those who tolerate it. All of us have an interest in standing up to these forces.

Let us remember that Muslims have suffered the most at the hands of extremism. On the same day our civilians were killed in Benghazi, a Turkish police officer was murdered in Istanbul only days before his wedding; more than 10 Yemenis were killed in a car bomb in Sana'a; several Afghan children were mourned by their parents just days after they were killed by a suicide bomber in Kabul.

The impulse towards intolerance and violence may initially be focused on the West, but over time it cannot be contained. The same impulses toward extremism are used to justify war between Sunni and Shia, between tribes and clans. It leads not to strength and prosperity but to chaos. In less than two years, we have seen largely peaceful protests bring more change to Muslim-majority countries than a decade of violence. And extremists understand this. Because they have nothing to offer to improve the lives of people, violence is their only way to stay relevant. They don't build; they only destroy.

It is time to leave the call of violence and the politics of division behind. On so many issues, we face a choice between the promise of the future, or the prisons of the past. And we cannot afford to get it wrong. We must seize this moment. And America stands ready to work with all who are willing to embrace a better future.

The future must not belong to those who target Coptic Christians in Egypt -- it must be claimed by those in Tahrir Square who chanted, "Muslims, Christians, we are one." The future must not belong to those who bully women -- it must be shaped by girls who go to school, and those who stand for a world where our daughters can live their dreams just like our sons. (Applause.)

The future must not belong to those corrupt few who steal a country's resources -- it must be won by the students and entrepreneurs, the workers and business owners who seek a broader prosperity for all people. Those are the women and men that America stands with; theirs is the vision we will support.

The future must not belong to those who slander the prophet of Islam. But to be credible, those who condemn that slander must also condemn the hate we see in the images of Jesus Christ that are desecrated, or churches that are destroyed, or the Holocaust that is denied. (Applause.)

Let us condemn incitement against Sufi Muslims and Shiite pilgrims. It's time to heed the words of Gandhi: "Intolerance is itself a form of violence and an obstacle to the growth of a true democratic spirit." (Applause.) Together, we must work towards a world where we are strengthened by our differences, and not defined by them. That is what America embodies, that's the vision we will support.

Among Israelis and Palestinians, the future must not belong to those who turn their backs on a prospect of peace. Let us leave behind those who thrive on conflict, those who reject the right of Israel to exist. The road is hard, but the destination is clear -- a secure, Jewish state of Israel and an independent, prosperous Palestine. (Applause.) Understanding that such a peace must come through a just agreement between the parties, America will walk alongside all who are prepared to make that journey.

In Syria, the future must not belong to a dictator who massacres his people. If there is a cause that cries out for protest in the world today, peaceful protest, it is a regime that tortures children and shoots rockets at apartment buildings. And we must remain engaged to assure that what began with citizens demanding their rights does not end in a cycle of sectarian violence.

Together, we must stand with those Syrians who believe in a different vision -- a Syria that is united and inclusive, where children don't need to fear their own government, and all Syrians have a say in how they are governed -- Sunnis and Alawites, Kurds and Christians. That's what America stands for. That is the outcome that we will work for -- with sanctions and consequences for those who persecute, and assistance and support for those who work for this common good. Because we believe that the Syrians who embrace this vision will have the strength and the legitimacy to lead.

In Iran, we see where the path of a violent and unaccountable ideology leads. The Iranian people have a remarkable and ancient history, and many Iranians wish to enjoy peace and prosperity alongside their neighbors. But just as it restricts the rights of its own people, the Iranian government continues to prop up a dictator in Damascus and supports terrorist groups abroad. Time and again, it has failed to take the opportunity to demonstrate that its nuclear program is peaceful, and to meet its obligations to the United Nations.

So let me be clear. America wants to resolve this issue through diplomacy, and we believe that there is still time and space to do so. But that time is not unlimited. We respect the right of nations to access peaceful nuclear power, but one of the purposes of the United Nations is to see that we harness that power for peace. And make no mistake, a nuclear-armed Iran is not a challenge that can be contained. It would threaten the elimination of Israel, the security of Gulf nations, and the stability of the global economy. It risks triggering a nuclear-arms race in the region, and the unraveling of the non-proliferation treaty. That's why a coalition of countries is holding the Iranian government accountable. And that's why the United States will do what we must to prevent Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon.

We know from painful experience that the path to security and prosperity does not lie outside the boundaries of international law and respect for human rights. That's why this institution was established from the rubble of conflict. That is why liberty triumphed over tyranny in the Cold War. And that is the lesson of the last two decades as well.

History shows that peace and progress come to those who make the right choices. Nations in every part of the world have traveled this difficult path. Europe, the bloodiest battlefield of the 20th century, is united, free and at peace. From Brazil to South Africa, from Turkey to South Korea, from India to Indonesia, people of different races, religions, and traditions have lifted millions out of poverty, while respecting the rights of their citizens and meeting their responsibilities as nations.

And it is because of the progress that I've witnessed in my own lifetime, the progress that I've witnessed after nearly four years as President, that I remain ever hopeful about the world that we live in. The war in Iraq is over. American troops have come home. We've begun a transition in Afghanistan, and America and our allies will end our war on schedule in 2014. Al Qaeda has been weakened, and Osama bin Laden is no more. Nations have come together to lock down nuclear materials, and America and Russia are reducing our arsenals. We have seen hard choices made -- from Naypyidaw to Cairo to Abidjan -- to put more power in the hands of citizens.

At a time of economic challenge, the world has come together to broaden prosperity. Through the G20, we have partnered with emerging countries to keep the world on the path of recovery. America has pursued a development agenda that fuels growth and breaks dependency, and worked with African leaders to help them feed their nations. New partnerships have been forged to combat corruption and promote government that is open and transparent, and new commitments have been made through the Equal Futures Partnership to ensure that women and girls can fully participate in politics and pursue opportunity. And later today, I will discuss our efforts to combat the scourge of human trafficking.

All these things give me hope. But what gives me the most hope is not the actions of us, not the actions of leaders -- it is the people that I've seen. The American troops who have risked their lives and sacrificed their limbs for strangers half a world away; the students in Jakarta or Seoul who are eager to use their knowledge to benefit mankind; the faces in a square in Prague or a parliament in Ghana who see democracy giving voice to their aspirations; the young people in the favelas of Rio and the schools of Mumbai whose eyes shine with promise. These men, women, and children of every race and every faith remind me that for every angry mob that gets shown on television, there are billions around the world who share similar hopes and dreams. They tell us that there is a common heartbeat to humanity.

So much attention in our world turns to what divides us. That's what we see on the news. That's what consumes our political debates. But when you strip it all away, people everywhere long for the freedom to determine their destiny; the dignity that comes with work; the comfort that comes with faith; and the justice that exists when governments serve their people -- and not the other way around.

The United States of America will always stand up for these aspirations, for our own people and for people all across the world. That was our founding purpose. That is what our history shows. That is what Chris Stevens worked for throughout his life.

And I promise you this: Long after the killers are brought to justice, Chris Stevens's legacy will live on in the lives that he touched -- in the tens of thousands who marched against violence through the streets of Benghazi; in the Libyans who changed their Facebook photo to one of Chris; in the signs that read, simply, "Chris Stevens was a friend to all Libyans."

They should give us hope. They should remind us that so long as we work for it, justice will be done, that history is on our side, and that a rising tide of liberty will never be reversed.

Thank you very much. (Applause.)

END

10:16 A.M. EDT

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/the-press-office/2012/09/25/remarks-president-un-general-assembly>

President Obama Speaks to the United Nations ...

whitehouse.gov New 3 days ago

September 25, 2012 | 30:20 | Public Domain. In remarks to the UN General Assembly, President ...

Remarks by the President to the Clinton Global Initiative

Sheraton New York Hotel and Towers
New York, New York

12:34 P.M. EDT

THE PRESIDENT: Thank you very much. (Applause.) Thank you. Appreciate it. Please, please, everybody have a seat.

Well, good afternoon, everybody. And, President Clinton, thank you for your very kind introduction. Although I have to admit, I really did like the speech a few weeks ago a little bit better. (Laughter.) Afterwards, somebody tweeted that somebody needs to make him "Secretary of Explaining Things." (Laughter.) Although they didn't use the word, "things." (Laughter.)

President Clinton, you are a tireless, passionate advocate on behalf of what's best in our country. You have helped to improve and save the lives of millions of people around the world. I am grateful for your friendship and your extraordinary leadership. And I think I speak for the entire country when we say that you continue to be a great treasure for all of us. (Applause.)

As always, I also have to thank President Clinton for being so understanding with the record-breaking number of countries visited by our Secretary of State. (Laughter and applause.) As we've seen again in recent days, Hillary Clinton is a leader of grace and grit -- and I believe she will go down as one of the finest Secretaries of State in American history. So we are grateful to her. (Applause.)

To the dedicated CGI staff and every organization that's made commitments and touched the lives of hundreds of millions of people, thank you for being an example of what we need more of in the world, especially in Washington -- working together to actually solve problems.

And that's why I'm here. As Bill mentioned, I've come to CGI every year that I've been President, and I've talked with you about how we need to sustain the economic recovery, how we need to create more jobs. I've talked about the importance of development -- from global health to our fight against HIV/AIDS to the growth that lifts nations to prosperity. We've talked about development and how it has to include women and girls -- because by every benchmark, nations that educate their women and girls end up being more successful. (Applause.)

And today, I want to discuss an issue that relates to each of these challenges. It ought to concern every person, because it is a debasement of our common humanity. It ought to concern every community, because it tears at our social fabric. It ought to concern every business, because it distorts markets. It ought to concern every nation, because it endangers public health and fuels violence and organized crime. I'm talking about the injustice, the outrage, of human trafficking, which must be called by its true name -- modern slavery. (Applause.)

Now, I do not use that word, "slavery" lightly. It evokes obviously one of the most painful chapters in our nation's history. But around the world, there's no denying the awful reality. When a man, desperate for work, finds himself in a factory or on a fishing boat or in a field, working, toiling, for little or no pay, and beaten if he tries to escape -- that is slavery. When a woman is locked in a sweatshop, or trapped in a home as a domestic servant, alone and abused and incapable of leaving -- that's slavery.

When a little boy is kidnapped, turned into a child soldier, forced to kill or be killed -- that's slavery.

When a little girl is sold by her impoverished family -- girls my daughters' age -- runs away from home, or is lured by the false promises of a better life, and then imprisoned in a brothel and tortured if she resists -- that's slavery. It is barbaric, and it is evil, and it has no place in a civilized world. (Applause.)

Now, as a nation, we've long rejected such cruelty. Just a few days ago, we marked the 150th anniversary of a document that I have hanging in the Oval Office -- the Emancipation Proclamation. With the advance of Union forces, it brought a new day -- that "all persons held as slaves" would thenceforth be forever free. We wrote that promise into our Constitution. We spent decades struggling to make it real. We joined with other nations, in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, so that "slavery and the slave trade shall be prohibited in all their forms."

A global movement was sparked, with the Trafficking Victims Protection Act -- signed by President Clinton and carried on by President Bush.

And here at CGI, you've made impressive commitments in this fight. We are especially honored to be joined today by advocates who dedicate their lives -- and, at times, risk their lives -- to liberate victims and help them recover. This includes men and women of faith, who, like the great abolitionists before them, are truly doing the Lord's work -- evangelicals, the Catholic Church, International Justice Mission and World Relief, even individual congregations, like Passion City Church in Atlanta, and so many young people of faith who've decided that their conscience compels them to act in the face of injustice. Groups like these are answering the Bible's call -- to "seek justice" and "rescue the oppressed." Some of them join us today, and we are grateful for your leadership.

Now, as President, I've made it clear that the United States will continue to be a leader in this global movement. We've got a comprehensive strategy. We're shining a spotlight on the dark corners where it persists. Under Hillary's leadership, we're doing more than ever -- with our annual trafficking report, with new outreach and partnerships -- to give countries incentives to meet their responsibilities and calling them out when they don't.

I recently renewed sanctions on some of the worst abusers, including North Korea and Eritrea. We're partnering with groups that help women and children escape from the grip of their abusers. We're helping other countries step up their own efforts. And we're seeing results. More nations have passed and more are enforcing modern anti-trafficking laws.

Last week I was proud to welcome to the Oval Office not only a great champion of democracy but a fierce advocate against the use of forced labor and child soldiers -- Aung San Suu Kyi. (Applause.) And as part of our engagement, we'll encourage Burma to keep taking steps to reform -- because nations must speak with one voice: Our people and our children are not for sale.

But for all the progress that we've made, the bitter truth is that trafficking also goes on right here, in the United States. It's the migrant worker unable to pay off the debt to his trafficker. The man, lured here with the promise of a job, his documents then taken, and forced to work endless hours in a kitchen. The teenage girl, beaten, forced to walk the streets. This should not be happening in the United States of America.

As President, I directed my administration to step up our efforts -- and we have. For the first time, at Hillary's direction, our annual trafficking report now includes the United States, because we can't ask other nations to do what we are not doing ourselves. (Applause.) We've expanded our interagency task force to include more federal partners, including the FBI. The intelligence community is devoting more resources to identifying trafficking networks. We've strengthened protections so that foreign-born workers know their rights.

And most of all, we're going after the traffickers. New anti-trafficking teams are dismantling their networks. Last year, we charged a record number of these predators with human trafficking. We're putting them where they belong -- behind bars. (Applause.)

But with more than 20 million victims of human trafficking around the world -- think about that, more than 20 million -- they've got a lot more to do. And that's why, earlier this year, I directed my administration to increase our efforts. And today, I can announce a series of additional steps that we're going to take.

First, we're going to do more to spot it and stop it. We'll prepare a new assessment of human trafficking in the United States so we better understand the scope and scale of the problem. We'll strengthen training, so investigators and law enforcement are even better equipped to take action -- and treat victims as victims, not as criminals. (Applause.) We're going to work with Amtrak, and bus and truck inspectors, so that they're on the lookout. We'll help teachers and educators spot the signs as well, and better serve those who are vulnerable, especially our young people.

Second, we're turning the tables on the traffickers. Just as they are now using technology and the Internet to exploit their victims, we're going to harness technology to stop them. We're encouraging tech companies and advocates and law enforcement -- and we're also challenging college students -- to develop tools that our young people can use to stay safe online and on their smart phones.

Third, we'll do even more to help victims recover and rebuild their lives. We'll develop a new action plan to improve coordination across the federal government. We're increasing access to services to help survivors become self-sufficient. We're working to simplify visa procedures for "T" visas so that innocent victims from other countries can stay here as they help us prosecute their traffickers.

This coming year, my Office of Faith-based and Neighborhood Partnerships will make the fight against human trafficking a focus of its work. (Applause.) They're doing great work. And I'm also proud to announce a new partnership with Humanity United, which is a leader in anti-trafficking -- a multi-million dollar challenge to local communities to find new ways to care for trafficking victims. And I want to thank Johns Hopkins University, which will be focusing on how to best care for child victims. (Applause.)

Now, finally, as one of the largest purchasers of goods and services in the world, the United States government will lead by example. We've already taken steps to make sure our contractors do not engage in forced labor. And today we're going to go further. I've signed a new executive order that raises the bar. It's specific about the prohibitions. It does more to protect workers. It ensures stronger compliance. In short, we're making clear that American tax dollars must never, ever be used to support the trafficking of human beings. We will have zero tolerance. We mean what we say. We will enforce it. (Applause.)

Of course, no government, no nation, can meet this challenge alone. Everybody has a responsibility. Every nation can take action. Modern anti-trafficking laws must be passed and enforced and justice systems must be strengthened. Victims must be cared for. So here in the United States, Congress should renew the Trafficking Victims Protection Act. Whether you are a conservative or a liberal, Democrat or Republican, this is a no-brainer. This is something we should all agree on. We need to get that done.

And more broadly, as nations, let's recommit to addressing the underlying forces that push so many into bondage in the first place. With development and economic growth that creates legitimate jobs, there's less likelihood of indentured servitude around the globe. A sense of justice that says no child should ever be exploited, that has to be burned into the cultures of every country. A commitment to equality -- as in the Equal Futures Partnership that we launched with other nations yesterday so societies empower our sisters and our daughters just as much as our brothers and sons. (Applause.)

And every business can take action. All the business leaders who are here and our global economy companies have a responsibility to make sure that their supply chains, stretching into the far corners of the globe, are free of forced labor. (Applause.) The good news is more and more responsible companies are holding themselves to higher standards. And today, I want to salute the new commitments that are being made. That includes the new Global Business Coalition Against Trafficking -- companies that are sending a message: Human trafficking is not a business model, it is a crime, and we are going to stop it. We're proud of them. (Applause.)

Every faith community can take action as well, by educating their congregations, by joining in coalitions that are bound by a love of God and a concern for the oppressed. And like that Good Samaritan on the road to Jericho, we can't just pass by, indifferent. We've got to be moved by compassion. We've got to bind up the wounds. Let's come together around a simple truth -- that we are our brother's keepers and we are our sister's keepers.

And finally, every citizen can take action: by learning more; by going to the website that we helped create -- SlaveryFootprint.org; by speaking up and insisting that the clothes we wear, the food we eat, the products we buy are made free of forced labor; by standing up against the degradation and abuse of women.

That's how real change happens -- from the bottom up. And if you doubt that, ask Marie Godet Niyonyota, from the Congo. Think about Marie's story. She was kidnapped by rebels, turned into a slave. She was abused -- physically and sexually. They got her pregnant five times. In one awful battle, her children were killed -- all five of them. Miraculously, she survived and escaped. And with care and support, she began to heal. And she learned to read and write and sew, and today Marie is back home, working toward a new future.

Or ask Ima Matul She grew up in Indonesia, and at 17 was given the opportunity to work as a nanny here in the United States. But when she arrived, it turned out to be a nightmare. Cooking, cleaning -- 18-hour days, seven days a week. One beating was so bad it sent her to the emergency room. And finally, she escaped. And with the help from a group that cared, today Ima has a stable job. She's an advocate -- she's even testified before Congress.

Or ask Sheila White, who grew up in the Bronx. Fleeing an abusive home, she fell in with a guy who said he'd protect her. Instead, he sold her -- just 15 years old -- 15 -- to men who raped her and beat her, and burned her with irons. And finally, after years -- with the help of a non-profit led by other survivors -- she found the courage to break free and get the services she needed. Sheila earned her GED. Today she is a powerful, fierce advocate who helped to pass a new anti-trafficking law right here in New York. (Applause.)

These women endured unspeakable horror. But in their unbreakable will, in their courage, in their resilience, they remind us that this cycle can be broken; victims can become not only survivors, they can become leaders and advocates, and bring about change.

And I just met Ima and Sheila and several of their fellow advocates, and I have to tell you they are an incredible inspiration. They are here -- they've chosen to tell their stories. I want them to stand and be recognized because they are inspiring all of us. Please -- Sheila, Ima. (Applause.)

To Ima and Sheila, and each of you -- in the darkest hours of your lives, you may have felt utterly alone, and it seemed like nobody cared. And the important thing for us to understand is there are millions around the world who are feeling that same way at this very moment.

Right now, there is a man on a boat, casting the net with his bleeding hands, knowing he deserves a better life, a life of dignity, but doesn't know if anybody is paying attention. Right now, there's a woman, hunched over a sewing machine, glancing beyond the bars on the window, knowing if just given the chance, she might some day sell her own wares, but she doesn't think anybody is paying attention. Right now, there's a young boy, in a brick factory, covered in dust, hauling his heavy load under a blazing sun, thinking if he could just go to school, he might know a different future, but he doesn't think anybody is paying attention. Right now, there is a girl, somewhere trapped in a brothel, crying herself to sleep again, and maybe daring to imagine that some day, just maybe, she might be treated not like a piece of property, but as a human being.

And so our message today, to them, is -- to the millions around the world -- we see you. We hear you. We insist on your dignity. And we share your belief that if just given the chance, you will forge a life equal to your talents and worthy of your dreams. (Applause.)

Our fight against human trafficking is one of the great human rights causes of our time, and the United States will continue to lead it -- in partnership with you. The change we seek will not come easy, but we can draw strength from the movements of the past. For we know that every life saved -- in the words of that great Proclamation -- is "an act of justice," worthy of "the considerate judgement of mankind, and the gracious favour of Almighty God."

That's what we believe. That's what we're fighting for. And I'm so proud to be in partnership with CGI to make this happen.

Thank you very much, everybody. God bless you. God bless America. (Applause.)

END

12:57 P.M. EDT

2012: The Mayan Calendar

Archangel Metatron via James Tyberonn

Channel Message

Republished by Request

Greetings! I am Metatron, Lord of Light! I embrace each of you in Light, in love. I know each one of you, far more than you may realise. And we savour these moments we share.

Dear Humans, the Universe, the Cosmos is perfection itself, regardless of any interpretation or perception of it. In a quantum sense, all things in the crystalline unified field act precisely, perfectly according to their nature, their architectural integrity. Yet some are created at higher frequencies, at higher vibratory resonance than others. And so with these words, we begin this most interesting discussion.

Question to Archangel Metatron: According to one modern Mayan Calendar interpreter, we are experiencing an acceleration of consciousness like no other. In fact, the researcher says that the rate of consciousness will speed up by a factor of 20. If this is so, what does it mean exactly?

Archangel Metatron: The potential for increased consciousness is indeed taking place as a pre-set quickening of the Ascension. However, the 'rate' of shift varies with each individual, and as such a fixed factor of the acceleration cannot truly be given per se.

Before we comment further on the acceleration of consciousness, we wish you to know that the remarkable calendar that you currently refer to as 'Mayan', was not developed nor originally written by the Mayans in the manner that you suppose. It pre-dated the Mayans by more than 18,000 years. It was originally developed by the enlightened Atlanteans of Poseida with assistance from the Sirian/Pleiadean Alliance, and stored by means of crystalline technology, termed 'the Crystal Skulls'.

Even your more creative anthropologists consider that the earliest Mayan society only began around 2,000 BC. We assure you the calendar was in place and effect, in a much more expansive format, long before the Mayan society came into existence. What you now refer to as the Mayan calendar is but a small remnant of what pre-existed the Mayans.

The area inhabited by the predecessors of the Mayans in the Yucatan area of Mexico and Guatemala was connected by a land bridge to the Atlantean island of Poseida before the quakes and the final deluge of Atlantis submerged it. Highly technically advanced cultures from Atlantis inhabited Central America and Egypt long before the final demise of Atlantis. The Central American, South America (OG) and Egyptian colonies and cultures emerged from and were one with the highly spiritual Atlanteans of the 'Law of One' for many millennia before the destruction of Atlantis.

These societies contained within them an élite and highly advanced group of what might be termed 'scientist/ priests'. These sages of the Atla-Ra were highly adept at the science of mind over matter. These Masters operated through mental physics and operated in full consciousness in countless subtle degrees of multidimensionality.

So while the untrained masses of humanity in the era of Atlantis lacked such skills, and indeed utilised land bridges and other less advanced forms of transport to and from the colonies of Atlantis, Og, Yucatan and Egypt, the inner circle of scientist/priests had the means to etherically bi-locate and physically manifest - not just on Earth, but also universally and galactically. They interacted with the extraterrestrials of the Pleiadean/Sirian Alliance, and were the original source of the cyclic calendar you presently term 'Mayan'.

Small enclaves of these scientist/priests flourished for millennia after the deluge, and retained the knowledge of the calendar as well as the supervision of the construction of the various pyramids, with assistance from the afore-mentioned extraterrestrials.

Yet these scientist/priests did not represent the society of the Mayans as a whole. That is why the Mayans are an enigma to you today. Some of the accomplishments attributed to them reveal great technical advancement, and yet the society as a whole was vastly campestral and given to unseemly ceremonies involving human sacrifice and other aberrations under ruthless misaligned dictatorships.

So it follows that the scientist/priests of OG, Yucatan, Egypt and other 'forgotten' cultures before and after them, understood both the science of mental physics and had knowledge of astronomy and dimensional cycles. Only those of adept and austere initiate traditions and societies knew this, although very little evidence of any significance remains today, and what does remain is not recognized nor is as yet truly understood. The 'Mayan' priests did indeed re-write & interpret the pre-existing calendars (to a certain degree) in order to make them more applicable, more understandable for the society of their era. Thus the symbology in the surviving calendars, you see?

But again, the highly advanced inner circle of 'Maya' savants were not representative of the society as a whole. These were indeed masters, who played the primary role in the establishment of the Meso-American Pyramids and Observatories. These were beings who mastered 'mental physics'.

Understanding the science of mental physics and having the ability to utilise such knowledge is what defines the gap between what today's academics know and what the advanced societies of the past knew. The influence of precise thought upon matter is not yet understood by humanity, and is a forgotten science.

The scientist priests knew well the art of de-materialization and re-manifestation. It was by means of travel through bi-location, and of the translation of physical matter from location to location that the greatest of the pyramids were constructed.

This technology remains a mystery to you today. The Atla-Ra and their descendants had the ability mentally to shift matter from the 3rd dimension into fields of what might be termed anti-gravity; to dematerialize and re-form and re-manifest as substance without density. In certain circumstances they were even able to alter their own reality and dimension.

The significance of this is that neither the masses of the Olmec, Aztec, Mayan, nor the Meso-American peoples retained the mastery that certain aspects of their culture exhibited. Our point is that the Atla-Ra developed the calendar, and segments of the Mayans retained that knowledge and recreated records and texts to preserve it. But just as in Atlantis, the scientist/priests, while highly respected, were not the governing body nor the decision-makers as to how the society as a whole developed.

Question: Is this the reason why the changes seem to be happening not only faster and faster but with more intensity?

Archangel Metatron:

It is the increase in resonance that is escalating the potential of each individual to shift upward into great and greater conscious awareness. The Ascension is underpinned and indeed defined by the dimensional expansion of the Earth, including the crystalline realms.

The Ascension is characterised by the 'new' input of life-force consciousness units, termed by your ancients as 'Akash' or 'Adamantine Essence' that are in themselves the potent light particulate of reality manifestation. (In our terms - Consciousness Units.) The crystalline realm begins at the level of the fifth dimension and extends to the 15th in terms of the Omni-Earth.

What has been available to mankind prior to the dimensional expansion of the Ascension, has been a transduced or 'stepped-down' version of Consciousness Units in what would be termed electromagnetic energy units that are able to function in the physical polarity field and linear space/time aspects of the third dimension.

Crystalline consciousness units operate in a much more rapid frequency, and are spurred into creative manifestation of reality through the higher aspect of mind, in the realm you refer to as the subconscious. Accordingly the intensity of energies, of consciousness shift and quickening of time pulse are all attributes of the resonance.

The event you refer to as 'the Ascension' is in truth the expanded ability of 3D humanity to rise into a 'higher' dimension, the crystalline dimension, that has for many millennia been unavailable to you. Yet having the expansion of energies that make Ascension available, does not mean that each individual will immediately utilise the opportunity again being offered. Indeed the choice to do so remains with each person. Ascension is thus a personal option, depending on the readiness, the pure intent and indeed the Light quotient of the individual. Ascension occurs one heart, one mind at a time. It was ever thus.

Earth is a free will, free choice environment by design. 'Ascension' is not a magical star-dust that immediately transmutes all that it touches - rather it is a newly-opened frequencial doorway that the individual may choose to pass through when ready.

It is important to bear in mind that the Mayan Calendar, while accurate in its determination of cycles, can be analysed differently according to the perspective, stance and Light quotient of each interpreter. Accordingly, it is more accurate to say that the degree of 'shift' or greater consciousness is determined by the awareness of the individual, and not by any pre-set numerical factor.

We must add that certain 'Mayan' texts that were destroyed by the Spanish priests provided information that would have given far more expansive views of the calendar. Also, many centuries before the Maya, other texts that were vital components of the calendar were lost - a loss that has severely impaired a broader understanding of the information originally presented.

Permit us to stress once again that the rate of an individual's Ascension is determined by and actuated by his intent, and his ability to rise into and absorb the enhanced energy available.

Question: Could you talk about this aspect of acceleration and what it offers humanity ?

Archangel Metatron:

Dimensional reality on Earth is programmed to appear in a time sequence you perceive as linear. It is, to use your computer terminology, a program facilitated by a server which, in this case, is the 144-Crystalline grid. Through the 144-Grid the sub-programs of 'time' are inserted as holographic realities. There are epochs and eras, entire civilisations that are inserted into the Grid Server as programs. That is why certain civilisations such as the Mayan can seem to have suddenly sprung up out of nowhere into the vast 'sea of Creation' within the flow of the collective unconsciousness, the consciousness grid that enables created realities.

Linear time is a functional, purposeful illusion. In truth, all programs are running simultaneously. Therefore on the level of the oversoul, you are experiencing many civilisations, and all lifetimes at the same time in the Unified Field of the Crystalline Multiverse.

One aspect of the Ascension is the centering of all time, and in the greater overview, the time acceleration now being experienced on Earth is occurring because an aperture in the hologram programs of simultaneous time is allowing all holograms to complete themselves in this cycle. As such, that which you term 'Light' is itself accelerating, and this is affecting every aspect of your present experience.

Question: How does it affect time, and will time itself disappear?

Archangel Metatron: We have said that time as you know it, is accelerating. Time and space are different aspects of the same energy. Both are aspects of Light, and the speed of Light around Earth is accelerating. Indeed, your planet is reformulating. But remember, it is not merely the pulse-flash of time sequencing that is increasing, indeed, it is humanity that is increasing in vibration.

As we have said, the world remakes itself now as the inertia of time-chronology speeds past more quickly today than it did yesterday. Accordingly 2012 will continue to expedite Light acceleration and your expanding consciousness. But be clear Time will not disappear, nor will the 3rd dimension. Time is quickening within the expanded dimensionality of that termed the Crystalline Shift.

With this acceleration, your life itself will shift into a higher tempo. You see, the speed of Light has increased. It is already evident to many of you that all is quickening, time is accelerating as the Ascension draws nigh. Your moments, hours and days flash by much quicker. So as time reshapes itself it will also reshape the experience of mankind, of visible and invisible forces of Nature and that of the face of the Earth itself.

You must understand that each dimension above the 3rd, beginning at the 5th, has its own unique laws of physics and its own time pulse. Light becomes crystalline coherent light at the level of the fifth dimension, (thru the 12th) and increases in velocity and frequency in each successive higher dimension. And time itself eventually disappears, above the 12d, but not in 3d you see.

At the time of the Ascension, when Earth and her inhabitants enter the new Crystalline era, the major power crystals will not be taken from you and misused, as occurred long ago, precipitating the demise of Atlantis. Never again will they be used for any purpose other than the highest good. Be assured of this. It is a sacred oath that will indeed be kept. And the Gathering in Arkansas on the Ascension of December 12, will be a factor in this commitment and oath.

Question: Are the Pyramids symbols of the Cosmos?

Archangel Metatron:

'Gateways' would be a more accurate term. In a manner of speaking, the Pyramids were tools for opening portals into higher dimensions, both vertically and horizontally, inwardly and outwardly.

The Mayan Pyramids were constructs of the Sirian/Pleiadean Alliance. They were, formulated, engineered and manifested by means of mental mastery of physical matter. They were specifically fashioned in order to create a network of multidimensional energies and frequencies that served many purposes.

One was the specific alignment of certain pyramids with specific latitudinal and longitudinal alignments, in order to create a 'field of resonance' for the planet.

Question: Why did so few people understand this calendar? The Christians missionaries, for example, considered these stories to be metaphors for different categories of hell.

Archangel Metatron:

The interpretations of the Spanish Christian priests were limited by their preconceived notion of the Mayans as infidels and pagans, beyond the pale of their own narrow Christian doctrines and fear-based indoctrination and programming.

Question: I understand that only the first part of the calendar has been discovered; the second is still hidden, or lost. If this is so, what is there still to discover?

Archangel Metatron:

Written portions of the original Atla-Ra calendar, which became known as

'the Mayan calendar', were lost, not only because of the depredations of time, but were further dissipated by various interpretations, since it was first brought into the lands of the Yucatan. The full information is still retained within the 13th Crystal Skull, known as 'Max'.

There are Halls of Records yet to be found that contain vast stores of information, including world histories. Although Edgar spoke of these as being in three separate locations, and predicted that they would be revealed prior to the new millennium, they have still not yet been discovered.

The comprehensive records of Atlantis are contained in holographic data recorded within 'Max'. Yet the retrieval technology of this data is not yet available to you. In the future you will develop crystalline receivers that are capable of playing back in 3-dimensional holograms the data therein, but this advance lies some way ahead.

Just as you now store information in computers through digital files, and no longer transcribe lengthy text on paper, the Atlantean historians stored such information using crystal technology. Max is of Pleiadean and Arcturan construct and origin. He is a vast consciousness, akin to a super computer, with a huge library of data contained therein. He is the most powerful, most conscious of all of the remaining ancient crystal skulls.

Within Max are the complete records of not only the original Mayan calendar, but the complete history of the Earth and of humanity - and beyond. The original crystal skulls came from another world, another reality. They are the prototype of perfect human consciousness, the perfection of the human being, encompassing all his aspects and potentialities. That was their prime purpose, and why they were brought here.

Originally the crystalline skulls were brought to Earth from Arcturus and the Pleiades, and to the land that became LeMuria, but the original model arrived before the planet was fully in polarity. It was brought into the planet at the time of the Firmament you see, in a zero point Earth, a non-magnetic plane we will say. In an Earthen World that knew perfection, that was inhabited by an androgynous manifestation of Etheric Spirit in full consciousness.

Yet even then it was already known that the Firmament would fall, would dissolve, and the plan then was that this model, this extraordinary holographic record, the original crystal skull, would serve as the prototype of this initial integral aspect. And so it contains within it the model of the 12 strands of DNA, the fully-conscious mind and being of the evolved human.

The crystal skulls contain within them all that you were before the human experiment, and all that you will be when you complete it, the infinity circle.

They were manifested into form above and beyond physicality, and have been brought into physicality at various times. As such, no true age can be assigned to them, because they have appeared, disappeared and reappeared many times in the millions of years of Earth's habitation by mankind.

Max is not of the Earth. His origin is the Pleiades, but his construction was more of the Arcturian Crystal Masters.

Question: Obviously the Mayans knew that their own society would decline and disappear. How did they protect their knowledge, and where did they go when their civilisation started to dissolve?

Archangel Metatron:

As already stated, the full records are available in the 13th, via Max. Max is an extraterrestrial Crystal Skull, a vast conscious crystal computer, and was/is the 'living data archive' used for storage of the complete information of the calendar. There are other such libraries, but Max is the only one on the Earth plane at present in the 'cranium format'. The crystal skulls contain within them that which you were before the human experiment, and what you will be when you complete it - the infinity circle.

The Atlanteans worked with the original crystals skulls, the most important of which, the 13th, contains the full energy of the other 12, and was safeguarded by the High Priest of the Mayans.

The 13th skull not only gave access to the higher dimensions, it was an incomparable source of information and data relevant to the Mayans, as it contained information regarding the complete calendar, the complete map of the Cosmos as related to Sirius, Orion, Pleiades, Arcturus and beyond. It also contained the Laws of Physics for each dimension, and the cyclic codes.

This conscious recorder, the crystalline cranium, is an immense data bank and an invaluable tool. Certain High Priests of the Mayans, with Sirian assistance, maintained the knowledge of how to 'read' it. It existed for them in a dimension that may be termed semi-physical, and was manifested through theta level thought. Within this crystalline, conscious computer, Max, are the codes for the reprogramming of the Earth. That is why it is in a manifested form in the present time.

The crystalline skull was solidified and programmed in a most complex manner. It is imbued with the divine aspect of the soul when it enters the Earth-Plane from the unified field. In a manner of speaking, it is the pattern recorded into the God Self, the Subconscious or super subconscious of the human mind. The perfected man, not the version of what Man would later become in the downward spiral of human experience, but rather as the original model to which Man aspires, and gradually returns to his original, flawless archetype.

Max is one of two skulls that are truly extraterrestrial in origin. The other is 'Sha Na Ra'. Both originate from the moon of an enormous planet, some twenty times the size of Jupiter, circulating Arcturus, the orange star of creativity.

Hence the interest that surrounds the skulls is rapidly increasing with the coming of the Ascension, and mankind's desire to better understand himself, and to reject whatever no longer serves humankind. Systems that no longer work in both macro and micro are collapsing, and will reform themselves. To put it another way, mankind is rebooting, just as is the Earth herself.

The knowledge of the universal Mind exists above and beyond the Crystal Skull; yet the universal Mind is encompassed and zipped within it, in a way that benefits mankind. The knowledge within it is available for human access.

The Ascension

The Ascension is, in geo-mathematical terms, occurring in base 12. The Atlanteans utilized base 12, as well as other mathematical bases depending on the dimensional application.

It is perhaps more accurate to say that the Crystalline transition, which is the core essence of the Ascension, is occurring in 12 waves, from the 01-01-01 through the 12-12-12, base 12 you see.

The expansive earth of the Ascension has 12 dimensions. 144-Crystalline Grid is activating in 12 stages through the phenomena of the 12 triple date portals, both then utilizing the base 12.

The base-12, twelve-wave scenario is frequentially appropriate to the resonance of the Ascension. There are 12 major 'Sun-Discs' on the planet, Each of the 12 carries specific purpose and are receiving new crystalline codes. Each of the 12 primary apparatuses feed 12 satellites...the 12 connecting to the 144 in a complex geo-symmetry that is suited to the base 12 of the Earth and indeed also is the Crystalline 144-Grid formulated in base-12 mathematics.

The Mayans had a vigesimal numerical system, which used base 20. Unity consciousness is indeed a noble aspiration, and is very appropriate, but it is not truly specific to or limited to the dates chosen in the ninth wave initiative.

The conscious divine energy behind what you term the Mayan Calendar is independent of and vastly predates the Maya. It is in its core a potent living energy field that is by no means dependent on what is contained in the calendar or interpreted from the remnants of the calendar. It is far more than what you imagine it to be. It is dynamic and ever expanding. While it is the source energy that allowed the calendar to be composed, that very composition is merely one aspect of this dynamic gestalt.

Question: Were the Atlantean Law of One Crystals stored in Arkansas and Brazil a major part of the technology of Atlantis?

Archangel Metatron:

A major part of everything, especially the high level of spirituality with the Law of One. But it is important to note that spirituality took precedence in their application during the Golden Era. The technological applications were then applied through a spiritual entreaty of non-linear mental physics with the use of crystals in what may be termed the 'sacred sciences'. The crystals were viewed as living entities and were not used in any untoward manner, only for betterment within highest good.

You see, before Atlantis was taken over by the Aryans in its final destructive stage, a beautiful, peaceful and highly spiritual matriarchal society called the 'Law of One' presided in extraordinary harmony for over 20,000 years in what is termed the 'Golden Age of Atlantis'. The era of the Law of One in the incredibly harmonic Golden-Age of Poseida achieved the highest frequency of Love ever actualized on planet Earth. The crystals were a key part of the energy that allowed for their harmonic society and enlightenment. They are now re-emerging.

At the time of the Ascension, when Earth and her inhabitants enter the new Crystalline era, the major power crystals will not be taken from you and misused, as occurred long ago through the Aryan deception, precipitating the demise of the Law of One Golden era of Atlantis. Never again will the Crystals be used for any purpose other than the highest good. Be assured of this. It is a sacred oath of the 'Law of One' that will indeed be kept. The Law of One then is re-emerging in spiritual grace within the crystals of Arkansas and Brazil.

I am Metatron and I share with you these Truths. You are Beloved.

...And so it is...And it is so...

The above Archangel Metatron channel is copyrighted to www.Earth-Keeper.com . Posting on websites is permitted as long as the information is not altered and credit of authorship and website is included. It may not be published in journals, magazines, U-Tube, or public print without expressed permission from Earth-Keeper. Permissions may be requested from Earth-Keeper Admin by emailing Anne at: Tyberonn@hotmail.com