- Why does no one ask Mittens about his birth certificate?

R: it is hammer time! Mike Papantonio was sitting in for Ed who is in Minneapolis

- time for Obama to get to Wisconsin

Mike P dropped some gemstones: he went back into the whole fiasco of hedge funds and money for nothing and chicks for free! He said he'd used Thom Hartmann's words: if you want to live large and use that credit card you have as Commander in Chief like a drunken sailor & rack up debt . .

- brought up NAFTA and GATT and so on:
 - he said he was a capitalist and had on Richard Wolffe who calls himself a Marxist without horns
- they brought up the story of capitalism and Marxism - time to shift into a new consciousness
- a caller said: time to write the debt, forgive it! Richard Wolffe says this is the way to go!
- Mike discussed all the scenarios that brought us to the brink of economic collapse
 - all the countries in Eurozone will break up & have their own currencies based on precious metals
 - Zuckerberg's days are over - has to do with scamming the people in the IPO he created which is a whole bunch of nothing - may find himself in jail with Madoff

Randi Rhodes: Facebook shares down to $25 a share

Mike P: if you are in the market now, get your money out of the bank now - a direct order from god!

Mike P: If you want to know the truth about Barack Obama, watch "The Hyperdimensional Election of Barack Obama" by Dr Richard Hoagland - the story about Malcolm X's son - he is the one

Randi: horrified at the disrespect he has to face each day - where simply because there is an enigmatic reality going on here because his father is Malcolm X & it cannot be told until after NESARA

Caller: Namaste to both and the listening audience

- May 20th was an auspicious occasion: understand we have moved to rims of 5th dimension
- where are we at this particular time: people say Nothing every happened; caller tells them It happened because you are still here!

T: it represents exactly the energies of Dec 21st, 2012 - so we are after the fact of the energies

R: the consciousness, as we are aware consciously of the changes on the planet and in us,

- It's to our advantage to put down the guns and pick up the peace pipe, the feathers,
- this is a road we've never travelled before; uncharted, yet we have the ability because we have guides who tell us we have already done it!!!

- R has a glimpse of - as we are looking for heroes to look up and emulate, we are being given the keys to the kingdom through our movies and through our various spiritual messages
- We are on the edge of the evolutionary leap - our consciousness, our bodies, our soul matrices
 - the Federation of intergalactic worlds, the Federation of Light, whatever they are called
 - the more of us who are in the consciousness of this place, the more of these leaps that manifest in our bodies with the different astrological hookups - we are getting our light bodies, our abilities
- there are more similarities than differences here!

Audio: Rama plays George Carlin from 1992, said it more eloquently about the similarities between people

- he wants to bring up the similarities: bringing up the differences keeps people apart so they can run off with the f . . . money!

The upper class keeps all of the money, pays none of the taxes.

The middle class pays all of the taxes, does all of the work.

The poor class are there just to scare the shit out of the middle class!

- Comes back to the little universal moments that we all share?

Computer hackers access U.S. Justice Department website: spokeswoman

WASHINGTON | Mon May 21, 2012 7:26pm EDT

(Reuters) - One or more unauthorized users gained access to the inner workings of a website run by the U.S. Justice Department, a department spokeswoman said on Monday after the hacker group Anonymous said they were behind the incident.

The hackers accessed a server that operates the Bureau of Justice Statistics' website, the spokeswoman said.

The bureau is responsible for collecting and analyzing data about crime — including computer security incidents — from throughout the United States.

The department spokeswoman declined to say when the alleged unauthorized access occurred or what data the hackers might have obtained. The department is looking into whether the unauthorized users broke criminal laws, she said.

Online statements attributed to Anonymous said they were responsible for the security breach and that the files they obtained include emails.

<http://alcuinbramerton.blogspot.com/2008/01/bilocation-of-hillary-clone-clinton.html>

In 2008, during the American presidential election campaign, US Senator Hillary Clinton's handlers began to get clumsy and she was seen in two different places at once on a number of separate occasions. And not just in Iowa and New Hampshire.

Someone sees Hillary Clinton at a function across town at, say, 1.30pm. And then, when they compare notes with a Democratic Party co-worker later that day, they learn that Hillary was also seen back at the hotel at 1.30pm, three miles away. And her clothes were different, or her hair was different, or her makeup was different, and the people with her were different. Or, after a speaking engagement, the car drives Hillary Clinton away to Location A, where she is seen to get out of the car at, say, 10.45pm. But a co-worker sees her at 11.00pm at Location B thirty or forty miles away, except that Hillary Clinton and the car have not left Location A. And they couldn't drive that fast anyway, and Hillary's clothing or appearance is different, and the people with her are different. And the next day, arriving for an early morning meeting somewhere, Hillary comes from Location B, not from Location A. Meanwhile, she is seen having a late breakfast at Location A with different people. And so on.

How many different Hillary Clintons are there?

It is suggested that over half the US Presidential hopefuls in 2008 were human clones. There were several of each of them. Was Hillary Clinton one of these or several of them? And how are the voters to discriminate?

A picture of the young Hillary Clinton can be seen here. Notice the physiognomy: the smile musculature, the cheek pouches, the placement of the nose bridge, the upper eyelid line. Now look at who the official Hillary for President campaign site wanted you to vote for in New Hampshire (picture here). The same woman, but older? Look at the right hand side of her mouth. Any moles visible? There are other pictures here and here and here and here. Same woman again, but older? Trick of the light maybe? Moles there notice, but no moles here. What about here? Moles or not? Now for the mystery woman. Who is this? Or this? Recognise the smile? Know the name from somewhere? The same as this perhaps? And where did this one come from? Or this, or this? In that run of pictures, there were fifteen images of which three were repeated. But how many different individuals were shown? Three? Four? When we and others first began running this story, the Hillary for President campaign immediately changed its lead picture from this to this. That image was then changed again after a bit. Their current favourite official regulation version of Hillary Clinton can now be viewed here.

A quote from the Hillary Clinton for President website is germane: "President Clinton writes about his life with Hillary and how she has been an agent of change for 35 years."

What was the major issue in election-alert America in 2008? It was the physiognomy, stupid.

The use of human clones in American political management is only now becoming apparent. The last US President not to be cloned was John F. Kennedy. Usually, when a President or major American public figure ceases to be compliant to the demands of the controlling corporate elite, they are quietly killed, cremated and replaced with lookalike, mind-controlled clones. These days, at the Camp David human clone laboratories (Maryland) and elsewhere, it is possible to produce an adult human clone from originator DNA and a lab-double in less than 36 hours.

The history of this covert human cloning technology is now emerging. By the late 1970s, using monochromatic laser light technology, researchers within the Russian security community created a holographic apparatus which could record the entire memory of the living brain of a chosen human individual and store the data content of that brain on stable computer hardware. The Russians used inaudible high-frequency sound waves to create a complete three-dimensional picture of the brain. They discovered that their ultrasonic cerebral hologram process duplicated and stored the entire memory of the person in a coherently recoverable form. The Russians now had what they wanted to create working lab-clones for deployment. The same technique could be used to download someone else's memory into another (different) person, in this case a lab-double, and natural doubles could now be reprogrammed to take on the full memory database of the person being replaced. More background here.

Lab-doubles are generated using DNA infusion. Here the DNA of the person chosen to be duplicated is collected, amplified, processed and prepared for the infusion process into the new host body. The DNA infusion completely overrides the DNA of the living human host, physically transforming the host body into a visual replica of the chosen body. However, the residual host body DNA can still be detected, and identified, within the lab-double using sensitive DNA testing procedures. Where do the human host bodies come from? Covert kidnap, abduction and fake disappearance programmes. Many of the abducted human host bodies are those of children. And, of course, any of these abducted human hosts can be subjected to brain programming manipulation as well as to complete ultrasonic cerebral downloads.

In one curious incident, a Europe-controlled cell of US Rothschild minions within the US security community learned that the Russians were using duplicated clones for many of their leading Kremlin operatives. By this time the Americans had obtained similar brain programming and ultrasonic cerebral download abilities to the Russians. This technology had been fed to them from the Rothschild clone labs in Europe. The US military tried to use identical US-controlled clones to penetrate the Kremlin. Kremlin lookalikes were produced in America and were secreted into Moscow via the US embassy. However, the Russians were tipped off and became aware of the detail of the plan in advance. They let the US clones through into the Kremlin, downloaded their memories and programming and then reprogrammed them for Russian use. The Americans became perplexed as to what had happened because their infiltrated Kremlin clones were not carrying out their US programmed orders. It was an exotic case of double-agent meltdown. For sometime, nobody in the US knew which Russian clone was which. This engendered subtle difficulties for the Americans at international conferences.

When President George Bush Snr left office in 1993, he was Clone Number 34 in his DNA originator line. Most of his previous 33 clones had been used and terminated at that point. When President Bill Clinton left office in 2001, he was Clone Number 21 in his line. When a President is terminated and cloned, it is standard practice to do the same with his close family members. If this is not done, they immediately notice the difference and cause difficulties.

Human clones are not ensouled and do not, therefore, have access to the higher dimensions through reflection, intuition and spiritual practice. No soul means no God-connection. And no God-connection means that clones have an inherent vulnerability to religious manipulation and deceit.

The higher dimensional data-links which ensouled humans have, help them to appear quick, flexible and alert in conversation, particularly when stressed. The absence of this potential for minute-to-minute inspiration or revelation in clones gives rise to a simplistic body language and inappropriate physiognomic responses in complexly nuanced situations (picture example here). It also means that when faced with metaphorated questioning or elliptical comments, they can appear slow, dim or confused. Anything that human clones are confronted with which falls outside their specific day-to-day conditioning or expectation engenders childlike conflict-signalling and tantrums (picture examples here and here). For this reason, two or three clones are kept up and running for each principal at any one time. They are very nearly identical in appearance, but some look younger or more innocent than others, and some have superficial tissue differentiations that cannot be concealed by makeup when viewed in close-up or under strong light.

If two different clones of one individual are interacted with at a conference on successive days by an ensouled human, the differences are often very evident. "Which George did you speak to today, Tony?"

With regard to a clone's irrational conflict-signalling and out-of-comfort-zone tantrums, Hillary Clinton can boast considerable previous form. Ask anyone who has worked closely with her. She's not just scratchy; she can be hysterically ballistic. The summer of 2009 provided a famous example. Hillary fractured an elbow in a furious physical fight with a senior colleague at the US State Department in Washington DC. On Wednesday 17th June 2009, the US Secretary of State lost control of herself and lashed out viciously at the US Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan, Richard Holbrooke.

The argument and fight arose from a shouting match between the two concerning North Korea. Holbrooke had just confronted Clinton with two facts about the US's handling of the North Korea fiasco. First, he let Clinton know that he was aware that agents of the US State Department, acting for Clinton, had tipped off the North Korean government about the presence of the two Current TV journalists on the Chinese border near North Korea. Second, Holbrooke told Clinton that he was also aware that Clinton had personally sabotaged an effort by the Swedish Ambassador, the Chinese Foreign Ministry and Albert Gore to secure a quick and safe release of the two Current TV journalists from North Korean custody. As a consequence, the journalists were unnecessarily detained in the North Korean presidential headquarters known as the Puzzle Palace.

Richard Holbrooke and Hillary Clinton's screaming match then went physical. Hillary began to physically attack Holbrooke. Holbrooke defended himself and during the altercation forced Hillary to the ground causing her right elbow to fracture. After her fight with Holbrooke, Clinton was treated at The George Washington University Hospital before going home. She later underwent surgery to repair the damage on Friday 19th June 2009. This photograph here, taken on Monday 22nd June 2009, shows Clinton's injured right arm. It is said that much of the exchange between Hillary and Holbrooke was recorded by State Department security cameras. Inside the Beltway, Richard Holbrooke suddenly became the most popular person in town.

Another celebrated Hillary Clinton tantrum occurred back in the 1990s during Bill Clinton's presidency. Investigating unusual noises at the White House one evening, a Federal Secret Service agent discovered the First Lady in a well-lubricated lesbian sexual encounter with the regular White House prostitute known as Susan. Clinton responded by attacking the agent with a heavy glass ash tray. In fairness, it should be remarked that Susan was never exclusively lesbian in the services she provided for the US governing class. Current CIA Chief Leon Panetta and ABC talk show host George Stephanopoulos both caught genital herpes from Susan at White House socials.

Having no soul and no God-connection means that human clones have no spiritual processing power; they cannot function at the level of values, morals, ethics, compassion, honour or decency. Indeed, they have nothing within their intellection which energises or articulates such concepts in their consciousness. Human clones do, however, have a very powerful survival instinct. Under sustained pressure or threat they become amoral, manipulative fighting machines without spiritual stops or conscience. What you can get away with is what you do; lying is the core modus operandi; honesty about facts on the ground is self-injurious weakness; a spectrum of alternative views on an issue is a spectrum of aggressive enemy positions; unscrupulous elimination of opponents replaces dialogue. Human clones are perfect for politics, banking, the armed forces, religion, schooling and theft. Easily mind-controlled by the hidden negative elite, clones are the visible drivers of systemic evil.

Human clones are also prone to making extraordinary bloomers when speaking in public, and not noticing their mistakes. George Bush Jr has an extensive back catalogue of such infelicities. For example, speaking on Australian television in September 2007 about the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Centre in New York on the 11th September 2001, one of the Bush Jr clones said: "And I believe those of us who live in liberty have a responsibility to promote forms of government that deal with what causes nineteen kids to get on airplanes to kill three thousand students." (See 3.44-3.55 on this YouTube video clip here)

Later in the same month, the same Bush Jr clone was reported by CBS News as follows: "He (President George Bush Jr) dismissed concerns about lack of political progress in Iraq, saying people there are still recovering from the brutal rule of Saddam Hussein. Then, pounding his lectern, the president said, 'I heard somebody say, "Where's Mandela?" Well, Mandela's dead because Saddam Hussein killed all the Mandelas.' The actual former South African president, of course, is still very much alive." (CBS 20.09.07)

A university-educated, experienced and ensouled politician would not regularly make grotesque slips of this kind. But if he did misspeak occasionally, he would notice immediately and correct himself. In the later clone years, Bush was never able to do this.

One thing, however, which George Bush Jr was able to maintain to the last was his suspiciously consistent clone-smile. He always had a switch-on perfect smile ready for the camera. Switch-on perfect, switch-on perfect, switch-on perfect; it never changed. Ensouled human beings - even experienced actors - cannot do this; their smiles are always moderated by the 'spiritual' circumstances and context of the camera-call. Their physiognomies betray a slight change of texture, a strained tension, a fuller or slightly less full beam. And the eyes often say something the smile does not. They still smile well, but they smile differently each time. This is not the case with clones. Clones are robotically identical each smile.

US President Barack Obama furnishes a good example. On Wednesday 23rd September 2009, Obama hosted a reception at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. During this event, he stood for 135 separate photographs with visiting foreign dignitaries who were in town for a major UN meeting. As this rapid-fire slideshow from Eric Spiegelman demonstrates, the US President had exactly the same smile in every shot. Spiegelman put his compilation on Vimeo shortly after the Met event and gave it the title: "Barack Obama's amazingly consistent smile." The 135 raw photo shots he used can be found on Flickr here.

But what about Hillary Clinton? Is she really a tribal subset of mind-controlled clones? Follow the DNA. It's there in the lavatories, handkerchiefs, discarded nasal tissues, cosmetics applicators, bedroom dust, cutlery, drinking glasses and coffee cups. And look out for the little black box under the clothes. It's smaller than it used to be in the famous George Bush Jr photographs (here, here, here, here, here, here, here and here), plus comments here), but it can still be seen on a windy day.

More information about the use of human clones in American political management can be found here, here and here.

And there is a more recent clone-pertinent update here (27.04.12).

But it is not just politicians, military people, finance professionals and religious leaders who have been cloned. Human clones are found in the show business world, too. And they feature prominently in the mainstream media's presentation of celebrity culture. Consider the much-discussed case of the two Paul McCartneys. Four other Paul McCartney photographic comparisons can be viewed here, here, here and here. Look at McCartney's left ear lobe here (in 1964) and here (in 1964), compared with his left ear lobe here (in 1974) and here (in 1974). The murder and cloning of Beatle Paul McCartney by agents acting for the Tavistock Institute \(London\) in 1966 is a story which has been revisited again recently. It is sometimes referred to as The Two McCartneys Conundrum.

For many decades people have taken the view that the original pop star Paul McCartney of the Beatles, a Tavistock Institute band, is dead. He died in a car accident in 1966 which was reported by several media outlets before being hushed up. The car accident, like Princess Diana's thirty years later, was an arranged murder or cover for an arranged murder.

After 1966 it was widely noted that Paul McCartney had changed. He was considerably taller, and his physiognomy, voice and mannerisms were different. And evidence is emerging which suggests that the Beatles didn't even write some of the music accredited to them after that date.

On this view, the Beatles were planned by the shadow controllers of the sixties music industry. The purpose of the Beatles was social engineering. The phenomenon of the Beatles was not a spontaneous rebellion by youth against the old social system. It was a carefully crafted plot to introduce, by a conspiratorial body which could not be identified, a highly destructive and divisive element into a large worldwide population group targeted for change against its will.

New words and new phrases prepared by the Tavistock Institute mind-moulders were introduced to America along with the Beatles. Words such as "rock" in relation to music sounds, "teenager," "cool," "discovered" and "pop music" were a lexicon of disguised code words signifying the acceptance of illicit drugs. The subtext beneath this vocabulary arrived with and accompanied the Beatles wherever they went. It had only to be "discovered" by teenagers. The word "teenager" was never used until just before the Beatles arrived on the scene, courtesy of the Tavistock Institute for Human Relations.

It was important at that time for the Shadow Government (controlling the USA from Europe) to affirm illicit drug use in the youth culture. This would enrich the drug barons worldwide who paid for the private armies and bribes necessary to maintain hidden power. And now, in 2009, the USA is in Afghanistan to protect the illicit drugs trade. And now, in 2009, most major US banks have only been able to stay afloat by bringing illicit drugs money on to their books by using counterfeit source of funds documentation.

One persistent idea is that in September 1966, Paul McCartney was replaced with a double called William Shepherd or William Campbell. McCartney was terminated and replaced because he refused to go along with the pro-drug agenda of the Beatles' Tavistock controllers.

After 1966, the new Paul McCartney started doing frank interviews about his LSD habit. McCartney's murder not only eliminated someone who wouldn't go with the program, it served as a warning to others in the circle not step out of the Tavistock line.

It is more likely, however, that Paul McCartney was cloned before being terminated, samples of his originator DNA having been obtained, cultured and amplified before his accident. Human clones, such as the Bushes, the Clintons and the Obamas, are not ensouled. They have no souls - no innate communication with positive influences among the Higher Evolution in the higher dimensions. They are intelligent, mind-controlled meat-machines, programmed by those whose negative agenda they implement. Might Paul McCartney be the same? Clones are not aware that they are clones. Such information is not permitted to occur to them or to enter their mind-programming.

2012, May 23 Amnesty International Cites Canada's Refusal To Arrest George W. Bush In Human Rights Report

CP | By Joan Bryden, The Canadian Press Posted: 05/23/2012 7:14 pm Updated: 05/24/2012 1:48 pm

OTTAWA - Canada's failure to arrest former U.S. president George W. Bush during a visit to B.C. is cited by Amnesty International in its annual report on human rights atrocities around the globe.

The report also takes issue with Canada's treatment of aboriginal people, refugees and terrorism suspects and its refusal to hold a public inquiry into the arrests of more than 1,000 protesters during the 2010 G8 summit in Toronto.

Canada's record of alleged human rights violations pales in comparison to the litany of torture, mass executions, and violent suppression of protests cited against countries like Syria and Uganda.

But Amnesty Canada spokesperson John Tackaberry says the organization makes no attempt to rate the magnitude or seriousness of human rights abuses among the 155 nations listed in the 2012 report.

Rather, it includes any country in which there's a "constellation" of violations that cause concern.

In Canada's case, Tackaberry says Amnesty has "serious concerns" that the country is failing "in a number of cases" to meet its international obligations to protect human rights.

Among the cases mentioned is Canada's failure last fall to arrest Bush when he visited British Columbia, "despite clear evidence that he was responsible for crimes under international law, including torture." Amnesty had campaigned for Canada to arrest and prosecute the former president.

The demand for Bush's arrest "was certainly not a frivolous action on our part," Tackaberry said in an interview Wednesday.

"We knew that there was little likelihood of this actually taking place but the important principle is that George (W) Bush has been implicated in serious human rights violations and Canada has a responsibility to ensure that people within their jurisdiction who are alleged to have been involved in serious human rights violations ... that they be brought to justice.

"It's imperative that when there are serious human rights violations that individuals be held to account," he added.

At the time of Bush's visit last October, Amnesty maintained the former president authorized the use of torture against detainees at the Guantanamo Bay naval base, in Afghanistan and Iraq as the U.S. pursued its war on terror following the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on New York and Washington. It cited the use of waterboarding and other "enhanced interrogation techniques" and cruel, degrading treatment, such as forcing detainees to remain in painful position, without sleep, for hours.

As a signatory to the UN Convention Against Torture, Tackaberry said Canada has an obligation to take action against alleged violators, including Bush.

The report, which documents alleged violations during 2011, also chides Canada for its treatment of aboriginal people on a number of fronts, including its failure to adopt a national action plan to address high levels of violence facing native women. It notes that a federal audit last summer found a majority of drinking water and waste water systems in First Nations communities constitute a health risk.

It further criticizes Canada for refusing to apologize or compensate three men who were detained and tortured abroad because Canadian authorities falsely linked them to terrorist activities.

And it says a proposed crackdown on refugee claimants who arrive en masse, employing the services of human smugglers, violate "international norms" for the treatment of asylum seekers.

About The Effects Of The Eclipse And Our New Multidimensional Natures

★ I woke up on the morning of the solar eclipse, kind of in that groggy state, to find myself in the presence of Plianda. She identified herself as “woman of weights and balances”, and went on to perform upgrades on me, manifesting themselves as swirling lights, intense pressure all over my body and a surreal feeling of euphoria that I can’t remember feeling since...well, since probably before I got here! It was 4:10 a.m. when this began, and after she was done, in what only seemed like a few minutes, the clock read 6:33.

After much contemplation, I later recognized Plianda as being from the healing center on my ship. She clearly took the effects of May 5th up a notch-or several-and nothing has felt the same since. I learned that she had removed the last of the ‘human overlays’ that I had chosen to take with me on my one-time journey to Earth. Overlays being other people’s past life memories from the Akashic records, so that first timers have the tools to survive here and can appear somewhat streetwise. I also integrated a lot more of “me” into those empty places. It’s nice to feel more or less whole again.

★ If you’re anything like me, you’re finding this particular chapter of the Ascension process to be a bit of a rollercoaster ride. It’s in one moment magical, mystical and beautiful – then one minute later, maddening, frustrating and confusing. We aspire to be fully conscious 5th Dimensional beings, and are told to live in our heartspace and vibrate at this level, while at the same time going about our lives in 3D physicality and attending to our more mundane 3D tasks. In it but not of it. The coolly unaffected observer.

Oh, it can be done, I promise you that. I’m doing it (or trying to do it) every day. But in no way am I saying that it’s always easy. In fact, I think this is the most challenging assignment we’ve been issued yet! And I haven’t even touched on the instances of missing time, the spontaneous visits “home”, and our favorite new game of Interdimensional Hopscotch. We are now living our lives in two places at once, going in and out and never really being certain when you’re going to make the jump. I think this is the most exciting and gratifying progress we’ve made to date.

It’s exciting because we know it’s happening. We can see it, feel it, often remembering it and sometimes there’s even physical evidence of it. Such as in those cases of lost time. Just look at the clock and there it is. We’re dreaming while awake. Beginning on May 5, I began to experience the most incredible clarification of my vision and my communication with my Team. I now need to only stop and listen, and it’s like they are right here in the room with me 24/7. Meditation has also taken on whole new properties, and I seem to be able to reach out and actually “touch” the things I’m seeing and to feel emotions I can’t even put a label on, along with a very cool “new” connection with the Elemental Realm!

The upgrades of May 5, and more recently the 20th, are changing us in amazing ways. Some of you may be realizing the changes sooner than others, but it doesn't mean they aren't happening. We're getting our natural abilities back. We're relearning how to bi-locate, be telepathic, to be the multidimensional beings that we truly are.

I'm finding that more and more often I'm checking out at unexpected times, and not all of them the most convenient! Even to the point of there being a part of me that stays here in my human-bodysuit completing tasks, while the other part of me has been elsewhere doing something else. And I'll have little recollection of what my physical self had been doing! I'm relieved it's happening and I wouldn't change a thing, but I would be lying if I said that there wasn't a flipside to all of this cosmic joy. I'm finding that it's difficult, and sometimes painful to come back. To readjust myself to the imperfections of Earthly life after being in a place of such perfect peace and unconditional love. I'm a busy Mom, and most of the time after I meditate, or even when I first get up in the morning, I'm jumping right into my lengthy things-to-do list. Housework, broken appliances, car repairs, college applications, phone calls, traffic, bills...

These are the essential ingredients of our 3D learning experience, the stuff that makes us stronger, the meat and potatoes of what our friends and family back home are living and studying through us. Which brings me to the question: Is there a secret to all of this, and to doing it well? Do we simply anchor ourselves into Gaia's core-crystal and hold on for dear life? How do we effectively maintain a peaceful 5th dimensional (or higher) frequency -one of warmth, stillness and detachment-while remaining in our evolving bodies amidst the chaos and duality of the outgoing 3rd density? I posed this question to my Team and it was Uriel who was kind enough to come through with an explanation.

Uriel:

Everyone was affected by the energies of these past two key dates - May 5th and 20th.

Even the people who give the appearance of being unawakened were given healings and upgrades to their physical and energetic systems. They simply do not know why it is they feel so tired and are unable to focus. Take note that the process is different for everyone, depending on who you are and from where you originated, your energetic blueprint and the details of your chosen role on planet Earth. While it is often enjoyable to compare notes, bear in mind that your friends' experiences might not necessarily mirror your own. The symptoms will vary, as will the pace at which you progress. No one situation is any better than the other.

You may quite possibly recall something specific happening to you at the time of the solar eclipse. We will see more and more reports of this beginning to surface. Put into the most elementary of terms, what actually happened is this: You received essential upgrades to both your physical and energetic bodies.

Upgrades which are propelling you higher vibrationally and aiding in the formation of your lightbodies. We are currently working on you, to strip away the veil of forgetfulness and to restore your dormant DNA to healthy, working condition. This is by no means a small task!

Do not be alarmed that some of you are being taken during sleep or are receiving visits to your homes. It is acceptable to have heard our voices, seen us or felt the lightness of our energetic presence. The effects that you have been feeling these past days are but the result of your increased vibration, you are in an adjustment phase.

You are anchoring into 5th dimensional consciousness, which is the next step in the full realization of your ascension. Be comfortable that you rest in the 5th now, and you are on your way to the 7th. You are tired because you are occupying two worlds! Yes, you must remain for now, in the physical sense, in the 3D world.

You have much work to do here, and the key to this is to not become embroiled in what you see going on around you. You are the Wayshowers and Placeholders - the ones who agreed to come back and guide humanity, ushering in the new Platinum Age. Be in your center, in your heart, think and feel and behave as the 5th dimensional Master that you are. Confusing, is it not? However, if you do this, all else will fall neatly into place.

As for the light-headedness and forgetfulness, and the sudden jaunts into dimensions unknown...let me clarify this for you. As I have explained, you are now, for all intents and purposes, rooted in the 5th dimension. You are beginning to initiate your ascent into the 7th. It only stands to reason, does it not, that there will be stopovers in the 6th? The 6th dimension is a magnificent place, dear friends. It is uncommonly beautiful. This is the land of color and dreams, of creation, where you may go to rest, to play and to create something wonderful.

To live a dream or aspiration, and try it on for size.

It is also a meeting place of choice for us, a fine destination at which to confer and plan. It can be anything of your choosing. In those lost intervals of time, it is very often that it is here you go to. When you visit a happy place repeatedly in dreamtime, the 6th is likely where you have been. These times are essential to your overall health right now, both in the physical and the spiritual senses. You are being removed ever more frequently so that your high levels of awareness may be maintained, assuring your continued progress.

Embrace these changes, however inconvenient or uncomfortable they are at times. For these are the outward signs of the Ascension that you have been seeking. They are here within you.

Namaste.
