Greetings, Children of Ra

- This cult of personality going on with wayward children - they can't buy their way off this planet
- They have to go over River Styx and pay the coin: they are already lining up to cross that river - lining up on the shoreline for the crimes they have committed in the local sector of the universe, planet
- What we have in store for them may not look like mercy or justice; what we do with them is our business
 - the needs of the many out weigh the needs of the few:
 - they have been given their last moments in the sun - they are begging for a meeting with the Captain, yet not in their best interests for him to show up in the way in which he will!
- In terms of the blood bath that is going on in Syria - there is no easy solution to this in present terms unless it is "cease and desist all weapons of war"

T: didn't R get told by Mr X that Queen Noor is going to reach Al Asaud and say cease and desist?

Mo: there are so many fingers itching to get into Syria

T: Today on The Journal talked about Arab League meeting up with UN and going in

Mo: Mr Moon is not wanted; he is part of the problem

All kind of side issues going on around the Syria events:

- the fake debt crisis the world is in IS NOT
- Schneiderman will not be bought out, nor Fitzgerald

T: Julian Assange has a pile of stuff on BofA, citbank, Credite Suisse, etc

Mo: under Bank of International Settlements, things going wonky - people keeping strange hours at BIS

- Yet there is not a debt crisis except the one created by our wayward children who want to lead us to instability and war
- the Mahdi is here, Lord Maitraya, with all the sisterhoods, brotherhoods - already the Islamic world is speaking that the Mahdi is here; more and more stories that he is here and his ships!
- Time to follow the words of Val Valerian: dismantle all your weapons of mass destruction and we'll talk
- There are events unfolding immediately where toys of war will not work any longer; issues will be settled
- the ultimate lines in the sand HAVE been drawn about the clones, the clowns and issues facing humanity

- in order to have a healthy body, need a healthy environment to begin with, and it begins with the opening of the heart - what the people on the planet have volunteered to do - is no small or easy task
- 2012 is not about endings, but beginnings - the 2nd half we will see what tail is wagged in terms of this lion, and the Lion of Judah she will wag her own tail!
 - Her children have created such a grand canyon of seemingly illusionary steps that are leading to oblivion - and it is just that: illusionary
 - as long as this timeline is in the present moment, there are events are rapidly occurring which erase them as more and more people wake up and acting on the financial fiasco and there are more behind the scenes who are picking up the gauntlet - there are no forewarnings!
- It will be like what the S Commander did - and she does not condone what he did with the drones, the navy seal team 6, and so on: yet events are rapidly unfolding concerning the inside coup d'etat between the 3 parts of the gov't [executive, legislative, judicial parts of this republic - there will be no warning when they are asked to lock and load and these things being discussed at higher levels around the planet will just happen
 - The fake nuke story in Iran is simply about a monetary issue

T: Thom Hartman said that Congress can regulate the Supreme Court - yes, they can!

Can only do it with the 28th amendment: Money is not free speech, corporations are not people: reverses Citizens United as unconstitutional

Mo: a shell game going on with the $135 Trillion court case - Neil Keenan - coming up in everyone's face Randi Rhodes - don't be surprised if this story is breaking very soon concerning the gold bonds that go back to the various countries who have inexhaustible stores of gold

T: story in Strait of Gibraltar about golden coins - 600,000 gold and silver coins

[SEE BELOW]

Mo: maybe belongs to St. Germain; who knows?

- The whole issue coming up is about you, me, and the gold dust and how to open portals and dimensions - as we begin to understand how love heals everything
- the ancient story tellers, the shamans, the magic men are the ones who bring the wisdom to the circle of the clan in this global village;
- there is one saying: listen to the sound you hear across the planet: it is not just about the sound of mother earth moaning & groaning, and the sounds like the Taos hum, but all of us acting in one symbiotic unit of love

T: at the end of the month, the payroll tax holiday is over & the pipeline is tied to it - what about it?

Mo: at a certain period, Sai Baba is going to show up and blow through that pipeline

T: the research about the Keystone pipeline line is so horrendous: one leak and the water is destroyed
Even though we know that with what is coming there can be instantaneous reversal

- Are the ships going to come and beam out the plastic which is holding up the currents in the 5 locations in the ocean and move them?

Mo: we have technologies that will break the plastic down into plant proteins which will nutrify the ocean and feed the fish and energize the coral reefs; the hump backed people, the whales, the cetaceans have been here when we first began the spark which begat the stone that turns to living gold - that long ago in the seeding of that story

- Might not be a man, might be a woman!
- The mitochondria can create out of itself to propagate life wherever it is needed
- Cease and desist and deal with the situation at hand - would be in best interest of G5, G8 whoever
 - various cultures across the planet are very aware of the ramifications of the current time-space configurations / implication of how this gets done now

- Lord Maitraya is here & very important issues being brought forward: how do we create peace with everyone?
- Look at Occupy - it's mutating into something magnificent - when the least among us is most important, this is where Lord Maitreya comes in - Raj Patel on the value of nothing
- tomorrow, Mr Koom Doom and Archbishop Tutu will be meeting to discuss poverty re 10:30 to 11:30 Indian local time - Dharmasalla

Mo: will be recorded so we can get it later

Cathy: talking about gold certificates: within the last 10 years, she was in DC and with someone who was given some gold certificates - where those real gold certificates?

Mo: yes!

Cathy: people were upset that they in possession of those certificates - $500 Million dollars or more, for each one! Most beautiful gold piece of paper she had ever seen

Mo: Get used to it; you're going to see more of it! do what Sean Penn is doing: help the people in Haiti

Caller: what about new metal boxes appearing all along the west coast and beaches; no markings; can't be moved with a 4 wheel drive; with humming noises

Mo: they are monitoring devices regarding affairs on our planet: are not to be messed with - do not approach them; about the interactions between those who want to control and those that are in control of the planet - an unseen issue going on here

- They are directly connected with the Atlantean grid & the raising of the frequencies; the Schumann resonance factor - 13 hertz coming up and Zero Point and we get our abilities back

T: as we get our body functions back again, we can have a more powerful experience

Caller: are the ships placing them?

MO: You could say that - YES

Caller: will send Tara the article

[SEE BELOW]

Mo: There are many more events which will unfold re Atlantean grid and super civilizations that we are part of and it is a story out of Star Wars, yet it's about the intergalactic federation of world and no one is sidelined due to belief structures, whatever they may be

T: asks for extra forces of light: what she is seeing on Fox news is very, very ugly and wanting to get someone out of the picture - not OK for that threat

- Lots of Hitlerian talk among the Republicans about Obama and getting worse - very ugly!

Mo: 15- 30 death threats a day against this man - no way to live life

T: Keep your friends close, and your enemies closer: Tim Geitner was just behind BO when he made the announcement about the banks / mortgage and robo-signers

Mo: The progressive voice that is speaking the loudest now is the voice of freedom and peace
His Holiness Koon Doom is saying Sanctions are immoral; stop them now; get back to the table

Closing: Cathy

2012, Feb 9 NRC approves construction of new nuclear power reactors in Georgia

By Steven Mufson, Thursday, February 9, 12:48 PM

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Thursday approved a construction and operating license for new nuclear power reactors for the first time since 1978, giving Southern Co. the green light to build two new units at its existing Vogtle site in Georgia.

The commission voted 4-1 in favor, with NRC Chairman Gregory Jaczko casting the sole vote against granting the license. Jaczko said later that he wanted binding assurances that the new reactors would be modified to meet recommendations made by the agency's task force on the disaster at Japan's Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant last year.

"I think this license needed something that ensured that the changes as a result of Fukushima would be implemented," Jaczko said in an interview after the vote. "It's like when you go to buy a house and the home inspector identifies things that should be fixed. You don't go to closing before those things are fixed."

Jaczko said he did not believe that those changes would be onerous or time consuming or that they would delay construction. He said they involved issues such as how the reactors would deal with an extended blackout and the use of better instrumentation for measuring the amount of water in spent fuel pools in the event of an accident. "To me, it's just common sense," he said.

Southern, which filed its license application in March 2008, said it expects the project to cost about $14 billion. It will use Toshiba's AP1000 reactors, the design of which the NRC certified in December, and it hopes to bring them online in 2016 and 2017.

The new reactors, however, are no longer seen as the start of what the industry once predicted would be a nuclear renaissance. Virtually all of the 31 plants that had been proposed by 2009 have been shelved as a result of cheap natural gas, high construction costs, weak electricity demand and safety concerns following the Fukushima Daiichi disaster in Japan.

Ten anti-nuclear groups have vowed to file suit against the NRC if it approves the license as expected. The groups said they would argue that the agency broke the law by failing to consider the full lessons of the Fukushima disaster, in which a string of four reactors were badly damaged in an earthquake and tsunami.

Southern, whose Georgia Power subsidiary owns 45.7 percent of the project, has already spent $4 billion preparing the site and doing preliminary construction 26 miles southeast of Augusta.

It has been able to keep pushing ahead in part because the Energy Department in February 2010 approved $8.3 billion in loan guarantees for the new reactors, saving Southern and its partners hundreds of millions of dollars in financing costs, one of the biggest expenses of building nuclear power plants. Critics say that the Obama administration underestimated the risk of default, cost overruns and delays.

Moreover, in Georgia, utilities can pass along costs to ratepayers while construction is still in progress. In most states, utilities can only start charging ratepayers for a power plant once the plant is operating. Georgia ratepayers paid $233 million in 2011 and this year will pay $258 million to cover part of Southern's costs. Additional amounts will be passed along in later years, averaging $8.74 a month for a typical customer, according to Southern spokesman Mark Williams.

2012, Feb 8 UFO SIGHTINGS AT STONEFIELD BEACH REVEAL STRANGE BOXES UP AND DOWN COAST

Dave Masko

A dog fixed this strange metal box in a blue-eyed vise here at Stonefield Beach Feb. 6 after a weekend filled with what locals call intense UFO sightings.

A dog's eyes leaving his face for the flutter of a moment made locals here at Stonefield Beach feel even more at ease late Feb. 6 after dog after dog barked and growled at a strange metal box that locals say "suddenly appeared at dawn Monday" after a weekend filled with what locals call intense UFO sightings. "These metal looking boxes, that are about 20 inches in height and are a complete square of five foot by five foot are sunk deep in the surf" both here at Stonefield Beach – a popular Oregon coastal beach lookout for UFOs – and down the coast as far as we know "with yet more of these square metal containers that have no opening and are sealed all around," explains Oregon UFO "watcher" Errol who lives nearby at Bray's Point. In turn, these boxes are "not moveable," and they are solid and metallic and seem to have this keening wail coming from both the boxes and the atmosphere around them," adds Errol who's been called in to "see what's up" by locals thinking it "has something to do with UFOs" quipped a local senior named Doris who said she also heard "a miaowing wail come from the boxes Sunday evening."

Strange beach boxes cause a stir

It's as if an alarm went off, when a "high, shrill, piercing, frightening ring caught our attention Sunday evening," explained Doris, a local senior whose retired and lives nearby Stonefield Beach. "I know crazy things happen over at Stonefield, but when you walk down and see that metal box sort of glowing in the surf it gets your attention real quick."

In turn, local Oregon Forest Service fish biologists – who've been called in to help explain what is now been revealed as "a series of metal boxes buried into the surf up and down the Oregon coast, and possibly as far down the coast as northern California" – is more than enough to catch one's attention, added Doris in trying to explain "what's not explainable."

What is known is a "sustained whine of something akin to an ambulance siren" awoke locals near Stonefield Beach and other areas of the Oregon coast Sunday evening, Jan. 5, beginning at approximately 4 a.m.

At the same time, Doris said this area around Stonefield Beach is a very "quiet place," where "nothing but seagulls and the Pacific Ocean waves to break the quiet."

Brain plays tricks even when metal boxes appear

While these "metal boxes" buried up and down the Oregon coast are real to the touch and sight, a local professor of psychology – whose attempted to explain away the "strange goings on at both Bray's Point and here at Stonefield Beach," thinks the many "of these remote living residents who claim to see UFOs at night are simply not using the tool between their ears to figure this stuff out."

In turn, this retired professor said in a Feb. 6 Huliq interview at Stonefield Beach that most locals and visitors here “looking for those UFOs” are more or less carrying their own “baggage or self-as-content,” with views and experiences that now seem to define them.

Doris added: “The doc is saying we’re all a bunch of nuts to believe in UFOs.”

What’s real about UFOs?

Yet, the professor – who specialized in repressed memories when he taught at university and had his own private practice – noted that Doris and others are in a sort of “constant frame of reference when they converse with each other that UFOs have appeared.”

“I’ve seen this Stonefield Beach crowd carry on at meetings about UFOs being spotted in the sky, and I’m confident they believe these things to be true.”

However, the professor says there’s “good hard science that can probably explain away each and every claim they’ve made about UFOs and aliens about at Stonefield Beach and Bray’s Point. But, this perspective comes at a cost,” he asserted; while stating that “such beliefs in UFOs can lead them to label themselves, either positively or negatively, in very limiting ways.”

For example, the professor said “I don’t know if these metal boxes are something to worry about or not.”

And, “I don’t know if Errol is an expert on UFOs. Just because people come to him with their stories of UFOs doesn’t make it real.”

“I prefer hard science,” he added.

Many other “metal boxes” with the same size and color have appeared up and down the Oregon coast and are also reportedly being found up and down the entire West Coast as of Feb. 5, 2012. Treasure hunters must return $500m haul

Giles Tremlett

February 03, 2012

BARCELONA: It is one of the greatest underwater treasure troves of all time, a glittering haul of gold and silver recovered from a mysterious sunken Spanish galleon and secretly flown across the Atlantic to the US. But an epic battle over ownership of 594,000 gold and silver coins scattered on the ocean floor has ended with victory for the Spanish government, with the American treasure-hunter Odyssey Marine Exploration ordered to send the valuable haul back home.

A jubilant Spanish government announced on Wednesday the $500 million worth of gold and silver coins found at a site that Odyssey called "Black Swan" would be back on Spanish soil within 10 days.

"This sentence gives Spaniards back what was already theirs," the Culture Minister, Jose Ignacio Wert, said. "There is a space of 10 days in which the coins must be returned."

The court decision puts an end to nearly five years of intrigue since Odyssey scooped the precious haul from the Atlantic seabed in May 2007. To the fury of Spanish authorities, it secretly landed the trove in Gibraltar and flew it out in chartered aircraft to its base in Florida.

An American circuit court judge has upheld a decision by Atlanta judge Mark Pizzo, who declared the trove came from the Nuestra Senora de las Mercedes, a Spanish frigate sunk by a British squadron off Cape St Mary, Portugal, in October 1804. The judge rejected Odyssey's argument that there was no clear wreck site, with the coins scattered so widely it was impossible to say exactly which vessel they came from. The treasure-hunting company, he said, had set out to find the Mercedes and had done so.

Rightful ownership of the coins, which fill 600 barrels, now belongs to Spain and to descendants of the 250 Spanish sailors who were lost when the vessel blew up.

However, the whereabouts of a further 400,000 coins from the Mercedes remains a mystery.

The treasure was found by one of Odyssey's remote-controlled, deep sea robots as it scoured the seabed 1100 metres down. Odyssey's decision to use Gibraltar led to a tense stand-off with the Spanish navy in disputed waters off the Rock.
