Guest: James Morrison

In Indiana, have had 10 Flower of Life Drunvalo teachings, so people there aware of them

- can see him at www.drunvalo.com and see him teaching

Basic Teachings: what is being shared in the workshops; how it's evolved

- Merkaba teachings of before were generated with the brain/ a male way of doing it couldn't do it with the female way because there was so much male energies
 - After 2 years of daily practice, would have a merkaba around you but concept of merkaba was part of the thinking of the planet
 - last year, feminine way of allowing the light body to come out on its own was possible, resulting in the heart - no more breath work, AND - a HUGE leap with the Earth Sky workshops
 - Materials have been re-worked to reflect the change

James has done some of the training: has James taught the previous way?

- Met it through the Flower of Life, Books 1 and 2; The Serpent of Light, & watched all the videos
- got Awaken the Illuminated Heart
- all he has had from Drunvalo is the new way, although what he read was the older way

Most important with new way?

- Basically effortless - learn about heart/brain connections, about beings of light, the unity breath
 - a heart-based merkaba that comes out; when go into the heart space - no polarity - it's gone
- with merkaba permanent as a light body around you - you will recognize your connection to Mother Earth and Father sky; earth is who will take you through the ascension -
- the more you get into heart based living, the easier it is - as you focus on this heart space, will ???

what else is important for people to know about how it has evolved?

- His whole life has changed - the outer world has become more slow mo for him
- the www.spiritofmaat.com there's an article under Phoenix Rising Star is writer - it's a free magazine
 - writer talks about diff between polarized and unified merkaba
 - the old merkaba had side-effects; all gone with the new merkaba
 - Article explains a lot

www.drunvalo.net - can find teachers and classes listed there

- 4 day or 5 day format
- sacred spaces of the heart that people will learn to move into
- it's an experiential class - connection between chakras and
 - old way was male way of activation; lots of practice and eventually became a living way
 - new way is heart based,

How many teachers now?

- Just under 100 for Awakening the Illuminated Heart workshops
- if teachers not listed, not certified by Drunvalo
- Can search by teachers, events, cities

Cathy: May 21-15 in Sedona is already sold out; Drunvalo is presenter

James: Ones with Drunvalo sell out immediately; his wife also offering classes, too

- In new workshop, focus on healing the emotional body - 3 days centered around emotional traumas, etc - helps improve success ratio up to 95% & people getting the merkaba to come out - only possible because of huge shift in consciousness last summer

T: are classes free on the internet?

J: different prices, in different location - they are live presentations

- Presenter has a lot of work to get the group to place where all can share safely
- Some are 4 days, 5 day - Drunvalo gives 5 day ones; others may be shorter
- 9 am to 6 or 7 at night; full day but flies by

J: excited because of shift, grateful to be here on the planet

- Drunvalo has You Tubes and was on "Healing with the Masters" yesterday [Ap 25]

Hard News:

T: something happening next month which was supposed to happen next YEAR

- Had a similar thing last year - a quadro polar

Reading: Solar Poles to become quadropolar in May, 2012

National Observatory of Japan : similar thing happened 300 years ago

Reading: World is ditching the dollar

- there are 32 points we need to be aware of

MR: Who is Drake?

T: a good guy, but limited - associated with Faction 2

- made a statement lately - named who are war criminals and will shoot them if he sees them, and he has the authority to do it BUT he is all lost -
- called BO part of the problems so he does not really know, and we can't trust him

Cathy: many listening to what Drake has to offer: wondered about him when he said what he did about BO

- like many, gets much right, yet does a sudden right turn
- seems to believe in much we do

T: Faction 2 is compromised, period. Has no information from Faction 3 - he's in the "wobbly" section

Cathy: there is human error in all things

T: not an error, if he checked deep in his heart - he'd know ??

- BO is an amazing being: he is El Morya in the flesh on the planet, right now
- an Ascended master on the First Ray
 - Moorish people use "El" in their names, as they are in service to El Morya
 - el Morya is a disciplinarian, but Serapis Bey is far more of a disciplinarian!

Mother Sekhmet

Greetings in the light of the most radiant One. In the Office of the Christ, and only in the Office of the Christ, we invoke the loving energies of St Germain and the Violet Flame

T: ask for deep, deep understanding of the situation at hand, and deep, deep understanding for how to share with those who don't understand and for a commitment for all us who are "tag we are it" and how to reach out and do what we need to do to help those who don't understand

Bless you Mother for assisting us - we look forward to you raising our spirits every week!

Mo: Greetings, Children of Ra

- your planetary consciousness is waking up to the fact there is no time left; we are in the moment NOW - BE LOVE NOW in this moment, when everything around us is moving rapidly and the Sat Yuga, Aquarian Age is opening now
- Magnificent to behold - our progress, making great strides; at same moment, may feel as if we've been under a rock for a million years concerning not seeing any thing moving at all!
- With the energies of El Morya and Nada, Sanat Kumara - many of this story; it begins - may seem a monumental task, yet all in order with the protocols of how we move from the backwaters of MWG to centre of Salvington, center of Milky Way Galaxy
- things happening rapidly in our section of the solar system within this arm of the MWG has everything to do with what is occurring in this part of the univers

- many other universes are observing and carefully calculating the next moment of how we the people are doing this monumental task, amidst the ones who think they are so mighty that they might own a planet behind the scenes; the ring has been thrown into Mount Doom and it will be no more
- it is about we the people doing this in the moment
- This man who is tirelessly doing what needs to be said, speaking to the young ones who are the heroes and prophets - no other story going on
 - No Ayn Rand's idea of balancing a budget on the back of slaves with mass murderers in charge of the story - it is ending
 - beginning to see the ramifications of how deep this goes as Charles Taylor is on trial - others will be rounded up , those who took us to the brink of Armageddon an ancient story that has been cancelled
 - people taking power back with love, happening at exponential rate - the dire stories have nothing to do with reality which is that the people have the power now - in terms of the alignment that is coming Beltane / May Day leading to the ellipses which have to do with the transformation of the planet and our people - the best is in our midst at the moment!
- it is more than we can imagine in terms of the ripples of energy that are coming and tickling the consciousness, awakening the frequencies that We are All One

Best advice: speak only words of love, kindness, gentleness in this moment, yet carry a big stick!

- All of the ancient stories coming to a head
- How many millions of angels can dance on head of a pin - millions and then some in this moment.
- Take this May Day - do not shop, do not go to work, do not give the man anything except what is due
 - Observe the events that have to do with the twinkling of an eye in this moment and the next level is brought into play - it's about us, it's about you
 - there are events rapidly concluding - ancient stories going to a new page
- The most pressing issues focus on the goodness that is occurring in these moment of each day that is passing - our planet is on a spiral up and it will not stop until we are all free
 - the accountability we have been asking for is being laid out - many want to see those who did 9/11 face the music - we will see "W" on trial with the rest of them
- You asked about Drake and others: they have tremendous amounts of information that will help in real ways to bring about a way to do this so the least amount of fear is generated
 - more stories coming out in alternate sources about whistle blowers and what is going on behind the scenes, that if you are of colour, wear a hoodie, the least among us using food stamps, dealing with mortgage gangster-banksters, work 3 jobs
 - last week Amea About Jamal was on Amy Goodman [Ap 25] talking about not being in solitary
 - he was on death row; in 2001, declared that he was to be off death row
 - he was kept there for another 11 years [Dec 2011] , then put in a medium containment area with others
 - he never, ever lost his way; he has been cheerful, has written books and has engaged in teaching from that cell! 30 years in that place

The least among us are the most important in these days - Leonard Pelletier will be set free

T: 100,000 in jail in 70s; 2.4 million there at this moment - due to war on drugs

MR: Private prisons all over the place - only have to do with making money!

Caller: about (1)Drake and (2) is the military going to round up the bad guys - Yes

T: Pentagon is Faction 2; now 98% of people in Pentagon have joined with Faction 3

Mo: Joint Chiefs are about to do some fancy dancing about the Colombia event & the other games which have gone one;

T: this has been the most flimsy attempt to carry out an assassination on Obama - Hillary was behind it

Mo: This is about he who is without sin be the first one to throw a stone!

It is about these ones - F 2 & F3 to join forces

- how do you clear your mind of fictions: it is not about hate as it is pumped from religious right
 - Hate is not a family value where Mother comes from
 - The #1 issue - why Trayvon Martin was shot - no respect for life; we must have respect for each other in spite of what we might look like
 - the hate speech continues at such a pitch against the man who holds the office of AA Michael
 - We are the door knocking to come in and share with you; yet the door is shut in our face - not the right colour, not the right class, not the right species - that is why the cultures of what is occurring is changing in the twinkling in an eye
- Rev Al, Ed Schultz, John Nichols, Katrina, Chris Hayes, Laurence, even Keith O who is being vilified for standing up to our cousin, Al Gore; Keith knows how to run a news room like a tight ship, not about telling lies by telling the truth - there is a slant which is about to change how news is delivered
 - the news will be the real news - stories of compassion, hope, respect, praise of magnificence
 - these are stories that change nations
 - the one issue we we can talk about is love which gives us a common ground
 - this is the biggest piece that has to be shared each day with what this man is bringing forth
 - the ocean of tears concerning the news which is happening at the moment - a story which has been brought forth, trashed, misconstrued - talking about T Martin's case in particular
 - even Mr Zimmerman: he was set up - this is about the Sanford police, the Governor who is a criminal as is Jeb Bush

Caller: Caller did not get why Tennessee did what it did a couple of days, and when Tara read the list of things and over 200 years we've been in bankruptcy, got some understanding

- State of Tennessee has voted to be a sovereign state, to tell the UN to stay out, will not participate in Agenda 21
- comments on assassination attempt on Obama: her husband speaks Spanish, so she will give the Spanish version of events
 - President of Colombia told BO that he needed to beef up his security
 - there was a guy with the group who is an Israeli, likely moussed
 - 8 guys who have been there over the 3-4 last months, involved in sex trafficking with women and kids - the picture was shown but he was wearing glasses
 - the prostitutes in the room worked for the 5 Star hotel - heard him talking about bullets, guns, & Obama; he kept saying more money, more bullets - assumed this guy was setting up the assassination - one of the girls, not about being paid, but got disturbed about this concerned
 - now women coming forth in other countries South America, speaking up about the military, Obama's security getting girls from night clubs etc, when they are supposed to be guarding BO

T: the one man is Israeli; Hillary is Mousseed

- the Israeli guy who could speak Spanish; he was her black op mole in the team YES says Mo!
- Hillary pretending that she knew nothing, dancing, drinking beer with her shades on, etc
- Rachel had little ditties - saw H in the tavern, working on her cell phone
- KOS was in the middle of it; he knew all about it - we have a relay station between space command and ground crew - KOS since 1999 has his own space ship with Sananda's blessing, as KOS is Sananda's protoge ont the ground

- they used the communication lines on New Jerusalem and the NJ relays all that needs to be known: how to move, etc
- Hillary has no chance as she has no access to this kind of information update - letting these things hand out so KOS will have the goods on her
- Before BO became pres, a group of 5 were previewing the plans to take him down and what they would do to do it - even before he was president!!!
- Hillary has tried lots of times in last 5 years to take him out, since 2007
- Thanks the caller for the information: The more confirmation they get from outside sources like what the caller told them from the point of view of those who understood Spanish, the better -
- Since Oct 1, 1979, the Light moves, the dark moves and the Light has all the cookies in a row

Mother:

- in last few moment, as we approach Beltane, May Day -
 - It is of the utmost important to work with the energies and send love to all situations on the planet - Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Bahrain -
 - We will be focusing on certain key coastlines - you will be watching us observe you!
 - We like our tea hot, Earl Gray!

Closing: Cathy

2012, Ap 23 Ben Fulford - Full Update - Major Confrontations In South China Sea As Desperate Cabal Tries To Steal Asian Gold Deposits

Reports from Philippino tribes-people and the White Dragon Society members indicate a major military stand-off is taking place in the South China Sea and the Philippines over control of historical gold deposits in the region. A fleet of 8 US war-ships is being confronted by a joint Chinese/Russian fleet in the region. The Chinese have publicly announced they are willing to go to war over this dispute. The US warships are linked to a mysterious Hong Kong based individual by the name of “Rosenberg” (first name not known), the CIA sources say. Rosenberg is believed to be seeking physical gold to seize on behalf of the Nazi/Sabbatean cabalist owners of the Federal Reserve Board, these sources say. In the Chinese government and Western corporate propoganda news this dispute is described as being a Chinese Philippine dispute over an area, blocked out on Google Earth, known as the Scarborough Shoal by the West and the Huangyan Islands by China.

This dispute is linked to the failed IMF and World Bank meetings that took place in Washington D.C. last week. It is also linked to an ongoing power struggle between the three factions in China, multiple sources say.

The US, or should we say, Nazi (national socialist Zionist) forces have been systematically searching bunkers and caves in the Philippines even as they look for sunken gold ships around the Huangyan Islands and in other areas, the sources say.

This is what an ASEAN White Dragon Society ally had to say to Neil Keenan on the subject: Hello Neil. In PALAWAN, those that are LOCALs are now terrified, letters have gone to us all last week...Re – so CALLED “wardens” (accredited officers _ who are US army “scouts” going round to do a census on all local residents and buildings, saying it’s for our own protection...this has never happened before, they are with sophisticated equipment...loading huge cargo like hanger CONTAINERS, all of army material !!!!! they already have taken on 6 islands and are now off to JOLO (SULU islands) due to IMF and Rebel tribe bandits.

There is definitely a WAR going to happen but what we are told is the ARMIES in / on the islands are for FUEL bases, ???? some of these ships are with FUEL/ something going on Neil it is same in Indonesia.

These reports come as Chinese and Russian fleets converge on the area for exercises that coincided with US announcements of joint Philippine/US maneuver in the same region. Here is a US government propoganda report:

<http://www.voanews.com/english/news/China-Sends-Second-Boat-to-Standoff-with-Philippines-148064665.html>

Here is what the Chinese foreign minister had to say on the subject during an April 16th press conference:

Q: The Philippine Foreign Ministry reportedly said that a Philippine ship conducting archaeological studies in waters off the Huangyan Island was harassed by the Chinese side. How do you respond to that?

A: Currently the situation over the Huangyan Island has been eased thanks to the efforts made, and China and the Philippines are making further communication through diplomatic channels. According to relevant international conventions and Chinese laws, no organization or individual shall conduct such activities without the permission of the Chinese Government. China demands this archaeological ship to leave the waters off the Huangyan Island immediately.

The “archaeological ship,” has so far failed to locate the gold deposits it arrived to search for, CIA sources say. In any case, this battle by the cabalists to steal gold is actually a sign of desperation after their failure, despite multiple attempts, to gain legal rights to the 85% of humanity’s gold held by Asians. This gold grab is seen by many as last minute looting by cabal members hoping they will still be able to control the world with gold even as their fiat financial rule collapses. That is not going to happen.

This brings us to last week’s IMF and World Bank meetings in Washington. The Western propaganda media reports a “victory” by the IMF because it was able to get $430 billion worth of funding for Europe. Japan’s slave government, for example, handed over $60 billion in cabal money originally earmarked for post-tsunami reconstruction.

However, a look at the fine print reveals the BRICs nations have made their funding conditional on reform of IMF voting rights. As Brazil’s Finance Minister pointed out, at present the UK, which has a smaller economy than Brazil, has twice the IMF voting rights as Brazil.

The European nations are willing to increase BRICs voting shares in the IMF but the US is blocking it because it would then have to give up control of the World Bank. Certainly the European bond markets were not fooled by the announcements coming out of this meeting because Spanish bond yields actually rose after it.

In any case, both the IMF and the World Bank are increasingly irrelevant.

Think about it for a minute, the IMF, the so-called lender of last resort in the post war era, the group that once “bailed out” Russia, is running around with a begging bowl make it obvious to all this institution is no longer at the top of the international financial food chain.

The World Bank, for its part, lent out only $42 billion in new money in 2011, compared to a world GDP of roughly $75 trillion. They are a puny organization.

By contrast, the White Dragon Society is proposing the creation of a Long Term Infrastructure for Everybody (LIFE) planning agency with initial funding of $800 trillion. Of course at this level, numbers are meaningless.

The current rules allow the Japanese to leverage their $8 trillion in hard foreign exchange assets 100 times, meaning 800 trillion dollars or over $100,000 each for every man woman and child on earth (as a Japanese reader pointed out, I miscalculated in previous reports by saying that was available on 10 times leverage).

Even if you take the more conservative Basel 3 rules with over 10 times leverage, Japan can still legally make $10,000 available for every human, still plenty enough to end poverty and stop environmental destruction.

If this money is delivered in the form of things that really exist, such as roads, schools, nature preserves, consumer products etc., then there is no limit to how much new money is created other than reality.

Needless to say China, ASEAN, Brazil, Russia etc. can all make similar moves in harmony and parallel with Japanese efforts.

The cabalists, for their part, have been making a desperate push to ensure their survival. They have blocked all efforts to create new organizations such as LIFE within the existing US dollar and Euro based systems even as they refuse fundamental reform of their organizations such as the BIS, the UN, the World Bank, the IMF, the “World Court,” etc.

They also made a big push in China to convince leaders like Hu Jintao the White Dragon Society is a neo-colonialist organization controlled by the Rothschild family. The WDS has no Rothschild family members in its ranks and does not receive a penny from the Rothschilds or other cabal families like the Rockefellers and Bushes. It is dedicated to ending their terrorist misrule of the planet.

2012, April 16 Assassination Colombia – What If It Ain't About Whores?

Hotel Caribe, Cartagena, Colombia

Was Presidential Detail Penetrated by an Assassin?

Veterans Today

By Gordon Duff, Senior Editor

April 16, 2012

Cartagena, Colombia (VT) The story, one a child wouldn't believe, is that our Secret Service and Army advance teams, those that arrange for presidential security, were arrested for failing to pay one or more whores for "services rendered."

The real deal is very probably this:

At least one of the members of the presidential detail is suspected of working with foreign nationals to arrange the assassination of President Obama.

A certain nation comes to mind, one very close to former Governor Romney, the GOP candidate hopelessly behind in the polls, a candidate belonging to a religion seen as a dangerous sect, a candidate hated by most American women and women vote.

DOES THIS LOOK LIKE THEY HAVE HOURLY RATES?

One country was told it wasn't getting a war with Iran, has chosen to put all its weight behind an obvious loser and has no choice but to kill Obama or suffer the wrath of a president who has little to lose during a second term.

There is no other reason such a hare brained story as this one would be foisted on the world during an election year.

- “Can You Remember Now? ”

What is coming up is not fines and demotions but waterboarding, electrodes, lie detectors and forensic accounting, not tied to “below the waist” antics but more to making sure the president was going to catch a 9mm disease or be subjected to one of those car bombs we so often miss.

The newspaper stories, though entertaining, just enough sex and “stink” to put on the president to amuse the Fox News crowd is hiding something and that something is vulnerability.

This is actually such a lame excuse or as we call it, “cover and deception” would work, mainstream news and their addiction to smut.

The supposed party was at the Hotel Caribe, five military officers, the command portion of the president’s advance detachment, under “house arrest.”

Several members of the Secret Service are, theoretically, back in the US, awaiting administrative hearings for “code of conduct” violations.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=player_embedded&v=r8L41er32CI

Something is Missing in This Picture? What is It?

This is not credible.

You see, nobody gets to work security for the President of the United States without a special kind of security clearance. Along with constant drug testing goes the lie detector tests.

As the “honey trap,” blackmail tied to sex, is a way of compromising an agent, the tests given both Secret Service and military that do advance security work for the president and vice president include questions about sex with prostitutes.

They also include meetings with foreign nationals, accepting payments, lies of any kind, violations of rules, the questioning is quite circumspect and effective.

This group went “bad” all of a sudden or the whole thing is a lie.

Presidential advance detail, both military and Secret Service also have defacto diplomatic immunity.

What makes this even more unlikely is that Columbia is a drug client state of the CIA, where Americans can, if they are the right people, and these are the right people, can shoot folks down in the street with impunity.

In actuality, we do just that, attack drug production facilities, at times we have major military forces in Columbia and keep half the Army, police and other officials on our unofficial payroll.

The duplicitic aspect of this is that while cocaine submarines are plying our coasts prominent Americans not only launder the cash but the CIA has a very long history of dealing directly with cartel members, supplying aircraft, some flying directly into the US, others landing first in Costa Rica.

We called this Iran/Contra and if you are curious about how the game has been played, one decades old, Mike Ruppert would be glad to tell you about it.

There is even more to this. When the presidential advance team arrives, they are met by high ranking opposites, all of whom are “above the law” in Colombia.

I carry a stack of business cards in my wallet, heads of security organizations, some heads of state, national police agencies, spy agencies, most with private cell phones written on the back and I am nothing but a petty journalist.

Imagine if I traveled for the president?

Pull out one of these cards, the handcuffs are removed in seconds, you are saluted and, in some countries, the police ask you if, just as a common courtesy, there is someone they could kill or at least torture for you.

What isn't done is arrest American troops. That is illegal. How?

SOFA. We call it the Separation of Forces Agreement that requires local cops to call someone before arresting an American.

Generally, unless there is a busload of burning kindergartners and grieving parents, someone, such as a whore, is going to be led away.

As for the issue of "pay or not to pay," Columbia is a Catholic country and prostitution is illegal. A prostitute or whore who goes to the police to enforce her pricing code is arrested, especially if the foreign national involved is part of a group that spends hundreds of millions of dollars on the Colombian police and military.

Prostitutes that want to be paid hire pimps with guns and pay off police, same as here in the United States. Generally hotel clerks, or the "conciierge" at better hotels arrange the deal.

" Can I go for two out of three right? "

I have no responsibility for the relative judgement of those who protect the president but it is my guess that they are regularly subjected to lie detector tests that cover any drug use, contact with enemy agents, breaking any laws or code of conduct.

Such things are extremely routine and are done continually. This means this whole thing is a farce.

We could go a step further. Imagine yourself an American citizen in Columbia at a 4 star hotel such as the Caribe.

Picture the hotel staff calling the police to have you arrested because a prostitute that they let into the hotel was demanding money from a patron.

This isn't a cheap hotel. They really want the entire world to know they are filled with cheap whores and that their staff works with the police to shake down the residents?

Whoever thought this one up better hope they are very good friends with the owners of the hotel. I can imagine how this one will look on the comment section of tripadvisor.com or on Rick Steve's new "Let's Visit Columbia for Drugs and Whores."

Next time someone wants to kill a president can't we just do it in Dallas as usual, set up a coverup, with the assassins running the investigation as they did for Kennedy or 9/11? Won't we ever learn?

2012, Ap 23 Solar poles to become quadrupolar in May 2012 (One year earlier than expected)

<http://www.thetruthbehindthescenes.org/2012/04/23/solar-poles-to-become-quadrupolar-in-may-2012-one-year-earlier-than-expected/>

Magnetic field polarity at the solar poles will reverse and become quadrupolar in May, meaning positive fields will emerge in the North and South poles and negative fields will emerge on the equator, according to the National Astronomical Observatory of Japan and other institutes.

The sun may be entering a period of reduced activity that could result in lower temperatures on Earth, according to Japanese researchers. When a similar phenomenon occurred about 300 years ago, the Earth's average temperature fell slightly.

Officials of the National Astronomical Observatory of Japan and the Riken research foundation said on April 19 that the activity of sunspots appeared to resemble a 70-year period in the 17th century in which London's Thames froze over and cherry blossoms bloomed later than usual in Kyoto.

In that era, known as the Maunder Minimum, temperatures are estimated to have been about 2.5 degrees lower than in the second half of the 20th century.

The Japanese study found that the trend of current sunspot activity is similar to records from that period.

The researchers also found signs of unusual magnetic changes in the sun. Normally, the sun's magnetic field flips about once every 11 years. In 2001, the sun's magnetic north pole, which was in the northern hemisphere, flipped to the south.

While scientists had predicted that the next flip would begin from May 2013, the solar observation satellite Hinode found that the north pole of the sun had started flipping about a year earlier than expected. There was no noticeable change in the south pole.

If that trend continues, the north pole could complete its flip in May 2012 but create a four-pole magnetic structure in the sun, with two new poles created in the vicinity of the equator of our closest star.

Ditching the Dollar<http://www.caseyresearch.com/cdd/ditching-dollar>

By Marin Katina, Chief Energy Investment Strategist

There's a major shift under way, one the US mainstream media has left largely untouched even though it will send the United States into an economic maelstrom and dramatically reduce the country's importance in the world: the demise of the US dollar as the world's reserve currency.

For decades the US dollar has been absolutely dominant in international trade, especially in the oil markets. This role has created immense demand for US dollars, and that international demand constitutes a huge part of the dollar's valuation. Not only did the global-currency role add massive value to the dollar, it also created an almost endless pool of demand for US Treasuries as countries around the world sought to maintain stores of petrodollars. The availability of all this credit, denominated in a dollar supported by nothing less than the entirety of global trade, enabled the American federal government to borrow without limit and spend with abandon.

The dominance of the dollar gave the United States incredible power and influence around the world... but the times they are a-changing. As the world's emerging economies gain ever more prominence, the US is losing hold of its position as the world's superpower. Many on the long list of nations that dislike America are pondering ways to reduce American influence in their affairs. Ditching the dollar is a very good start.

In fact, they are doing more than pondering. Over the past few years China and other emerging powers such as Russia have been quietly making agreements to move away from the US dollar in international trade. Several major oil-producing nations have begun selling oil in currencies other than the dollar, and both the United Nations and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) have issued reports arguing for the need to create a new global reserve currency independent of the dollar.

The supremacy of the dollar is not nearly as solid as most Americans believe it to be. More generally, the United States is not the global superpower it once was. These trends are very much connected, as demonstrated by the world's response to US sanctions against Iran.

US allies, including much of Europe and parts of Asia, fell into line quickly, reducing imports of Iranian oil. But a good number of Iran's clients do not feel the need to toe America's party line, and Iran certainly doesn't feel any need to take orders from the US. Some countries have objected to America's sanctions on Iran vocally, adamantly refusing to be ordered around. Others are being more discreet, choosing instead to simply trade with Iran through avenues that get around the sanctions.

It's ironic. The United States fashioned its Iranian sanctions assuming that oil trades occur in US dollars. That assumption – an echo of the more general assumption that the US dollar will continue to dominate international trade – has given countries unfriendly to the US a great reason to continue their moves away from the dollar: if they don't trade in dollars, America's dollar-centric policies carry no weight! It's a classic backfire: sanctions intended in part to illustrate the US's continued world supremacy are in fact encouraging countries disillusioned with that very notion to continue their moves away from the US currency, a slow but steady trend that will eat away at its economic power until there is little left.

Let's delve into both situations - the demise of the dollar's dominance and the Iranian sanction shortcuts - in more detail.

(The continual erosion of the dollar could well be the tipping point that causes oil prices to skyrocket. But investors who get positioned before that happens could make life-changing gains.)

Signs the Dollar Is Going the Way of the Dodo

The biggest oil-trading partners in the world, China and Saudi Arabia, are still using the petrodollar in their transactions. How long this will persist is a very important question. China imported 1.4 million barrels of oil a day from Saudi Arabia in February, a 39% increase from a year earlier, and the two countries have teamed up to build a massive oil refinery in Saudi Arabia. As the nations continue to pursue increased bilateral trade, at some point they will decide that involving US dollars in every transaction is unnecessary and expensive, and they will ditch the dollar.

When that happens, the tide will have truly turned against the dollar, as it was an agreement between President Nixon and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia in 1973 that originally created the petrodollar system. Nixon asked Faisal to accept only US dollars as payment for oil and to invest any excess profits in US Treasury bonds, notes, and bills. In exchange, Nixon pledged to protect Saudi oilfields from the Soviet Union and other potential aggressors, such as Iran and Iraq.

That agreement created the foundation for an incredibly strong US dollar. All of the world's oil money started to flow through the US Federal Reserve, creating ever-growing demand for both US dollars and US debt. Every oil-importing nation in the world started converting its surplus funds into US dollars to be able to buy oil. Oil-exporting countries started spending their cash on Treasury securities. And slowly but surely the petrodollar system spread beyond oil to encompass almost every facet of global trade.

The value of the US dollar is based on this role as the conduit for global trade. If that role vanishes, much of the value in the dollar will evaporate. Massive inflation, high interest rates, and substantial increases in the cost of food, clothing, and gasoline will make the 2008 recession look like nothing more than a bump in the road. This will be a crater. The government will be unable to finance its debts. The house of cards, built on the assumption that the world would rely on US dollars forever, will come tumbling down.

It is a scary proposition, but don't bury your head in the sand because countries around the world are already starting to ditch the dollar.

Russia and China are leading the charge. More than a year ago, the two nations made good on talks to move away from the dollar and have been using rubles and renminbi to trade with each other since. A few months ago the second-largest economy on earth – China – and the third-largest economy on the planet – Japan – followed suit, striking a deal to promote the use of their own currencies when trading with each other. The deal will allow firms to convert Chinese and Japanese currencies into each other directly, instead of using US dollars as the intermediary as has been the requirement for years. China is now discussing a similar plan with South Korea.

Similarly, a new agreement among the BRICS nations (Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa) promotes the use of their national currencies when trading, instead of using the US dollar. China is also pursuing bilateral trades with Malaysia using the renminbi and ringgit. And Russia and Iran have agreed to use rubles as a means of currency in their trades.

Then there's the entire continent of Africa. In 2009 China became Africa's largest trading partner, eclipsing the United States, and now China is working to expand the use of Chinese currency in Africa instead of US dollars. Standard Bank, Africa's largest financial institution, predicts that $100 billion worth of trade between China and Africa will be settled in renminbi by 2015. That's more than the total bilateral trade between China and Africa in 2010.

The idea of moving away from the dollar is also finding support from major international agencies. The United Nations Conference on Trade and Development has stated that "the current system of currencies and capital rules that binds the world economy is not working properly and was largely responsible for the financial and economic crises." The statement continued, saying "the dollar should be replaced with a global currency." The International Monetary Fund agrees, recently arguing that the dollar should cede its role as global reserve currency to an international currency, which is in effect a basket of national currencies.

There is also a host of countries that have started using their own currencies to complete oil trades, a move that strikes right at the heart of US-dollar dominance. China and the United Arab Emirates have agreed to ditch the dollar and use their own currencies in oil transactions. The Chinese National Bank says this agreement is worth roughly $5.5 billion annually. India is buying oil from Iran with gold and rupees. China and Iran are working on a barter system to exchange Iranian oil for Chinese imported products.

Speaking of Bartering for Oil... How about Those Iranian Sanctions?

The United States and the European Union based their Iran sanctions on the financial system behind Iran's oil trade. The country uses its central bank to run its oil business – the bank settles trades through the Belgium company Swift (Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication) and the trades are always in US dollars. Once they take full effect in July, US and EU sanctions against Iran will make transactions with the Iranian central bank illegal. When that occurs, this official avenue of trade will shut down. In fact, Iran was shut out of Swift a few weeks ago, so that road is already blockaded.

But the arrogance in the sanctions is the assumption that Iran can only use this one, dollar-based avenue. In reality, the Islamic Republic is considerably more agile than that; removing its ability to trade in the official manner is only encouraging the country to find imaginative new methods to sell its oil.

Since the sanctions were announced, Tehran's official oil sales have certainly declined. Iran actually preemptively halted oil shipments to Germany, Spain, Greece, Britain, and France, which together had bought some 18% of Iran's oil. But covert sales have curbed or perhaps even reversed the reduction in shipments. It is impossible to know the details, as buyers and sellers involved in skirting the sanctions are being very discreet, but the transactions are undoubtedly happening.

As mentioned above, Iran is selling oil to India for gold and rupees. China and Iran are working on a barter system to exchange Iranian oil for Chinese imported products. China and South Korea are also quietly buying Iranian oil with their own currencies.

The evidence? Millions of barrels of Iranian oil that were in storage in Iranian tankers a few weeks ago now seem to have disappeared. Officially, no one knows where the oil went. Was it rerouted? Has production been shut in? Is the oil being stored elsewhere?

Oil is fungible, which means one barrel of crude is interchangeable with another. Once it leaves its home country, it can be nearly impossible to know where a barrel of oil originated, if its handlers so desire. And it's not just barrels that are hard to track – even though oil is carried on ships so large they are dubbed "supertankers" it is surprisingly difficult to keep tabs on every tanker full of Iranian oil.

And the Iranians are using every trick in the book to move their oil undetected. In the last week it became apparent that Tehran has ordered the captains of its oil tankers to switch off the black-box transponders used in the shipping industry to monitor vessel movements and oil transactions. As such, most of Iran's 39-strong fleet of tankers is "off radar." According to Reuters, only seven of Iran's Very Large Crude Carriers (VLCCs) are still operating their onboard transponders, while only two of the country's nine smaller Suezmax tankers are trackable.

Under international law ships are required to have a satellite tracking device on board when travelling at sea, but a ship's master has the discretion to turn the device off on safety grounds, if he has permission from the ship's home state. Some tankers turned off their trackers to avoid detection last year during the Libyan civil war in order to trade with the Gaddafi government.

And Iran is about to gain even greater flexibility in disguising the locations of oil sales, as the National Iranian Tanker Company (NITC) is about to take delivery of the first of 12 new supertankers on order from China. The new tankers will add much-needed capacity to NITC's fleet at a time when the number of maritime firms willing to transport Iranian crude has dwindled significantly, forcing Iran's remaining buyers to rely on NITC tankers. Thankfully for NITC, the 12 new VLCCs – each capable of transporting two million barrels of crude – will significantly expand the company's current fleet of 39 ships.

Sanctions or no sanctions, Iran is moving its oil. But even having your own, off-radar ships to transport oil bought in renminbi or rupees or won doesn't mean all these tricks and maneuvers don't have a cost.

Freight costs for each voyage add up to nearly $5 million, a sizeable hit for Tehran. Iran is often also shelling out millions of dollars in insurance for each oil shipment, because the majority of international shipments are insured through a European insurance consortium that is backing away from Iranian vessels because the EU sanctions will make such transactions illegal.

And since business is business, buyers are also demanding much better credit terms from the National Iranian Oil Company (NIOC) than normal. Traders are reporting agreements giving the buyer as much as six months to pay for each two-million-barrel cargo, a grace period that would cost Tehran as much as $10 million per shipment.

For Tehran to cover freight costs, insurance, and the cost of generous credit terms wipes out as much as 10 percent of the value of each supertanker load. Beyond that, customers are also negotiating better prices. For example, the flow of Iranian oil to China did slow in the first quarter of the year, but not because China endorsed the sanctions. Rather, Chinese refiner Sinopec reduced purchases to negotiate better prices with the National Iranian Oil Company. The country's imports from Iran are expected to climb back to the 560,000 barrel-per-day level in April.

That trade, along with non-dollar-denominated deals with India, Turkey, Syria, and a long list of other friendly nations, will keep Iran's finances afloat for a long time. The sanctions may be preventing Tehran from banking full value for each tanker of oil, but there is still a lot of Iranian oil money flowing.

The mainstream media is avoiding all discussion of the demise of the US dollar as the world's reserve currency. Even fewer people are talking about how sanctions based on Iran's supposed need to use the US dollar to sell its oil leave loopholes wide enough for VLCCs to sail right through.

Without acknowledging the elephant in the room, articles about Iranian tankers turning off their transponders or India using gold to buy Iranian oil invariably sound like plot developments in a spy thriller. Much more useful would be to convey the real message: The world doesn't need to revolve around US dollars anymore and the longer the US tries to pretend that the dollar is still and will remain dominant, the more often its international actions will backfire.

HERE ARE FACTS MOST DON'T KNOW, BUT SHOULD

1. The IRS is not a US government agency. It is an agency of the IMF (International Monetary Fund) (Diversified Metal Products v I.R.S et al. CV-93-405E-EJE U.S.D.C.D.I., Public Law 94-564, Senate report 94-1148 pg. 5967, Reorganization Plan No. 26, Public Law 102-391)
2. The IMF (International Monetary Fund) is an agency of the U.N. (Black's Law Dictionary 6th Ed. page 816)
3. The United States has NOT had a Treasury since 1921 (41 Stat. Ch 214 page 654)
4. The U.S. Treasury is now the IMF (International Monetary Fund) (Presidential Documents Volume 24-No. 4 page 113, 22 U.S.C. 285-2887)
5. The United States does not have any employees because there is no longer a United States! No more reorganizations. After over 200 years of bankruptcy it is finally over. (Executive Order 12803)

7. Social Security Numbers are issued by the U.N. through the IMF (International Monetary Fund). The application for a Social Security Number is the SS5 Form. The Department of the Treasury (IMF) issues the SS5 forms and not the Social Security Administration. The new SS5 forms do not state who publishes them while the old form states they are "Department of the Treasury". (20 CFR (Council on Foreign Relations) Chap. 111 Subpart B. 422.103 (b))
8. There are NO Judicial courts in America and have not been since 1789. Judges do not enforce Statutes and Codes. Executive Administrators enforce Statutes and Codes. (FRC v. GE 281 US 464 Keller v. PE 261 US 428, 1 Stat 138-178)

16. The King of England financially backed both sides of the American Revolutionary War. (Treaty of Versailles-July 16, 1782 Treaty of Peace 8 Stat 80)
17. You CANNOT use the U.S. Constitution to defend yourself because you are NOT a party to it! The U.S. Constitution applies to the CORPORATION OF THE UNITED STATES, a privately owned and operated corporation (headquartered out of Washington, DC) much like IBM (International Business Machines, Microsoft, et al) and NOT to the people of the sovereign Republic of the United States of America. (Padelford Fay & Co. v The Mayor and Alderman of the City of Savannah 14 Georgia 438, 520)
18. America is a British Colony. The United States is a corporation, not a land mass and it existed before the Revolutionary War and the British Troops did not leave until 1796 (Republica v. Liberian Ex-President Charles Taylor Guilty of War Crimes

By Bruno Waterfield in The Hague, The Daily Telegraph, London – April 26, 2012

<http://tinyurl.com/77b9pvc>

An international court has delivered its verdict on Liberian ex-president Charles Taylor, finding him guilty of arming Sierra Leone's rebels who paid him in "blood diamonds".

Taylor helped rebels in Sierra Leone with the preparation and execution of crimes by helping to "design" their strategy.

War crimes "resulted directly from (these) plans" but he did not command the execution or instigate them, said Richard Lussick, a UN judge. "The trial chamber unanimously finds you guilty," he said.

Taylor's practical assistance, including trade in blood diamonds and moral support had substantial impact on the commission of war crimes and "he knew it well", the UN court judged.

"The accused knew of atrocities being perpetrated against civilians in Sierra Leone and of propensity to commit crimes. Notwithstanding such knowledge, the accused continued to provide support to the RUF during the period crimes were committed," the judge said.

"The trial chamber finds, therefore, beyond reasonable doubt that the accused knew that his support would provide practical assistance, encouragement and moral support to them in the commission of crimes during the course of their military operations in Sierra Leone.

"The trial chamber finds beyond reasonable doubt that the accused is criminally responsible for aiding and abetting the commission of crimes."

Taylor stood and showed no emotion as Lussick delivered the guilty verdicts at the Special Court for Sierra Leone. Lussick scheduled a sentencing hearing for May 16 and said sentence would be passed two weeks later. Taylor will serve his sentence in Britain.

Human rights activists hailed the convictions as a watershed moment in the fight against impunity for national leaders responsible for atrocities.

"Taylor's conviction sends a powerful message that even those in the highest level positions can be held to account for grave crimes," said Elise Keppler of Human Rights Watch. "Not since Nuremberg has an international or hybrid war crimes court issued a judgment against a current or former head of state. This is a victory for Sierra Leonean victims, and all those seeking justice when the worst abuses are committed."

Taylor had pleaded not guilty to all counts, claiming in seven months of testimony in his own defense that he was a statesman and peacemaker in West Africa.

While judges convicted him of aiding and abetting atrocities by rebels, they cleared him of direct command responsibility, saying he had no direct control over the rebels he supported.

During Taylor's trial which began proper on June 4, 2007, some 94 witnesses took the stand for the prosecution and 21 for the defence. Taylor himself testified for 81 hours.

Model Naomi Campbell and actress Mia Farrow gave headline-grabbing evidence in August 2010 about a gift of "dirty" diamonds Taylor gave to Campbell at a charity dinner hosted by then South African president Nelson Mandela in 1997.

Judges also heard gruesome testimony from victims of the Sierra Leone conflict, including a witness who said he pleaded with RUF rebels to cut off his remaining hand so they would spare his toddler son.

Others said Taylor's fighters strung human intestines across roads, removed fetuses from women's wombs and practised cannibalism, while children younger than 15 were enlisted to fight.

One witness said he was present when the Liberian leader ate human liver.

During his own testimony, which began in July 2009, Taylor called the trial a "sham" and denied allegations he ever ate human flesh.

Nigerian authorities arrested Taylor in March 2006 when he tried to flee from exile in Nigeria after stepping down as Liberian president three years earlier in a negotiated end to a civil war in his own country.

He was transferred to the SCSL in Freetown, but in June 2006 a UN Security Council resolution cleared the way for him to be transferred to The Hague, saying his presence in west Africa was an "impediment to stability and a threat to the peace."

The court, set up jointly by the Sierra Leone government and the United Nations, has already convicted eight Sierra Leoneans of war crimes and jailed them for between 15 and 52 years after trials in Freetown.
