HARD NEWS

T: goes back to the Thom Hartmann show from yesterday with Amy Goodman and the Rev from Michigan; Gov Snyder and his staff are responsible for the 10 deaths

- We've been in training for life times, for this life, right now – we are the

Richard Wolffe

- talked about the edge of the cliff we are sitting on: the financial story
- E. Warren is as angry as a wet hen! The banksters are not too big to fail, or to jail

Camp Lovewave

Brian Epstein was guest, the fund manager who got out of hedgefund game – also talked of the same cliff and how folks just print more money for themselves, and the people get the shaft!

- You cannot stop what is inevitable: St Germain has the answer – the Babylonian Money Magic machine which is about the paper, not the gold that backs the financial system and runs in our veins [gold dust]
- Also talked of Mon Feb 22 edition of the X Files: season finale – it has to do with the next evolutionary leap in consciousness. They cannot hold things back, as more and more folks are waking up due to the wisdom in our cells

Eugenia Bocalandro – has to do with completely legalizing cannabis in New Mexico, and a special kind of compost that comes from mushrooms that grow nowhere else on earth: they add intelligence to the compost: mushrooms are of ET origin and when you put the compost on your garden, you get amazing results: cucumbers as long as your arm; tomatoes the size of grapefruit – like at Findhorn.

- Spoke of the intelligence that comes from the mitochondria

Cheryl: Nevada caucus: live results from huff post – says 65.5 of precincts have reported 4256 – 53.35%
3883 – 47.7%

- As more votes come in, Bernie could outdo Hillary – yes!
- Blaze violet flame and blue flame together all week long!
- The NYTimes agrees with MoveOn that super delegates need to follow the popular vote
 - And the super delegates are NOT elected – they are corporatized!
- Alan Grayson from Florida asked his e-mail people who should he vote for!

T: this gives us more energy to deal with the next situation: what was done today about clearing out the old thoughtforms so we could see the gateway and see the new was a good exercise!

T: Rama is being told by Natasha that things are about to completely break open!

- And Hillary is to be indicted very, very shortly.

Brian Epstein said “Welcome to the land of make believe!”

- no matter the stories about Mr Scalia, this is a fight to the death, and death is just another transition
- and this is the end of that polarity idea: THERE IS NO DEATH: WE ARE NOT OUR BODIES.

T: does not know what happens to Scalia, but Mother does

- and he literally appointed Bush !
- What T was seeing: something to the effect that the stage is being set for the Divine Feminine that carries the light that enters in – and this is our sister, Michelle Obama. They are both Moors and Aboriginal Moabite Nation people – and this land is that!

- Speaking of Moabites, we are speaking of ancient Lemuria – which brings up the teaching of the monastery of the 7 Rays - the elders will be stepping in
 - Barack at the press conference did not wear a tie and he looked exasperated to say the least. There were questions about Scalia – and after the conference, he announced he would not be attending the funeral

R: know that MSNBC tell Chris Matthews, Rachel Maddow [what to say, do]

- Keith Olberman knows when to step in and pop the story: which is
 - the fiasco going on with the fake paper money: he knows that
- The struggle is life or death in the sense of are we going to continue the war path out there?
 - Saying that Hillary won BUT THE PEOPLE DON'T HAVE THE FACTS.

R: Mr Putin knows how to win on the chess board and he is an immortal – and he's playing the brinkmanship game with great finesse, as he can move back and forth between both worlds.

- R does not think he hangs out with people like St Germain: there are many levels of removing layers – our origins began out there, with the intelligence in and of itself, the mitachlorians, the Force and what M and A created along with us –

- the lady Eugenia [carboneconomy.com] is an Olymic winner and does a show called the carbon economy series before Camp Lovewave: she was talking of the intelligence of the fungus and how the consciousness of mother/father god is in the fungus and via the magnetic waves, solar flares, pulls the spores into a planet's atmosphere and the intelligence which comes from the solar winds, flares and mother/father god goes into the ground and create plants

T: goes back to Obama, as he is one of the threads about consciousness – he said a while ago, that foreign observers are troubled by some of the rhetoric they are hearing from the Republican candidates: what is interesting is that all the people are all focussed on Trump but what all the candidates are saying is as troubling; Trump may up the ante about anti-muslim but the other things being said by the others are equally as unpleasant.

- Obama says he continues to think that Trump will not become president because he has a lot of faith in the American People and that the people see being president as a serious job – not a game show, reality show.

R: Trump wears a bullet proof vest 24/7; Mother knows what the story is and it is about service to humanity, not me, me, me!

- He is a major distraction playing with the old Luciferian energies of rebellion
- it's simple: do you want to play with love or do you want to play with fear? That is what all his sources are saying.

T: People do not have the education, the facts, the background. And Obama is delineating all that is going on when he talks about the meaning of the president.

Brian Epstein: when you step into the level of global finance and you don't follow your marching orders, you end up in a body bag.

R: From Natasha: John Lewis and James Clyburn have done what they need to do to stay alive – they had to sing to the dragon heart that needs to be healed! She's a 50' dragon. Talking of Hillary – there are oceans of blood around that story

- The way to conquer a dragon – a friend with a beautiful voice who has made a tape that goes back to a story from the Land of Pan that was merging into Lemuria
 - Used to be just one piece of land and the Pacifica [peace] Ocean – we were all brown Children of the Sun, thanks to the melanin: protects us from the sun, and blesses us with love, truth, peace, freedom, and with the first 4 qualities, can do justice

- Right now, we are coming up against accountability – Bernie is teaching folks
 - how many of the children know the constitution & how it came about; how many adults?
 - The only reason the war of independence was won at the time was because the Moorish people had money; a Moorish president, James Hanson, was the 1st president; the Moorish people poured financial help which allowed the soldiers and Geo Washington's men to get close – they were in tatters at that point [Goe Washington was a black moor too through his mother] Washington was controlled by the British Crown which was controlled by the Vatican
 - the Black Panther movement: there is a search for truth from Angela Davis to Malcolm X to MLKing about how do we do this? One of Malcolm X's speeches was "the ballad or the bullet" when the 13 families have given the police carte blanche, no punishment for killing black people.

Richard Wollfe: the privatized prison system is tied in with the biomedical-military-industrial-congressional complex also the banksters are also tied into privatized prisons:

- they give debit cards to the prisoners; they charge the prisoners and there is a whole electronic system within the prison which funnels the money funnels right to the top and the slave masters, the great white dragons
- their entire empire is collapsing: he didn't go into conspiracy theories about Scalia; all he said is "The Light has won!"

- Be sure and go see Michael Moore's movie and be sure to watch the credits at the end!
- With NESARA, we go back to the wise council of elders who are showing up right now, guiding Mr 19.5 and others to work out a proper way of governing ourselves so we don't have slave masters and death camps

Reading: History and Catechism of the Moorish Orthodox Church of America [SEE BELOW]
1986 and updated 1992 Enforcer of the law and Bishop . .

- when listening to the material on the Black Panthers, remember that Noble Drew Ali won back for all of the Americas what the Black Panthers & later groups are still fighting for!
- 1928 Conference of the Americas – he got back all of the western hemisphere! Black Moors are Cherokee, black Irish are Cherokee too – took the Annunaki some time to change the colour of people's skin
- The Moorish Orthodox Church draws on the highest mystical teachings of the Sufis

Reading: 2006-11-29 Russian scientist finds Paradise at the North Pole [SEE BELOW]

- Sythia was another name for the capital of Atlantis
- many people have been working on proving the existence of Hyberborea – see article
- Eurasia includes Lauerasia which includes NA, Europe, American Arctic regions
the land migrated from Southern India – Madagascar was part of the land that bumped up against the Himalayas and eventually broke off again and moved.

 LISTEN TO THE TAPE TO HEAR TARA'S COMMENTS

- Noble Drew Ali [b.1886] studied with an ancient priest, the last of a cult of high magic that was practiced for centuries in Egypt & the pyramid of Cheops
- Origins of Mayans and Aztecs: Mayans come from Caucus area, down to Egypt into the armpit of Africa and right over here to south America, then Central America and then North America; same as the Malinese people; - the Mayans are very dark skinned.
- from this priest, Noble Drew Ali learned about the Circle 7 [the Koran] and other high truths
- the ancient truth is that we are all Moabites or Moors - Moors are an asiatic race – the dynasty of China and Mongolia – Genghis Khan was black – people did not come to North America via a land bridge: they used star ships!!!!

R: tells the story of Hanniman picking up a mountain and moving it – part of the terra forming that was going on on the planet: a story told

- Morocco before the continents broke apart: the whole east coast of NA was attached to Morocco
 - there is a close tie between Moorish science and Rastafarianism – can see this in Jamaica
 - the Rastas originated in Ethiopians which is the teachings of Christ in Hebrew fashion –

Caller: pointing out that the diagram on the page about the Moorish Orthodox Church looks like the Celtic decoration because the Celts actually came from Egypt.

- the Mayans are ancient Hebrews too
 - one of the reasons for having people as white is to cover up our heritage & show how the Roman Church has taken over the teachings of Christ

Brief discussion: Great Britain - David Cameron and EU membership

2016-02-20 EU renegotiations: David Cameron gets 'unanimous agreement' as Britain is given 'special status' in Union [SEE BELOW]

- “A landmark agreement was agreed to today” – Tara got the article from Al Jazeera and transcribed it
 - Natasha told Rama that the British people will wring his neck! Don't agree with him.
 - “No more something for nothing” are the words of Cameron! Really does not want to help the refugees
 - She also said that all heaven is about to break loose & the economy will crash – it's about to hit the fan and Max Keiser said it too!
- This fight represents Unity Consciousness!

Audio: The Black Panthers: Vanguard of the Revolution

<http://www.pbs.org/independentlens/videos/the-black-panthers-vanguard-of-the-revolution/>

ALL POWER TO THE PEOPLE

Change was coming to America and the fault lines could no longer be ignored—cities were burning, Vietnam was exploding, and disputes raged over equality and civil rights. A new revolutionary culture was emerging and it sought to drastically transform the system. The Black Panther Party for Self-Defense would, for a short time, put itself at the vanguard of that change.

THE BLACK PANTHERS: VANGUARD OF THE REVOLUTION is the first feature length documentary to explore the Black Panther Party, its significance to the broader American culture, its cultural and political awakening for black people, and the painful lessons wrought when a movement derails. Master documentarian Stanley Nelson goes straight to the source, weaving a treasure trove of rare archival footage with the voices of the people who were there: police, FBI informants, journalists, white supporters and detractors, and Black Panthers who remained loyal to the party and those who left it. Featuring Kathleen Cleaver, Jamal Joseph, and many others, THE BLACK PANTHERS: VANGUARD OF THE REVOLUTION is an essential history and a vibrant chronicle of this pivotal movement that birthed a new revolutionary culture in America.

T: to witness this and to transmute all that has gone on: Black Lives matter is important because the intelligent mind and heart has raised things!

Music: all about magic and the hero, often a reluctant one who is pushed beyond his current limits

T: Trump won South Carolina; Hillary won Nevada – projected winner in SC; Jeb Bush “suspended” his campaign this afternoon.

ASTROLOGY

Richard:

Welcome to Pisces, 12th sign of the zodiac, and the final 1/3 of winter:

Last week 4 planets in earth signs, 2 in fire, 2 in water and the sun in Aquarius.

During the week, there was movement and essentially a better balance. Jupiter and Pluto still in Earth signs and still trine; the North Node is conjunct Jupiter. Mars still in Scorpio; Neptune still in Pisces. Saturn and Uranus still in fire signs: Sag and Aires; sun in early Pisces ; 2 earth, 2 air, 2 fire, 3 water and full moon on Monday at 4 Virgo – moon goes into Virgo at 6:40 am EST – good for doing detail work and for garden work – will be planting in 2 more weeks! Moon in Libra; Mercury will sextile Saturn. Next Saturday, Moon goes into Scorpio with no exact aspects – big full moon: find where 4 Virgo falls in your chart as well as 4 Pisces

<https://youtu.be/hIL1g9WSc84>

When I admit,
I don't know it all,
I can feel small.
But that is when
The treasure pours in,
And learning can truly begin.

The Full Moon's a'comin! Everybody howl! A good time to just let it out. We've been through some challenging, confining, pressurizing energy patterns with Mercury and Venus in Capricorn for so long. Our lovely Venus heads into space (Aquarius) this week to join Mercury and take us cosmic.

With the Sun heading into Pisces, the Infinite, we can all take some time over this next month to let out that pressure, release the tension, allow, accept, flow and heal a bit. Part of that healing I speak about in today's report: let's stay in touch with ourselves, our feelings, and our bodies without getting too lost in all the objective explanations, reasons, and goals that our ego-minds can put out there for us. Chill out, feel in, and blast off!

CONFERENCE CALL

Gerry: is happy because he has hooked up two people who can work together. There are also crazy tides which are washing away the beaches and leaving all kinds of rubble. Has been advised to get of Los Angeles but believes he is where he needs to be.

T: There's a leak coming out of the Carlsbad Area that has never stopped or fixed; the water levels not up to par, either. Over 1/3 of their aquifers are done from last summer and they are scarcely at the end of February and it's quite warm.

Ri: frost warning for next week – not quite ready to plant yet! [GA]

G: is still looking out for ways to fix his eyes – has come to realize his problem is himself and needs to get out of the way!

T: talks about glasses that have a tuning station of them that allows you to see perfectly – they are electronic G: maybe radionics or stem cells: working on it. Saw Star Wars in Dec and the new Mr McGoo cartoon that was shown before the movie started was very funny.

Ri: checked out the stable and got some manure for his garden. On Coast to Coast, a guy talking about using wood ash on your garden – good for gardens.

T: tells the story of what happened on Thursday afternoon, Feb 18th

- Tara had a connection with a woman called Yarrow Alpine who came to their calls before they were on the radio. On Thursday, Tara used the re-call button on the phone to call someone in California, and when someone picked up the phone, she asked for that person by name. The person who answered said that person did not live there, and where was she calling to? The answer was California, and the respondent said "Do you realize you have South Eastern Alberta, Canada? You're way off base."
- As they continued talking, Tara learned who she was talking to: someone who had also known Yarrow & the daughter; who had studied herbs with Yarrow in southern BC and, because of Yarrow's influence, also went to see Ramtha. Tara asked if the lady knew Penny and Len [because she knew P & L had studied with Ramtha for a while] and was told "Of course I do"; "Do you know Cam and Connie?" "Of course, I do!" "Do you know about NESARA?" "Yes, I do!"
- T has been involved since 1985 in NESARA and the person she was talking to was involved earlier too: not common to meet people who go so far back in the history of NESARA's development.
- NESARA has also involved a huge Black Op which is now ending, as is WW 2, and an entire yuga.
- T talked about reading light frequencies: what was unusual in the story was that Len was using 3D technology to make the connection; she said he has a funny streak in him and is using it more than ever!

- Rainbird shared the story with Reetah today and she started crying, she was so touched – and she wanted to share her gratitude with us on the call as well!
 - To have the whole group being involved is amazing: we are moving forward in such a way – when we do our work together and the Faction 3 piece is vibrating through . . . Rachel knows, Amy knows, and the lady Rama got to know from Russia [Max Keiser was on her show] – they all know KOS and about Nesara and have a gag order, but you can pick up vibrationally on what they are saying.
- As soon as Christine Legarde has her contract renewed at the IMF – for people to realize that she's not who she appears to be and has control over dinar, dongs, resets – the troika in Europe includes Mario Dragi, a good nazi & head of the EU central bank; Jean-Claude Juncker, President of the European Commission is the head of the European Commission (the executive branch of the European Union) and Christine Legarde as head of the IMF
- they are changing the bond market & creating a bigger mess by selling off the bonds -

Ahalya: Jeb Bush quit the presidential run

T: they use the term “suspended” which means they can keep all the money they have! Those who so-called quit have just “suspended” so they could all keep the money too. Also the police dep't refuses to provide protection for Beyonce when she comes because of what she did at the Super Bowl.

- Ahalya's ex husband was a Panther: phone tapped, surveillance, etc; the success of the movement came in the fact of having people wake up, especially in the African American community, though groups went in different directions. She was living in Oakland at the time, and two of them Elaine Brown and ?? Newton came in and talked to Erica, wife of the man who was killed, on at one of the ashrams; about a month he was shot dead and killed – from what Ahalya saw and knew – it was definitely successful, and the kids in Black Lives Matter are the grandchildren
- T was present when Fred Hampton was killed, and across the street from where they killed him was the local high school – the kids were watching it live from the upper floors of the school. A: the day it happened, her ex was gone when she woke up at 3 AM; she was concerned because they had guns in the house. When he showed up later, she asked where he'd been – he almost killed someone: they had killed his brother Fred & he almost killed in revenge. Their older son still has issues with his dad – she tells him to honour his dad because the struggle continues

T: there is no progress without accountability and we are coming into that now: listening yesterday to Thom Hartmann and Amy Goodman and the minister from MN: not only is Gov Snyder creating a war crime, he's acting like nothing will happen to him or his administration: will not apologize, or leave office, or admit what he has done. Amy and the other speaker [on the Thom Hartmann show] laid out that he consciously created a situation that affected 100,000 people and has killed 10 so far; and there are other cities and towns with people getting lead poisoning.

- Natasha said it's going to break now: the banking situation can no longer remain under wraps – the economic situation in Japan is that the country is 300% over in spending against what they create – their economy is dead. China is no longer building more cities etc – they have lots of empty ones and no one is moving in;

Ahalya: on Facebook, a video of black women who confronted the police: stood in front of them and told them that a new day is coming and you will be accountable for what you have done: we are tired of you killing our children and our family members; then she turned and walked off. This has been going on for years and years and years: her grandmother used to tell her that at some point, even iron will break! And this is about the planet as well as the African Americans.

• T: the poor southern whites were Black Panthers, too; the movement was beyond colour.

Ah: her mother marched with MLK and those people came to her home when she was a child, and it continued after she married; and the other people are still alive and working in their communities.

T: listening to the beginning of the documentary: there were other sides to the story: Ralph Abernathy is the one who murdered MLK and people don't know that!

Ah: her mother was much involved with the movement in southern Illinois; after the panther movement, Ah's ex worked for her mother's opponent when her mother was running for political office. They knew there were moles – some of them knew; in any movement, even what is going on now, there will be informants

T: talking about McCarthyism being back, and Mr Trump Hitler leading the pack – they are trying to run circles around us again – won't happen.

AH: the kids in BLM are well educated; asks if T & R know about the video Hidden Colours 1, 2 and 3 – talks about the master teachers and some who taught her, too – Dr Ivan ? and others whose lectures she heard. Will talk to her contact and see if she can find a copy of them to send to T & R. Thinks all that is on You Tube is excerpts.

T: most of the people who come to this show [have lots of background]; we can use the synthesis of what is in those videos; there is more and more wisdom we can access and there is power in the numbers:

Carlton: did you talk about Scalia's death?

T: the way Camp Lovewave put it today: they are living in fairy tale land – the whole media is not reporting anything! Carlton: a foot ball has 3 referees on the field, and in this case, no security detail, no release of the roster of guests at the ranch, awareness that he had health problems, he was found with a pillow over his head. And no autopsy???

T: He was Opus Dei: the inner circle of OD decided he had to go, and the outer circle did the dirty work.

• he is singularly responsible for putting Bush into the presidency and is so responsible for all of the blood spilled in all the countries in the Middle East. T did not realize that Bill and Hillary and the Kissengers have been vacationing together for decades.

C: for the illuminati types, it was Scalia's time

T: everyone celebrating because Trump and Hillary won in Nevada and SC – and 3 weeks ago we read in the Globe paper about what Hillary has been responsible for

• our challenge is connecting with the star families – Ahalya: they [the star families] tell us what they were responsible for telling what they knew; it's up to us to do the next phase.

Ahalya: she found hidden colours 2 – will send it

R: met Angela Davis in LA – all she did while in BP in LA was about getting freedom for the people
T: in those days, the galactic story was not as well known as it is now.

Audio: the rest of the Black Panther Documentary

T: the movement was truly a success because it built a story of lives on which to build

- She brings up Joe Biden as the Chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee – mid-80s

- Chuck Grassley is the current chair of The Senate Judiciary Committee, and he is the one who sold nuclear secrets to Mr Kahn of Pakistan and he was the one who created the nukes for Pakistan. Not only did he take the instructions to Pakistan, he was also responsible for the materials and some of the stuff getting to North Korea! It was Sybel Edmonds who exposed this years ago [see boilingfrogs.com]

trails musk behind it
perfumes
from the street where my love is

Yes, and the world wastes

The caravan is leaving
The sweet smell is dying
Get up!

Moorish Orthodoxy is not a new religion. Historically it began with the message of the American prophet Noble Drew Ali, born Timothy Drew in North Carolina in 1886, raised by Cherokee Indians and adopted into that tribe. At sixteen Drew began his wanderings as a circus magician, which took him to Egypt where he received self knowledge and direction from a priest, the last of a cult of High Magic practiced for centuries in the pyramid of Cheops. This magus recognized the young American as a reincarnation of a former leader of the cult, and saw him for the prophet he was.

From him Drew Ali learned the messages of The Circle Seven Koran, as well as much higher truths; he returned to America where he was told in a dream to found a new religion "for the uplifting of fallen mankind." He began the first mosque, or temple, in Newark --- but because he and his followers refused to fight in World War I he was forced to move to Chicago, where his movement, the Moorish Science Temple, began to grow.

The Moorish Science Temple attracted mostly Black Americans. Noble Drew however was no racist, though he held certain racial theories. Blacks, he said, are Moabites or Moors, and under this identity he taught pride to a race of oppressed sufferers. Moors are an "Asiatic Race" --but so are many others. For example, Noble Drew identified Celts as an Asiatic Race; later, when Whites of various sorts became interested in Moorish Science, he identified all such as "Persians," a sort of spiritual rather than factual identity. For Moorish Americans Morocco is a "promised land"; this shows the influence of Garveyite "Return" teachings, and provides an interesting link between Moorish Science and Rastafarianism. Moorish Orthodoxy (despite its name) gives all these teachings an esoteric significance. For us, "The Asiatic Nation of North America" includes all who embrace some form of the Oriental Wisdom, whatever their other affiliations, and "Morocco" signifies their goal, "illuminated" consciousness.

In Chicago Noble Drew issued many Moorish Passports, and it is said that some new converts, in the zeal of their newfound nationality, began to grow less and less subservient in their dealings with the oppressor empire ("Pharaoh" or "Babylon"). This culminated in a full scale attack on the Science Temple in which (despite the secret escape route, an essential feature of all Moorish Science Temples) many of the faithful were martyred, including the Enforcer of the Law, a man whom Noble Drew had recognized as a reincarnation of Jesus.

Shortly thereafter (in 1929) Noble Drew prophesied the hour of his death. He was "taken for questioning" by the Chicago Police and brutally beaten, and died soon after his release.

After this, the Moorish Science Temple began to split into sects or factions, one headed by Noble Drew's chauffeur, another by Elijah Muhammed, who his his Moorish Science origins and taught a pseudo-science of race hatred disguised as the "Nation of Islam." Until Elijah's death, many Moors expected him to recant.

In the 1950's in the Baltimore/DC area, some white poets and jazz musicians came into contact with the Science Temple and acquired passports. They formed another offshoot of Moorish Science, the Moorish Orthodox Church of America. At that early stage, the M.O.C. was seen as partly Moorish and partly Eastern Orthodox, and there existed certain ties with "Errant Bishops" of the Old Catholic Church, Syrian Orthodoxy, etc. Some of these founding fathers drifted eventually into Sunni Islam, others remained faithful to the M.O.C. and friendly to the Science Temple.

In the early 1960's on Manhattan's Upper West Side, one of the youngest of these, Walid al-Taha (Warren Tartaglia), jazz saxophonist and author of -The Hundred Seeds of Beirut-, initiated some friends into the Church shortly before his tragic death (in his early 20's). A new Temple was established in a basement on 103rd street off Broadway, along with a head shop "The Crypt," and a Moorish Science Reading Room. The Church maintained a M.O.C. Motorcycle Club at various neighborhood garages, and a campsite of 123 acres was acquired in northern New York. Close ties were formed with the Ananda Ashram in upstate NY. Members in Baltimore renewed ties with elders and missionaries of the Moorish Science Temple, including the Moorish Governor of Maryland, who ran a junk shop that smelled of rose attar and woodstove smoke, and talked like a Persian poet from Alabama -- an echo, no doubt, of Noble Drew's own perfect Moorish Voice. Ties were formed with the M.S.T. in Brooklyn, which provided copies of The Circle Seven Koran, Catechisms, etc.

When the Ananda Ashram moved into Milbrook NY with Timothy Leary's League for Spiritual Discovery commune, the M.O.C. also established a presence there. The M.O.C. is proud of its heritage in the Psychedelic Churches Movement of the 60's, when we shared many adventures in Milbrook till the Empire banished its Celtic guru into exile and prison. We still have a temple in Dutchess County, where the church is legally incorporated.

At that time the Church more or less abandoned all "Orthodoxy" (though not the name) and found its true spirit in Sufism. What interested us most was Sufism of various unorthodox varieties, including Ismailism (the teachings of the Assassins). But many other strains were woven into the M.O.C. in the 60's, including Advaita Vedanta, Tantra, Neo-American-style psychedelic mysticism, Native American Symbolism, and insurrectionist activism.

The 70's and early 80's in retrospect seem a rather dim period in Church history. Members scattered around the world and interest waned. The "New Age" bogged down in various Greed Therapies, guru-scams and bland-outs. For a while only small groups in Manhattan and Dutchess Co. kept a shadowy existence and continuity. Recently however the time has become ripe for a Revival. New religions are appearing: Native American rites, Neopaganism, Anarcho-taoism, the followers of Eris and others with whom we feel a natural affinity. We have launched a new edition of our newspaper, The Moorish Science Monitor (quiescent since 1967!) and many new conversions have resulted. The sudden upsurge of interest necessitated this revised edition of the M.O.C. pamphlet, out of print since the late 60's.

What is Moorish Orthodoxy? What is its "Catechism"? Many people have converted to Moorish Orthodoxy simply on hearing its name or seeing the photograph of Noble Drew Ali (frontispiece of the Circle Seven Koran) -- later, however, they may wish to learn something of Moorish doctrine.

In effect, there is none. Moorish Orthodoxy is like a mirror in which each seeker beholds a beloved form, each one different. We have no required ritual and no source of authority other than those the individual imagination provides. We do however perhaps share a certain "taste" or spiritual aesthetic.

Moorish Orthodoxy was founded originally to explore the esoteric dimensions of Noble Drew's teachings, discovered in such passages from the Circle Seven Koran as these:

"Now cease to seek for heaven in the sky; Just open up the windows of your hearts and, like a flood of light, a heaven will come and bring a boundless joy."

"By the sweet breath of Allah all life is bound to one; so if you touch a fiber of a living thing you send a thrill from center to the outer bounds of life."

"You are, each one, a priest, Just for yourself."

"Allah and man are one."

"When man has conquered every foe upon the plane of soul and the seed will have full opened out, will have unfolded in the Holy Breath. The garb of the soul will then have served its purpose well, and man will need it never more...and man will then at- tain unto a blessedness of perfectness and at one with Allah."

"I (Jesus) brought immortality to light and painted on the walls of time a rain- bow for the sons of men; and what I did all men shall do."

The antinomian and egalitarian aspects of lines like these have reinforced our position, in relation to all organized religion, of heresy; in relation to all liberatory teachings and beautiful imaginings we take up a posture of "rootless cosmopolitanism" that seeks out universal spirit hidden anywhere, revealed in all cultures, always occult and dissident, an "Invisible College" embracing East and West but rejecting all official stultifying Consensus Reality. A Moor might belong to any religion or none, "free either to take up a form or not take up a form... not bound to any. Forms are for use, not to make captives" (Hazrat Inayat Khan).

The idea of an American heretical Islam is one such form. We appreciate the aesthetic of Moorish Science, of Noble Drew's unique and prophetic mixture of Afro-American, Native American, Magical, Oriental and Moorish symbolism and imagery. We admire his courage, his martyrdom, his revolutionary stance against "Pharoah," his Americanizing of the prophetic spirit (he always wore a Cherokee feather in his fez). We reflect this aesthetic in our lives and creative work. But we are not bound by it. Like certain esoteric Javanese sects we reject the figure of the Master (guru or murshed) in favor of the teacher. Anyone can be a teacher in relation to someone; everyone has something to teach, something to learn.

To symbolize this attitude, all Moors are encouraged to create new names and titles for themselves. The Moorish Hierarchy is self appointed; anyone is free to print Passports, although the old Manhattan Lodge possesses certain seals and procedures which converts may appreciate. Popular titles include: Moorish Governor, Metropolitan, Deacon, Vicar, Exilarch, Imam, Castellan, Papessa, Contessa, Marshall or just plain Reverend. Moorish Science Temple adherents often add "Bey" or "El" to their names, others favor other traditions, and some use their own names. All Moors are entitled to titles, however, since all Moors have "authority."

The Moorish Orthodox Catechism, then, consists of no rules or dogmas, but only of adherence to the "Five Pillars" of Moorish Science as listed by Noble Drew:

LOVE

to which we add a sixth, "Beauty."

This bud opens into the red rose,
the nightingale is drunk for joy--- Hail, seekers! Lovers of wine;
wine for a thirsty world like a slug under the rock of repentance...
a rock smashed by a mere goblet--- and that is the announcement, the Miracle

Wine for the king! Wine for the slave!
this banquet was set for everyone, drunk or sober, and when the Feast is over and night grows up, and the inside door of the Tavern springs open
Low and High together will bow down under the Arch of the World to meet what...outside?

2006-11-29 Russian scientist finds Paradise at the North Pole

Doctor of Philosophy Valery Dyemin, a researcher of the Arctic region, maintains that Hyperborea ("beyond the Boreas (north wind)"), a mythical land that the Greeks thought was located beyond Scythia, existed in reality. The legendary French scientist Jean Sylvain Baiae attempted to prove the existence of Hyperborea a few centuries ago.

"Could you name any other scientists who also made a lot of effort trying to shed some light on the mystery of Hyperborea?"

"Yes, there were many of them. Not only the geographers and historians worked on the problem, the linguists also made several contributions. The rector of the University of Boston William Warren published a book titled Paradise Found at the North Pole in late 19th century. In total, there were 11 editions of the book. Warren analyzed a large number of spoken stories and legends relating to paradise on Earth (Eden). According to him, all the information contained therein stems from vague recollections of some ancient perfect land that lay somewhere in the Arctic region."

"What exactly are we talking about? Which part of the world should we look at?"

"I believe we should be looking for the traces of that civilization in Eurasia and American arctic regions, in the islands and archipelagos of the Arctic Oceans, at the bottom of some seas, lakes and rivers. It's worthy of notice that Russia has the largest number of locations and artifacts that could be bear relevance to Hyperborea. Some of the above have already drawn attention of specialists; others are yet to be discovered. Active exploration is currently under way in the Kola Peninsula, in the Island of Vaigach, in Karelia, Ural Mountains, West Siberia, Khakasia, Yakutia, and a few other regions. There are good prospects for conducting research in Franz Josef Land, Taimyr, and Yamal.

The geographic term "Hyperborean platform" is technical use. Scientists keep discussing the platform's dynamics in order to find out the reasons why it sank to the bottom of the ocean."

"In other words, Hyperborea may have stretched over the lands that eventually sank into the water?"

One of the charts by Gerhardus Mercator, the 16th century Flemish cartographer and geographer, shows a huge continent lying in the vicinity of the North Pole. The land is an archipelago composed of several islands divided by deep rivers. A mountain sits in the center of the land (according to legends, the ancestors of Indo-Europeans lived near Mount Meru). The question is: How did that land appear on the chart? There was no information whatsoever regarding the Arctic regions during the Middle Ages. We have some reasons to believe that Mercator had used an ancient chart, the one that is mentioned in his letter dated 1580. That chart showed a continent located in the center of the Arctic Ocean, which was pictured ice-free on the chart. Mercator's chart seems to be based on the ancient chart."

Secret decree by Catherine II

"Assuming that the ancient cartographic information was available for the chosen ones in days of old, has anybody tried to search for Hyperborea in the Arctic region?"

"Some of our compatriots participated in the quest for Hyperborea. The Russia Empress Catherine II got some information of the ancient mythical land near the Arctic Circle via the Free Masons. Catherine II organized two expeditions with the help of Mikhail Lomonosov. She signed a secret decree on May 4th, 1764. The official documents indicated that the expedition headed by Admiral Vasily Chichagov had been dispatched to Spitsbergen to inspect the location for the renewal of whaling and fishing out there. However, the endeavor is referred to as an "expedition bound for the North Pole" in the memoirs by Chichagov's son. The Master was ordered to open an envelope with detailed instructions only after his vessel had made for the open sea. According to instructions, the vessel was to head into the direction of the North Pole. Those instructions were penned by Lomonosov, by the bye. Unfortunately, the expedition couldn't break through the thick ice and had to turn back."

"Why was Catherine II so interested in finding Hyperborea?"

"I believe that Catherine, not unlike a few other kings and queens, was enchanted by the prospects of discovering the elixir of eternal youth, which is said to have been invented by the Hyperboreans. Pliny and Herodotus, as well as Virgil and Cicero reported that people in the land of Hyperborea lived to the age of one thousand and enjoyed lives of complete happiness. We shouldn't forget that the Empress was a woman."

2016-02-20 EU renegotiations: David Cameron gets 'unanimous agreement' as Britain is given 'special status' in Union

Donald Tusk announces the deal after more than 24 hours of agonising discussions over British demands

David Cameron has struck a deal with other EU leaders over Britain's future in Europe after marathon talks in Brussels.

"I have negotiated a deal to give the United Kingdom special status inside the European Union," Mr Cameron said in a press conference shortly after the end of talks, adding that he would update Cabinet at 10am on Saturday morning.

"Britain will be permanently out of 'ever closer union'," he said, adding that there would be "tough new restrictions on access to our welfare system for EU migrants", and that Britain would "never join the euro".

I have negotiated a deal to give the UK special status in the EU. I will be recommending it to Cabinet tomorrow. Press conference shortly.

— David Cameron (@David_Cameron) February 19, 2016

Donald Tusk, President of the European Council announced the agreement after more than 24 hours of agonising discussions over British demands to curb benefits for migrant workers.

"Unanimous support for new settlement for the UK in Europe," he said after a final agreement was signed off at dinner of 28 EU members in Brussels.

The agreement, which has yet to be published, is expected to see Britain compromise on key elements of Mr Cameron's demands to restrict welfare payments to Eastern European workers.

But after the meeting the Justice Secretary Michael Gove and at least five other cabinet ministers are expected to break ranks and defy Mr Cameron by –arguing for Brexit in the European Union membership referendum.

One or more had hoped to address a major anti-EU rally in London on Friday night but they were forced to hold their peace when Mr Cameron's EU renegotiation summit dragged on into a second day.

Mr Gove's expected decision to support the Out campaign will be a bitter blow to Downing Street as he is among the Prime Minister's closest confidants and a family friend. Mr Cameron has made huge efforts to persuade the Justice Secretary to campaign for Britain to remain in the EU based on a reformed relationship between London and Brussels.

But sources close to Mr Cameron said that Mr Gove had decided with a "heavy heart" he could not back the Prime Minister on the issue. The Spectator reported that Mr Cameron's allies seem "pretty much resigned to losing Michael Gove to the Out campaign once the deal is done".

Mr Gove has been torn between his loyalty to the Prime Minister and his long-standing support for Britain pulling out of the bloc.

The Justice Secretary's defection to the Brexit campaign would boost its credibility – although it is understood he would take a relatively low profile – and could encourage other wavering ministers to follow suit.

A spokesman for him said: "Michael's position has not changed – he supports the Prime Minister's strategy to renegotiate our relationship with the European Union. As he has said before, it would be premature for anyone to make a judgement before the deal is concluded. Like the Prime Minister, he has not ruled anything out."

Mr Cameron cancelled a cabinet meeting provisionally scheduled for Friday afternoon at which he had hoped to report back on a deal secured in the Brussels talks. That would have marked the point at which collective responsibility would have been suspended and ministers could have gone public over their support for Brexit.

A prominent role will be played in the Out campaign by Iain Duncan Smith, the Work and Pensions Secretary, who is a long-term advocate of withdrawal from the EU.

David Cameron sits with other EU heads of state in a round table meeting in Brussels (EPA)

He is among the several cabinet members who have complained to Mr Cameron over the collective gag placed on Eurosceptic ministers ahead of the referendum -campaign.

The Commons Leader, Chris Grayling, and the employment minister, Priti Patel, look certain to join the campaign, as well as John Whittingdale, the Culture Secretary, and Theresa Villiers, the Northern Ireland Secretary.

Boris Johnson, the Mayor of London, is still keeping the Prime Minister guessing over his intentions, although he has promised to set out his position "with deafening éclat" if Mr Cameron clinches a deal in Brussels.

Speakers at the Grassroots Out rally included the Ukip leader Nigel Farage, the senior Conservative MPs Sir Bill Cash and David Davis, Labour's Kate Hoey and the economist Ruth Lea.

Ahead of the rally Mr Davis said: "This whole long drawn-out renegotiation process has highlighted the EU's undemocratic institutional arrogance. It shows the utter disregard Brussels has for member states. It is the perfect example of how Britain is ruled by the EU."

After 24 hours of talks in Brussels, Mr Cameron made little progress in thrashing out a compromise on his reform demands.

French president François Hollande, leaving the talks in Brussels (AP)

Eastern European countries stood firm in their position that any deal should not allow Britain to restrict child benefits to migrant workers immediately, calling for the plan to be phased in over 16 years.

At the same time they pressed for the emergency brake for in-work benefits to be limited to an initial period of two years, with tough tests for any extensions. Mr Cameron is understood to have made clear that this would be unacceptable during a series of tense and sleep-deprived bilateral meetings throughout the day.

A full European Council meeting had been scheduled to rubber-stamp the plan at 11am, but what had been billed as an "English breakfast" soon turned into an "English lunch" and finally an "English dinner" as a deal proved elusive.

Mr Cameron, who only left the Council building for three hours' sleep at 5am, returned for another session including talks with the French, Italians, Poles, Czechs and Germans in an attempt to find a compromise. By early evening the Council President Donald Tusk decided to reconvene the whole Council despite no agreed deal being on the table in an attempt to use "peer pressure" to force a compromise.

British diplomats said they were ready to fight their corner to resist the deal being watered down.

While no threat was made to walk away, a Downing Street source made clear Mr Cameron was prepared to leave if he came under too much pressure to compromise. "You have to remember that we don't have to hold the referendum until 2017," they said.

The latest guidance from our friends, the Galactic and Angelic Beings known as the Collective:

Greetings, friends! We are glad to have the opportunity to speak with you again today.

We are seeing many changes occurring now in your world.

For example, many have pointed out that two of the “frontrunner” presidential candidates (the fellow with the white hair, and the fellow with the orange hair), stand at the two opposite ends of the pole.

We would say that this is not an accidental occurrence. And that it is the perfect metaphor for the direction your world has taken.

For there is a great shift occurring now.

Earth’s population are increasingly opting to either to move on—to move into a world where NESARA is not only possible but actual and real—or opt to stay where they are, and remain within the third dimensional frequency.

There is no shame and no judgment, either way.

Should you feel that you prefer to remain on a third dimensional Earth, you will drift quietly, in ways mainly unknown to you, into that reality—that particular hologram.

Should you feel it is your path to move on to fifth dimensional Earth, then in ways both noticeable and less noticeable to you, you will find yourself moving into that reality.

In truth, you have already made your decision as to whether or not you will Ascend in this lifetime, and you are well aware of this.

And so the question then becomes, What do you do with the situations, relationships, attitudes, beliefs, thoughts, and leftover “realities” in your life that are so clearly third dimensional?

How do you shift upwards in ways that ensure that you are increasingly aware of your Divine origins and Creator abilities?

How do you upgrade your frequency on all matters of life—health, work, relationships, finances, spirituality—so that you naturally begin to manifest that which matches your own and your higher self’s vision for you?

And we would say, that you are already doing this, and that you are coming into the position of moving into the driver's seat in terms of creating your fifth dimensional life, or you would not be asking these questions.

You have, along with many millions of others, noticed an increasing dissatisfaction with certain areas of your life as of late.

Perhaps you wish to eat more healthfully, to drink only pure water throughout the day, to exercise more, and to spend more time in Nature.

Perhaps you are seeing your longtime partner, job, home, or other roles or situations as no longer right for where you are now, and are wondering if it is time to move on.

Or perhaps you are looking at the world, as so many millions are right now, and asking, "Why must we have wars, when everyone detests them, except for a tiny minority of the human race?"

"Why must we pay so much money for gasoline and other energy sources, when free, clean energy was discovered more than a hundred years ago?"

Or, "Why would I have anything in my life that is not completely joyful, or for my higher good?"

These are excellent questions, and millions are asking them every day, more and more.

You will find yourself in fact no longer seeing the sense of many situations—in your life, and upon the Earth in general.

You will find many now moving forward with new ideas that, in the past, would have been suppressed, ignored, or laughed at—such as energy medicine and energy healing were for so long—but which are now seriously entertained as real possibilities upon humankind's path.

The energies upon the Earth are such now, that increasingly, you will only be able to do that which is for your and others' higher good, in all situations.

You will increasingly find it harder and harder, and then impossible, to pretend to be or do anything that is not a part of your true, authentic self—your fifth dimensional self.

You will find it impossible to do any job that is not fulfilling, that does not serve your life purpose in some way.

You will find it harder and harder to eat animal products, to drink or eat anything that is not of a high and pure vibration, or to feed it to your children and animals.

You will find it increasingly difficult to hold onto anything—old objects, relationships, beliefs—that no longer resonate with who you are fast becoming.

You will in fact, require a world in which honesty, transparency, accountability, and decency are not just high ideals, but the norm.

And how do we get from here to there? you may ask.

Dear ones, you are doing it now.

We see your astounding progress in every hour of your lives—we see your higher selves more and more active in your words, your emotions, your ability to hear your intuition and the Divine instinct that lies within it.

We see your increasing ability to spot lies, unhealthy choices, cover ups, and even unconsciously hidden facts and realities, and we see you saying, “No—this is no longer who we are on this planet.”

Believe us when we say that you grow stronger in your remembering of your Divine origins, each day you live, and each breath you take.

And that no one perhaps, could be more surprised than you yourselves, and yet as sure as you breathe, your New Earth day is dawning.

When you doubt this, go within for a moment and say to your support team of higher self, guides, and Angels, “What would make me most joyful right now?”

If you hear no answer, tell them that they must send you the energy of that answer, so that you absorb it into your heart-mind and receive it clearly there.

And when that answer comes, whatever it may be—follow it.

For there has never been a celebration upon Lady Gaia, such as you are all energetically preparing now, at every moment.

Namaste, friends and fellow Lightworkers! Builders of the New Earth!

We are with you, always.

2012-12-19 The Sad Legacy of Robert Bork

The late judge didn't have a chance to move Supreme Court jurisprudence. But his failure to be confirmed had a profound and regrettable effect on how we nominate justices today.

Andrew Cohen

The late judge didn't have a chance to move Supreme Court jurisprudence. But his failure to be confirmed had a profound and regrettable effect on how we nominate justices today.

The relentless honesty and arrogant mien of Robert Bork, who has died at 84, during his unforgettable 1987 Supreme Court nomination hearing resulted in two very important things for this nation. First, it precluded the ideologue from becoming a life-tenured justice, which has meant over the intervening 25 years many saving graces for progressives and many bitter disappointments for conservatives. Second, it changed (forever, I suspect) the way judicial confirmation hearings unfold, by encouraging earnest nominees to say to the Senate Judiciary Committee nothing at all candid, specific, or profound about their judicial philosophies or views of the law.

<https://youtu.be/5ffTtOMIJAk>

Reasonable minds may argue over how different American law would be today if the Senate had confirmed Bork. The position ultimately was filled by Anthony Kennedy, who has been a diehard conservative in some areas (like economic policy and the First Amendment) and an unabashed liberal in others (like gay rights and restrictions on capital punishment). My best guess is that Bork would have been a conservative activist very much in the manner of Justice Antonin Scalia, a loud and consistent vote to roll back precedent not just to pre-Warren Court positions but to the Lochner-era sensibilities of a century ago.

But no reasonable person today can contend that judicial nomination proceedings are more insightful and productive in the wake of the Bork hearing. Throughout the long history of court appointments, confirmations had rarely been detailed affairs. In 1962, for example, John F. Kennedy appointee Byron White was questioned by the Senate Judiciary Committee for all of 11 minutes. In fact, it wasn't until 1925 that a Supreme Court nominee (Harlan Fiske Stone) even appeared before the committee and it was another 14 years before a second (Felix Frankfurter) did so.

So the Bork hearing didn't reverse a century of transparency in the process. But it certainly assured that no such transparency and candor would ever come again. The self-defeating lesson which official Washington took from the political savagery of the 1987 proceedings was that nominees were better off saying nothing publicly about their views of the law and were better off serving up empty platitudes when backed into a corner by their Judiciary Committee inquisitors. Sadly, you can draw a direct line from Bork's experience to John Roberts' patronizing "umpire" analogy during his 2005 confirmation hearing.

Even if Bork had never been "borked" (verb: to have one's nomination to high office be subject to zealous political attack), he would have been a colossal figure in the law. He was a former federal appeals court judge. He was a Yale law professor. He was a Justice Department official during the Nixon Administration; it was Bork who was left standing at Justice on the evening of October 20, 1973 following the "Saturday Night Massacre," which saw the firing of Archibald Cox and the resignation of Elliot Richardson. Most recently, he was a legal adviser to the campaign of Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney.

Had Romney won, and had Bork survived, the old judge finally would have been able to exact a measure of revenge on those who had long ago denied him his ultimate goal. (That Romney chose this divisive figure to counsel him on judicial policy and court nominations says more about the candidate than it does about the judge). But Bork already had outlived many of his old tormentors, including Senator Edward Kennedy, the Democrat, and Senator Arlen Specter, the Republican. The three of them were and always will be intertwined; characters in a drama that sharply shaped both the Supreme Court and the way we pick its justices.

In any event, with Bork's death and President Obama's reelection, we will never know how far the jurist's influence might have gone with a Republican presidential victory. And so a man with an immense legacy in the law will be forever known not for what he achieved but for what he did not; not for the stark philosophies of privacy and equal protection he would have tried to impose on the nation, but for an informal rule of judicial nominations that compels candidates forevermore not to share with the American people what they really think about the Constitution and the Supreme Court's precedent. He is a hero to some, a villain to others, but for a brilliant man who was first of all direct and forthright, that's a terribly sad legacy, indeed.
