GIS and ICT

Analysis of Feature Intervisibility and Cumulative Visibility Using GIS, Bayesian and Spatial Statistics: A Study from the Mandara Mountains, Northern Cameroon

A series of geo statistical, two-way and Bayesian logistic regression analyses were performed to test two hypotheses related to the intervisibility of the sites to one another and their visual prominence on the landscape. ...many of which are not commonly employed in archaeological research, to evaluate...

Crime Mapping in Nigeria Using GIS

This paper first examines crime situation in Benin metropolis... the paper also looks at the possibility of utilizing GIS for effective management of crime in Nigeria. This option was explored by digital land use map showing the crime locations, crime geo-spatial database, and spatial analysis.

A survey of Information and Communication Technologies as enablers of knowledge capture and retention in three Southern Africa Development Community \(SADC\) public broadcasting corporations

ICTs play an important role in capturing and retaining vital tacit and explicit knowledge which is at risk of loss, yet which an organization may need for its operations.

Macroeconomics

Manufacturing exports and growth: When is a developing country ready to transition from primary exports to manufacturing exports?

Why do many developing countries still rely on primary goods as their main source of export income when evidence suggests they could earn higher returns by exporting manufactured goods?
