

Redemption Incarnate™

This manual is for personal and practitioner use only.

Redemption Incarnate™ is a strong energy flow that moves through your body and energy fields infusing you with transformative vigor that heals and makes it easier for your body to rid itself of all that is not in alignment with your soul.

Redemption Incarnate marries the heights of your soul's potential with your physical embodiment so that you can live your purpose here on Earth to the fullest while ever increasing the amount of eternal light your body can hold.

Redemption Incarnate™ is an extremely strong energy flow arriving to you from the Heart of Eternal Sacred Source. It will arrive to you at the level you can be well with right now. Subsequent activations of this energy will progressively become stronger and stronger. Eventually you may feel like your body is melting and changing as you marinate in Redemption Incarnate.

All that is not pure, will melt away. All that is not in alignment with your soul's purpose for you, here, will drop away. Your physicality will be transformed at the subatomic level in order to vibrate in accord with the higher dimensions.

Redemption Incarnate, embodying divinity while in human form, here on planet Earth. Just how much higher light and faster vibrational energy frequencies can your body handle before it winks out of this reality only to appear in another? Historical accounts of monks and mystics momentarily disappearing while they are meditating are not fanciful, they are real reports.

The key to ascension and to living heaven here on Earth is to change your physical body at the molecular level in such a way that it dances in synergy with the energy of the celestial realms and yet is able to retain a matter form here in this physical reality. Redemption Incarnate is the transformative energy that all ascension seekers have been looking for. Redemption Incarnate is a transformative energy that prepares you for transfiguration, yet provides a real and healthy way to live in your body while your flesh and bones are redeemed.

Redemption means, deliverance from guilt, saved, being rescued, made whole.

We, here on planet Earth often feel like we are separate from Eternal Sacred Source and sometimes wonder if we are "good" enough to be reunited with the creator energy that made us. This feeling of separation and the gap that feels so very unfathomable can be bridged quickly through the energies of Redemption Incarnate. That which your body is made, Earth, is not bad. It is indeed denser than the energies of the higher realms for it is matter based and must vibrate slower in order to retain physicality.

Only, does it really need to vibrate slower in order to retain physicality? Eternal Sacred Source is infinite and can transmute limitation.

What limits of this reality need not be adhered to anymore?

What new energies are being sent into this reality from the Heart of Eternal Sacred Source to redeem mankind from its lowly status as physical beings separate from their creator?

Redemption Incarnate is one of the energy flows that are accessible to all sincere seekers. It will feel different to different people. It will increase to the intensity you can withstand and feel like a holy fire some days and a cool breeze on other days. It will, over time, shift the spin of the subatomic particles which are the foundation for your body's physical existence.

By shifting the spin of your body's subatomic quarks and leptons, the building block of matter your molecular electrons are able to resonate with both the frequencies needed to retain physicality in this reality while "trying on" the energy configurations needed to move your body entirely into lightbody when the time is right for ascension.

Previously people were only able to increase their light quotient a certain amount, otherwise they would indeed transfigure and not be in physicality anymore. Some people have ascended for short periods of time, and then return to living in their physical body.

Redemption Incarnate gives all sincere seekers of Eternal Life the flexibility of a much higher level of preparation while they are still in their body. The mobility of not only their spirit but also their physical body to move into other realms and realities during their night dreams and spiritual meditation journeys will greatly increase.

There will be the ability to shift your physical shape and body to match the energy frequencies of the reality you are journeying to, so that you can consciously move your body into your life-form that is applicable for that reality. This is where we are headed as Divine Beings of Eternal Love, Light and Life who understand the simultaneity of various realms of reality.

We, as humans need not constrain our physical bodies to this reality.

An attunement or empowerment is a dose of energy frequencies that ‘match’ the energy of this Redemption Incarnate energy system.

Once you have received that dose of energy, your body and spirit will recognize that energy and easily access the energy stream from Eternal Sacred Source that IS the energy stream of this particular energy system.

Attunements can be sent long distance by means of an energy sphere, often called a chi-ball and it is kept safe by your Angels and guides of Eternal Light. It is released to you when you ‘call it in’, like a prayer to receive it.

Please spend a few minutes to invite the attunement your teacher sent you of Redemption Incarnate™, to release fully unto you. Simply say, out loud or in your mind: “I ask to fully receive my Redemption Incarnate attunement as sent out by my teacher and made perfect by Eternal Sacred Source, NOW!”

Think of a ball of light and energy above your head that opens up and streams down into the top of your head.

Your attunement will easily arrive to you because Eternal Source is not limited by space or time. Redemption Incarnate™ energies arrive to your body and energy fields, purifying and fortifying your current physical form.

When you are ready to activate your Redemption Incarnate energy flow, recline and relax. It is important to remain in one location for between 10 and 30 minutes. This first time to activate the energies, they will move slowly through your meridians and nadis and axial points. It is wise to call in a Redemption Incarnate Session, the first time you activate this energy.

Say: “I now call forth to receive my Redemption Incarnate Session”

There is a need for your helping healing ones in the Light of Eternal Sacred Source who administer your Redemption Incarnate energy session, to discern where your body is on the "redemption" scale at this time. In other words, how much influx of pure ascension and transformation energy will be bliss for your body right now?

How much energy can flow in, encouraging denser energy to release, before your body has had plenty for right now? This will be monitored very closely because it is vital that your body enjoy this process.

It is vital that your body knows that it has done very well to take good care of you to this point and this assistance will be at the rate that it wants and easily accepts.

The energies of Redemption Incarnate will likely feel very hot and of a "different" quality. Allow yourself to melt into them, for you are only being made strong and more pure. All that is you, your spirit and individuation, incarnate here in physicality will remain intact and secure.

Your ability to feel the presence of Divinity may greatly increase and intuitive abilities that have been waiting to awaken may rise up within you fully operational for now!

Say, audibly or in your mind: "Redemption Incarnate, Activate!"

These subsequent activations can be at times when you aren't necessarily reclined or physically still. I think you will notice that the energies are always stronger when you are reclined and staying physically in one place, because the energies of Redemption Incarnate are changing the matrix upon which your physicality emerges from. It is similar to etheric surgery.

I prefer to activate these energies just before going to sleep for the night so that they can work with my body while I'm sleeping. Recently I've noticed that if I try to stay awake longer than is right for my body, these energies will start to flow, encouraging me to retire for the night.

Please activate this energy system often, for best results. This is a remaking process and it requires patience and persistence in order for your physical body to be remade in the image of Eternal Sacred Source, where the membranes of realities are mere curtains to walk through not walls.

You can gain a body that has the ability to shift its energy frequency to enter celestial realms and step up to the throne of Eternal Sacred Source.
